COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

The Austro-German campaign appears to be developing and progressing in the Balkans "per programme" and Berlin is boasting that the entente powers can do nothing now or at any time in the future to stay the rush to Constantinople. The deadlocks in France and Russia persist, and Italy, while again on the offensive, has made no appreciable headway. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, however, finds satisfaction in what he states to be the fact that as between Germany and England, England is the victor; but it is cold consolation. A signed dispatch from Berlin declares that the undercurrent of belief there is that the war is virtually over.

The Carranzistas have been authorized to send troops through United States territory in order the better to handle the border situation on the Mexican side. At the same time an agent of Buffalo Bill has arrived in El Paso with an offer of half a million dollars to annex "Pancho" Villa to Mr. Cody's wild west show.

ENGLAND ELECTRIFIED BY FAMOUS NOVELIST.

Tells Britain that She Has Won Game as Against the Germans.

Fantastic Fears of Failure Spring from a Pessimism, He Says, Born of Unacquaintance with the Facts and the Achievements Already Accomplished — His Resume of the World War.

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Duke of Wellington, in one of those acute philosophic asides which cropped up occasionally in his business-like correspondence, remarked that a deep vein of madness ran through the British character. The noun is perhaps rather harsh, but our best friends have found marked eccentricity in our mental processes. One of the most curious manifestations is a tendency to excessive and ill-timed self-depreciation, not universal, for we have our optimists and even our braggarts, but so clamorous at times as to engage the attention of the whole world and completely deceive them as to our real situation and character.

The historian will find the phenomenon at all ages of our chronicle, and I expect that the original blue-skinned savage, as he poled his corracle along our creeks, was already lamenting the degeneration of his stock. It has, however, grown upon us with the years and surely the most absurd sight of all the ages is that of Great Britain during our generation moaning and sobbing over her own inefficiency, while rapidly gathering up as much of the earth's surface and of the world's wealth as she could possibly lay her hands upon.

STRIKING CONTRASTS.

No better illustration of this national tendency could be found than a contrast between the German and British press during the last few months. If one were to take them at their face value, one would imagine, to read these articles, that Germany was not only confident of the future, but had in the past reason to congratulate herself upon the results of her efforts against Great Britain, while, on the British side, one would gather that there was great despondency and that up to now we had no reason to be satisfied with anything which we had done in the war.

Yet in our heart of hearts we are as certain of victory as that tomorrow's sun will come, and a dispassionate survey will satisfy any student of history that no great war in which our country has ever been engaged has been marked in the same space of time by such triumphant successes as those of the last fourteen months. Our troubles have been those of our allies; our victories have largely been our own. Germany can make a good showing up to date against the coalition. Against Great Britain she has been beaten at every turn.

Consider what we have done in this short space of time and compare it with the opening of any of our greater wars. In our war against the French republic it was nearly two years after its inception that Howe's victory gave us a gleam of success. In the great war against Napoleon it was again two years before Trafalgar ended the fear of imminent invasion and twelve years of very varying fortunes before we won through.

Now, look at the work of fourteen months. We have annexed the whole great German colonial empire, with the exception of East Africa and a district in Kameruns; we have swept the German flag, both imperial and mercantile, off the face of the ocean; we have completely sterilized her fleet; we have repelled her serious submarine attack; played our game so successfully that the flux of time shows us stronger, not weaker, in comparison; we have conquered Mesopotamia from the Turks; we have completely repelled their attempted invasion of Egypt; we have helped to save Paris; we have, with French and Belgian assistance, but mainly by our own exertions, stopped the advance upon Calais, inflicting a loss of several hundreds of thousands upon the Germans; we have, by our intervention at Antwerp, helped extricate the Belgian army; finally, and greatest of all, we have raised an enormous voluntary army, which is large enough to turn the scales between the European forces, and we have converted ourselves, with wonderful adaptability, into the great factory and munition store of the allies.

That is our story, and if any man cannot see that it is a wonderful one, he is not merely a pessimist, but blind.

What have we to put on the side of the account? I am dealing for the moment with large results, and not with details. Where have we failed?

In the whole world our serious critic could only point to one place, the Dardanelles. But have we failed in the Dardanelles?

I believe that if we should never force the straits the enterprise has none the less been worth the undertaking. We have lost 100,000. How many have the Turks lost? Certainly not less. We have held up a great body of their best troops, who would otherwise have been operating against us on the Egyptian and Mesopotamian fronts or in the Caucasus against the Russians. Gen. Ian Hamilton has taken the pressure off Gen. Maxwell on the one side and Gen. Nixon on the other.

DARDANELLES VICTORY.

But the greatest of all the results from the Dardanelles expedition is that it has united us with Russia as nothing else could have done. She cannot now say, as she might have said, that we thought only of our own empire. We have spent our blood and our ships in trying to force the gates which close her in. When the episode remains a historical reminiscence, like the passage of Admiral Duckworth, in 1907, this great result will still remain.

Again one sequel which may prove to be of vital importance may spring from the Dardanelles. It is our operation there and LAREDO (Tex.) Oct. 23.—Permission for 5000 Carranza troops to journey through American territory from here to Douglas, Ariz., where they will re-enter Mexico, has been granted by the United States government, according to reports here tonight. No troops have begun to move yet.

PERSHING NOT NOTIFIED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Oct. 23.—Gen. J. J. Pershing, commanding the Eighth Infantry battalion at Fort Bliss, said tonight he had received no word from the War Department as to the transportation of Carranza troops through Laredo to reinforce the garrison at Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Ariz.

The general said, however, he had local report that United States troops were moving westward along the border.

MUST GO UNARMED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Arrangements for passage through American territory of unarmed Carranza troops to reinforce the garrison at Agua Prieta were made after recognition of the de facto government, it was learned here tonight. A precedent was established during the Madero regime, when the Taft administration allowed Mexican troops to cross Texas to reach points inaccessible by Mexican railroad lines.

Since the United States now is dealing with recognized government in Mexico, no state of war exists there so far as the American government is concerned, and the movement of the Carranza troops is looked upon as a move to prevent fighting on the international line at Agua Prieta with the possible injury to Americans in Arizona. The reinforcements are expected to enable Gen. Calles, the Carranza commander at Agua Prieta, to defend the city against any Villa attack at a great distance from the border.

One of the peculiar features of the situation is that under the present status of the Carranza government, even if defeated at Agua Prieta, his troops would not be interned if they fled across the border, although their passage into the United States with arms in their possession might subject them to temporary detentions.

TO BUY VICTUALS FOR CARRANZISTAS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. — Jose Obregon, brother of the Carranza general, Alvaro Obregon, arrived here today from Los Angeles in company with B. A. Almada, special Carranza agent, to close contracts for the purchase of food, clothing and munitions for the use of Gen. Carranza's forces.

Mr. Almada said that the Carranza government had chartered five steam freight vessels, all of which are now said to be in Mexican waters, some being used as troop ships. The steamers are said to be the Cetriana, Solarno, Carlos, Fort Barry and the South Coast.

LOSSES FOR THE MONTH MORE THAN ONE MILLION.

Rivers of Europe Are Carrying a Crimson Tide to the Sea.

Germans Believe England and France Have Spent Most of Their Force in Their Offensive and that They will Have an Easy Walk to Constantinople After the Serbs Have been Silenced.

BY OSWALD F. SCHUETTE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Oct. 22 (via London, Oct. 23.—The month just past has been the bloodiest and most decisive in the history of the world. The long-promised and terrible French and British offensive, which began September 21, is now ended. At the same time the fighting on all the other fronts reached a climax. The result has been that in thirty days the loss in killed and wounded has exceeded the terrifying figure of 1,000,000. There have been thirty days of slaughter on every front, so that many of the rivers of Europe are carrying crimson tides to the sea.

Though fighting is still going on along the west front the allies' offensives are at an end. Fearful sacrifices netted the British and French nothing but slight gains of land—gains absolutely without significance—while the failure of the long-threatened operations, with the enormous expenditure of stores and ammunition by the allies leaves the Germans free to make greater offensives on the other fronts, especially in Servia, where they are now hacking their way toward Constantinople.

It is possible that the British will be able to make another offensive movement, but historians for all time will devote many pages to the red record of this October in which the nations deluged Europe with blood as lavishly as nature paints the autumn leaves. The "far-flung," corpse-strewn battle lines are now more than 2000 miles long.

Here and there the French and British got a foothold in the German trenches, but that was all. For days they fought, trying to extend their captures. But now the British as well as the French assaults are spasmodic or are mere local assaults without strategic value and unimportant in the general fighting. The British hold a small gain near Loos, but not on hill No. 70, the capture of which they have repeatedly reported. In all, they have gained a space not more than ten miles wide and three miles deep.

The Germans assert that their losses were less than one-fourth as large as those of their enemies. This German report is probably fairly accurate, because of the reckless daring of their assailants, who swept against the Germans in massed lines.

But overshadowing all else in the month was the Bulgarians' entry into the war and the Austro-German invasion of Servia. This, too, was bloody, because Servia fought as none of its allies have fought, though it fought in vain. With help from the allies out of the question and with the Germans in control of the railroad from Nish to Sofia, giving Germany an entry into Constantinople, it seems as if the day of decisive results has been reached.

The war may not be ended, but, in my mind, there is no question as to the decisiveness of the results attained during this red October. All eyes here in Berlin are now on the British Cabinet.

NAVY LEAGUE ASKS BRYAN TO INSPECT ITS BOOKS.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 23.—The Navy League of the United States, through its secretary, Arthur H. Dadmun, today sent a letter to William J. Bryan, former Secretary of State, inviting him to call at the league's offices here and make a thorough inspection of the league's accounts and subscription lists. The letter says in part:

"In your newspaper and in your public utterances you have repeatedly declared that the Navy League is a subsidized organization, 'supported by contributions of armor plate manufacturers.'

"We feel assured that you will hasten to make full and generous reparation for the wrong you have done.

"We therefore invite you to make full inspection of our books and sworn accounts. We shall hold ourselves ready to account for all expenditures and receipts and to present full lists of contributions and contributors, duly sworn to and certified as to accuracy and completeness."

Bombardment.

COAST OF BULGARIA DAMAGED BY SHELLS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The British admiralty today issued the following statement concerning the bombardment of the Bulgarian coast:

"The bombardment of the Bulgarian coast was carried out by an allied squadron composed of British, French and Russian ships on the afternoon of the 21st.

"A number of military positions were shelled, and serious damage was inflicted on the harbor works, the railway station and on shipping at Dedeaghatch. Great care was exercised by the allied squadron to avoid firing upon any points other than those known to be of military importance."

THE BOMBARDMENT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 23.—An official communication was given out by the French ministry of marine this afternoon announcing that the warships of the Entente allies bombarded on Thursday the Bulgarian port of Dedeaghatch in the Aegean sea. The statement said:

"The allies' squadrons bombarded the warehouses and wharves at Dedeaghatch on the afternoon of the 21st but did not fire upon the residential quarters of the city. Besides this the fleet destroyed a number of military posts along the Bulgarian coast."

PERSISTENT PETITIONERS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Oct. 23.—Walter O. Hamilton, president of the Imperial Irrigation district, is still being recalled. A second petition having 259 signatures, a margin of seventy-eight above the required number of names, was filed this date. The first was declared invalid through failure to follow legal details in securing names.

Allies Renew Their Offensive to Relieve the Pressure on the Servians.

SYNCHRONOUS DIVERSIONS TO HALT GERMAN RUSH.

England, France, Italy and Russia Hope to Save Balkan Situation.

King George's Appeal for More Troops is Reported to Have had a Marked Effect on Enlistments — Rumania Demands 600,000 Men to Guarantee Against an Invasion by the Teutons.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 23. — Widely-separated, though synchronous diversions by the Entente forces on land and sea, designed evidently as preliminary moves to relieve the strain on Servia pending the time allied troops of sufficient weight can reach the Balkan front, have marked the developments of the last thirty-six hours.

Italy, having confined herself for weeks to local actions, isolated attacks and counter-attacks, has launched a general offensive along the Tyrol and Trentino frontiers of Austria; allied warships, including Russian vessels, have battered the Bulgarian ports in the Aegean, and Russia has increased the pressure of the eastern front and by a coup of combined land and sea operations has flung men and guns on the coast of Courland, ninety miles northeast of Riga, thus menacing the rear of Gen. Von Buelow's army, which for so long a time has been trying to take the Baltic port.

The news of this surprise landing is disclosed in the Berlin communication, which describes the forces landed as of small strength.

The fact that a Russian vessel participated in the bombardment of the Bulgarian coast is attested by a British official statement, and is welcomed in England as an incident which will dispel the idea supposed to be held by many Bulgarians that they are fighting Servia only, and not their former ally, Russia. The Russian southern fleet, of course, is locked in behind the Dardanelles, and the only Russian warship in Aegean waters so far as is known is the cruiser Askold.

The Admiralty statement relative to the bombardment speaks collectively of "British, French and Russian ships;" so it is impossible to state the make-up of the squadron. If Italian craft took part it has not been made known in England.

Russian participation, however, has given stronger color to the recent rumors that she plans the landing of troops on the Bulgarian Black Sea coast.

What progress the British and French troops are making in their advance northward to the relief of Servia is still withheld and there are misgivings in many quarters that Servia will never be saved in this way. Greece's apparently authentic demand that allied soldiers, to insure her safety than allied concessions to expand her dominions constituted her price for aligning herself against the central powers and Turkey, carries the implication that she regards the forces landed at Saloniki as far from adequate for the purpose.

Rumania's stipulation governing her entry into the war in behalf of the Entente powers has, according to report, narrowed to a similar, though more specific demand for 600,000 allied troops to insure her against invasion. France, it is argued in some quarters here, could hardly spare the men, and so the burden would necessarily fall on Russia and Great Britain, primarily Great Britain.

The King's appeal for recruits in England has had a marked effect on today's enlistments, according to the London papers, and its ultimate effect with a fair trial of the Earl of Derby's plan may decide the question of conscription.

That the Servians' position is grave, is the opinion of the British press. With this admission there is developing daily an increased rancor over Greece's attitude, coupled with demands that the allies do not allow her policy to drift while there is a possibility of her turning against the Entente.

A Servian official communication refers to the presence of French troops co-operating with the Servian force in the neighborhood of Strumitsa, but in none of the communications since the beginning of the new Balkan campaign has the English been mentioned.

The Bulgarians though hampered by bad weather are driving further into the interior of Servia, while the Austro-German forces on the north and east frontiers are maintaining terrific pressure and moving slowly forward. They have gained another passage across the Dvina River, near Vishegrad.

Official Report.

GERMANS CROSS DRINA; DRIVE SERVIANS SOUTH.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Oct. 23 (via Sayville.)—German troops have crossed the Drina River, in Northwestern Servia, near Vishegrad, driving southward the Servians on the heights, according to the official statement issued today by German army headquarters. It is also announced that Bulgarian trops have captured the Servian towns of Negotin and Roglyevo.

The text of the German official statement follows:

"Eastern theater, army of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg: Russian vessels appeared on the north coast of Courland and bombarded the ports of Detraggo. Domeness and Ipoen. The Russians also landed weak forces at Domeness.

"Repeated Russian attacks delivered with strong forces in the region south of Sadewi remain fruitless. At Duki they led to fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

"Army of Prince Leopold: South of Lake Wygonowakoje an enemy attack was delivered against our positions on the Ogipsky Canal. The attack was repulsed.

"West of Czartorysk our attack is making further progress. Kolki has been occupied by us and more than six hundreds prisoners taken.

"Balkan theater: At Vishegrad we forced a passage across the Drina and the enemy was driven from the heights south of this place.

"The army of Gen. Von Koevess stormed the enemy's positions between Lukavika and Kosway Mountain.

"The army of Gen. Von Gallwitz has driven the enemy across the Jasenica, east of Palanka, and has thrown the Servians, south of the Morava, out of their positions on the Alexandrova-Ordyevo line. More than six hundred Servians were taken prisoners.

"Giving way to the pressure from both sides the Servians also are retreating from their positions on the line of Kosutica Mountain-Slatina Heights.

"Bulgarian troops took possession of Negotin and Roglyevo. Bulgarian attacks are in progress to the east and southeast of Kniasewac. Southeast of Pirot they have repulsed Servian advances with sanguinary losses."

Offensive.

ITALIAN ARMY ATTACKS ALONG THE WHOLE LINE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

UDINE (Italy) Oct. 23 (via Paris.)—The Italian army is again attacking along the whole line from Switzerland to the Adriatic. In the preceding five months of the Austro-Italian war the efforts of the Italians have been directed at the penetration of Austrian territory and capture of strategic points for the purpose of securing Italy against the possibility of Austrian invasion. In the opinion of the Italian General Staff, this has been accomplished and the war now is entering its second phase.

It is estimated the Italians have taken 25,000 prisoners during the war and have put out of action upward of 100,000 men in all. Italian losses, including killed, wounded and prisoners, amount to about 45,000, according to official figures, which is the lowest percentage of any of the belligerent nations.

PREDICTS JAPAN WILL HELP ALLIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CALGARY (Alerbta) Oct. 23. — "Japan will assist on the European continent as soon as the necessity exists," said Kahachi Abe, Japanese Consul of Vancouver, who is visiting Calgary. "Japan can send several hundred thousand of the very best-equipped soldiers to Europe. The transportation problem is a great one, but it can be solved.

"When the time comes Japan will be on the job," said Mr. Abe, "and her help will be looked upon with wonderment. What Japan will do to help her allies will astound the world."

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUN IS FEARED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—One reason why the aircraft of the nations Entente are not now making so many raids on German cities as heretofore is that the Germans have invented a new air-craft gun with an accurate range of more than 10,000 feet, according to Lieut. Paul S. H. Arbon of the British navy aviation corps. Lieut. Arbon was sent here to inspect some machines which are being constructed in the United States and Canada.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR MISS CAVELL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 23, 3:27 p.m.—The memorial service for Miss Cavell, the British nurse, who was executed by the German authorities in Brussels, which was meant to be an unobtrusive tribute, is developing national proportions. Premier Asquith and other members of the Cabinet have announced their intention of being present at St. Paul's Cathedral on Friday when the service will be held and public bodies and the leading hospitals throughout the country will send delegations.

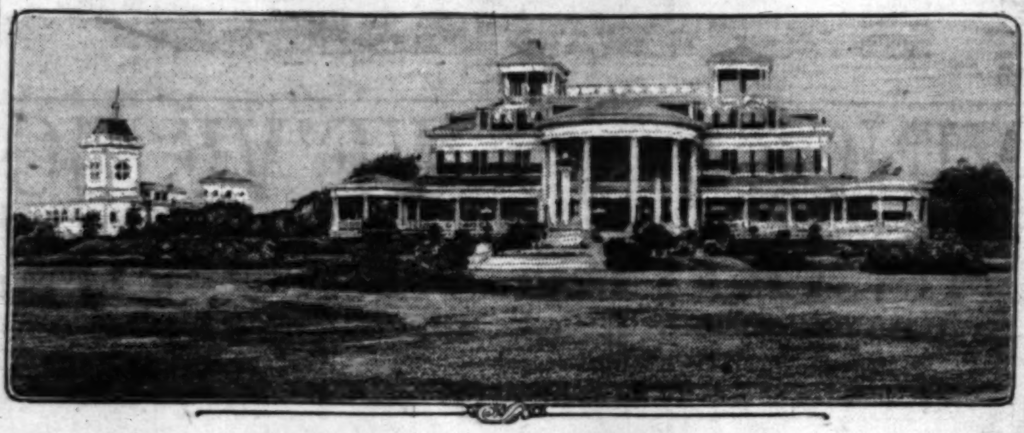
ALLIES RETURN TO SALONIKI.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Oct. 23 (via Sayville.)—Five trains containing Anglo-French troops on their way from Saloniki to Servia have been called back by order of the chief commanders and have returned to Saloniki, according to a dispatch from Greece to the Cologne Gazette.

The sanitary conditions of the Entente troops in the Balkans, the message adds, are bad. Transports in the Harbor of Saloniki, it is said, cannot debark their soldiers because there are no barracks ashore.

Summer White House Selected by President Wilson.



The McCall mansion at Elberon.

President Wilson has decided to transfer the "summer White House" from the Cornish Hills of New Hampshire to Elberon, N. J., just south of Long Branch. The house which he and the future Mrs. Wilson will occupy was built at a cost of nearly $1,000,000 by the late John A. McCall, one-time president of the New York Life Insurance Company.

The estate, on which stands a magnificent house, is known as "Shadow Lawn." The President was offered the free use of "Shadow Lawn" by a committee headed by Representative Scully, which brought a letter from Gov. Fielder. He insisted, however, that he should pay rent, and said that if the committee pleased it could give the money to charity.

Gov. Fielder in his letter urged the President to spend next summer in New Jersey to receive "the glad tidings" of his renomination. The President only smiled when that was mentioned. When Mr. Wilson announced that he would accept the invitation he was warmly applauded, and all the delegates insisted on shaking hands with him.

Shipping Alarmed.

the tank steamers which carry oil from Mexican ports for use of the British navy.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES.

The circumstances, which officials believe are all connected in a general way, follow:

1. The sudden departure of six interned German warrant officers from Norfolk in the motor yacht Eclipse, provisioned for several days' voyage.

2. Arrival at Buenaventura, Colombia, of an American ship the Academy from San Francisco, heavily provisioned. One of the owners of the Academy telegraphed the government here that the vessel had no instructions to go to Colombia. The captain of the vessel claimed that he put into the Colombian port for repairs. Some doubt exists as to the real identity of the vessel and officials have sent to the American consul at Callao the registry number of the Academy and have asked for a complete description.

3. Two yachts—the Alameda and the Ventura—have been lying at Key West for several weeks. Louis Van Horn of New York, who owned them originally, is understood to have sold the Alameda to a Gen. Pasquero. The Ventura was recently stolen, it is claimed, from Key West by "Mexican pirates" and recovered by an American coast patrol.

4. An American sailing vessel called the Two Sisters went aground on an island off the coast of Louisiana recently claiming to have come from Mexico, for repairs. Her status is under investigation.

(5.) The American ship Zealandia left Pensacola, Fla., suddenly at night with a large stock of provisions on board for Tampico, Mex., and with a number of Germans in her crew. The arrival of the vessel at Tampico has been reported, where an investigation will be made. An American flag painted on the side of the vessel, originally, had been painted out. It is claimed the vessel flew the German flag at sea, but this has been denied by the owners.

(6.) An American yacht, the Ethel, disappeared from Jacksonville, Fla., within the last few weeks, and has not been found.

TWO THEORIES.

Officials have two theories as to the meaning of this series of happenings. One is that wealthy Mexicans in the United States are financing filibustering expeditions that have some connection with the raids in the vicinity of Brownsville, Tex., and the other is that small boats putting out from the United States are being met at sea and armed with guns of medium caliber for raiding purposes.

The latter theory originated when a British tank steamer, arriving in a South American port, reported that on her way from Tuxpam, Mex., she had been fired upon at sea by a small boat. The belief exists in some quarters here that a base of operations has been established on an island near the coast of Haiti, where guns have been accumulated for use on small boats that are brought there from the United States. Great Britain and France have maintained a patrol of cruisers in the Caribbean and the seas are being scoured for suspicious craft.

GERMANS HEARD OF.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The six warrant officers who slipped away from the interned German auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm a week ago last Monday are believed by government officials to be at Hoboken, N. J., aboard one of the big German liners there. The facts that have come to the officials' attention, it is said, warranted the conclusion that there was a general effort to get as many of the men as possible away from the interned cruisers.

RINTLEN'S DEALS MAY BE EXPOSED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 23.—New and startling phases of the operations of Capt. Franz Rintelen, former resident member of the New York Yacht Club and now believed to have been one of the most active German propagandists and and spies in this country, are about to be uncovered by the Federal grand jury, according to hints that agitated those in the Federal building today.

Rintelen, with Andrew D. Meloy, is already under Federal indictment for alleged passport frauds.

Rintelen was indicted under his own name and five aliases, one of which was Fred Hansen. It was definitely established today that, as Fred Hansen, Rintelen for some time had an office on the upper floor of the building at the northwest corner of Cedar and Willis streets, the ground floor of which is occupied by the Trans-Atlantic Trust Company.

The Trans-Atlantic Trust Company was established several years ago by Austrian Consul-General Alexander Von Nuber.

A subpoena has been issued for an officer of the trust company, directing him to appear before the Federal grand jury with all books, papers, records, vouchers or other documents which might throw any light upon the operations of Rintelen.

One story which is to be heard by the grand jury is expected to come from a man who will swear that he was thoroughly familiar with the work of the group headed by Rintelen; that they were armed with funds to the extent of $30,000,000; that they had sinister dealings with eight different factions in Mexico and that thousand dollars in cash to one Mexi-Rinteleen actulally delivered several hundred thousand dollars in cash to one Mexican agent, who fled to Cuba with the booty.

SHOOTS SKUNK, KILLS HIS CHILD.

HIGH-POWERED RIFLE BULLET SLAYS BOY LYING IN BED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Oct. 23.—Using a high-powered rifle to kill a skunk prowling about his chicken coops Wednesday night, Fred Bongenschultz of Dos Cabezos shot the animal, but the bullet also killed one of his children and wounded another. The bullet passed through the skunk, traversed the chicken house and penetrated the screen porch of the Bogenschultz residence, killed the man's 7-year-old son, and wounding another child as they lay in bed.

EXCHANGE DROPS DESPITE CREDIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—In the face of the $500,000,000 credit established by the Anglo-French loan and of further private credits established or being negotiated for the account of English, French, Russian and Italian bankers, foreign exchange again is on the downward path. Today demand sterling dropped a cent from yesterday's quotation to $4.63 and is now 13 points above the low point reached during the sensational decline of early September.

The weakness is attributed to the recent enormous exports of munitions of war, which have been responsible for a flood of bills on London and Paris within the last two weeks.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

This week in the stock market was one of general improvement, although gains were largely limited to war specialities. Speculation in these issues was renewed almost on the large scale of recent weeks and the freedom with which round amounts of these securities was absorbed on steady advances to new high records implied undiminished belief in the intrinsic value of some of those properties.

United States Steel's rise to its best price in five years was predicated mainly on favorable expectations regarding the financial statement of the corporation for the third quarter, to be published next Tuesday. Taking the steel industry as a whole, conditions are more promising than at any time since 1909-10. General lines of business are going forward and the crop movement soon will give tremendous impetus to railroad tonnage.

STOCK LIQUIDATION.

Europe continued to liquidate stocks and bonds, and to the fact, as much as any other, was attributed the semi-demoralized state of international exchange, demand sterling showing a decline of about 16 cents in the pound for the week.

The most remarkable feature of the domestic monetary situation was the fact that initial payments connected with the Anglo-French loan made not the slightest disturbance in rates. Bank clearings are the largest in the history of the country and the superabundance of cash at most leading reserve centers is almost a source of embarrassment.

GERMANS CONTROL THE FOOD SUPPLY.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Oct. 23 (via Sayville.)—The German Federal government today decided to assume control of the price and supply of victuals throughout Germany.

Up to the present time the State provincial authorities have been considered competent to handle the food situation.

The German government now considers it necessary, the Overseas Agency says, to equalize the position of the various sections of the empire as to the distribution and the price of victuals which are abundant but under different conditions in the various states and provinces of Germany.

STRIKERS GIVE IN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) Oct. 23.—The strike for an eight-hour day, which has been carried on since October 3 by 1300 employees of the General Electric Company's plant here, was settled tonight by the strikers agreeing to accept the company's offer of settlement made before the strike began.

TEXANS APPEAL TO WASHINGTON.

WILL SEND DELEGATION TO ASK FOR PROTECTION.

Continuous Thefts by Mexicans of Cattle and Destruction of Life and Property Have Rendered Residents Along the Border Desperate. Bodies of Cavalrymen are Buried.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) Oct. 23.—Nineteen residents of the border country, accompanied by Adjt.-Gen. Henry Hutchings of Texas, will depart Monday afternoon for Austin, where they will lay the border situation before Gov. J. E. Ferguson. The committee, appointed by a mass meeting here today, then will go to Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio, to see Maj.-Gen. Frederick Funston, after which it expects to go to Washington in a body to appeal for relief from continued outrages by Mexican bandits.

The border was quiet today with the attention of the entire section centered at Brownsville, where representative citizens gathered to appeal to the State and Federal governments for relief. Besides empowering the committee to present the facts to the authorities, the meeting also empowered it to take whatever further steps it deems necessary to bring a return of normal conditions. The resolutions adopted set forth that conditions are now such in this section of Texas that residents of the counties affected are panic-stricken and in many instances have forsaken their homes and property and fled to other sections of the country.

The resolutions set forth further that "it is an indisputable fact that the bandits and raiders are receiving comfort and assistance from, and being recruited upon, the Mexican side of the river, and that local authorities on the Mexican side, if not assisting the bandits at least are making no gona fide effort to co-operate with the American authorities in apprehending them."

The triple funeral of three United States soldiers took place here today. The men were killed in the fight early Thursday at Ojo del Agua.

Ranchmen living along the Rio Grande near McAllan, fifty miles west of here, ask immunity from prosecution in order that they may, at their own risk, cross the Rio Grande and secure property stolen from them and taken to Mexico. They allege that more than 100 head of cattle had been stolen near Hidalgo, Tex., within a week and taken across the Rio Grande.

Lieut. H. B. Johnson of the Third Cavalry today near Villaneuva arrested three Mexicans on suspicion in connection with the train wreck and robbery Monday night. Five Mexicans are now held.

Police officers have found a letter at the scene of the wreck which leads them to believe Aniceto Pizano was connected with the train robbery.

ANTI-WARRIORS SENT TO PRISON.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

SOFIA (Bulgaria) Oct. 23 (via Amsterdam and London, 5:47 p.m.)—A Bulgarian military court has convicted M. Stambuliwsky, leader of the Agrarians, of anti-militaristic propaganda and has sentenced him to imprisonment for life.

Two other Agrarian deputies, M. Charrenknoff and M. Toriskoff, were tried on the same charge.

Charrenkoff was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, and M. Toriskoff was acquitted.

M. Stambuliwsky was one of a number of Bulgarian statesmen who went to King Ferdinand shortly before Bulgaria entered the war and sought to persuade him not to permit the nation to take up arms with Germany and her allies.

GERMAN BORDER IS AGAIN CLOSED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

GENEVA (Switzerland) Oct. 23, 11 a.m. (via Paris, 3:25 p.m.)—Germany again is closed from Basel to Constance to travelers. No steamers are allowed to approach the landings on the German shore of Lake Constance. It is assumed that the closing of the frontier is to keep intelligence of the movements of German troops from escaping.

PRESIDENTIAL NUPTIALS EARLY IN NOVEMBER.

Third Day of the Coming Month is Set by Washington Gossips for the Celebration of Mr. Wilson's Second Marriage—All Members of the Immediate Families to Witness the Event.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 23.—President Wilson and Mrs. Galt will be married during the first week of November, probably about November 3.

Mrs. Galt is having rushed work ll the dresses she considers for her immediate bridal outfit her days are being given over to its to and from her dressmakers.

The plans of the President and Mrs. Galt contemplate, it is said, return from a bridal trip not than Thanksgiving Day, November and possibly a first, but informal ception at the White House on day to intimate friends. The ding in the first week of would make this schedule and give to the newlyweds couple of weeks to make a trip even to the San Francisco sition, should this be decided. BULGAR INVASION IS PROGRESSING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAMS Oct. 23 (via London, 3:30 p.m.)—The Bulgarian invasion in Servia has more further progress, according to an official statement from Sofia received here today. The statement follows:

"In the valley of the upper Timok our troops reached the right bank of the river.

"In Macedonia the enemy is being pursued further. On account of the extraordinarily bad weather, operations on certain portions of the front are being retarded.

During the afternoon and evening of October 21, British and French ships bombarded the Aegean coast, especially the open towns of Porto Lagos, Maiconis, Makei and Dedeaghatch, which have no fortifications whatever. These operations of the hostile fleet were without military significance."

SERBS REPORT HARD FIGHTING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 23 (2:50 p.m.)—The Servian Legation received today an official dispatch dated October 21, giving the Servian military situation up to October 20. It follows:

Large, hostile forces are in the direction of Borak-Stepoievatz.

"Eastern front: A column advancing toward the village of Kraljevo Salo was repulsed by the Servians and is retreating towards the village of Ochlaine.

SWEDISH STEAMER STRIKES A MINE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10 (10 p.m.)—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Wisby, Sweden, says that the Swedish steamer Rumina, of 1485 tons, has struck a mine off the east Granton Light coast.

The force of the explosion broke her in half, the forward part sinking immediately.

The Rumina had been captured by a German submarine and a German officer was put in charge. She was bound for London, laden with wood pulp, and the Germans were taking her to Libau for examination.

Six of the crew, who were asleep in the forecastle at the time of the explosion, were drowned. The rest of the crew and the German officer escaped in boats and landed on the island of Gotland.

Official Action.

POLICEMEN WHO SHOT LAID OFF.

District Attorney Inquires Into Slaying of Boy.

Second Lad Yet Near Death; Parents Ask Action.

Fire-to-kill Order did not Apply, Says Chief.

Approximately twenty hours after the fatal shooting of Chester Nolen and Frank Ward on West Avenue 50, Police Sergeant William Cahill and Patrolman Samuel Shammo were suspended at noon yesterday, pending a thorough investigation of the tragedy. According to Chief of Police Snively, this action followed a request from the two officers that they be relieved from duty during the inquiry.

Public censure developed to such an extent yesterday that Dist.-Atty. Woolwine invited the Chief to co-operate in an investigation with a view to issuing complaints of manslaughter against the police officers if the evidence shows they were deliberately instrumental in the killing of young Nolen and the fatal wounding of young Ward. Action by the District Attorney's office commenced at noon yesterday, but because of pressing business the Chief will not be able to add the services of the police department until tomorrow.

Special investigators from the District Attorney's office visited the Receiving Hospital ,where young Ward is now hovering between life and death, to obtain an ante-mortem statement. Surgeons at the County Hospital, where he was taken later, declared the boy might live twenty-four hours longer.

The wounded lad reiterated his first story, asserting that he and Nolen were guiltless of any wrongdoing other than an infraction of the speed laws. His sister, who was present at the time the investigators called, refused to allow this narrative to be taken as an ante-mortem statement, as she and her parents have not as yet given up all hope of recovery for the injured boy.

PROSECUTION DEMANDED.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ward of No. 1016 South Hope street, father and mother of Young Ward, consulted yesterday with the District Attorney and police officials. Declaring the shooting unwarranted, they demanded an immediate prosecution of the policemen implicated.

Police Sergeant Cahill and Patrolman Shammo surrendered their shields shortly before noon yesterday. Neither has assumed responsibility for the slaying, but both admit having discharged their weapons. Cahill has been a member of the department nine year. Shammo was accepted three years ago. No flaw in their records was found by the Chief yesterday.

"It is a most unfortunate occurrence," the Chief said. "I will aid the District Attorney in every way possible to sift the matter thoroughly. This morning I rode to the scene of the shooting. The roads at that point are extremely rough, and I don't see how the police officers held on to the automobile as they did, let alone fire accurately.

"Although it is best that the officers be suspended, I do not feel the evidence is as yet sufficient to warrant their summary discharge.

"The order, 'Shoot to kill,' referred only to the Duncan case. It had no bearing on this matter. The two incidents, coming so close together and in almost the same locality, tend to give the public an erroneous idea."

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine had nothing of importance to disclose yesterday afternoon, after his investigators reported. He declared every effort is being made to prevent possible erroneous action.

"No bit of evidence will be overlooked," he said. "And if the inquiry sustains damaging evidence against the officers two manslaughter complaints will be issued."

As a result of young Ward's condition, the Coroner announced that the inquest over the body of young Nolen may not be held for several days.

TO INSTRUCT POLICE.

The Chief announced yesterday that a school of education on the subject of arrests and other things on which policemen should be well posted will be started at the Central Police Station and the substations this week. The school will be in charge of Deputy City Prosecutor Richards, who has given considerable study to the subject. Mr. Richards will be empowered to employ others versed in the law of arrest and police work to assist him.

The lessons will be given when the patrolmen assemble for duty, and the seargeants will have special instructions, with an order to see that the men under them are well informed.

The Chief said the decision to start the school of instructions is not the immediate result of the shooting by Sergt. Cahill and Patrolman Shamme. "I have had the matter under consideration several months," he said. "It is done in many of the eastren cities, and I have received a number of reports from various police departments, all recommending the system.

AVIATOR FALLS IN PICTURE PLAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Oct. 23.—His monoplane apparently caught by a sudden gust of wind, Edward Oliver, an aviator flying today for motion pictures, lost control of his machine and dropped about fifty feet to the grounds of the Venice Aviation School, over which he was flying.

Mr. Oliver, who has operated an air machine for about a year, was seriously injured in the fall and at present is at St. Catherine's Hospital, Santa Monica. He was injured internally, received concussion of the brain, and possible skull fracture. While his injuries are of a serious nature, physicians who attended him at the Emergency Hospital here entertain hopes of his recovery.

Mr. Oliver is an enthusiastic follower of aviation and was picked from a number of student airmen to make flights for a scene in a motion-picture play. He had made several successful flights during the day. On the last flight he ascended to a height of about fifty feet, made a circle in the air and was making an ordinary turn when the machine suddenly tipped from the rear and shot head foremost toward earth.

The machine, which strangely was the same one in which Thomas Hill met death about a year ago, was smashed in the fall. Mr. Oliver was dragged from beneath the wreckage and rushed to the Emergency Hospital, where Drs. Gates and Palmer made an examination of his injuries. Mr. Oliver is 30 years old.

BIG GALA DAY FOR EXPOSITION.

San Francisco to be Honored on November Second.

Hundreds of Different Events are Provided For.

Great Fair to be Ended in a Blaze of Glory.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EXPOSITION GROUNDS, San Francisco, Oct. 23.—The exposition is to wind up in a blaze of glory. It is to hold its head high until the last day of its term, and not dwindle out wearisomely and haggardly, wishing it never had been born. It never is to have an ignominious old age, nor even an Indian summer. It is only one year old, and so great is the ingenuity of the exposition management that there has been no dearth of entertainment nor events with which to make the last days of the exposition joyous.

The greatest day of the entire term will be San Francisco Day to be held on November 2. A record attendance is expected, and events have been planned which will draw tens of thousands to the exposition. The Governor has declared the day a legal holiday, and the mayors of the principal Coast cities have issued proclamations calling attention to San Francisco Day. The exposition officials look for an attendance of at least 300,000, and everyone thinks they will get it. The events are crowding each other out, and had the exposition been twice as long as it is, I believe they could have kept the thing going in full swing and with as much enthusiasm as has been shown in these nine months.

MANY DIFFERENT EVENTS.

For San Francisco Day hundreds of different events will be going on in different parts of the grounds. Great performers, great bands, world-famed aviators, United States Cavalry and Infantry, foreign people from all lands in parades and pageants, will make up the great and thrilling spectacle, which will crown the efforts of the exposition, when the city celebrates her own day with natural pride and dignity. A tentative programme for the day is being added to daily, and the Ways and Means Committee includes many of the most prominent men in the city, and is co-operating with every industrial organization in the State — manufacturers, producers, packers, wholesalers, retailers, real estate men, insurance men, bankers, brokers and kindred souls for their participation in the programme of the day. The educational legions and the professional — school teachers, the bar, clergy, architects and engineers—all will be represented; chambers of civic social and fraternal organizations, the chambers of commerce, improvement organizations, men's clubs and fraternal bodies throughout the whole State of California will take part. The revenues of the day will go into the exposition surplus, which will be used as the stockholders finally determine—most probably a plan to preserve some features of the exposition; those features which it is thought most worthy of permanent rebuilding or treatment. A feature of the morning celebrations will be a parade and pageant of all nations of the world, and all State and counties represented at the exposition. It will be a brilliant affair, equal to some of the famous Los Angeles parades, than which there are no more extravagantly beautiful in the world.

AFTERNOON CELEBRATION.

The afternoon celebration will comprise of bands in almost every corner of the grounds—in the Court of the Universe, the Zone Plaza, the Court of Abundance, the Music Concourse, the Fillmore band stand, and Festival Hall. The United States Army and Navy will have a realistic battle in the race track enclosure, for which there are 40,000 reserved seats, for which there is no charge. There will also be athletic games on the Marina and a carnival of public dancing in the Court of the Universe, in which as many of the expected 300,000 as can will participate. The aviators, Niles and Pettirossi, will fly in their new monoplanes and the Loughead hydroaeroplane will make passenger-carrying flights from Yacht Harbor. The evening celebration will be the most thrilling of all the gorgeous evenings which the exposition has furnished us for so many happy weeks and months, and which brings us so intimately in touch with our happy selves that we feel personally grateful to the lovely grounds for the joy they afford us, and as though the exposition were a living thing, and an entity of its own.

The evening will give us a reproduction of the famous battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac and the models will be true to history. There will be a symphony concert with famous Victor Herbert directing, and there will be illuminated flights by the two aviators, which will look like fiery comets in the sky, trailing their blazing tails after them as they loop and dive in all sorts of antics which cause one to catch one's breath with the wonder and rapture of it.

The day will come to a close with the happy animal abandon of the people in public dancing in all the courts of the exposition, and in the Zone Plaza, and no matter how tired one gets in tramps about the grounds, there is always a lift to one's spirits after seeing an illuminated flight on the Marina. One feels an actual necessity for physical expression, which will be amply satisfied in riotous dancing through the courts, with the indirect lighting lending a triple moonlight effect to the figures and a weird fantastic appearance to the shadows. So will San Francisco Day come to a close.

November being the last month of the exposition, all sorts of good things have been reserved, one of which is the engagement of the greatest of living organists, Edwin Lamare, who will play throughout the month at Festival Hall, on the great organ, and for the amazing sum of 10 cents a seat! Thaviu'd Band and Innes' Band will play through the month also, and there will be the usual symphony concerts.

NOVEMBER CALENDAR.

A great drawing card is the calendar of live stock events which has been arranged with great care and exactitude. There are to be horse races—the world's light harness races, with the attendant social activities and amusements, and there are to be sheep-shearing contests and sheep-dog trials and of all nations, so to speak. Then the poultry show comes on November 16, and the pigeons and the pet stock show and the cat show, and above all the children's pets show. Little people from all over California are bringing their pets to the city to enter them in the show, and are awaiting its coming with as intense an interest as any grown-up.

Why is it that the children's days at the exposition are such huge successes? Do joy and rapture seek them out for charming companionship as steel seeks the magnet? And is the world only really lovely when it turns its hoary old attention to them? After all, they are what the whole thing is about, and so they are the only ones to be very gently cradled. The fact remains that of all the joys at the exposition, the children capture every prize.

WOMEN PARADE FOR SUFFRAGE.

THOUSANDS IN NEW YORK CITY APPEAL FOR VOTES.

Fifth Avenue Given Over to Largest Demonstration this Country has Ever Seen—Many Mothers Push Baby Carriages—New Jersey Contingent is Represented.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Fifth avenue for four hours today was given over to the largest woman's suffrage parade ever witnessed anywhere. It was the woman's appeal to place New York, at the lection on November 2, among the States which have given women the right to vote.

Participated in by women from every State in the country and from more than twenty foreign countries, by women from every phase of business, professional, educational, artistic and official life, the parade extended from Washington Square to Central Park and although it began shortly after 3 o'clock, it was long after dark when the last marches had finished.

Suffrage leaders estimated that 40,000 women were in line. In addition there were 5,000 men, representing the leaders said, only about half of the men who had signed pledges that they would participate. Throughout the line of march, the sidewalks, hotel balconies, and windows of clubs, stores and apartment houses were filled with spectators. Both sides of Fifth Avenue, with the yellow bannered women marchers moving between, were banked from throngs of people, estimated by the police to exceed 200,000.

There were thirty bands and, it was said, 15,000 yellow banners. It took four hours and twenty minutes for the parade to pass any one of the reveiwing stands.

Of the various features of the parade none attracted more attention than several babies which were pushed in baby carriages by their mothers and hearlded by banners "Votes for Women."

New Jersey women who lost their fight for suffrage in that state in the election last Tuesday, carried a placcard inscribed "Delayed but not Defeated."

PARADE AT SPRINGFIELD.

SPRINGFIELD, (Mass.) Oct. 23.—Led by Miss Virginia Tanner of Boston who personated Victory, and Mrs. Henry M. Phillips, grand marshall, 1,500 suffragists marched here today.

JUDICIAL VIEW OF CAVELL CASE.

CIVIL COURT DECLARED TO HAVE BEEN IGNORED.

Sir John A. Simon Declares Fate of Executed English Nurse Could Have no Parallel in London, and Germans Claimed to Have Regular Tribunals in Brussels.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Sir John A. Simon, British Home Secretary and former Attorney-General, in the course of an interview today, declared that the fate of Edith Cavell, the English nurse executed by the German authorities at Brussels, could have no parallel in the records of Great Britain's treatment of persons accused of military offenses.

Even in cases of clearly-proven espionage, Great Britain has, according to the Home Secretary, meted out to women no death sentence. "No woman," said he, "who has been tried for any military offense in this country, has suffered the death penalty since the war began, or has ever been sentenced to death. In this country a woman, whatever her nationality, is always tried by a civil court."

The Secretary explained that evident differences existed in conditions in Belgium and in conditions in England, and that in occupied territory like Belgium the administration of the law was expected to be slightly different.

"But," he continued, "the Cavell case was not some sudden discovery calling for a drumhead court-martial on the field of battle. This was Brussels, where the Germans claim to have established an orderly government comparable with their government at home, and have appointed there a civil governor."

Denver District Attorney Orders Man Freed Accused in Connection with Death of an Englishman.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

DENVER (Colo.) Oct. 23.—Dist.-Atty. John Rush today ordered the release on his own recognizance of George Flaragrady, an Austrian, arrested yesterday in connection with the supposed accidental death of George Gray, an Englishman, in the machinery of the Colorado and Southern Railroad shops here August 26.

Robert Black, who told the authorities that he saw Flaragrady push Gray into the machinery, also was released. A committee of workmen from the shops told the District Attorney that Black's actions in the past had aroused doubts as to his sanity.

the consequent danger to their ally which has drawn the Central Powers on to their southern advance. The immediate result of this has been to bring into the war the Servians, who for nearly a year had been practically neutral, and so to open up a new front, which has to be supplied by the Germans with men and munitions. It is tapping a fresh vein in a body which is already slowly bleeding to death.

What have they to gain there? Putting aside all megalomaniac visions of an advance upon India, what is their practical goal? Should they overwhelm Servia, it will go to our hearts, but will make no difference in the war, since Servia had, as I already remarked, been obliged to rest upon her oars for many months. What could they advance upon? Constantinople, with a strong allied force intrenched upon their flank at Saloniki? Would the Turks really welcome an army of Bulgars and other hereditary enemies marching into their capital at the expense of her hereditary friends?

And if we assumed everything and suppose them at Constantinople, what then? How will they cross the Egyptian desert and meet the quarter of a million whom we could line up on the Suez Canal? What will it profit them to be strong in Asia Minor by the time that attrition has worn them down east and west and the ever-thickening allied lines are pushing inward for Berlin?

The more steadily one gazes at these fantastic fears the more they shred into mere phantoms of the imagination. The gains of the German expedition are shadowy and distant; the losses are immediate and obvious, and it is the Dardanelles pressure which had drawn them forth.

But have we failed at the Dardanelles? It is surely too early to say. Mr. Winston Churchill has been criticized for saying that only a few miles separated us from victory. Never was criticism more carping and unintelligent. What he said was an obvious fact, as true today as then. Had he said a few weeks, or even months, criticism would be intelligible, but he said miles, which was obviously true. What he meant to convey, and what he did clearly convey, was that if we had the victory we could not be robbed of the fruits of it as the Germans were robbed of their Paris, but that the prize was in our hands the instant the success was attained. He did not underrate the formidable task. Still less would anyone do so now. But we do not know the difficulties of the enemy. We cannot tell what weakening may occur or what change may come. We are ready on land and sea, and it is as true as ever that it is only a question of one successful pounce.

It is surely too early to write off the Dardanelles loss and to put it down as the one single item which should appear upon the debit side of our account, but I repeat that if there is no forcing of the straits, none the less the historian of the future may very well find that the operations have had far-reaching and fateful results.

IN FRANCE AND FLANDERS.

On the military side, in our campaign of France and Flanders great events have been so close to us and have confused us so with their successive concussions that one has to cultivate some mental detachment in order to get their proportion and their relation to each other or to the permanent values of history. So far as the British campaign is concerned, the following summary would in the main be correct.

The campaign began by defeat, honorable and inevitable, but none the less defeats, at Mons, August 23, and Le Cateau, August 26. This was followed by the victory of the Marne, September 6-11, in which the honors rest with our French allies, and the drawn battle of the Aisne on September 13, in which for the first time immobile lines were formed, a confession of failure upon the part of the invaders. There followed the long-drawn, scrambling action of La Bassee, October 12-31, in which no result was obtained and immobility was again enforced. Simultaneously was fought the first battle of Ypres, October 20-November 13, in which the Germans were repelled, with very heavy losses, in the repeated attempts to capture that city.

This brought the fighting of 1914 to an end save for the sharp fight at Festubert December 19-21, where the British sustained a reverse on the first day, which was equalized by a successful counter-attack upon the second.

The campaign of 1915 began with the costly British victory at Neuve Chappelle on March 10, involving the permanent capture of the village. There followed the local but intense fighting of Hill 60, which ended in a complete British victory at the time, though the garrison was afterward driven out by poison on May 5.

Then came the second battle of Ypres, from April 22 to May 24, one of the great battles of all time, in which the Germans failed again in their main objective to capture the town and break the line, but did succeed in taking four heavy guns and some prisoners from us, besides gaining about two miles of ground along a front of twenty miles. It may, therefore, be fairly described as a German success. Before this fight had ended a second battle had broken out farther down the line — the battle of Richebourg (May 9-24,) which began by a bloody repulse of the British attack, but ended by a considerable and permanent gain of ground.

There followed the fighting around Hooge, which continued with about equal fortunes during the whole summer, the Germans having marked success on July 30-31, while the British won distinct victories on June 15-16 and August 9.

Finally came the battle of Loos on September 25, which can even now be hardly said to have finished, but which certainly has been a British victory, involving a gain of ground, prisoners and guns.

Such, in bare epitome, is our military record up to date. It is to be remembered that for the first six months the Germans had a very marked preponderance of numbers, and that in the second half year, when the numbers had been equalized, they had an even more marked preponderance of guns and munitions. By the splendid exertions of the allies the numbers in the west are now in our favor and the munitions at least on an equality.

AS TO THE FUTURE.

What, then, may we not expect from the future?

Not only have we nothing to reproach ourselves with and a very great deal upon which to congratulate ourselves in actual war, but we have, as it seems to me, made remarkably few mistakes. Before hand, thanks to the firmness of Mr. McKenna (First Lord of the Admiralty, 1908-1911) in the matter of eight great ships, and the driving power of Mr. Churchill (First Lord from 1911 to 1915) in the years immediately before the war, our navy was ready as it had never been before for a supreme struggle. Of the four army corps, which were the most that we had ever thought of sending abroad, two and a half were in time for the first clash, and the others followed after. We played our part as we said we would play it, and we won our game, so far as we can count gains and losses, between Germany and ourselves.

If Mr. McKenna and Mr. Churchill put us in a strong position upon the water, Lord Haldane (ex-War Secretary) forged the weapon which was to do such great service upon the land, the British military machine as we and the Germans know it. The splendid territorial army, the officers' training corps, which has been of such vital service, the conversion of the expeditionary force into a practical reality—all sprang from his clear and far-searching mind. When one remembers his long defense of the territorials, the gibes to which he and they were subjected, the ridicule with which his assertion was met that they would have time after the outbreak of the war to become good troops before of the taking the field, and when one sees how entirely his forecast has been borne out, one does not know which is the more surprising, his foresight or the ingratitude and perverseness of so many of his fellow-countrymen. Future generations will, I think, look upon Lord Haldane as one of the saviors of the country.

After the outbreak of the war we have also been extraordinarily fortunate in our leaders. If one searched backward through the glorious files of British history one could not pick on a man who was so fitted by nature and training for the supervision of such a war as Lord Kitchener. His cold, mathematical brain, his power of thinking in terms of the year after next, his enduring, inflexible will-power, his freedom from politics—all of these qualities make him an ideal leader in such a war.

And what a collaborator in Mr. Lloyd George, who supplies exactly what a soldier lacks—the touch with the democracy, the power of the burning word, acquaintance with practical conditions of British life!

With such men at home and with our leaders on sea and land, from Admiral Jellicoe and Field Marshal French downward, we can surely face the future with a light heart. Our troubles have never really been our own, but have arisen from the fact that the secret preparations of the central powers have made them for a limited time more powerful upon land than their neighbors. The margin of strength which is wanted we have to supply. By a miracle of organization and national spirit we shall be able to do so.

We talk with appreciation of the tenfold expansion of our army, but Lord Kitchener does not do such things by wave of a hand. They are carried out by the hard work and organizing power of the War Office, which has expanded itself to tenfold duties within a year.

As to the munition question, it is one which came as a surprise to us, as to all the world, but it is notorious that there were economical, and not administrative, reasons for the delay in high explosives. Free trade has no doubt many advantages, but it has its corresponding defects, and if you depend upon production in your own land you are likely to have such a crisis as we have successfully surmounted.

We take our history morning by morning, and often the morning seems a dark one. It is not thus that it is written hereafter. We see every swirl and back water, but the man of the future will see only the main current of the stream. There is no cause there for pessimism, but rather good reason why we should be on our knees, thanking the Power that guides our destiny for evident proof that Great Britain still has the old, clear brain to plan and the old, strong arm to strike.

Panama.

TO OPEN CANAL JANUARY FIRST.

Gen. Goethals is Reticent in Making Predictions.

Temporary Freight Embargoes Ordered on Pacific

Shortage of Ship Bottoms is Reported in South.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

PANAMA, Oct. 23.—Although an official statement is lacking, it has become known that the Panama Canal will again be ready for traffic not later than January 1, next. Maj.-Gen. George W. Goethals, Governor of the Canal Zone, continues to maintain an attitude of reticence, declining to commit himself on any definite date for reopening the canal in view of the uncertainty of slide conditions in the Gaillard cut. Gen. Goethals declares that it is still too early to make predictions because a large movement of earth can happen at any time.

EMBARGOES ON FREIGHT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) Oct. 23.—Temporary embargoes on freight shipments from the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic seaboard have been declared by both the Morgan and Mallory line steamship companies as the result of an unprecedented rush of business following the blocking of the Panama Canal. Extra steamships are being provided to handle the increased east-bound business, and it is said the embargoes will be lifted shortly.

There is no congestion of freight cars in the terminals here. Reports that there are forty-three miles of freight cars in the yards here laden with coastwise traffic are erroneous.

WATER SHIPMENTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—An embargo against east-bound freight from the Pacific Coast for water shipment from Galveston, made effective Wednesday, will be maintained at least until the middle of next week, it was stated today by officials of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway. The embargo was placed in cooperation with the Southern Pacific.

Shortage of bottoms in which to handle shipments out of Galveston was said by Santa Fe officials to have caused the action.

THE LUCKENBACH COMPANY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—The Luckenbach Steamship Company is to go out of business immediately, according to an announcement made here tonight by R. C. Thackara, vice-president of the line, which has been making weekly departures from San Francisco to New York since 1913.

"We cannot do business with the increased rates imposed upon us by the Panama Railroad Company, a government-owned institution," said Mr. Thackara. "When the canal was closed on October 6 we announced that we would ship over the railroad on which there was a flat rate of $3 a ton, including wharfage and stevedoring.

"This rate has been advanced to a sliding scale ranging from $2.50 to $15 a ton, without wharfage or stevedoring. This means that the railroad company would get over half the ordinary freight rates which have been in effect between San Francisco and New York and we cannot do business profitably on that basis."

The Luckenbach company operates eleven large freighters.

VILLA THREATENS AGUA PRIETA.

ADVANCE GUARD OF ARMY IS ON WAY WELL ARMED AND WELL EQUIPPED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Oct. 23.—The advance guard of the army with which Gen. Villa expects to capture Agua Prieta, opposite here, passed through the mining camp of El Tigre today, according to Americans who arrived here. The advance guard numbered about 600, under Gen. Mendez. The mine operations were not interfered with, and the soldiers passed on to Esqueda, thirty-five miles south of Agua Prieta.

Villa's main army, estimates of which run all the way from 6,000 to 20,000, is reported to be moving up Batepita Valley at a rate which will bring it within artillery range of the Carranza garrison of Agua Prieta in not less than ten days. The army is said to be amply provisioned, and equipped with large quantities of ammunition for field guns and rifles.

Lime Against Tuberculosis

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium (lime) medication in the treatment of tuberculosis.

"Under the systematic, continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Giesen has seen a number of his patients improve.

The sputum clears up of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Ethical journals seldom speak so positively about a remedial agent, yet this testimony coincides with that from many consumptives who have secured like results through the use of Eckman's Alterative.

Since calcium is a constituent of this remedy, its healing power may be due to the way this element is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Eckman's Alterative contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. From your druggist or direct.

-became independent in Pahvant Valley in 2½ years

Western Securities Co.,
711 Hollingsworth Bldg.,
Los Angeles, Cal.,

Gentlemen:

I left Riverside, California, to come to Pahvant Valley, where I have been farming 40 acres during the past three years. My land is all in alfalfa. Starting with a capital of $2200, I now value my place, counting stock, improvements, etc., at $12,000. I started out here with two hogs two and a half years ago. I have sold $1975 worth of hogs since December 15, 1914, and I still have 150 head left, which will bring about $2000 in September. I also want to say that this is the finest climate I have ever seen. The water supply is perfect. My water cost has averaged me about 45 cents per acre each year. This is a great sugar beet country. Alfalfa seed pays well. It is also a good dairying country.

(Signed) ANDREW EISZELE.

State of Utah, County of Millard, ss.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of July, 1915.
JEROME TRACY, Notary Public.

Pahvant Valley is on the main line of the Salt Lake Railroad in Southwestern Utah—under $1,000,000 irrigation system. Estimated annual cost of maintenance from forty to fifty cents per acre.

$70 Per Acre for Land and Perpetual (Gravity) Water Right. $25 An Acre Down. Balance in 10 Years.

Pahvant Valley is "Success Valley"—where farmers from nearly every Western State are rapidly becoming independent. Concrete results during the past two years have proven Pahvant Valley a money-making sugar beet, alfalfa, alfalfa-seed, grain, hog and dairying section.

If you are tired of a lazy soil and high water cost—if you are weary of low average crop yields—if you want to make real money every season, in sufficient measure to become absolutely independent—arrange to go to Pahvant Valley at once. Go and see why practical farmers from Northern, Central and Southern California are buying this land on sight! No matter how skeptical and critical you are—you'll find that Pahvant Valley will "measure up" from the standpoint of soil, climatic conditions, cost of water, markets, transportation facilities. You will find a proven country that appeals instantly to the most hard-to-please men who ever farmed a piece of ground. A convincing booklet with testimonials from Pahvant Valley farmers, upon request. Special excursions at low homeseekers' rates from Los Angeles.

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

To Quickly Remove Ugly Hairs from Face

(Beauty Notes)

Beauty-destroying hairs are soon banished from the skin with the aid of a delatone paste, made by mixing some water with a little plain powdered delatone. This is spread upon the hairy surface for two or three minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed to remove the remaining delatone. The simple treatment banishes every trace of hair and leaves the skin without a blemish. Caution should be used to be certain that it is delatone you buy.

SITUATION IS FAVORABLE, THE RUSSIANS REPORT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Oct. 23 (via London, 2:14 p.m.)—Russian military authorities regard the situation along the entire front of approximately 675 miles as favorable from their point of view. Three days ago the German efforts between Mitau and the Gulf of Riga presented a serious problem. At the present time the status in that sector is considered by the Russians as satisfactory. The Germans have been checked and their sphere of action is being narrowed constantly.

Eastward the Russians are successfully pressing the Germans, gaining ground in many places. Their most considerable success recently has been at Postavy. This town was taken and the Germans were driven westward through Duka, in a fierce battle.

In the immediate vicinity of Baranovichi the Russians are still on the offensive.

In Galicia the Russians are following up their successes at Novo Alexinetz. It is stated that three German divisions were cut to pieces there.

The Russian authorities attribute their successes to the vigor of the Russian attack, the exhaustion of German troops and the increasing difficulties of transportation with which the Austrians and Germans have to contend. It is stated, however, that the Germans have detached two armies for service in Servia. These are the armies of Gens. Von Gallwitz and Koevess.

Viewpoint.

SERB CAMPAIGN ALREADY WON SAY THE GERMANS.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Oct. 23 (by wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—"Opinion in military and political circles in regard to the Servian situation," says the Overseas News Agency, "is as follows: Since Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army has carried out the most difficult task of forcing passage of the Danube and Save rivers, and sweeping southward irresistibly, has carried the war to the principal prepared positions of defense, presenting an iron wall to the invaders; since the Bulgarian army is driving a wedge into the heart of Servia and the Servian railway system in the north and central districts, as well as the principal southern line of the Vardar railway, has been cut, it may be said without exaggeration that there is no longer any possibility of successful intervention on behalf of Servia. The offensive of the German-Austro-Hungarian and Bulgarian armies cannot be hindered."

Are We Soon to Become a Race of Bald-Headed Men?

PROF. JOHN H. AUSTIN

Hair Specialist of Chicago, Who Is Now at Hamburger's, Talks Most Interestingly About the Hair.

He says that baldness is increasing rapidly among men and points out some of the reasons. Prof. Austin is probably right in saying that about one man in every hundred ever thinks about his hair at all, except to comb it two or three times a day. If it falls out, he looks anxiously at the falling hair, and then promptly forgets it until the next time he uses the comb.

A man will give the utmost attention to his teeth, because he knows that when trouble arises he will have more trouble and probably lose his teeth if he doesn't go to a dentist promptly. But his hair doesn't ache, it just gradually dies, and when it is nearly gone, and the roots are dead, he anxiously tries a dozen different remedies at once and then resigns himself to baldness.

According to Prof. Austin, there are something like sixty different conditions of the scalp and hair. Some are contagious. Others develop from neglect. Practically all of them are curable in the early stages.

Prof. Austin examines the roots of your hair with a powerful microscope. He finds out just what the trouble with your hair, and then he tells you what to do for that trouble.

It doesn't cost a penny for the examination, and it puts you under no obligation to follow his advice if you don't want to do so.

Prof. Austin has devoted thirty-five years to studying the hair and scalp. Surely it will be worth the few minutes it takes to let him turn the microscope on your hair.

During the past nine months Prof. Austin has made hundreds of free microscopic examinations of the hair and scalp of our patrons—they enthusiastically appreciate this free service.

He will make free microscopic examination of the hair and scalp all this week, in his private office on the second floor, Hamburger's. Hours, 10 to 12 a.m. and 2 to 5 p.m.

BERLIN COMMENT IN CAVELL CASE.

BRITISH GLORIFY SHOOTING GERMANS BY GIRL.

Newspaper Declares Deed was Contrary to Rules of War and Quotes Manchester "Guardian" on Incident as Defense in Slaying of the British Nurse.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Oct. 23 (via Sayville.)—An article appears in the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung today under the heading, "English Press Confessions." This newspaper, as quoted by the Overseas News Agency, says:

"The Manchester Guardian published an editorial on October 18 about the heroic deeds of a French girl, which were certified by a British officer. This girl shot with a revolver from behind two German soldiers who could not be reached by the British.

"The Norddeutsche Allgemeine observes that this deed was contrary to the laws of war, but was glorified by the French and English press. If this girl had been taken by our troops and shot by process of law the English press would never stop talking about the barbarous ways of the Germans in making war; just as it is doing now because an English woman in Belgium who was found guilty of treason has been executed."

CASE IN POINT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The article referred to by the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung in its comment on the case of Miss Edith Cavell, published in the Manchester Guardian, stated that a French girl of 17 years had performed an act of heroism in a village captured by the British. According to this account, she helped care for wounded soldiers who had been placed in a cellar. The Guardian stated that German snipers fired on this improvised hospital and that the girl, taking a revolver from a wounded British officer, climbed out of the cellar and shot the snipers.

ADMINISTRATION EATS ITS WORD

Backs Down Completely

Feared Anti-party Law w

Eleventh-hour Back-down
Sensation of Hour.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 23.—Politic circles are profoundly stirred here tonight by the abandonment at th eleventh hour by the administration o
Constitutional Amendment No. 3 known as the State tax amendmen
This was held by the administratio as almost equal in importance to th anti-party laws.

At the close of a conference tha lasted the whole of last night an until noon today President Seavey o the State Tax Commission gave forth a printed statement to the press to the effect that the Tax Commission has withdrawn its support from Amendment No. 38. He assigned as the reason for this eleventh-hour withdrawal that the Attorney General had given an opinion that the referendum provision of the Constitution could not be invoked against any law which the Legislature might pass if the amendment should be adopted.

SEAVEY'S DISCOVERY.

Chairman Seavey seemed to have just discovered that this objection was urged against the amendment when it was under consideration by the Legislature last April, and that the opinion of the Attorney General is only an official expression of the plain letter of the referendum provision of the Constitution which expressly provides that that measure cannot be invoked against any State tax levy.

When the press of the State began the exposure four months ago of the enormous increase in the expense of both State and county government under the present administration a general protest was heard against granting to the Legislature further powers by removing all constitutional restrictions concerning the tax levy. The finishing touch came when Secretary of State Jordan gave out last week the exact figures of the tax increases.

Warnings were sent to administration headquarters here that if this amendment was not abandoned it would be almost certain to be beaten and to carry the anti-party laws down with it.

"We simply were carrying too much weight," said an administration supporter this afternoon. "It was better to throw over the tax amendment which was certain to be beaten than to have it drag down the anti-party bills with it. To fight on those will be close enough without that tax handicap."

ADMISSION OF WEAKNESS.

This admission of weakness on the part of the administration has wakened the opponents of the anti-party bills to renewed efforts. Telegrams poured in tonight to the office of the Secretary of State from opponents of the anti-party bills asking for further particulars concerning the sudden switch of the administration. They were accompanied by statements that the weight of the silent vote is already making itself felt.

The consensus of opinion here seems to be that the anti-party bills will be beaten in practically the whole of the northern part of the State except in San Francisco and Sacramento. In both those places the administration machine has been spending a great deal of campaign money and the result is expected to be close. Wagers were offered here tonight that Alameda county will beat the anti-party bills by a majority of 2500.

SAYS NON-PARTY BILL IS DOOMED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—Members of the joint party state committee, conducting a campaign against the non-party direct primary amendments to be voted on October 26, expressed pleasure today at the announcement the state tax commission had withdrawn support from the taxation measure.

W. C. Ralston, chairman of the committee, said an effort would be made to give wide publicity to the announcement. He said it would react upon the administration and weaken its endorsement of the remaining ten measures on the ballot.

A three to one vote against the non-party bills in San Francisco and the bay cities was predicted by Mr. Ralston.

H. H. McPike, secretary of the committee, said the committee "has conducted a campaign of education that has convinced the people that parties are necessary."

The campaign work, it was said would be continued although hampered by lack of funds. Much of the committee's work has been done through volunteer county organizations. The committee represents the Republican and Democratic state committees but other party organizations, Mr. Ralston said, co-operated.

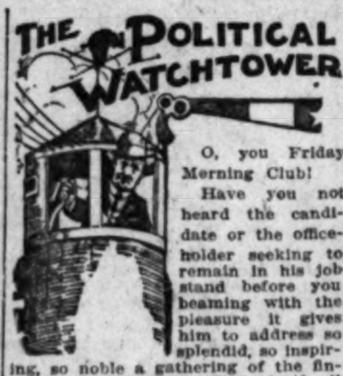
The committee represents the Republican and Democratic state committees but other party organizations, Mr. Ralston said, co-operated.



O, you Friday Morning Club!

Have you not heard the candidate or the office-holder seeking to remain in his job stand before you beaming with the pleasure it gives him to address so splendid, so inspiring, so noble a gathering of the finest, fairest, most intellectual of all our clubwomen?

Have you not heard each succeeding speaker lavish upon you the compliments he hopes will bring him votes, and have you not wondered if it was all sincere, or if, after all, the candidate was merely expressing the beautiful sentiments to catch your vote?

Have you not wondered if Gov. Johnson himself, the supreme politician of them all, when he appoints some of your members to State jobs and when he graces your clubhouse with his paunchy presence—have you not wondered if he, too, is spreading the blarney like all the rest?

If not, wouldn't the fact that he refused to speak before your club last Friday indicate the selfishness of his attitude? You know, Gov. Johnson sits up there at Sacramento and maps out a campaign as carefully as Napoleon ever did. He always sets aside the last ten days of the campaign to proselyting among the voters in Southern California and he is always assured of invitations to women's club luncheons, for has he not placed on his pay roll the women who have the authority to invite? He smiles as he makes the appointments to meet with the women's clubs, and he feels happy in his belief that it will be so.

He knows the club has a rule against the discussion of politics when all sides are not given representation, but that matters not a whit to him, for is he not supreme? Must he shape his own likes and dislikes, his own conduct and his own ambitions to fit the regulations of a woman's club? Knowing that the club is nonpolitical he accepts its invitation to lunch. And yet he insists upon overriding the rule by making a political talk. He tells the women he cannot waste his time—although they may waste theirs—listening to the opposing side of the argument.

And right there is where the Friday Morning Club may as well find its answer to the politicians, for right there is the secret of their interest in women's clubs. Gov. Johnson does not think enough of the women's clubs to make a friendly chat, an impersonal speech on something that does not violate the good sense of the women. He cannot waste his time listening to the eloquence of an opponent before an audience of clubwomen, nor can he waste his time talking to the clubwomen about those things they prefer to hear.

The action of the president of the Woman's City Club and the directors of the Friday Morning Club is a long step toward the eradication of political exploitation of women's clubs generally. The destiny of the State Federation has been jeopardized by the insane desire upon the part of certain women to make themselves and their clubs strong politically. And the destiny of the Friday Morning Club is assured when it can say to Gov. Johnson or any other Governor or any other mere man:

"You may come to our club luncheon. We would like to have you and would feel honored by your presence, but if you do, you conduct yourself according to our rules. If you speak, you speak upon those subjects which are not taboo. If that is satisfactory in the way of an invitation, come along. If it is not, stay away."

Two days from now a minority of the voters of California will decide two or three of the most vital problems that have ever confronted this State. When the result of the election is announced a majority of the voters will come to a realization of the fact that they did not participate. The "will of the people" is an abused and wrongfully used phrase, indicating the decision of the voters, when it is more often the decision of a minority. It is only upon rare occasions under our new political order that a heavy vote is registered at the polls. Men and women of California will not go voluntarily. They must be goaded on to the polls by purchased propelling power. The new order destroys the spirit of the voter and leaves him blinder than ever to the real issues of a campaign.

Earl touched the keynote of the situation in his Tribune of the other day. On one page appeared a cartoon picturing the "old gang" trying to halt a voter at the polls and telling him to wait until his ballot is marked, the argument being that the "old gang," standing for party rule, insists upon marking the ballot by a party emblem or party name. "You don't know how to mark that ballot," says the "old gang;" "let me mark it for you." And upon another page of the same issue Earl impersonates the "old gang" of the cartoon by presenting a marked ballot for the guidance of the voters! The incident explodes the paraded claim of purity in politics, and exposes the actual reason for the destruction of parties. The only hope of perpetuating such chicanery is in keeping enough of the voters fooled long enough to put it over.

The rumored removal of City Clerk Wilde at the end of the year has no foundation. He will be reappointed by Mayor Sebastian and will continue to give adequate and capable public service. This is the best information obtainable from the Mayor's office. What is more, no one thinks Charlie Wilde is worrying over the outlook. One of the other certainties is that Owen McAleer, former Mayor of Los Angeles, will be appointed to a place on the Board of Public Works. He was campaign manager for Mayor Sebastian, is one of the stalwarts of the city and would bring to the Board of Public Works a wide and valuable knowledge of city affairs.

WILSON BREAKS TRAFFIC RULE; HELD UP BY POLICE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FREDERICK (Md.) Oct. 23.—For failure to comply with the traffic law of Frederick, President Wilson, Mrs. Norman Galt and Miss Margaret Wilson were held up while passing through Frederick in an automobile on their return from Emmitsburg, where they took lunch today with Mrs. Galt's brother-in-law, Sterling Galt.

Traffic Officer Quinn stopped the car when it started to the left of the safety plate in order to avoid a team. Secret service men in another machine wanted to know what was the matter. The officer explained that all vehicles were required to pass to the right.

In a few seconds the automobiles were surrounded by several hundred persons anxious to get a closer view of the distinguished occupants.

The President's car then backed a few feet and proceeded on its way.

The President was somewhat peeved by the interference.

The officer, when later taken to task for holding up the President's car, said:

"I recognized the President, but it is my duty to enforce the traffic regulations no matter who it affects."

LOSS OF FLESH

Mr. George W. Close, No. 12½ Nevada Bldg., Denver, Col., writes: "I have all the faith in the world in your medicine, as it cured me of catarrh of the stomach.

"I was in a most distressing condition and life looked dark indeed. I could not eat. My food did not do me any good. I gradually lost flesh and was thin and emaciated.

"I was glad indeed to find that the first bottle of Peruna was doing me good, and so I kept on using it, with a gradual increase of appetite and strength.

"Three months after I first began using it I was a well man, and all the credit is due to Peruna. I recommend it to all who are in need of a medicine for catarrh."

HANDY STOMACH REMEDY TO HAVE ABOUT THE HOME

Instantly stops indigestion, gas, sourness, heartburn or acidity.

The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all distress goes.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion, acid stomach, dyspepsia or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep Pape's Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy stomach in five minutes.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, sour stomach, hearburn and other distress go in five minutes and relieves at once such miseries as belching of gas, eructations of sour undigested food, nausea, headaches, dizziness, constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion and dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common everyday cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of nervousness, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach or cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, gas and stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

Who'll Win?

OIL LAND SUITS OPEN TOMORROW.

THESE ACTIONS AFFECT MANY THOUSAND ACRES.

Litigation will Attract Greatest Aggregation of Legal Talent Ever Assembled in Court in Los Angeles. Millions of Dollars Involved in the Outcome.

Beginning with tomorrow, the litigation between the government and numerous corporations and hundreds of individuals involving the ownership of valuable oil lands in Kern county, will commence in this city.

According to the present arrangements these hearings covering hundreds of thousands of acres of land and the expenditure of millions of dollars, will continue indefinitely. Nobody is bold enough to fix a date when they will be concluded.

Hundreds of witnesses will be called to testify in what are known as the "withdrawal" and the "fraud" suits instituted by the government against the Southern Pacific Railroad and scores of other corporate and individual interests.

When Judge Bledsoe began in Fresno, last week, the trial of the cases involving the Midway Northern Oil Company, the Consolidated Midway Oil Company, the American Oilfields Company, and the Midland Oilfields Company, all being separate and distinct cases, he was disqualified from acting by reason of the fact that he is a stockholder in one of the subsidiary companies.

This left the cases of the government against G. W. McCutcheon and David Kinsey, both separate cases, yet to be tried, and a few witnesses were heard in Fresno in the McCutcheon case. This will be resumed at the opening of court tomorrow morning. About eighty witnesses have been summoned.

Judge Farrington of the Nevada district, who is trying the Chinese smuggling case, will go to Fresno and hear the four cases in which Judge Bledsoe was disqualified.

The case of the government against the Devil's Den Consolidated Oil Company and other corporations and individuals for an injunction and receiver will be tried at some date to be set on a two-days' notice.

After the disposal of the McCutcheon case, that against David Kinsey and others will be begun by Judge Bledsoe, and at the conclusion of that hearing the six complaints involving alleged fraud on the part of the Southern Pacific Railroad when the selections were made under the general land grant of 1867 by Congress, will be taken up in their turn.

The fraud cases will take much time, and it is understood that the number of witnesses will be no less than 500.

The millions of dollars that have been spent sinking dry holes, and pictures of the wilderness of inactive derricks and oil machinery that are in evidence all over the Kern county field, will be exploited, and the story retold of how the only discovery of oil was made after the land had been patented by the railroad company, and when it had been practically abandoned as an oil-producing proposition.

The cases will attract one of the greatest combinations of legal talent seen in California in recent litigation, in any court. The government will be represented by E. J. Justice, special assistant to Atty.-Gen. Gregory, and United States District Attorney Schoonover. Among the legal lights in the interest of the various defendants are Charles Lewers, representing the Southern Pacific Railroad; A. L. Weil, Samuel Shortridge, J. W. Wiley, R. T. Harding, M. S. Platz, Curtis H. Lindsay, George W Lauer, Andrews, Toland & Andrews, George E. Whittaker, G. M. Spicer, Hunsaker & Britt, Oscar Lawler and others.

The evidence in the fraud cases will not all be heard in Los Angeles, but the court will hold sittings in San Francisco, Bakersfield and Fresno, in order to accommodate the witnesses, in addition to this city.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.

Noted Speakers to be Heard Today at Gathering in Interest of State-wide Prohibition.

A mass meeting of the temperance forces of the city under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Southern California will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the auditorium of the Bible Institute, corner of Sixth and Hope streets.

The principal addresses will be given by Miss Anna A. Gordon of Evanston, National President of the W.C.T.U.; Mrs. Frances P. Parks of Evanston, National Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Sara M. Hoge of Virginia, National Ashistant Recording Secretary; Mrs. Mitchener, State President of Kansas; Mrs. Deborah Livingstone of Maine, National Superintendent of Franchise, and Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, national W.C.T.U. representative at Washington.

Mayor Sebastian will welcome the distinguished guests. Congressman Charles H. Randall, Dr. Matt S. Hughes and H. A. Wheeler will be heard in greetings and in the interests of the coming campaign for State-wide prohibition.

Music and dancing ever afternoon and evening, October 23 to 30, Broadway Automobile and Flower Show, Boston Store Building.

WOMAN COWS BURGLAR.

Nurse Grapples With Armed Intruder—Takes Watch and Chain from Him—Lets Him Go.

When Mrs. Mary Nolan, a nurse at the Santa Fe Hospital, went to her room to retire Friday night she encountered a burglar. Instead of screaming, she grappled with him, found he had stolen none of her belongings and let him go, but not until she had taken a gold watch and chain from him. She believed he had stolen the watch from some person in the hospital.

"Don't make a noise," the burglar cautioned the nurse as she suddenly appeared in the room. "If you do I will shoot you."

Mrs. Nolan told him she did not think he had nerve enough to carry out the threat and flew at him. She fought viciously and he was glad enough to escape while he was all together. He declared he had stolen nothing.

"Before you go I want that watch and chain," the nurse told him and with remarkable nerve, wrested it from him. This accomplished, she allowed the intruder to go. Yesterday morning she tried to find the owner of the watch and, failing, reported the matter to the police.

The watch has seventeen jewels and Elgin works. It is valued at about $25.

SALVATIONIST CHIEF.

Woman Commander of Army Will Make Many Speeches During Her Short Visit Here.

Commander Miss Booth of the Salvation Army, who arrives in Los Angeles this week to conduct a Congress of Workers here, was the originator and presiding genius of the unique "Old Linen Campaign" which was run last winter and this spring by the Army to provide medical supplies for the various Red Cross activities at the battle fronts in Europe. This plan resulted in 194 large cases of material weighing 42,196 pounds and containing 307,360 bandages, compresses, handkerchiefs, etc., being sent. This amount has been augmented since then by additional shipments.

The Army's neutrality is well demonstrated by the fact that these cases have been forwarded to France, Belgium, Germany, Great Britain, Servia, Russia and Montenegro.

In addition to preaching in the Temple Auditorium next Sunday evening it has now been arranged for Miss Booth to preach in the First Presbyterian Church, 20th and Figueroa streets, in the morning. President Baer has invited the commander to address the students, faculty and friends at Occidental College on Monday, November 1, so that a strenuous programme is being fixed up for this distinguished woman speaker during her short stay in the city.

Fine Healthy Child Convincing Evidence

Simple Inexpensive Remedy Checks Early Tendency to Constipation.

About the first thing impressed on the young mother is the necessity for regularity in her baby, which brings up the question of the most desirable laxative for children's use.

Mrs. Jesse Richardson, Philpot, Ky., says she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for the past year and that there is no medicine in the world like it. She writes, "My little son, William, Jr., just loved it because it is so pleasant to take, and everybody talks about his being such a fine healthy boy."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of simple laxative herbs, free from any opiate or narcotic drug, and is the standard remedy for constipation in thousands of homes throughout the land. Drug stores everywhere sell it for 50 cents a bottle. Get a bottle of this excellent remedy, and have it in the house. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

DIVERGOS

Give Best Service

The Diverging Angle Is the Most Scientific Method of Deflecting Light Rays

Home Product.

Think this over before you buy any kind of dimmers or deflectors.

Cheap dimmers may not be cheap. Consider more than the initial price, consider service first. Only real service is cheap.

All that the law requires you to do is to cut off the glare. Real service requires the elimination of glare without dimming the light. If you want a good driving light you must use a deflector that deflects without dimming.

The intelligent driver demands this kind of service. A cheap dimmer may comply with the law but it will not give you the real service you demand.

It is not a question of how cheaply you can equip your lamps, but how good.

The Divergo eliminates the glare without cutting off any of the light. It is controlled from the driver's seat and you can throw the light on the road just where you want it.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver and bowels.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm children and they love it.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full direction for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

WILL BUILD NEW MACHINE PLANT.

LOCAL CONCERN OUTGROWS ITS QUARTERS AND STEADILY EXPANDS.

The Cochise Machine Company, a local corporation that started in business a little more than four years ago in a room 15x45 feet in size and with an equipment large enough to employ only two men, has constantly expanded since that beginning and must now seek larger quarters.

The corporation held its annual meeting yesterday at the offices, No. 404 Aliso street, and announced a dividend of 50 cents a share, this being the second the company has paid. The secretary's report showed a large cash balance and a constant development of business. The company manufactures rock drills, piston machines, stoping machines and hand drills and at present employes fifteen men.

At the annual meeting just held it was decided that the company purchase a tract of about three acres, within the city if possible, and thereon to build a factory adequate to meet the demands of the growing business. The new plant will have capacity to employ 100 men.

C. Hulquist was elected as president; James Erickson, vice-president, and T. H. Lindsey, secretary-treasurer.

REAL KILTIES ARE COMING.

HAVE FOUR-DAY ENGAGEMENT IN THIS CITY.

Band that is Pride of All Canada Comes from Triumph at Caledonian Day in San Diego—Going to San Francisco's Great Exposition.

Yesterday was a red-letter day for the Canadians and Scotchmen who were at San Diego. The exposition officials made it Caledonian Day in honor of the famous "Kilties" from Canada. The Canadian and Caledonian clubs met this musical organization at the depot on their arrival from the East and escorted them to the exposition grounds, where a luncheon was served in the Commerce and Industries Building.

The "Kilties" will arrive in Los Angeles today and will open a special engagement at the Mason Operahouse tonight, remaining at this theater four days. This band travels in its own private Pullman car and will go on to San Francisco from this city.

The "Kilties" have tickled the ears of the world and are the pride of all Canada. There are thirty-six members in the band, and they always make a picturesque appearance when on the streets, as they appear in their native costume of plaid kilts revealing bare knees, thick plaid socks, white spats, red coats and the cutest little Scotch cap perched on the side of their head with a feather sticking up behind. The kilt is 2000 years old and was adapted from the dress of the Romans. The plaid indicates the clan, there being 283 different plaids, or clans. The Gordon Highlanders, that famous regiment from Scotland, who have made history on the battlefields of Europe this year, wear this particular uniform.

Not only for wonderful rendition of music as a band are the "Kilties" famous, but for individually accomplished artists, every member being a soloist, thus giving the audience an entertainment filled with specialties.

Will F. Newlan, the conductor, is one of the ablest bandmasters and directors. He is also an accomplished soloist on the saxophone, and a well-known composer. J. Coates Lockhart sings because he can't help singing. He says he cannot remember the time when he was not singing. His pure tenor will delight all listeners, as he brings out the exquisite pathos of the Scotch ballads and the quaint touches of canny humor. His range and repertoire are large and he generally responds to encore after encore.

In "Wee Jamie" Clark, the pride of Scotland dancing pipers, the audience will find an artist. From the bagpipes "Wee Jamie" brings music delicious to the ear of the Caledonian and in his Scottish dances he brings back memories dear to the Scot.

JACKSON ROOM FOR MUSEUM.

NUCLEUS FOR COLLECTION OF MOMENTOES OF AUTHOR OF "RAMONA."

Definite steps are being taken by the managers of the museum at Exposition Park to establish a Helen Hunt Jackson room, wherein there will be assembled all the momentoes of the famous author that can be obtained: also articles that have some connection with the story of "Ramona," a book that has caused much attention to be turned to the romantic side of life in California.

The Century papers of Helen Hunt Jackson, and the book, "Ramona," as it appears in the several editions, will form the beginning of this collection, and there are many articles that the curator of the Coronel Collection expects to secure that will add greatly to the interest of the new collection.

In order to popularize the idea and to pay a proper tribute to the author of this California story, the museum managers are arranging to observe Helen Hunt Jackson day—November 22—at Exposition Park. The play of "Ramona" will be presented on the lawn in front of the museum during the afternoon. Rehearsals are now taking place, and a feature of this affair will be the rendering of Indian and Spanish music. A group of musicians was at the park yesterday, participating in the first rehearsal The play, it is said, will be spectacular and a fine picture of the romance of early days in California, before this land passed into the possession of the "Gringo."

Persons who have articles suitable for the Helen Hunt Jackson room and who are willing to contribute them to the museum are requested to notify Miss N. B. Pitcher, curator of the Coronel Collection, in care of the Museum, Exposition Park.

Flying Squadron is Out.

The Commonwealth Club, composed of a large number of young attorneys of Los Angeles county, sent out a flying squadron of speakers last night, led by President Robert H. Scott. The club entered the fight for the preservation of parties in the last week of the campaign, but rallied a score of young orators to its standard and is making a red-hot finish.

UP IN FLAMES.

Vernon Arena, Historic Stage of Many Fistic Battles, Burns—May be Incendiary Work.

Vernon Arena, the scene of some of the most famous prize fights in the history of the pugilistic game, was destroyed by fire shortly after noon yesterday. The origin of the blaze is unknown, but believed to have been incendiary. The loss is estimated at $3000.

The arena, which was located at Twenty-fifth street and Santa Fe avenue, was owned by Tom McCarey, the well-known promoter. The fighting game being obsolete in California there is no probability of the big shed being rebuilt.

When the firemen arrived the arena was a mass of flames and efforts to extinguish the flames were futile. It appeared that the fire started in several places, but there was no reliable information to that effect.

TAKE SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS SAYS DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS

Salts harmless to flush Kidneys and neutralize uric acid, thus ending Bladder trouble.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Wilshire Boulevard Tract
and
Another Wilshire Gold Mine

Mr. Wilshire, originator of the Wilshire Boulevard, again offers a Wilshire investment rivaling his first offering of lots in the

Wilshire Boulevard Tract

IN LOS ANGELES the name Wilshire is a synonym for "highest quality." We have Wilshire Houses, Wilshire Churches, Wilshire Schools, Wilshire Clothes, Wilshire Gasoline, Wilshire Hotels, Laundries, Dye-Shops, Garages and especially do we hear of lots in the Wilshire District.

Perhaps you many not be aware how the name Wilshire got this commendation of "highest quality." I can tell you, for it was my doing, I am Wilshire—Gaylord Wilshire.

BIRTH OF WESTLAKE PARK.

Some years ago I decided that Los Angeles was to be a great city, with its greatest growth toward the sea, and that a great boulevard from Westlake Park to the sea was in the logical order of events. Westlake Park, in those days, although the land had been dedicated for a park, was simply a dry ravine, no lake, no trees, no grass.

I bought a barley field immediately adjoining what is now the park and laid out the Wilshire Boulevard, 120 feet in width through the center.

I donated to the Park Fund of Los Angeles a large sum of money to inaugurate the development of Westlake Park. Before offering a single lot for sale in my barley field, which I had baptized Wilshire Boulevard Tract, I spent nearly a hundred thousand dollars on cement sidewalks, sewers, water pipes, trees and palms.

When this work was all done and after I had subsidized the street railway company to extend their trolley out Seventh street to the tract, I put my lots on the market at a price which now shows a profit to the early buyer of something like thirty for one. Lots sold for one thousand dollars now bring thirty thousand dollars.

WILSHIRE BOULEVARD

Wilshire Boulevard has become the fashionable driveway to the sea, and property along it has attained fabulous values.

It is doubtful if ever again one can offer the public such an opportunity as I did in the early days of the Wilshire Boulevard.

A good opportunity to make money out of a real estate speculation really comes very rarely. Booms are usually ten years apart and even then uncertain. To make money on real estate you must have two factors—rapid growth of population and low-priced lots—and they don't usually go together. The average buyer will not believe in the rapid growth until it is a fact, and by the time it has materialized low prices of lots have vanished.

OTIS, EARL AND LETTS.

I sold, for instance, practically no boulevard lots to speculators for a rise, and not because I did not try, but because I could not find the speculative buyers. The men I sold to were conservative business men, Gen. H. G. Otis, E. T. Earl, Arthur Letts and other substantial citizens, who bought as home-builders and not as speculators. True, they made a wonderful speculation, but that was only incidental and, indeed, somewhat unexpected by them.

Perhaps you may sigh and say, "I would like to have had a chance to have bought lots at ground-floor prices in the Wilshire Boulevard Tract. I am sure I would have never had passed it up."

Well, maybe not, but there were many very acute business men who did pass it up.

FOUNDER OF FULLERTON.

I am also the founder and namer of the town of Fullerton—another of my barley field purchases. I put in the town water system there, built the hotel, established the first bank, and business blocks. I sold Fullerton town lots and acreage there at prices which have made my buyers even more money than the buyers of Wilshire Boulevard lots. It was even harder to sell Fullerton property than Boulevard lots, notwithstanding it was obvious that Fullerton was sure to get on the map. It is my experience that the most difficult time to sell is exactly when it's the best time to buy. Men in buying have much more of the character of sheep than of reasoning human beings.

SHEEP BRAINS OR HUMAN?

However, hope springs eternal in the human breast, and I am going to give the buyers one more chance to get on a Wilshire ground-floor proposition. This time, however, it is not real estate but a Gold Mine. Do you shy at the idea of a gold mine being worthy of consideration? Probably. Well, you can't shy today any harder than did the public shy a few years ago at Wilshire Boulevard lots or Fullerton acres and oil fields.

$55,000 BULLION PRODUCED.

You may not shy so hard when I tell you that this gold mine—which I have named the Wilshire Mine—although only in operation since June, has already produced to October 1, as per Engineer E. W. Walter's report, over $55,000 in gold bullion.

I have pursued the same conservative, business-like course in the case of the Wilshire Gold Mine that I so successfully followed in the development of the Wilshire Boulevard Tract. I bought a good property, developed it, proved its value, and now offer it for sale to the Los Angeles general public at a very modest price. We have apparently exposed in the Wilshire Gold Mine, with very little development work, over 36,000 tons of $7 to $8 ore in a huge pay shoot of a proven width of twenty feet.

A MILE OF ORE.

For nearly a mile on the surface we can trace its course straight through the center of our twelve patented mining claims, if the values as developed under ground continue throughout, as surface conditions so strongly indicate, we have indeed a wonderful mine.

The Wilshire Gold Mine is not ten thousand miles from nowhere. Take a Pullman in the evening from Los Angeles and the next morning an automobile puts you on the mine. It is near the town of Bishop, Inyo county, California, on the headwaters of the Bishop Creek, the principal tributary to the Los Angeles Aqueduct.

Maybe I make a mistake in dwelling upon how near and convenient to Los Angeles. Only distant pastures look green to some Los Angeles men.

A PROVEN MINE.

This is my story, and it is up to you to say whether you wish a more certain, quick profit than I ever offered on the Wilshire Boulevard. More certain because with a proven gold mine the human element is largely eliminated. Population, it is true, did flow to Los Angeles, and that flow accounts for the rise in real estate, but no one could have forecast with certainty when it was bound to flow. On the other hand, with your proven gold mine you are sure of making your gold flow into profits as soon as you get enough of the right machinery.

GROUND FLOOR PRICE.

The Wilshire Mine is owned by the Rocky Point Consolidated Mines Co. I am president. There is a total issue of one million full-paid and non-assessable shares, one-half treasury. I offer a limited number of my own shares at 45 cents each, which represents a total valuation for the company's property at $225,000—virtually cost price. In fact, $200,000 cash, and then some, has already been expended on its development.

OVER $200,000 EXPENDED.

In other words, at 45 cents per share you have an absolutely ground-floor price on an operating gold mine which has good prospects of developing into one of the greatest, if not the greatest mine in the United States.

If you don't know anything about gold mining ask some mining man what he thinks of a gold mine which has a pay shoot twenty feet wide of $7 to $8 ore, free gold, with the lode showing on the surface, of the claims for over a mile. Tell him that mining conditions as to power and water are ideal, that extraction is now 85 to 92 per cent., with good prospects of 95 per cent. by oil flotation.

WHY STOCK IS OFFERED.

The next natural question is: "Why, Mr. Wilshire, if this gold mine is all you represent, do you offer to sell stock so cheap?" For the same reason I sold lots in the Boulevard Tract so cheap. I need cash. It has already cost me thousands of dollars to develop the Wilshine Mine to its present condition. Our 50-ton mill is confessedly too small to make any considerable profit working on $8 ore. With our big twenty-foot pay shoot continuing we shall be able to easily supply a 500-ton mill. With 36,000 tons of ore exposed now we can supply a 100-ton mill for one year, and we should build it at once. Such a mill will give us a profit, on $7 ore, of over $100,000 per year, say 40 per cent. per annum on 45-cent stock.

You may figure out for yourself what dividends may be expected when we enlarge our plant to 500 or 1000 tons per day. It is on the cards.

AVOID VAIN REGRETS.

If you don't wish to have a repetition of vain Wilshire Boulevard regrets, then buy Rocky Point and buy now. You can't wait and expect to get in at 45 cents later on.

The stock will no doubt very shortly be listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, and the opening price will certainly be more than 45 cents, perhaps 55 cents, and it should soon go to 80 cents.

I spend most of my time on the mine, yet I have an office, 422 Hollingsworth Building, in Los Angeles, and for the next few weeks will be glad to meet any prospective buyers or inquirers there.

TAKE THE SECOND CHANCE.

Don't miss this opportunity for a second chance at profits like my original offering of the Wilshire Boulevard Tract.

Profit by past experience. What Wilshire offers is always good.

Yours faithfully,
GAYLORD WILSHIRE.

October 23, 1915.

Report on the Wilshire mine by E. W. Walter, E.M., will be sent on application to Gaylord Wilshire, 422 Hollingsworth Bldg., Los Angeles. Telephone Main 524.—[Advertisement.

Growers Tell of Remarkable Progress with Fruit.

Highest Food Value, Declares Berkeley Expert.

Boosting Southern California's coming industry—avocado growing—more than 450 interested growers and prospective growers yesterday attended an all-day meeting of the California Avocado Association in the Alexandria ballroom. Pioneer growers of the fruit in the United States and several technical men who have studied the avocado in tropical countries related the progress made in determining conditions under which the erstwhile tropical fruit was most successfully grown in this country.

Prof. I. J. Condit of the University of California gave interesting information regarding the inception of the industry in this State. The first tree, he said, was more or less the result of an accident. A rancher returning from Mexico with a sample of the fruit dropped the seed in a box of rubbish in his cellar. The seed sprouted and merely as a whim the rancher tended the plant. When the tree was about 2 years old it was accidentally left outdoors overnight and, suffering no ill effects from the exposure, the rancher eventually planted it in his yard. From this inauspicious beginning the avocado industry has grown until, he said, it is now the study of hundreds of fruit growers in the State.

The speaker advocated withholding water from the trees in the fall and said precaution should be taken to harden them for the cold weather. He advocated plenty of fertilization and was in favor of mulching. In his opinion, the best fertilizer consisted of 275 grammes nitrate of soda, 125 grammes 45 per cent. sulphate of potash, 350 grammes of 16 per cent. acid phosphate and 100 pints of water. The mixture to be applied every two or three weeks. Among the pests attacking the avocado tree he placed the mealy-bug, greedy, and black scale, omnivorous looper and the twig borer.

HIGH FOOD VALUE.

Prof. M. E. Jaffa of the State University submitted [illegible] ments showing the food value of the avocado to be very high. In addition to protein and carbohydrates comparing favorably with other fruits, he declared the avocado possessed many valuable elements which place it in a class by itself as a food. The nearest competitor of the avocado in food value, he said, was the olive.

Wilson Popenoe, agricultural explorer of the Department of Agriculture, told of the industry in Florida and the West Indies. He said at present there are only about 250 acres devoted to the culture of the avocado. The growers prefer the Cuban or West Indian varieties, which market from July to November. Experience shows the trees thrive best in a rich, sandy loam, but will grow steadily elsewhere. In Florida, because of the shallow soil, in some instances as much as forty-five pounds of fertilizer is used four times a year for each [illegible] tree. Young trees need from [illegible] pounds upward, depending upon [illegible] He stated blood and bone made excellent fertilizer.

Drouth was said to be the cause of many ailments of the trees. This is being prevented, he said, by planting cover crops of cow peas or similar produce and turning it under in the fall. The Guatemala type, which is favored here, was said to be but little known in Florida, but is rapidly coming into favor. The average yield per tree there was said to be between five and eight crates for trees between 5 and 10 years of age. The crates contain forty avocados. The average net price is from $3 to $[illegible] a crate, but prices for extra fancy fruit have gone as high as $1 each.

ARE HARDY.

He declared the Florida trees show no ill effects from occasional exposure to a temperature of 26 deg. above zero. Conditions in Cuba and Porto Rico were described as very similar to those in Florida. Of the many varieties of fruit Mr. Popenoe expressed his preference for the Trapp, which he said marketed easily, stood up well under shipment and was excellent in flavor.

On the question of varieties, however, F. O. Popenoe, president of the West India Gardens at Altadena, took issue. He reclared the Cuban or West Indian fruit to be inferior to the Mexican and the Guatemala type. Of the three species he favored the Mexican because it matures two or three months after the budding of the tree. In addition the fruit ripens late and receives the benefit of the best market price. The flavor and texture is excellent. He said the Mexican was hardy, ver yprolific and will stand a temperature as low as [illegible] above zero. Of the Mexican type he spoke highly of the Ganter, which he described as the peer of all.

After the Ganter he placed the [illegible] mon. The only objection to these types, he stated, was a tendency to stand shipment poorly unless picked at just the proper time. The [illegible] mon, he stated, frequently [illegible] decayed in spots if left too long on the tree.

Of the Guatemala type he expressed preference to the Taft variety, with the Sharpless and Blakeman as rivals. The Sharpless, while probably the peer of the type, he regarded as being difficult of propagation and for that reason alone less desirable than the Taft. Other good varieties, which are less desirable, he said, are the Colorado, Challenge, [illegible] Lyon and Solano. He also spoke highly of the Dickey, Royal and Henrietta, but said much difficulty had been experienced in bringing the trees to maturity.

AS TO GROWTH.

The main objection the speaker held to the Guatemala type was also its slow growth. The trees bear at six or seven years of age and the fruit requires from twelve to [illegible] months to ripen, as against [illegible] months with the Mexican type.

Dr. H. J. Webber, director of the citrus experiment station at Riverside, spoke upon the assistance officials had given the association and advocated weeding out all but [illegible] twelve of the eighty-six varieties grown in the State. He declared intelligent selection of stock to be the greatest task facing the industry. E. E. P. Taft of Orange and E. E. [illegible] and J. C. Bosche gave brief experiences as to growing and marketing the fruit.

Following the programme of speeches Edwin G. Hart, president of the association, who presided, made a brief address on the purposes of the association. This he declared to be mainly the development of the industry and the prevention of fraud among the growers of the State, such as trying to develop a grove on unsuitable soil and the planting of inferior varieties or fruit which would come on the market in the [illegible].

A feature of the meeting was an exhibition of several hundred specimens of various varieties and a serving of avocado salads, [illegible] desserts. Avocado growers within a radius of 100 miles were present and joined in an informal discussion after the meeting. It was announced the association would hold its next meeting in May.

versity submitted results of experi-ments showing the food value of the avocado to be very high. In additio to protein and carbohydrate values comparing favorably with other fruits, he declared the avocado possessed many valuable elements which place it in a class by itself as a food. The nearest competitor of the avocado in food value, he said, was the olive.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 23.—Tomorrow will be one of the biggest days in the history of the exposition, when the Catholics of Southern California will hold a great picnic and attend the fair.

More than 15,000 persons are expected from Los Angeles and other points in Southern California, as well as the Catholics of San Diego. A military high mass at the organ pavilion in the morning will be the commencement of the programme. Rt. Rev. Mgr. John R. McCarthy of Fresno will be the celebrant, assisted by Rev. George Donohoe of Los Angeles and other priests. All of the military branches at the exposition will attend in full dress uniform.

At noon a monster picnic will be held in the picnic grove, and in the afternoon there will be athletic contests. The christening of the little Acoma baby, which was born at the Painted Desert, will be an interesting feature of the afternoon. Rev. Father James A. O'Callaghan of San Diego will christen the child, and visiting priests will be guests of the Painted Desert. An Indian dance will follow the christening.

There will be a reception to the visiting Catholics in the blueroom of the Southern California Building in the afternoon from 3 until 4 o'clock. In the evening the visitors will hold a joy carnival on the Isthmus.

Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford and Luther Burbank will see the San Diego exposition together. Word has been received by President G. Aubrey Davidson that the three men will arrive here Wednesday. Thursday will be set aside in their honor at the exposition.

Speaker Champ Clark made a flying trip through the exposition this afternoon. In record time, two hours and ten minutes, Clark and his wife attended a luncheon given in their honor at the Cristobal cafe by President Davidson, and then did the fair. At the luncheon Clark greeted the San Diegans and said he would return November 6 on a lecture tour, when he would be able to speak to them at length.

President Davidson and Mayor Capps were appointed this afternoon by the San Diego 1916 Committee to represent San Diego at the meeting of the Exposition Committee to be held in Los Angeles Monday afternoon. Plans for the fair for next year were enthusiastically made today at the meeting of the 1916 Committee.

Imperial Valley.

MONEY TIED UP BY INJUNCTION.

Gov. Cantu Made Defendant by Carranza Agent.

State may Decide What is Mexico's Government.

Official Ready to Turn Over Funds to Authority.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Oct. 23.—Through a suit seeking to tie up approximately $100,000 deposited in two Calexico banks by Esteban Cantu, Governor of the northern district of Baja California, filed in the County Clerk's office today, the Superior Court of Imperial county is asked to determine whether the Carranza administration is the legally-constituted government of Mexico.

The case is remarkable in its international aspect. The plaintiff is "the de facto government of Mexico of which Gen. Venustiano Carranza is the Chief Executive." Joined with the banks, the Calexico National Bank and the First National Bank, as co-defendants, is Gov. Cantu, head of the de facto government in Northern Baja California.

The point at issue is the rightful ownership of an uncertain amount, but mentioned in the complaint as about $100,000, money derived from fees, fines, taxes and other revenues of the Mexican state.

The complaint is accompanied by an affidavit sworn to by M. G. Paredes of Calexico, saying he is the duly authorized Consul of the Carranza de facto government and that he has been directed to institute the proceedings. Attorney William E. Butcher of Calexico last night went in search of Judge Cole to get a temporary restraining order enjoining the banks from transferring any of the money.

JUDGE PETITIONED.

The judge was found at a social affair at a late hour and the order was served when the banks opened this morning. The complaint set forth that it was believed that Gov. Cantu was about to take steps to protect control of his territory and "that he will withdraw all of said money from the banks and abscond from the process and jurisdiction of the courts of this State" unless a restraining order is issued.

The complaint makes the allegation that Gov. Cantu has drawn from the funds for his own purposes, but also contains the statement that the moneys "were deposited for and in behalf of the legally constituted government of Mexico, the plaintiff." The money is specifically credited to El Gobiernonacional de Mexico, the complaint says.

The position taken by Gov. Cantu is that he will swear allegiance to a Constitutional government set up by the ballot and to it will turn over all funds in his hands, in the meantime holdings his territory in trust.

The dry legal verbiage of the complaint does not disguise the possibility of military developments south of the line. It states that Gov. Cantu has maintained independent military control and dominion over the territory, but has been expressly repudiated by the Carranza government.

Follows then the line that indications are apparent Cantu is about to take immediate steps to protect control of his district. A few paragraphs farther down is the assertion that the Carranza government "is about to regain control of said northern district of Baja California."

The case will be heard Friday. Joseph F. Seymour, Jr., retained as attorney by Cantu, after a consultation tonight with the Governor, said he would file a demurrer denying that the State court has jurisdiction. If any answer is necessary he will deny that Paredes is the regular and legal agent for the Carranza government.

CANTU'S POSITION.

Cantu, speaking tonight through his attorney, said that the sum in question was approximately $75,000 and had been deposited under an agreement with the banks that it was to be withdrawn only on order of himself, the State Treasurer and the Collector of Customs or the empowered agents of a legally constituted government when set up.

He denied that he had appropriated any of the money and declared that the money would be transfered to the proper Mexican officials after a constitutional election. He questioned the effort of Paredes to gain control of the fund and ordered that the case be fought to the highest court if necessary.

If the case is submitted on its merits the burden will be on the plaintiff to show that the Carranza government is legally constituted and that Paredes is a legal agent. As a jurisdictional precedent Attorney Butcher cites a case wherein the King of Prussia as plaintiff brought suit against a citizen of Missouri in the state court there to recover money alleged to be due the Prussian state.

The bond for the defacto government as plaintiff was furnished in the sum of $3,000 by J. Villansenor and Albert Pedrin, well-to-do Mexicans residing in Calexico.

The situation on the border has been complicated by an announcement by Consul Paredes, which is in effect that persons exporting or importing who pay duties to Goc. Cantu face the possibility of paying twice through being compelled to pay the Carranza government again, the books of the licensed brokers eing public records.

Deputy Customs Collector McCumber has not yet exercised his legal prerogative of holding up imports for forty-eight hours. Cotton is coming across for ginning and shipping.

PASADENA PLANS ITS FLORAL SHOW.

CENTRAL PARK TO HOLD FALD EXHIBIT OF BEAUTIFUL BLOOMS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Oct. 23.—A little bit of Fairyland has been enclosed under the big canvas cover in Central Park where the Pasadena Horticultural Society will hold its Fall Flower Show beginning next Thursday.

On entering the big tent one will encounter, just inside the portals, the round marble basin and playful fountain which has always been one of the beauty spots of the park. Vari-colored lights have been planted among the mosses and falling water, and beautiful white and pink water-lilies float on the surface of the poll. When the electric lights are aglow the effect is one of almost dazzling loviness.

Many of the finest palms and flower gardens, and several big, towering cedars have been covered by the tent, the booths being attractively arranged beneath them. The irregular, winding park paths have been utilized to good purpose, so that the old-style rectangular displays have been done away with.

It is expected that the show will be one of the largest and finest that the Horticultural Society has ever held, and several magnificent entries have already been made. Will S. Laurie, as is his wont, will have one of the largest dahlia entries, exhibiting more than 1500 varieties, many of them being his own hybridizations. Chas. G. Forsythe, gardener for Mrs. E. E. Thallman, will have a fine exhibit of chrysanthemums, many of the blossoms measuring eleven inches across. Another of the exhibitors will show a hundred foot display of roses, one of the biggest displays ever entered.

SOME CLOCK.

The fame of the big new 100-inch reflecting telescope soon to be installed at the Carnegie Solar Observatory on Mt. Wilson has roused an old farmer in Oregon from his lethargy. He has written to Postmaster Clark McClain as follows: "Dear Sir, I seen in the Oregon Journal Mr. Carnegie has a grait clok on the Summit of mount wilson. I wish to speke with him in regard to his work ther. I ask your kindness of giving me his address." Needless to say the address was forthcoming.

IN CHAPMAN PARK.

Owners of Wilshire Tract Report Sale of Fine House to Wealthy New York Man.

Recent sales of three valuable residence properties in Chapman Park are reported by the Charles C. and S. J. Chapman Company. To H. C. Rich the company has sold an eleven-room house at No. 530 So. Alexandria avenue for a reported consideration of $18,-000. The dwelling has white cement plaster exterior walls and tile roof and is finished in mahogany and white enamel woodwork. Mr. Rich is a wealthy retired lumberman and a recent arrival from New York.

The company has sold to Judge Benjamin Bledsoe a 75-foot lot at the southwest corner of Fifth street and Alexandria avenue, and is erecting for the purchaser a white plaster house of ten rooms to be finished in mahogany and white enameled wood. Judge Bledsoe expects to occupy his new home by Christmas.

To Anna Tramper the company has transferred a large Chapman Park lot, on which is being erected a white plaster house of the Italian Renaissance style.

The Quiet Man.

[E. W. Howes's Monthly:] I sing the praises of the quiet man.

I am tired of those persons who talk continually, in order to say as many wise and witty things as possible before the people in their audience get away.

I never knew a man noted in a commendable way who talked a great deal.

If you accomplish good results, you must occasionally quit talking, and get off by yourself, where you can work without interruption.

The quiet man is usually able to meet strangers, and those with whom he comes in daily contact, with ease and politeness. And of all the arts, there is nothing more commendable.

Injustice.

[Philadelphia Evening Ledger:] Judge: Have you anything to say before sentence is passed?"

Burglar: The only thing I'm kicking about is bein' identified by a man that kep' his head under the bedclothes the whole time. That's wrong.

Practically the Same.

[Harvard Lampoon:] Chump: Were you ever at an afternoon tea?

Grump: No, but once I was in a place where sixteen phonographs played simultaneously.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 23.—With one eye missing and his face scarred by his adventures during the thirty years he has been a familiar figure to the officers, Pablo Yescas, aged 78, a Mexican Indian, was brought to the County Jail today by Constable Riviera of Redlands for his fiftieth commitment to jail here. The charge is petty larceny.

Yescas has been incarcerated for everything from murder to stealing. In 1889 he was brought on a charge of murder, but made a successful defense and was released.

Hot Curling Iron Goes—No More Broken Hair!

(Beauty's Mirror)

Every woman knows that continual use of the hot curling iron means brittle, blistered, parched, dead-looking hair with burnt, uneven ends. There's no need of anyone using that instrument of torture, now that we know what can be accomplished by the occasional application of ordinary liquid silmerine. This is not only more effective, giving the hair a fluffier and prettier curl, but tends to promote its health, lustre and beauty. Any druggist can supply silmerine in liquid form and a few ounces will last many weeks, so it is quite economical to use.

The approved way is to part the hair in several strands and with a clean tooth brush apply the liquid the full length of each strand. The over-night transformation is agreeably surprising to one who has never tried this simple and harmless method.

I CURE PILES

Fistula and all Rectal Diseases

WITHOUT an OPERATION

By MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

I keep a trained lady nurse constantly on duty in my office for the convenience and comfort of lady patients.

WELL-KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all his claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.
WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

My Dear Mr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat, without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line, I heartily commend you. Very sincerely yours,
ERVIN S. CHAPMAN, D.D., LL.D., Superintendent State Anti-Saloon League.

PRESIDENT OF WHITTIER COLLEGE CURED.

For more than ten years I was a sufferer from a painful affliction, which nearly ruined my usefulness as an organizer and teacher. Dr. C. H. White of Los Angeles has completely cured me by a process that was painless and rapid, and I desire to go on record as recommending the Doctor in diseases of his specialty.

More than 200 teachers are enrolled, sixteen localities being represented.

One of these was held Friday night under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Howard school at Athens-on-the-Hill. This gathering was at the home of W. F. Sager on Veneta avenue and was attended by more than eighty citizens. Supt. Francis of the city schools gave an address and there was a musical programme and refreshments.

Unique.

HAS NO MONEY FOR WITNESSES.

BUT IS DEFENDED BY HIGH-PRICED ATTORNEYS.

Monterey Lawyer on Trial for Smuggling Conspiracy Pleads He is at End of Financial String and Wants Government to Pay Expenses of His Defense.

The unique spectacle of a defendant in a criminal action with money or influence enough to hire three high-priced attorneys for his defense going into court and making an affidavit that he hasn't the means to pay the expenses of his witnesses was presented yesterday.

The defendant was J. Sherman Woolf, a Monterey attorney, jointly charged with others with conspiring to violate the anti-smuggling laws, now on trial in Judge Farrington's court.

The three attorneys who have up to this time appeared in behalf of Woolf are Earl Rogers, Kenton Miller and Jerry Geisler.

The affidavit alleges that Woolf is without money to secure the attendance of witnesses needed in his defense this week. These witnesses number fifteen, of which four are character witnesses, and they all reside in Monterey and Stockton. The witnesses other than those sought to establish the good name of Woolf in Monterey are, it is understood, desired to furnish an alibi for the defendant, although no specific declarations are made as to what points they are expected to clear up.

The expense of obtaining these witnesses will not be less than $1000, and the government will not consent to paying the bill. The matter will be brought to the attention of Judge Farrington tomorrow.

Assistant United States District Attorney Gallaher said yesterday: "I will agree that the four witnesses needed to establish the good character of Woolf will so testify, and they need not be brought here at all. As to furnishing an alibi for Woolf he must set out specifically what he expects or hopes to prove by them with regard to where he was on certain dates in Stockton and elsewhere.

On account of the great expense involved in securing the evidence and presence of a hand-writing expert from San Francisco, to oppose the views of Milton Carlson, the government expert, it has been determined that the defense will indulge in no such luxury. An effort was made to have neither side summon an expert, but the government would not agree to the proposition.

That Woolf is now in a penniless condition, as his affidavit indicates, is a surprise to those familiar with the case. In the testimony of Harry James, the Chinese moving-picture player, it was shown that Woolf had for some time been the Monterey attorney of the Hop Sing tong, there, and anybody familiar with that sort of business knows that it is most remunerative.

QUARREL, THEN JAIL.

Wife Decides to Leave Husband. Writes Check on His Reported Bank Account; Arrested.

Mrs. Gertie Smith had a quarrel with her husband Friday night, and yesterday morning when he told her he had $500 in a bank she decided to get some of it and then leave him. The method she employed to secure the cash resulted in her arrest, and today she is in the City Jail.

After offering a check for $175 to the cashier of a department store she told Nick Harris, a detective, that she always believed a husband must be responsible for any debts his wife may contract and she thought the issuance of a check was the same as a contract.

Mrs. Smith bought new dresses, hats and other clothing valued at $175. When she made her first selection she told the clerk she wanted to do considerable shopping and would give a check for the bill. She did not look the part of a woman with a bank account and the detectives were notified. They waited until she was through buying, and when she presented the check, took her.

At Central Police Station she said she had quarreled with her husband and had threatened to leave him. He said he had $500 in a bank, and, according to her story, said she could draw upon his account.

Mrs. Smith was married to Frank B. Smith at Mobridge, S. D., six months ago. She said she was a toe dancer when she met him. She will be held for further investigation.

SPEEDERS SOAKED.

More Than Score of Reckless Drivers in Court—Chief Says Crusade Will Continue.

More than a score of violators of the traffic laws appeared before Police Judge Frederickson yesterday morning and each one was fined. The speeders drew the heaviest penalties, one man being compelled to pay $40 for driving nearly forty miles an hour through the business district.

The Chief declared that the crusade against traffic violators will be continued until autoists learn to respect the law. During the past ten days nearly 500 of them have been arrested and given heavy doses.

Traffic Officer Butler said the campaign will result in a great deal of good. "I have always argued that the enforcement of the existing laws is all that is necessary to stop the recklessness of drivers," he said. "We do not need any more laws. Just enforce those that are on the books now and drivers will soon have the proper respect for the law."

Among those fined yesterday are David Corey, $10; Lawrence Lawson, $10; J. A. McBride, $40; Edmund Peterson, $10; H. M. Lippman, $10; L. D. Hitchens, $10; Albert Islab, $10; E. C. Hoffman, $10; John Catino, $25; Will Chambers, $25.

SUDDEN DEATH
Caused by Disease of the Kidneys

The close connection which exists between the heart and the kidneys is well known nowadays. As soon as kidneys are diseased, arterial tension is increased and the heart functions are attacked. When the kidneys no longer pour forth waste, uremic poisoning occurs, and the person dies and the cause is often given as heart disease, or disease of brain or lungs.

It is a good insurance against such a risk to send 10 cents for a sample package of "An-uric"—the latest discovery of Dr. Pierce. Also send a sample of your water. This will be examined without charge by expert chemists at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. When you suffer from backache, frequent or scanty urine, rheumatic pains here or there, or that constant tired, worn-out feeling, it's time to write Dr. Pierce, describe your symptoms and get his medical opinion—without charge and absolutely free. This "An-uric" of Dr. Pierce's is 37 times more active than lithia, for it dissolves uric acid in the system, as hot water does sugar.

Simply ask for Dr. Pierce's An-uric Tablets. There can be no imitation. Every package of "An-uric" is sure to be Dr. Pierce's. You will find the signature on the package just as you do on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the ever-famous friend to ailing women.

WORRY, DESPONDENCY.

Kidney Disease is suspected by medical men when patients complain of backache or suffer with irregular urination, disturbed, too frequent, scanty or painful passage. The general symptoms are rheumatic pains or neuralgia, headaches, dizzy spells, irritability, despondency, weakness and general misery. Worry is a frequent cause and sometimes a symptom of kidney disease. Thousands have testified to immediate relief from these symptoms after using Dr. Pierce's An-uric Kidney Tablets.—[Advertisement.

ITCHING OF ECZEMA ON BACK

Intense. Gradually Spreading. Almost Unbearable. Skin Thick and Rough.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"About a year ago I broke my leg and while confined to my bed, eczema of the dry type made its appearance on one side of the small of my back, and sometime later on the back of each knee. It started in very small spots, gradually spreading, with the skin growing thick and rough. The itching was so intense as to be almost unbearable, at times compelling me to scratch and rub the parts sometimes fifteen or twenty minutes before I could rest.

"I received a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which gave so much relief that I got more. The itching has entirely disappeared and the rough skin peeled off." (Signed) J. M. Miller, 3249 Hayward Pl., Denver, Colo., Feb. 18, 1915.

Keep your face young by daily use of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Oct. 23.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 30.09; at 5 p.m., 30.04. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 51 deg. and 68 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 100 per cent.; 5 p.m., 82 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., northeast, velocity 5 miles; 5 p.m., south, velocity 6 miles. Highest temperature, 72 deg.; lowest, 48 deg. Rainfall for season, trace; last season, .20 of an inch. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The immense field of high pressure over the central portion of the United States still remains the controlling feature of the weather. The area of low pressure over New England, in conjunction with the great high area, brought fresh northeasterly gales to the region about New York City. Between the western boundary of the central high area and the eastern limits of another well-defined high area an elongated depression appears. This area of low pressure has two centers; one over Northern Washington and another in the region of the valley of the Colorado River. This distribution of pressure gave rain to the Pacific Coast as far south as San Francisco. The greatest precipitation, .70 of an inch, occurred at Eureka. In Southern California, dense fog resulted south of Point Concepcion. The weather in Los Angeles and vicinity will continue fair Sunday, with fog in the morning.

LOCAL FORECAST.

For Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair, except for intervals of fog, Sunday; westerly winds.

For Southern California: Fair Sunday.

STATE FORECAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—Weather forecast: San Francisco and vicinity, Sacramento, Santa Clara and San Joaquin valleys: Fair Sunday; light northwest wind.

Southern California: Fair Sunday; light west wind.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It.

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today. Mark H. Jackson, No. 270 B Gurney Building. Syracuse, N. Y.

RADIANT PREMIER OF BROADWAY AUTOMOBILE AND FLOWER SHOW.

WONDROUS FLORAL EXHIBIT OF BEWILDERING LOVELINESS.

Ten Thousand See What Critics Acclaim Epoch-making Display of Aristocrats from Realm of Queen Flora—Prizes Adjudged.

TEN THOUSAND PERSONS crowded their way into the old Boston Store building yesterday for the opening of the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show. They found more than a hundred automobiles, two acres of flowers, scores of tastefully decorated booths, a thousand pleasing odds and ends, and pressing need for a vocabulary made up exclusively of synonyms for the word beautiful.

Imagine all the aristocrats of the world of flowers pressed together in one Brobdingnagian armful of loveliness, and you have the flower show epitomized. Imagine the patricians among automobiles all shown together and you have the motor car division of the big show reduced to common essentials.

Imagine all these, then add pretty women, the lilt of a waltz arising in seductive strains from the foyer, a forest of redwood branches as a background, three and one-half miles of redwood rope overhead, and you have the show in all its three dimensions of perfection.

The wonder of it all is that nobody thought of it before—the com- of flower show, in the land gets the sun daily on pleasing of glory, with a display of mo- cars in that patch of old earth they blossom freest to the

"Add to our good old title, 'The of Sunshine,' the items fruit, and motor cars," said Council- Conwell, the director-general of show.

"The International Flower Show at York can't surpass it, for they the stuff," said William Her- one of the judges in the flower Incidentally, Mr. Hertrick one of the judges at the last New show, which, heretofore, has the Derby of its kind.

"This country has never before seen display of flowers," said Super- of Parks Shearer, another

"A revelation," said Ernest Braun- the third judge. "There are here that have never before shown outside of the conserva- of the very rich or in vast pub- collections."

The praise is just. The floral show living garden calendar, to which visitor is privileged to supply quotations of "Through the with the Flowers." It is a chal- to the amateur and professional alike. It furnishes ideals in floriculture for the world; high, shining marks of perfection to try for.

The pity of it all is that the show is local, a fact that was commented on, with regretful inflections of the voice, by those best able to appreciate the perfection of the 'mums, the roses, the dahlias, the thousand other flowers and shrubs shown.

DELIGHT OF THOUSANDS.

But Los Angeles put its stamp of approval on the show yesterday, from the dinner-table exhibit in one end to the military-aeroplane exhibit in the other. The doors opened at 2 o'clock to admit an eager host, some, doubtless, who came to criticise, but all of whom remained to pray that Queen Flora would look down benignantly upon their efforts to grow roses or 'mums as perfect as those shown, or that the god of pelf would inject them into the tonneau of some appreciated 1916 model.

Throughout the afternoon thousands of approving treaded the trails pointed out by the diamond-shaped signs of the Automobile Club of Southern California. As evening fell there was a lull, then came the men in their staid evening dresses of expansive shirt bosoms and frocked coats, and the women in those glorious 1915 creations for evening wear. As the orchestra drifted into the strains of "Traviata" one had but to close one's eyes to awaken to the conviction that here was one of the prettiest sights that incandescent lighting ever looked down on.

But the opening of the affair, the wonders revealed, brought nothing more interesting than the prefatory work. Chrysanthemums were carried in like so many bales of cordwood; tubbed shrubs that its takes generations to grow were rolled in like mere commercial things. But the show has a commercial end; a very real one.

HUNTINGTON SHOWING.

In the display from the unrivalled gardens of the H. E. Huntington estate at San Marino are a mere $100,000 worth of plants; specimens, many of them, that, like first folio editions of Shakespeare, never come on the market except through the division of some Croesian estate or in response to a check of such generous proportions that the plant might, metaphorically, be said to be gold leafed.

From the hinterland of Africa, from the wide-spreading pampas of South America, from the Antipodes, from Europe, from Asia, as well as from little-known parts of our own country, these plants have been gathered until the collection surpasses any ever shown in this country. But no less interesting than the collection is a talk with William Hertrick, the Huntington master gardener, who gathered many of the specimens.

"Some of these plants are known in only one or two collections, some in no others," said Mr. Hertrick, yesterday, as he surveyed the 2000 square feet of space occupied by the Huntington display. "Plants in many cases, are like art treasures—there are one or two specimens extant. They are unobtainable, except through propagation and nurture stretching over many years, or through the dispersal of some noted collection."

But other collections yield not a

THERE were several features incorporated in the floral exhibit that had not at first been planned by the committee. These consisted of a tractor aeroplane of the approved military style owned by Glenn L. Martin on the fourth floor and the Ladies Orchestra which was stationed on the second floor.

After a careful and painstaking appraisal of the multitude of floral offerings the judges awarded the following prizes:

A cup was given to the Park Department of Los Angeles for the best floral and plant display ever made by any municipality in the West. The H. E. Huntington estate received a cup for the most remarkable and valuable collection of tropical and semi-tropical plants ever shown in the United States. The women of Van Nuys were made the recipients of a handsome cup for the magnificent rose display that they placed on exhibition.

The general prizes, beautiful cups valued at the amounts stated, were distributed among the winning exhibitors in the order named:

Cut roses: best display, $50, Mrs. R. E. Whitley; best vase of six white roses, $10, Mrs. A. F. Giroux; best vase of six red roses, $10, Mrs. R. E. Whitley; best vase of six pink roses, $10, Mrs. Frank Lewin; best vase of six yellow roses, $10, Helen Rosenkranze.

The Solo Apollo
Fills Two Great Needs:

The need for a Piano, the tone of which is the utmost in purity and quality.

The need for a Player Piano which shall faithfully reproduce the handiwork of the greatest artists.

The most discriminating musicians eagerly concede that the Solo Apollo is faultless in both of these important requirements.

Remember That—

The Apollo is the only player piano with the "down touch"—the only player piano that eliminates pedaling on the re-wind of the roll—the only player piano that enables you to omit or accent the melody and play the accompaniment in eight different keys.

Mrs. Otis Hunley, Poultry Expert, to Give Another Free Lecture at 433 South Hill Street, Tuesday Evening, October 26th.

A fascinating and highly-educational lecture will be given free to the public by Mrs. Otis Henley, noted poultry expert, Tuesday evening, October 26, in the large ground floor lecture hall at 433 South Hill street. Colored views of the $30,000,000 Los Angeles aqueduct, from source to mouth, will also be exhibited.

The lecture and motion-picture exhibition is given under the management of the Angeles Mesa Land Company, now engaged in the colonization and development of the famous San Fernando Mission lands. Several hundred thousand dollars' worth of this close-in suburban property has been sold recently to practical ranchers, suburban farm seekers, local and eastern investors. It is being sold at $300 an acre and upwards, with Los Angeles aqueduct water supply. Lecture begins promptly at 7:45 p.m.

CHURCH CHIEFS TO FOREGATHER.

Score of Methodist Bishops Coming to Southland.

Conclave in San Diego, then Three Meetings Here.

Visitors will Occupy Many Pulpits Sunday Week.

About twenty of the twenty-five active bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America will be in Southern California this week to attend a series of important meetings in this city and San Diego. After attending their semi-annual conclave, which will open in the southern city Thursday, the entire party of distinguished churchmen will come to Los Angeles for a stay of ten days in this vicinity.

There are three events in Los Angeles which the bishops will attend en masse—a banquet to be given under the auspices of the general executive of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society the evening of November 1 at Hamburger's cafe; a 1000-plate banquet to be given at the same place the following evening by the young people of the Epworth leagues, and the meeting of the General Committee of the Foreign Missionary Society November 5 at the First Methodist Church.

The Methodists of Los Angeles and its suburbs will enjoy an unusual privilege Sunday, November 7, when the visiting bishops will preach in the various churches. Bishop William A. Quayle, noted throughout Methodism for his red hair and eloquence, will preach at the First Methodist Church that evening.

Only one or two of the seven missionary bishops of the church are expected to attend the forthcoming meetings. The missionary bishops differ from the bishops in the home land in that the authority of each of the former class is limited to certain territory. The authority of the twenty-five bishops in America is general in the church.

All the regularly active Methodist ministers in the United States are appointed to their respective charges by these bishops. The particular conferences over which each bishop is to preside is determined at the bishops' semiannual meeting. This is the Episcopal meeting which is to be held in San Diego. At this meeting it will be determined what particular spring conferences each of these twenty-one bishops is to conduct.

The residential area plan has only recently been adopted by the Methodists. Each bishop is still the bishop for the whole church, but the Episcopal Committee, which is the creation of the quadrennial or general conference, determines where each bishop is to reside during each quadrennial term. The bishops may be returned to their residential districts any number of times by succeeding general conferences.

This principle in the Methodist economy makes it plain that Methodist bishops, at least, do not speak with ex-cathedra authority. They are under the control and direction of the general conference, which is the supreme law-making body of the Methodist Church for the entire world. The Methodists pride themselves on the democratic nature of their ecclesiastical government. No bishop is allowed to participate in deliberations on any question which may come before the general conference.

These guests, who are to be soon in Southern California, are all interesting men, and most of them men of great gifts and power. They represent millions of earnest men and women of the denomination in all parts of the world. The great Scottish poet-preacher and orator, Bishop Robert McIntire, will be missed and mourned in this meeting. In his lifetime he was a unique and conspicuous figure among them and greatly loved by the entire board of bishops. Methodists of Los Angeles take pride in the fact that Robert McIntire was chosen from the First Methodist Church of this city eight years ago, at the general conference in Baltimore, to be a bishop. It is deemed highly fitting that his fellow-bishops should have their meeting in this region so soon after his death.

Following are sketches of the bishops to participate in the meeting at San Diego:

Earl Cranston is the senior member of the board and his residence is in Washington, D. C. He was a loyal soldier of the Union in the '60's. He is the chief leader in the movement which is now thoroughly on, to bring together the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. According to the law of the church Bishop Cranston will probably retire from the active ranks of the episcopacy at the general conference in Saratoga next May, by limitation of years.

John W. Hamilton, who resides in Boston, is remembered by Californians as the administrator who preceded Bishop Hughes in San Francisco. Bishop Hamilton will also probably retire by limitation at the next general conference. It is of interest that he has a brother, the Rev. Franklin Hamilton, D.D., LL.D., of Washington, D. C., who is one of the educational leaders in Methodism, as chancellor of the American University in Washington, D. C. New England Methodists favor this big brother of the bishop as his successor to the episcopacy. It is considered very likely he will be chosen one of the new bishops.

Joseph F. Berry of Philadelphia is the editor of the episcopacy. He was the first editor of the Epworth Herald, the young people's paper. When he was in charge it reached the widest circulation of any young people's religious paper in the world.

William F. McDowell was chosen to the bishopric from the office of educational secretary. Before that he was president of the Denver University.

William Burt has his residence in Buffalo, N. Y. Before his election to the bishopric he was for many years the president of the Methodist College in Rome, Italy.

Luther B. Wilson was chosen to the episcopacy from a New England presiding eldership. He is the secretary of the Episcopal Board and national president of the Anti-Saloon League.

William F. Anderson resides in Cincinnati. He was elected to his present office from the educational secretaryship.

John L. Nuelsen, a German, has his residence in Zurich, Switzerland. He is one of the youngest of the bishops elected in Baltimore eight years ago.

DISTINCTIVE MAN.

William A. Quayle's episcopal residence is in St. Paul, Minn. He was born in Parkville, Mo. He is red-headed and would have a distinct look in any company of 1000 men. He is conceded to be the most popular bishop on the board. He is a prolific author and popular preacher. As a prairie boy he worked his way through Baker University in Kansas. Soon after graduation he became president of that university. He went from there to the pastorate of Independence-avenue Methodist Church in Kansas City. From this church he was asked to the pastorate of Meridan-street Church, Indianapolis. After some years in Indianapolis he was invited back to Kansas City to the Grand-avenue Church, whence, after a few years, he was called and appointed to the great St. James Church in Chicago. From this pastorate he was chosen as one of the youngest of the new bishops at the Baltimore conference eight years ago.

Edwin H. Hughes is one of the youngest bishops on the board. He was elected from the DePauw University, of which he was president. He is an effective speaker and is closing his second quadrennium as the resident Methodist bishop of California with residence at San Francisco.

Frank M. Bristol's residence is in Omaha, Neb. He is an author and speaker of note. He served ten years as pastor in the Metropolitan Church—"The Church of the Presidents"—in Washington, D. C., where he was President McKinley's pastor.

Homer C. Stuntz resides in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He is an outstanding missionary.

Theodore S. Henderson was for many years a prominent pastor whose work was characterized by evangelistic success. He stands at the head of the Evangelistic Commission. His episcopal residence is in Chattanooga, Tenn.

William O. Shepard resides in Kansas City, Kan. He was elected to the office he now fills from the superintendency of the Chicago district. Bishop Shepard's son is a member of the faculty of the University of Southern California.

Naphtali Luccock was elected from a Kansas City pastorate. His residence is in Helena, Mont. He served many years as pastor of the Union Methodist Church in St. Louis.

F. J. McConnell resides in Denver. He came to the office he now holds from the presidency of DePauw University. Bishop McConnell has written a number of semitheological books.

Frederick D. Leete has his residence in Atlanta, Ga. He is thoroughly evangelistic and came to the episcopacy from a prominent Detroit pastorate. He is one of the youngest of the bishops.

Richard J. Cooke resides in Portland, Or. He was book editor of the Methodist Episcopal Church when he was chosen to the bishopric. He is a strong writer and a very pronounced and determined man, having fought his way from a childhood full of hardships.

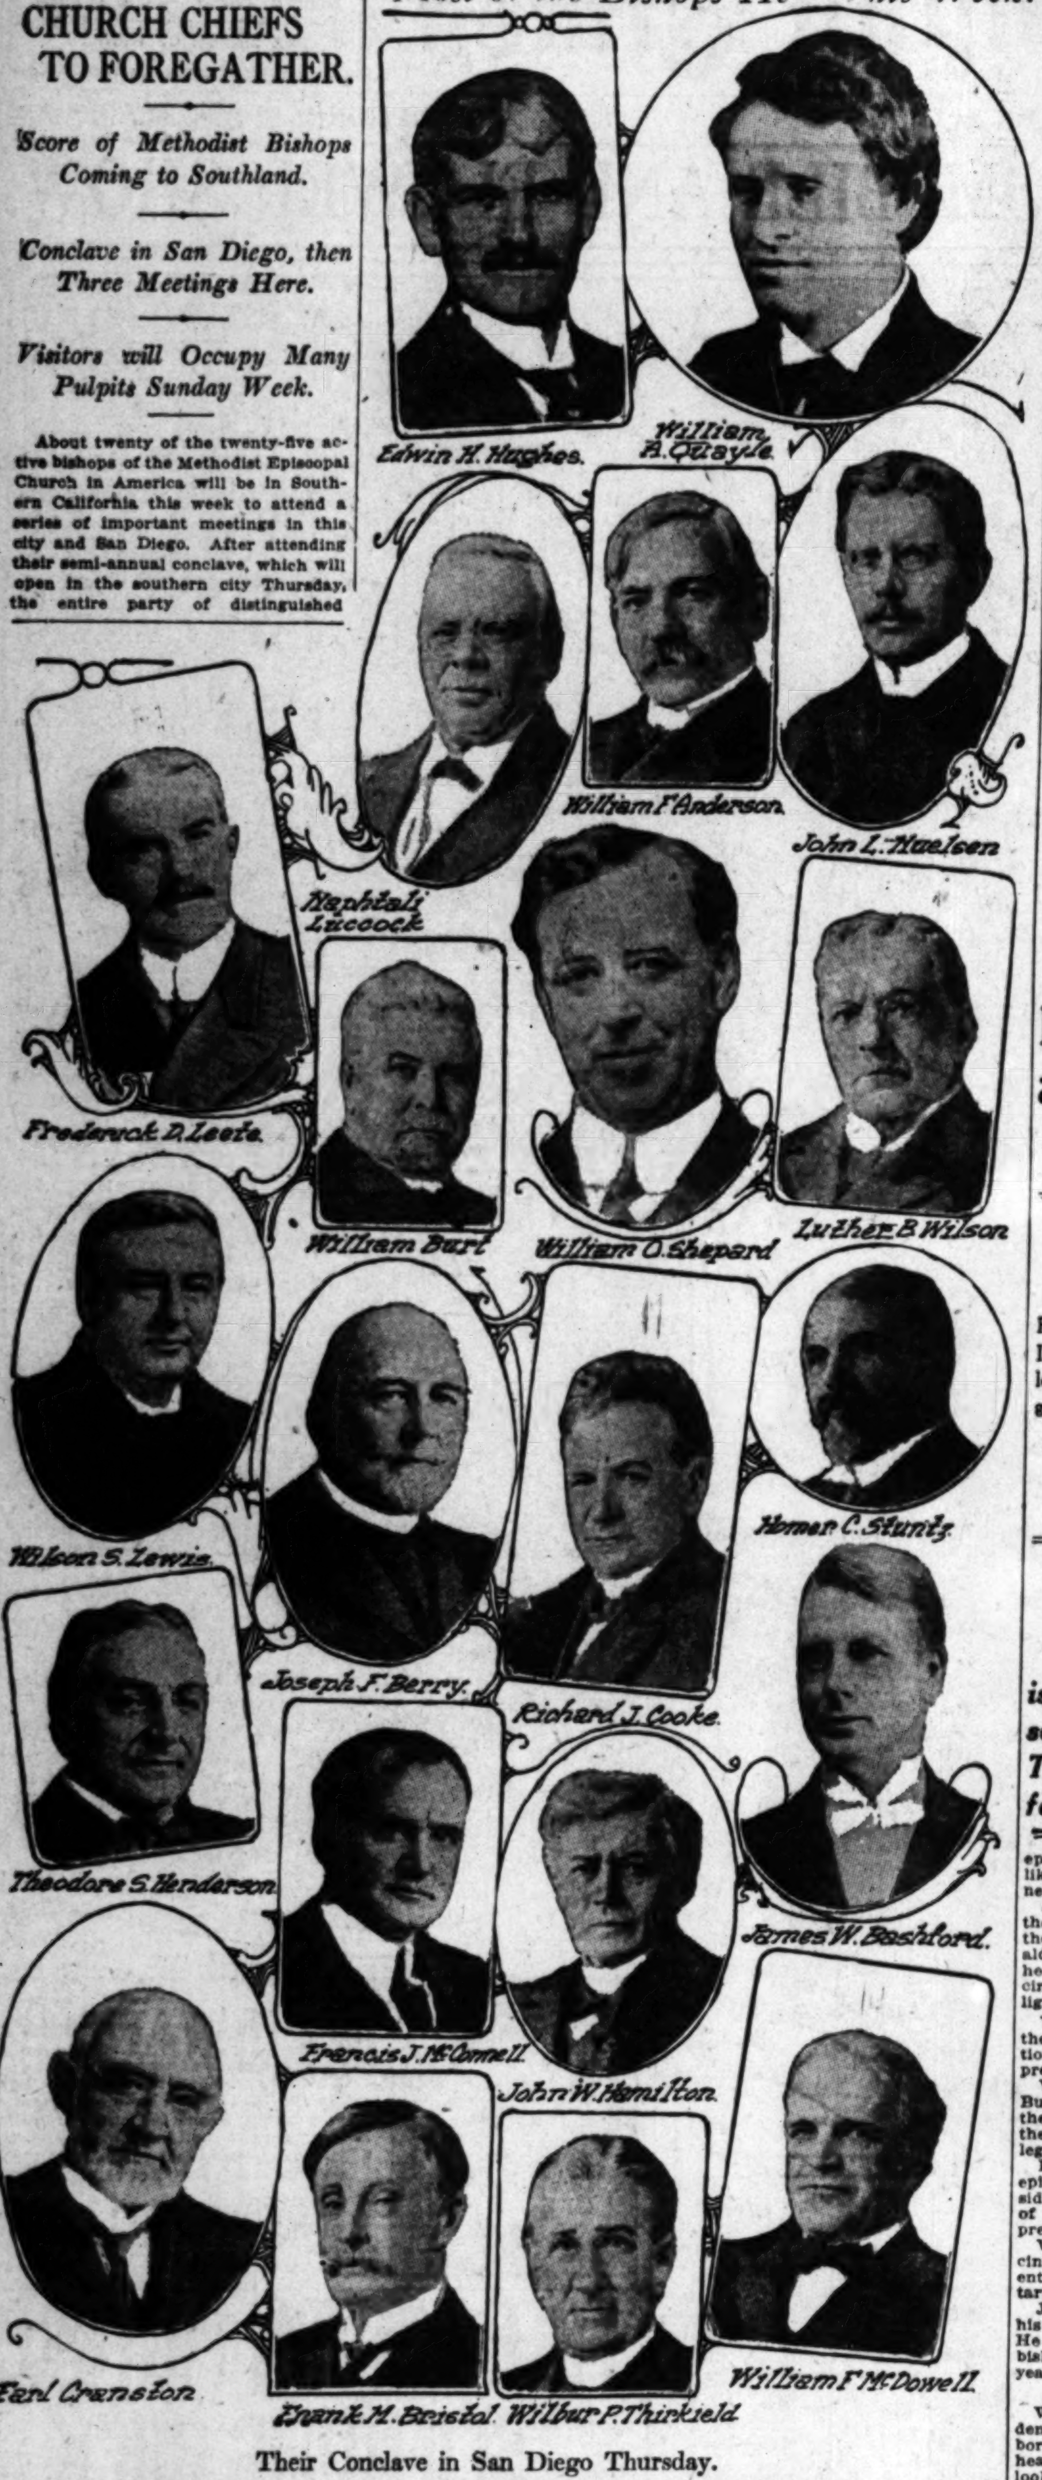
Wilbur F. Thirkield occupies the episcopal residence in New Orleans. He was a prominent and successful educator of the negroes for many years. He has written a bok on "Ministerial Personality."

WHO WILL BE CHOSEN?

Two deaths, those of Bishop McIntire and Bishop Smith, have created vacancies in the episcopacy during the quadrennium and Bishops Cranston and Hamilton will retire by limitation, and in view of the fact that two or three of the active bishops are in frail health, it is thought that at least six new bishops, and possibly seven, will be chosen next spring at the general conference. Speculation is now rife as to who these new bishops will be.

Among those whose names have been brought forward are: Rev. Franklin Hamilton of Washington, Dr. Thomas Nicholson, educational secretary, New York City; Dr. Tipple, Dr. Charles Edward Locke, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Los Angeles; Dr. Andrew Gillies of Minneapolis, Dr. C. B. Mitchell, Bishop Quayle's successor in St. James Church, Chicago; Dr. Edwin A. Schell, a prominent college president of Iowa.

Most of the Bishops Here This Week.



Their Conclave in San Diego Thursday.

Twenty-one of the twenty-five active heads of the Methodist Episcopal Church in all parts of America, who will have an important meeting in the southern city to determine over which conference each is to preside. This will be followed by many meetings in Los Angeles for about ten days.

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY.

About thirty members of the staff of the California Furniture Company celebrated the tenth anniversary of this company Friday evening with a banquet at Christopher's. A. H. Voigt, president of the corporation, was toastmaster, and the speakers were A. A. Eckstrom, vice-president; John R. White, E. J. Cheesewright, H. Neustadt, Dean Cady, J. E. Coffin, R. W. Chubbock, A. C. Smith, H. W. Frank and Edward Strasburg. The entire organization of this concern pledged itself to work to make the next ten years even more successful than the first decade in this corporation's history.

BEVERLY HILLS BURGLARY.

During the absence of Mrs. Palmer G. Wood, widow of the late Gen. Wood, and her daughter, Mrs. L. N. Magee, from their home at No. 521 Canyon drive at Beverly Hills, burglars broke into the place and carried off several hundred dollars' worth of silverware and other articles of value. Samuel Bonsall, a neighbor, discovered the broken window and after notifying the women, who were visiting in Los Angeles, called up the Sheriff's office.

At $25

Women who have lived in Los Angeles for years and years tell us they have never before seen such suits as we had a week ago at $25.

Yet, the suits we had a week ago at $25 do not compare with the suits that we shall sell for $25, beginning tomorrow.

Without the use of comparative prices, how can we tell you that suits like these are not sold for $25, that they can't be made to sell at $25, that they belong to a different class—carry a distinction, are lined differently and have a cut that does not go into the average $25 suit!

Yet here they are—dozens and dozens of them—few of a style, but scores of styles. Suits that have set Los Angeles by the ears, that are making a reputation for this store that is spreading like wildfire and bringing here that class of women who want distinction and quality and cut and the lasting wear that can only be got out of good tailoring.

$25 Dresses Just as Wonderful

Dresses made of taffeta silk, of satin lined chiffon, of silks combined with Crepe Georgette or made wholly of the soft, satiny silks that the world has declared for this autumn. Dresses for home, for afternoon and for informal evening wear. Tomorrow we expect you to be supercritical. We want you to notice the late changes that are creeping into the styles—the longer waist and the looser fit that is gradually appearing and seems more pronounced each week.

In suits, as in dresses, expect unusual things of us and you will not be disappointed.

Coats at $25—plaid, zibeline, rough homespun, coats of plush, tweeds that look like boucles, coats of every description for informal wear and motoring.

We have not found the match of these anywhere and know you will not find their match unless you pay a much higher price. We want you to be critical—the more critical you are the better we like it—the more certain we shall be of your future interest!

Hats for Afternoon and Evening

The latest fashion notes include gold and silver laces—brims of metallic laces combined with velvets. We have a rich assortment of these at $7.50.

Trimmed hats of silk velvet with a touch of fur or buckles are selling fast at $5.00. Three of the best shapes are the Poke, the Tricorne and large Sailors.

Fashionable Coatings

These are divided into two classes this year:

First, the Homespun or coarse weave, varying from very clear, artistic coarse patterns to patterns that are quite obscure. Nearly all of these have a different dominant color, sometimes with a plaid, besides, that is quite pronounced, showing in the weave.

Second, zibelines, ranging from small plaids of quite gay colors all the way through to black and white zibelines in checks.

The homespuns are used for the overcoats that women are wearing, while the zibelines are used for coats cut on more feminine lines. They vary from 48 to 56 inches in width.

SHINING TO PURPOSE.

Now that pomegranates are ripe and their red meated seeds are showing through their damask rinds, we can see what the sun has been doing all these golden days.

FOR PUBLIC SERVICE.

Now that Los Angeles has two fine museums, it would be wonderful if some process could be developed for getting the people to see the museums and having them make use of the knowledge at their free disposal.

MAKING IT WORK.

James Montgomery, author of "Ready Money" and other plays, is in Los Angeles. We envy Mr. Montgomery because once, after he wrote a play that said you only had to demand something in order to get it, he immediately fell heir to a large fortune, not left him by a press agent.

A MORATORIUM.

If the "Passion Play" is performed in Germany this year the part of Christ will have to be performed by an understudy, for the usual delineator of the Savior has been shot while fighting in the German army. They are also shy a Judas Iscariot, the actor who impersonated him having deserted to the Russians.

HIS WORK CUT OUT.

One correction of abuse sadly needed in Mexico is the old system whereby men may be held in slavery for debts. Some of those poor devils are sometimes owned for as much as seven years while trying to show a profit of some $10 above their keep. If Carranza wants to keep his country out of war he must eradicate the evils that made the war.

IN NO DANGER.

It is too bad that President Eliot of Harvard has retired or we could put his case in the hands of the Society for the Suppression of College Professors and Their Fool Remarks. He says that military training is not good for schoolboys. He need not worry. The average boy who carries a light rifle fifteen minutes a day and wears a bright uniform is not in the slightest danger of absorbing an un-American military spirit, nor will he get exercise enough from it to hurt him.

UNPREPAREDNESS.

Mr. Henry Ford advocates "unpreparedness" as the best means of saving this nation from the horrors of war. Surely a man of his intellectual caliber cannot be serious in this contention. Nations inclined to militarism, knowing that should the issue be forced we can beat them at the war game, will be more likely to listen to our demands for universal arbitration at the end of the present horror in Europe. After all, peace for America alone is not the sole object of the nobler and higher pacificism. But beyond that we are looking to the era of peace for every nation in the world. Unpreparedness in any cause is a poor servant and a hard master.

NOT OF LASTING QUALITY.

Gratitude between nations is short lived and rare. They do too much protesting about their affection and admiration for one another while they are in alliance, and are too quickly swayed by expediency when the common danger is past. Bulgaria has to thank Russia that she is an independent state at all and not still under the Turkish yoke. Yet Bulgaria is now lined up with her old oppressor against her former deliverer. Nations follow religiously the advice of the fool in King Lear: "The great wheel that goes up the hill, let him draw thee after." Another decade will probably show the sincerity in the present backpatting among the groups of the temporary war partners.

REASONS FOR SEIZURE OF MEAT.

Great Britain has advanced a commercial reason for seizing and confiscating the meats consigned by the Chicago packers to Scandinavian ports. It is that if American meats are permitted to find a market in German cities, where the prices of meat are high, they will not be shipped to British ports where the prices are low, and as a result the prices in England will be forced upward, to the detriment of the British consumers.

Another reason given for seizing the Chicago shipments was that the fat bacon, besides being of value for army ration, was in much demand in Germany as being the raw material of glycerine, which is the most important constituent of explosives. Who would have thought of it?

A BAD OUTLOOK.

Mr. McKenna states that the cost of the British navy for the ensuing fiscal year will be $950,000,000; of the army, $3,575,000,000; of external advances, $2,115,000,000; for ordinary national service, $850,000,000; for pre and post moratorium bills, $180,000,000—in all $7,490,000,000. To this must be added interest amounting to $440,000,000 at an average of 4 per cent. on the present national debt of $11,000,000,000. From this should be deducted the revenues, amounting to about $1,000,000,000, and the debt of Great Britain will be, at the end of the fiscal year, about $18,000,000,000, which is eighteen times that of the United States. It is about $400 for every man, woman and child, or $2000 for every adult male in the United Kingdom—a bad outlook for investors in the Franco-British loan.

LAVISH WITH OTHER FOLKS' MONEY

Years ago there was a bacchanal song somewhat to this effect:

"Hey waiter, a dozen more bottles.
Let's give the ladies a jolly good spree.
My father's a boodler; so let 'er go Gallagher!
Damn the expense! Put it all down to me."

The three Supervisors who are seeking to fasten a $2,000,000 bond issue on the taxpayers of Los Angeles county seem to be inspired by the "Let 'er go Gallagher" and the "Damn the expense" sentiments of that revelling old song. There is a total absence of regard for ordinary business prudence in preparing the basis for their plan. They do not know what their various proposed roads will cost. They have guessed at costs, which cannot be settled by guessing, because payment will have to be made in very precise dollars. In many cases they do not even know the distance in miles between termini of the roads they have pledged to construct for a certain amount. In the case of thirteen of the twenty-one roads they have scheduled, not even a pretense of a survey has been made. With one exception, even where surveys have been made, the records of the county road department show that these have been only preliminary. The roads, as planned, would probably cost nearer $6,000,000 than $2,850,000. The bond issue would be but a beginning.

Mountain road-building is proverbially difficult to estimate. Only the most thorough examination and most exhaustive calculations can at all be depended upon. Yet the proponents of these bonds, on no information nor ground for belief, have pledged nearly $1,000,000 of the people's money—in case the bonds are approved at the election next Tuesday.

Three-fourths of the entire issue of $2,850,000 represented by the proposed bonds are devoted to the construction of mountain roads—and that at an estimate so undependable there is sound reason to fear the expenditure would be vastly greater. The plan is amazingly imprudent.

It is notorious that the three Supervisors originally contemplated a smaller bond issue, and proposed supplying fewer than twenty-one new roads. But threats of opposition compelled them to add new beneficiaries, with extravagant additions to the bond total.

OUR FRIGHTFUL TAX BURDENS.

Suddenly we seem to have passed back to the time of the Pharaohs when a messenger bearing bad news to court was beheaded for his temerity. Last week Secretary of State Frank Jordan gave to the press a copy of the general revenue bills covering the State tax levy for the last eighteen years. These show that for twelve years under Govs. Gillett, Pardee and Gage the total State tax levy was $81,142,584, and that the State tax levy for the last six years under Gov. Johnson is $90,490,294.

No sooner did this appear in print than the old cry went up from the money changers of the administration. "Crucify him! Crucify him!" Chairman Neylan of the State Board of Control was selected as the official executioner. He promptly caused to be prepared and sent out to the 125 papers of the "Progressive" subsidized press a statement headed "Frank Jordan's Fifty-Million-Dollar Fake." The substance of the article accused Jordan of furnishing misinformation to the press in that he did not take into account a sum of about $50,000,000 that was raised during the twelve years under Republican Governors from other than direct tax levies.

That this amount had been raised through licenses, special taxes and sale of bonds was true; and it furnished an ideal administration argument. But the trick resorted to in its use is one of the worst forms of falsehood; it is termed in our State penal laws "misrepresentation through trick and device." Suppression of the truth is just as false as open perjury. Chairman Neylan conveyed through that statement the impression that the $90,000,000 expended under Gov. Johnson covered the whole of the State revenue from every source, while the $81,000,000 spent by the State under the FOUR Republican Governors covered only a portion of the State revenue.

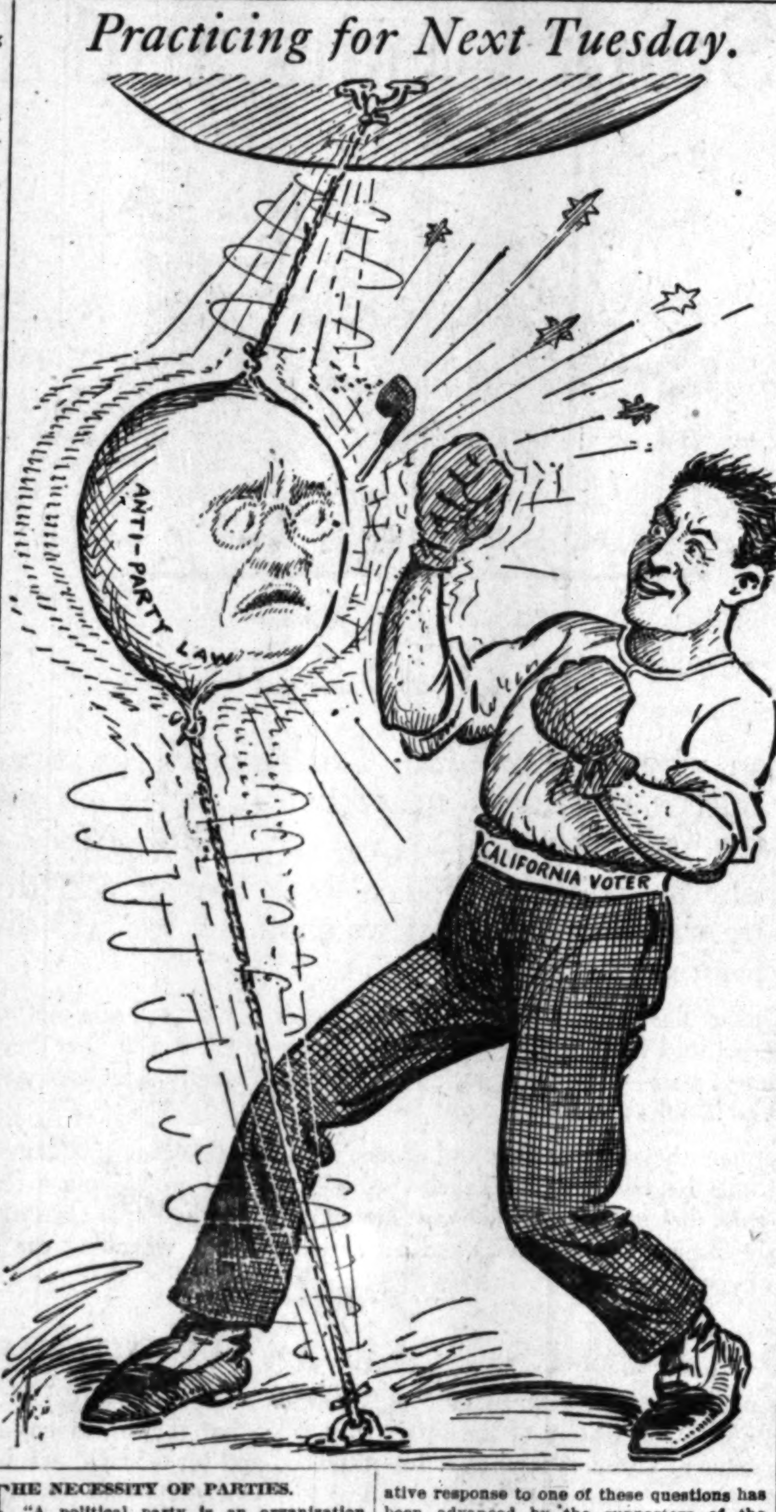
In making that statement Mr. Neylan had before him the reports of the State Controller showing that during the last five years under Johnson more than $70,000,000 has been raised from other than general revenue bills. This money came from sources similar to those from which the $50,000,000 under the Republican Governors was derived AND WOULD MAKE THE DISCREPANCY NOT $9,000,000 BUT $29,000,000!

Chairman Neylan laid great stress on the fact that the poll tax and special university tax were not included in the general revenue bills under the Republican Governors. These averaged less than $1,500,000 a year; but he said not one word about the motor vehicle tax and the fish and game licenses which are not included in the general revenue bills under Gov. Johnson and which total more than $2,000,000 a year. When it comes to the suppression of damaging facts the administration press censor is not a whit behind his prototypes in London and Berlin. Administration papers are forced to submit to this censorship under penalty of losing their cut in State patronage and advertising appropriations.

What interests the taxpayers in this controversy, however, is how much money was collected in State revenue in all forms during the present administration and during the former Republican administrations. What was the total bill of expense? Has it increased or diminished? That is the final score which he has to settle, and he is more interested in that than in the expert discussion concerning hits and errors.

Reports by former State Controllers show that the revenue collected for twelve years under Gillett, Pardee and Gage totaled in round numbers $123,000,000. State Controller Chambers's report for 1914 shows that the total revenue collected for the last four years from all sources totaled $101,000,000, or an average of a little more than $25,000,000 a year againts an average of $10,000,000 a year under the Republican Governors. The revenue figures for the present fiscal year have not yet been made public. The State expenses under the last year of Republican rule footed up $18,000,000, those of the fiscal year which closed June 30, 1915, were $36,000,000.

Practicing for Next Tuesday.



THE NECESSITY OF PARTIES.

"A political party is an organization of electors believing in certain principles concerning government affairs and urging the adoption and execution of those principles through the election of their candidates at the polls."

This definition of a political party is contained in a decision of the Supreme Court of California in the case of Socialist Party vs. Uhl, 155 Cal., and it is this that the Young anti-party bills seek to destroy. In another decision, that of Whipple vs. Broad, 25 Cal., the Supreme Court declares further that: "The right of any number of men holding common political beliefs or governmental principles to advocate their views through party organization cannot be denied."

There is nothing equivocal in this language which is a declaration of the fundamental principles on which all free government is founded; but it contrasts strangely with the present attack of the State administration on the right of electors to organize for the purpose of securing the enactment of their common principles and beliefs into State laws through the election of certain indorsed representatives.

Parties are as necessary to State government as steel rods to reinforced concrete; they enable a scattered electorate to unite as a concrete force; and it is the strength of this unity that has wrecked every political machine which has attempted in the past to control one or more of the great American commonwealths. It is to prevent this organization of the electorate that Gov. Johnson and thirty members of his pay-roll brigade have been campaigning up and down California at State expense for the last forty days.

Advised that their efforts to abolish State parties is a direct violation of the Constitution, they have audaciously replied that if they can secure a favorable vote from the electorate at the special election the menace of the recall hanging over the Supreme Court will be sufficient to secure compliant decisions from that body. It is only for high stakes that men play such desperate games; the stake in the present instance is the control of a patronage of 6000 places and the expenditure of $36,000,000 a year in State revenue.

Warnings have come to us from the leaders of all the great national parties that to organize California on anti-party lines in State elections will weaken seriously national party organizations within the State, and that this weakness will entrain a corresponding weakening of the influence of California's delegation at Washington. Those most friendly to California have advised that such action will practically eliminate California from the councils of the nation. For the development of our vast natural resources we require a closer co-operation on the part of the national government; to withdraw the support of the State from the great national organizations is to repulse, not to encourage, that co-operation. As far as our influence in national affairs is concerned it would be a plain case of political suicide.

Will special benefits accrue to us within the State to counterbalance this loss of national prestige and influence? Will our taxes be lessened? Will additional rights be conferred on the electorate? Will our legislative and executive officials be made more directly accountable to the electorate for their actions? Will honest poverty be exalted and predatory organizations rebuked? In short, will we receive for the surrender of the right to organize, our hereditary birthright, even the traditional mess of pottage?

Not an argument in support of an affirmative response to one of these questions has been advanced by the supporters of the administration. If there is a desire to separate State and national policies the way is open under the present laws to organize a party to participate in State elections only. Does any citizen desire to present himself as a nonpartisan candidate for a State office? The present election laws provide ample machinery both for partisan and nonpartisan nominations. The very fact that the pay-roll brigade desires to prohibit party nominations is a significant proof that a candidate without party indorsement is weakened and not strengthened in the eyes of the electorate. A fundamental principle of free government is that the people will find what is best for them if but given a free exercise of suffrage. If better officials could be obtained through the election of nonpartisan candidates it would not be necessary to prohibit partisan nominations; the electorate would turn to the nonpartisan candidates of its own free will.

The present spectacle of more than thirty members of the pay-roll brigade going out into the highways and the byways of the State to urge the electors to vote to deny to themselves the right of organization is a striking illustration of the power of organization which patronage affords. The nucleus of that organization is 6000 persons on the State pay roll. Most of the literature of the campaign has been printed in the State printing office at Sacramento and circulated at State expense. Outside this a fund of more than $150,000 was raised from "voluntary assessments" of those holding State jobs. Against this organization is opposed an independent electorate. But it has no pay-roll brigade on which to levy assessments; its literature is barred from the State printing office; it cannot send out thirty citizens on State business, drawing both salary and expense from the State while they campaign against these measures. The special election illustrates one of the weaknesses of republics; it is the contest of a mighty but unorganized mob of taxpayers against a small but well-equipped and provisioned army of tax-eaters.

This contest would be repeated at every State election if the anti-party bills were adopted. That pay-roll brigade is always organized and its members expect assessments for every State election. It will be supported by such organizations as the Royal Arch and the State Federation of Labor. What chance will have an honest and independent candidate of limited means against such an organization? It would cost him more than $50,000 for printing and postage to get his name before the electorate and to defeat professional office-holders. Experience has proved that only by providing the utmost freedom for organization of the electorate can such combinations be successfully combated.

Civil service was perfected in part as a protest against the participation of office-holders in political campaigns. In other States employees are dismissed for taking part in a State election; in California they are threatened with dismissal if they do not participate! But never before has so unblushing an attempt been made to deprive the taxpayers of the right to organize to protect themselves.

It might be well to prepare for the coming of the pantalette. Are they so bad? Surely they are virtuous. The time for the objectors to kick was back in the early Victorian era, when these feminine adornments were the joy of the ballrooms and the boulevards.

AMERICAN BUREAUCRATS.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES]

BY ALBERT BUSHNELL HART,
Professor of Government, Harvard University.

FOR fifty years a fight has been going on against the spoils system in public service, by which most people mean the use of offices as rewards to political workers instead of for the benefit of the public who pay the salaries. Ever since 1883 the United States government has had the system of the classified civil service, under which candidates come into the service on competitive examinations and are promoted according to efficiency. Several States, such as Massachusetts and New York, have adopted the system and, also, many cities and parts of States. This is considered a triumph for reform and good government, and it is a great improvement over the old haphazard system of "pull" and shaking the "plum tree" and "taking the boys in and warming their toes."

While the old evils of partnership in public office and the dismissal of good officials because they did not vote the proper ticket have nearly disappeared out of the Federal service, a new crop of evils has sprung up; and the service is in danger of falling into the officialism and bureaucratic spirit which are so exasperating in the governments of continental Europe. Public servants can no longer be dismissed because the secretary of the department has been hounded by a member of Congress into appointing somebody else for that place; on the other hand, a man once in, who comes when the office opens and stays till the closing hour, is practically in for life, even though he be lazy, stupid and so inefficient that he could not hold a job for a private employer. The service is honeycombed with employees who do just enough to stay in and not enough to make them worth while. In the government service, especially in the departments at Washington, there is a feeling that a man must not be too active, because if everybody works up to a reasonable standard, the whole thing can be done with fewer clerks and somebody will be discharged.

Then there is the dry rot of officialism which has been brought out in a drastic way by the recent manslaughter of about a thousand people by the owners, officers and inspectors of the steamer Eastland. All three of those groups of people knew the steamer was totally unsafe and never ought to be allowed to receive a passenger; but the government inspector was especially guilty because he was appointed and paid to protect the public interest by preventing that ship from doing business. The officers of the ship were comparatively helpless, for, if they complained of their job, they would probably be discharged. The inspectors could have made such a report that the ship would never have left harbor with a passenger on board, if they had chosen to do so. Their defense was that they were required only to report whether the ship was "seaworthy" and that meant whether she was tight, had proper boilers and engines, was provided with life preservers, carried the legal number of officers and men, and so on. They said it was not their business to decide whether she could stand upright in the water.

In this contention Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce seems to have backed them up. Certainly he has not, to the public knowledge, even so much as registered a reproof for failing to call the attention of the department to the crankiness of the ship, which was notorious in the lake ports. To the minds of the inspectors they were there, not for the benefit of public or passengers or human life, but for "the office." They did precisely what their orders required; and, since their orders said nothing expressly about saving a thousand people from drowning, so far as they were concerned they let them drown.

The same spirit extends to many State and civic offices. Where political changes are frequent it is worth while for an official to be civil because that makes him friends who may be useful in the next election. But boards of trustees, wardens of State prisons, county commissioners, commission clerks on permanent tenure and other officials all over the country are acquiring the habit of looking on the public as a set of meddlers who are always wanting to find out something about other people's business. The business of all public officers and officials belongs to the people. They are entitled to know what goes on, and they pay for civility and assistance from officials. The postoffice, in general, comes close to the people, and the clerks at the windows and the letter carriers mostly recognize their obligation to the public. The customhouse officers are inclined to be brusque and domineering.

Unless the public takes alarm we shall have, in both the State and national service, a bureaucracy like that of France and Italy and Russia in which people are governed by rules and procedures and administrative orders, carried out by a body of public employees who feel that the government exists in order that they may have places.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

BEDTIME STORIES.

Long years ago, when I was small, not more than forty inches tall, an ancient woman used to tell fierce goblin stories passing well. Before I went to roost at night, she'd spring those yarns with keen delight, and all the long dark night I'd dream of horrid shapes, each one a scream. And now that I am old and gray, and bent and worn and full of hay, I fear the dark and all its hosts of witches weird and sheeted ghosts, and only daylight can disperse the things that make the night a curse. And oftentimes I go and fume around that foolish beldame's tomb, and tell her—though she cannot hear—how she made night a thing of fear. And even as we go to press fool dames are sowing long distress, by telling kids, in solemn tones, dark tales of ghosts and bats and bones. Oh, tell the children pleasant tales of silver ships with purple sails, that come across the sunlit seas to bring them dolls and Christmas trees. WALT MASON.

30,000 Square Feet Selling Space Devoted to Toys and Dolls Only

The Entire Fifth Floor

—It is fitting that the great Toy Department of the Broadway should grow in proportion to this business. We've never had enough space in which to handle the great throngs of holiday shoppers, who have looked to the Broadway as heaquarters for toys and dolls.

—This year the entire fifth floor has been given over to Toy Town.

—And don't let any one make you believe that there is to be a shortage of toys. You wouldn't think so if you saw the great shipments of them that are here.

ARTHUR LETTS
The Broadway Department Store
BROADWAY, FOURTH AND HILL.

—Come and get acquainted with the completeness of this Toy stock.

—Bring the children and let them enjoy themselves to their heart's content.

Collier's Glorifies California

—Do we, who live in California, appreciate what the outside world thinks of our glorious State? Here are a few excerpts from an editorial in Collier's magazine of this last week.

—"About one-sixth of our entire population will have looked around the Californit Expositions and found them very good. But have either the visitors or the absentees seen California? You ought to get out on some hilly by-road between vineyards where the evening air is heavy with the smell of grapes and the sun is setting in glory behind the Coast Range.

—"In the flat and fertile fields of the Sacramento the sun will blister your back in harvest time through two flannel shirts, but there isn't a colder wind anywhere than blows across the high dour cattle lands about Mt. Shasta.

—"People live and like it in California and that is the chief industry of the State.

—"The electrical engineers have done wonders at the expositions but what are all their lighting effects compared to the velvety splendor of a clear California night? Stars like the magic of a poet's dream and a wind that is the marching song of the spheres, and about you a rich, deep-hearted land that rivets the love of those it claims—that is the true California! but no one ever saw it indoors or under lights or from the windows of a limited train."

PS FOR VOTERS ON BALLOT PROPOSITIONS.

HE history of elections in California during the last six years shows that when a great number of measures are to be voted upon, interest usually centers in one or two, thus sending into the most of the other propositions on the ballot. The danger is red when it is too late.

n the present campaign, which ends October 26, the people are d upon to express their will upon an even dozen propositions. t interest has centered in two of them, those bearing upon the subject of eliminating party lines in California. Ten others, how- are important and should be treated with intelligent thought action.

The Times, following its custom of guiding its readers to the of its ability, honestly and independently, through the confusing of the modern California ballot, presents a list of the amend- and propositions, with advice as to the best manner in which to d when in the voting booth on election day. The advice here to voters is the result of careful study of each of the propo- as they appear on the ballot, and is given with the aim of ing both the individual and the State.

o. 1. Referendum of direct primary law. It eliminates political lines in election of State officers. Its purpose is plainly to party lines for the purpose of adding to the confusion of the and giving the existing officeholders' machine a stranglehold the public pay roll. This proposition is neither safe nor sane. It posed by the best thought in political economy and is supported by those in office. Its adoption would bring political anarchy California and would make this State the spawning ground for nner of crookedness. Vote No.

o. 2. Form of ballot law, also held up by referendum. It is t of the party-destroying measure which precedes it and should ed with equal vigor and force. Vote No.

o. 3. Extending term of Superior judges from six to twelve . This idea is contrary to the principles of a democracy, and sed for the same reason that it creates an officeholders' trust becomes too far removed from the people. Some judges are on bench too long under the six-year term. Vote No.

o. 4. Eliminates short term of judges. Our Constitution now s a flaw in regard to the terms of judges. It leaves a freak term of sixty days between election and the time of taking office. fall the ballot was burdened with the names of candidates for freak terms. In the interest of shorter ballot and of simplifying der of succession on the bench this amendment should be adopted. Yes.

o. 5. Authorizes the Legislature to install a rural credits system onization plan in California. It is objected to on the ground farmers may now have the same advantages offered by the ed scheme. The need in California is not to extend production ch as it is to guarantee to the farmer a fair return for what produces by eliminating the profits of those who handle his s on the way between the soil and the consumer. The time t yet ripe to create another expensive department of the State ment without definite returns being in sight. Vote No.

o. 6. Brings the initiative and referendum into play with re- to the deposit of public moneys. The change in the Constitution necessary. What California needs is to curb and not to enlarge ope of the initiative and referendum. Vote No.

o. 7. Authorizes the Legislature to protect the initiative from and misrepresentation. This is the one big joke on the list. Such ation would be beyond the power of any Legislature. Anyone r with the initiative and referendum must know that the only o purge them of fraud and misrepresentation is to eliminate them ther. This silly amendment should be defeated. Vote NO.

o. 8. Condemnation for public purposes, or rather excess condem- . This is an old bird in new feathers. Last fall it was voted , and there seems to be no adequate reason why there should be al now. It provides that when an improvement contemplated make too much of a burden upon benefited property the city ondemn and take other property, only to sell back after the im- ent is made. It adds another twist to our tangle of public im- ent acts. Vote No.

o. 9. This amendment would pave the way to the plundering perty under the guise of taxation, and would give to the Legis- almost unlimited power. To carry out the scheme an army of es would be engaged at the expense of the State. The tend- under the provisions, would be upward in its flight. Our taxes had that tendency for too long a time. Vote No.

o. 10. This provides for the exemption of church property from n and extends that exemption to so much of that property as ssary to carry on social purposes. It segregates the profit- side of the property and should be adopted. Vote Yes.

o. 11. This proposes to extend the power of county charters ralizing in an executive committee of Supervisors a more dan- power than should be tolerated. It is unnecessary and ambig- Vote No.

unty road bond issue (at foot of ballot:) It requires no finan- ius to see that this proposed $2,850,000 to be spent on roads Angeles county is inopportune. The origin of the deal and ner in which the different items were included raise a reason- picion against the sincerity of the whole thing. Vote No.

It is a collection that makes the flower-lover have a queer little catch in the throat as he first catches sight of it, and that holds him enthralled for many, many minutes.

IN THE FOREFRONT.

As was expected, the park department, with two exhibits, one from the conservatory and one from the nursery, shines well in the forefront of the display. Orchids, many of them—and all bewitchingly perfect—are shown in the conservatory collection by James McGilvray, together with ferns, dozens of specimens, and other hothouse products. The collection of Cattleya orchids that Mr. McGilvray is showing is said to be the largest in the country.

As for the nursery exhibit, under the direction of Matthew Lambert, the city ranks well up front in the competition. Chrysanthemums, red and blue salvia, heliotrope, flowers of well-known nomenclature, and many whose names are strange to the ear, are all shown. As might be expected, they are perfectly grown and displayed.

"It will encourage the growth of flowers among the citizens of this city," said Superintendent of Parks Shearer, when complimented on the city's display. "This show shows what can be done. It is double the size of any ever held on this Coast. As for Mr. Hertrick's collection, it is one of specimens that could not be got together anywhere else in this country. The Howard & Smith exhibit is the best commercial exhibit that I have ever seen."

But, lest some might think that the showing is of the unusual specimens or of hothouse plants, the exhibit made by Dr. H. Jarvis Barlow is offered in evidence to the contrary. Merely making an attempt to show flowers and plants as customarily grown in well-tended city gardens, Dr. Barlow's gardener, Willard Kennedy, has assembled a potted showing of the things we all know the names of. To say that the Barlow exhibit is one of the most attractive of the whole show is to put the case mildly.

DAHLIAS AND 'MUMS.

Then there is the unexampled showing of dahlias by the Angelus Dahlia Gardens Company and the Eagle Rock Dahlia Farm. The execution of a picture in dahlias, "Sunrise Over Eagle Rock," is one of the latter company's contributions that attracts particular attention. As for the dahlias as specimens, they rival 'mums in size and surpass them in diversified coloring.

An exclusively 'mum exhibit is that of Miss Sadie Thomas. She is an amateur, but is making a professional showing in class. But so are others—showings of chrysanthemums that are as big as dinner plates, and some of them with stems six and seven feet long.

Of course, the flowers are not the whole show, any more than two's a company and three's a crowd. On the second and third floor there is a quite overpowering showing of automobiles, together with the battery of the First Field Artillery, N.G.C., in the rear. Then on the fourth floor—the flower show is on the third—there is Glenn L. Martin's showing of military tractor aeroplanes and parts, and the automobile section of accessories. On this floor there is also a cafe and a dancing floor.

The programme of the big show, which will be open until the end of the week, includes daily concerts by Mme. Lola Stantonne and orchestra and by Wood Wilson's entertainers and troubadours, daily lectures by Glenn L. Martin on practical aviation, and an exhibition drill daily by the First Field Artillery under the command of Capt. Jesse McComas.

WHO WILL HELP?

Opportunity to Give Practical Aid to Aged Man and Woman Who Worked for Humanity.

Would you like to show your appreciation of the labors of a man and woman, now aged and in distress, who have given years of their own efforts to help uplift humanity? Here's an opportunity.

Dr. and Mrs. M. B. Lawrence are known probably to people in every school district in California, with the exception of thohe in the most remote corners. They have traveled about for years in their camp wagon, working to advance the anti-cigarette crusade among boys, and always striving for the uplift of people wherever their lot was cast. They have given free entertainments by the hundreds, and have helped to lighten the ways in oftentimes barren country lives.

Now they are in distress and need helping hands. Some time ago Mrs. Lawrence fell and broke her hip; then cataracts formed over her eyes and she could scarcely see her most beloved friends. Now she is in the County Hospital, and Dr. Lawrence, the aged husband, is very desirous of getting her into their own home.

He proposes to erect a shelter for themselves on a lot in Watts that has been donated, and to open up therewith a rest room to help to counteract the influences of the saloon and pool hall. He requires some money to help carry through this project and to move Mrs. Lawrence to the new home. The Montgomery Lumber Company has agreed to donate the necessary lumber, and Dr. Finis Yoakum has offered to provide men to build the structure if the other expenses are provided for.

If you want to help you can send your contribution to Dr. M. B. Lawrence, No. 124 South Broadway, or The Times will acknowledge contributions sent to it for Dr. Lawrence.

THIS CITY HONORED.

Telegram Announces that National Congregational Council Will Meet Here in Nineteen Seventeen.

A telegram yesterday from Dr. William Horace Day, who is attending the National Council of the Congregational churches in New Haven, announces that it was unanimously voted to hold the next Council in Los Angeles in 1917. This means that Los Angeles will entertain the largest body of representative men and women in Congregationalism. This council has never before met west of Kansas City and Congregationalists on this Coast are greatly gratified that Los Angeles has been selected as the meeting place.

E. P. Clark, president of the board of trustees of the First Congregational Church, is in New Haven attending the council as a delegate, as well as Dr. Day and Dr. George F. Kenngott, superintendent of the Southern California Congregational Conference. It is due to this strong trio of men that Los Angeles wins the council.

The council is a biennial affair and is to Congregationalism what the General Conference is to Methodism. Dr. Day has just been elected first assistant moderator.

NO-PARTY VOTE CLOSE, ASSERT BOTH SIDES.

Wind-up of Campaign Finds Oratory in Every Part of County—Ex-Judge Bordwell Presents Scholarly Reasons Why the Anti-party Laws Should be Defeated. Women's Republican League to Hold Open House.

BY BURL ARMSTRONG.

AT THE close of a campaign of education in political science, conducted in every county of California by the Party Defense League and by leading members of four political parties, representatives of both sides of the anti-party questions, which are at the top of the ballot, declared yesterday that the result of Tuesday's special election will be very close.

The campaign just closing has been one of the unusual political struggles that mark or mar the history of California. No candidate is aspiring to office and nothing has transpired in the campaign to infuse the ordinary campaign enthusiasm into the voter, so that the prospects for a heavy vote are slim, according to the prognostications of both sides.

Political guessers estimate that the vote will not be more than 40 per cent. of the registered strength of the State, and is very likely to be much less. In that case, the momentous question of whether California shall erase party lines in future elections of State officers and divorce this State from the national party organizations will be decided by less than one-fourth of the voters.

Enthusiastic meetings in various parts of the city and county yesterday marked the activities of the Party Defense League in opposing the anti-party laws.

Senator John W. Ballard, Republican, and A. R. Holston, Socialist, spoke before a large crowd at Venice last night. The Venice Municipal Band furnished the music for the meetings.

Nathan Newby, Democrat, and M. O. Graves, "Progressive," made strong speeches against the bills before the Woman's Club at Monrovia last night.

Tom Williams, secretary of the State Socialist party, spoke at an open-air meeting at Pomona. H. A. Hart, another Socialist, spoke at the harbor.

Senator Ballard will speak at Santa Ana Monday night at a big rally to be held there under the auspices of the Republican, Democratic, Socialist and Prohibition parties. Assemblyman Joe Burke of Santa Ana will preside.

Open house will be maintained by the Woman's Republican Club at its headquarters in the Title Guarantee Building all day Monday for the convenience of the women voters. Prominent women will be on hand throughout the day to explain the various propositions to be voted on at the election. The work will be under the direction of Mrs. R. W. Richardson, president of the club.

ABLE STATEMENT AGAINST NO-PARTY SCHEME.

Walter Bordwell, former Superior Court judge of Los Angeles county and member of the Board of Education, yesterday issued the following statement regarding the anti-party measures:

At the opening of this campaign I made a public statement to the effect that I was open to argument, but that unless I saw a new light I would deem it my duty to vote against the measures.

Arguments have been presented in favor of the adoption of this measure that appear to be sound. I am not unmindful of them and I am aware that some of my personal friends are influenced by them and have declared in favor of the measure. However, this does not end the matter, for, as is usually the case, there are two sides to the question.

My further consideration of the subject has confirmed me in what appears to be my duty—to vote against the measure.

It seems safe to say that there has been no public demand for the abolition of parties in State political affairs. I never heard of the proposition until it was presented to the Legislature last winter.

SAVE PARTIES, SAYS PHELAN.

[Memorandum from letter of United States Senator James D. Phelan, Democrat, dated October 18, 1915.]

"I intend to vote against the nonpartisan law, as I believe that the political parties should be kept vigorously alive, and that it weakens party organization to nonpartisanize the Governor and members of the Legislature. By keeping political parties of about equal strength, the people have an opportunity to throw their weight one way or another, in case they desire to impress their power and influence upon the country. As for nonpartisanship, the present law, as was evidenced in the last campaign, does not deny free voting to the people."

Radical changes in our fundamental law governing political parties are attended with risk. Such changes are sometimes necessary and when the necessity arises there should be no hesitation. But unless the necessity does arise, the risk ought not to be taken. This is an obvious proposition.

Tradition is one of the anchor sheets of our political life. Political parties in the government of State affairs have existed since the birth of the nation. I entertain grave doubt if the people may safely deprive themselves of the right to organize and as political parties present for approval of the people policies which they deem for the public welfare.

The result of such action on the part of the State will be to substitute individuals for parties. It has been predicted by men of undoubted wisdom that under nonpartisan laws, the political affairs of our State will be controlled by a small coterie, who will be able to maintain themselves in office by the use of a powerful political machine easily built up. These same men now point to the extraordinary activities of those directly connected with the State administration as corroborative of their prediction. Whether the prediction is well founded each voter must determine for himself. My apprehension that this is so in no way involves intended personal criticism of anyone who is active on behalf of the measure.

In my humble judgment conservatism forbids the adoption of the proposed nonpartisan laws.

Thompson on Amendments.

State Senator Newton W. Thompson addressed the City Club yesterday, explaining the various propositions that will appear on the ballot for the election on Tuesday of this week. His talk was generally confined to an exposition of the propositions, with a brief resume of the chief arguments for and against each. The nonpartisan proposition and the proposition relative to State taxation measures and the duties of the State Board of Equalization were not touched upon; these having been subjects for discussion at previous meetings of the club.

What Supreme Court Says.

In the case of Socialist Party vs. Uhl the State Supreme Court said, in part:

"The obvious purpose of a primary law is to preserve the integrity of parties. The necessity for maintaining the integrity of such parties is recognized in the constitutional provision with reference to primary elections. It is the duty of the Legislature, when legislating upon the subject of primaries, to so legislate as to maintain the integrity of parties, and the integrity of any political party and the success and furtherance of its principles and policies is best attained through legislation which will permit participation in its affairs by those only who are devoted to its principles and policies."

Colored Voters Active.

The Colored Republican League adopted resolutions last night against the proposed anti-party measures. In fact, the colored voters are opposed to every proposition on Tuesday's ballot. C. Olivier was chairman of the meeting and John S. Montgomery, secretary. Frank Williams is the new president of the league, which has taken an active part in the campaign just closing. "The colored voters will go strongly against the anti-party bill and the road bonds," said Chairman Olivier yesterday.

BUILDS NEW STUDIO.

Motion-picture Company Secures Property in Edendale as Location for Extensive Plant.

Construction is now under way on a studio for the United Motion Picture Company at the intersection of Alessandro avenue and Brandon street, in Edendale. This is just one block north of the Keystone plant.

The site for the new studio was purchased some time ago. The company, in addition to producing one and two-reel pictures, will engage in the manufacture of motion-picture cameras and projecting machines for use in homes. The company is also planning to make a specialty of producing films suitable for use in churches, Sunday-school and similar organizations.

The United Motion Picture Company is comparatively a new concern and is fully financed, with no stock for sale. Its officers are William Francis Truth, a Los Angeles man; J. Mortimer, an Englishman, and Wycliffe A. Hill, former president of a local publishing corporation and editor of a moving-picture magazine.

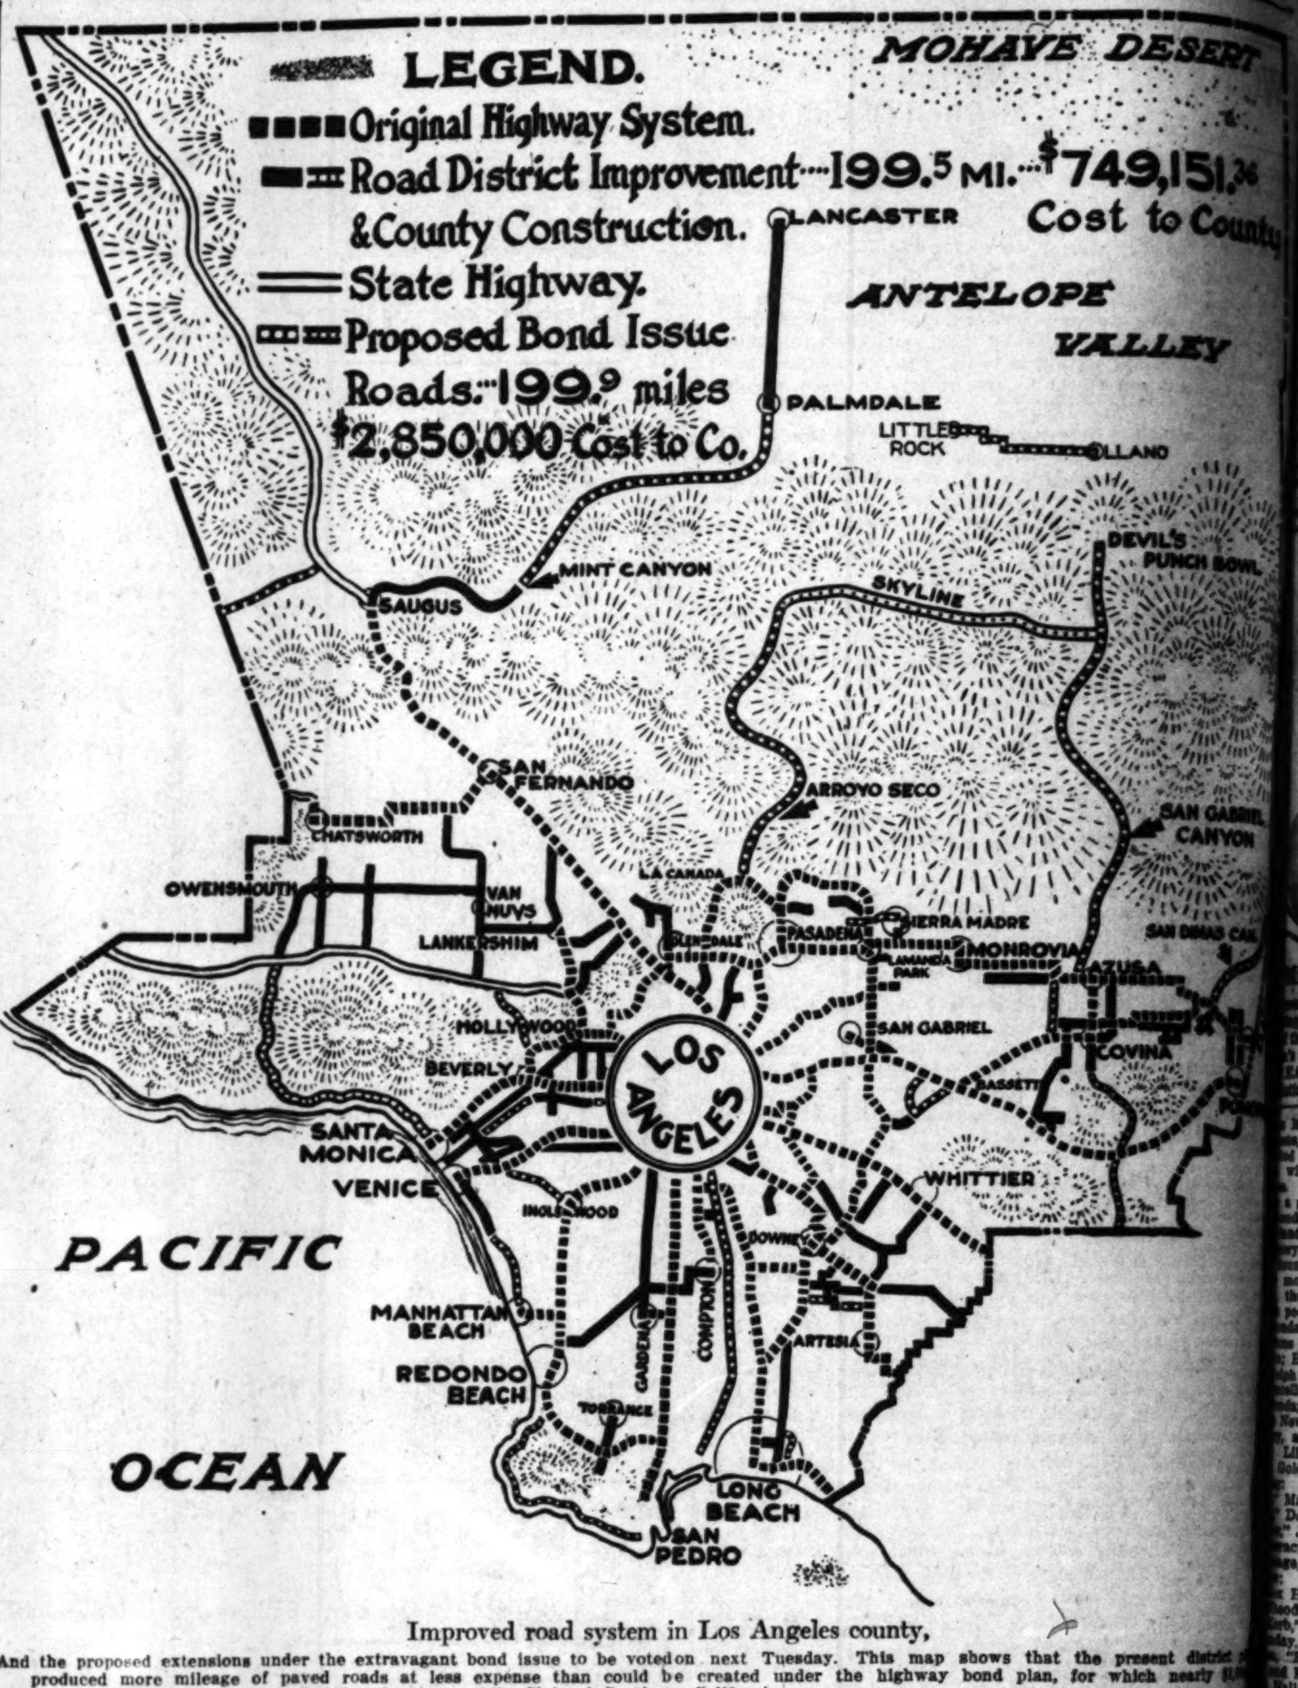
RESULT OF AN ANTI-PARTY PARTY VICTORY.

There are certain legitimate expenses connected with a political campaign. Halls for meetings and room for committees must be hired. Brass bands and speakers, other than candidates, must be paid. Campaign documents and advertisements must be printed. Secretaries and clerks and messengers of committees must be employed, and on election day many autos and many canvessers are required.

All this requires money and a good deal of it. The Central Committee of the party which has nominated a State or district ticket defrays these expenses from a fund provided in part by levying an assessment on the candidates, in part by a percentage contribution from the salaries of office-holders of the same party, and in part by voluntary contribution from friends of the cause.

There are nine State and four district officials to be elected. Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, State Controller, State Treasurer, Attorney-General, Clerk of Supreme Court, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Superintendent of State Printing, to be elected by the voters of the State and from members of the Board of Equalization by the voters of the district. If the no-party party trick of the Johnson plunderbund should prevail then the great expense of an election campaign which is now borne by thirteen men jointly and their friends would have to be borne by each of the thirteen individually for himself.

There would be thirteen public meetings, where now there is one; thirteen orators would dilate, where one now fans the air; thirteen times as many secretaries, and clerks, and messengers would receive satisfactory salaries; progressive, one-scent journals would print thirteen times as much drivel and lies, and, on election day, thirteen times as many autos would make the day musical with their honks.



Improved road system in Los Angeles county,

And the proposed extensions under the extravagant bond issue to be votedon next Tuesday. This map shows that the present district produced more mileage of paved roads at less expense than could be created under the highway bond plan, for which nearly wanted. This map was compiled by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Logical Argument.

WHY THE ROAD BONDS SHOULD BE DEFEATED.

Many Telling Reasons Given by Committee Composed of County's Leading Organizations, and Convincing Figures Submitted for Consideration of Voters—State Willing to Aid Highway Work.

WHY the $2,850,000 road bonds should be defeated is told in a formal statement issued by the Bond Opposition Committee, which consists of the directorates of the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants and Manufacturers Association, Automobile Club of Southern California, Municipal League and other civic organizations.

The opposition to the bonds is not an opposition to good roads. All the organizations which are fighting the proposed issue are ardent advocates of good roads, but they do not subscribe to a road-at-any-price method of extending the county highway system.

It is shown by the committee that from the very beginning of the proposed bond issue to the present time a course of misrepresentation has been pursued by the proponents of the bonds in their reckless plunge into extravagant methods of road construction.

BY DISTRICT PLAN.

The Supervisors long ago were committed to a policy of building roads by the district plan, whereby the property owner directly benefited paid 60 per cent. of the cost of road construction and the county generally paid 40 per cent. by supplying the rock and oil. By the district plan the county has built 199½ miles of road at a total cost to the taxpayers of $825,000, with no bonds, no interest and no sinking fund.

This plan three of the Supervisors would discard by substituting the bond plan. Under the proposed bond issue 199 9-10 miles, or four-tenths of a mile more than the district-built roads, would be built for $2,850,000. The cost to the taxpayers under this plan would be $1,013,800 in principal and interest in six years, with $2,687,200 in principal yet to pay and thirty-three years of interest to go with it.

Under the district plan resident labor is employed, while under the proposed bond scheme the contractor is sure to import cheap, foreign labor to take the places of taxpaying wage-earners.

Supervisor Hamilton has gone wildly about the county with the assertion that the estimates of cost of the roads under the proposed plan were carefully worked out. Chairman Pridham of the Supervisors challenged that statement and asked for figures from County Road Commissioner Joyner, who has just reported that upon three-fourths of the proposed road construction no engineering data had been gathered, no surveys or examinations of any kind had been made, and the estimates included in the list of twenty-one roads are nothing more than the flimsiest guesswork based upon nothing more than inexpert calculation. It was a pad-and-pencil proposition.

TOO MUCH FOR SCENERY.

Other features of the committee statement touch on the more important phases of the road-bond question as follows:

More than half of the funds to be derived from this bond issue are for the building of scenic roads which serve no commercial purpose, and their construction in this period of financial uncertainty is, therefore, not advisable; Los Angeles city is already bonded for $40,000,000 and must pay 65 per cent. of all county taxes.

Many of the other roads proposed are lateral or connecting roads only, the building of which, while of great importance to the property through which they run, are not of equal benefit to all portions of the county and, therefore, should be built by district assessments.

Under the district assessment plan, through which the county furnishes the road materials (cost approximately 40 per cent.) and the district pays the labor, etc. (cost approximately 60 per cent.,) we have during the past three years built nearly 200 miles of permanent highways at a total cost to the county of approximately $3800 per mile, instead of $9500 per mile, the average cost under the bond plan, with an additional 100 miles provided for this year.

The Board of Supervisors by a vote of 3 to 2 refused to submit the items of the proposed bond issue separately, but insisted upon their being voted as a whole.

The State bond issue of $15,000,000 to be voted on in 1916 provides for a road into and across Antelope Valley. Why should Los Angeles county hurry to assume a burden which the State of California is willing to share?

It is all very well to make posterity pay for the improvements it shall enjoy. But voters should remember that they are not going to quit paying taxes election day. You expect to remain here for several years, and as long as you stay you must meet the bills.

Los Angeles county is cheerfully committed to good roads
it by presenting the fine system in the world. But 100 cents' worth of road for lar expended.

Buy A Farm Now in the Palo Verde Valley
Colorado River
Before Prices Go Up

THE completion of the railroad into the Palo Verde Valley will mean the opening of the Valley of the American Nile to the markets of the World. Such an event should cause a veritable boom in prices of farm lands. Already a section of track 14 miles in length has been laid and people are beginning to flock in from all over Southern California. Now is the psychological time to buy. We are offering the cream of farm lands of the Valley on behalf of the railroad at prices as low as $100 an acre—including water.

The rich virgin soil of the Palo Verde Valley—irrigated through gravity canals by the silt-laden waters of the Colorado River—will grow almost everything that grows and produce enormous profits. Alfalfa yields an average of 10 to 14 tons per acre; alfalfa seed will produce a profit of $140 to $210 an acre; potatoes, beans, fruits of all kinds grow to perfection. Cotton broke the wrld's record at Palo Verde—producing 1½ bales to the acre. At the low prices now prevailing lands in this rich valley should be snapped up fast.

Superfluous Hair Removers Are Dangerous

Don't Use Poisonous So-Called Superfluous Hair Removers.

You may escape permanent injury if you use so-called hair removers, but you cannot escape an increased growth because after each removal the hair is bound to grow out more bristly and in time it will become so coarse that nothing will remove it but a razor.

The only safe way to remove hair is to devitalize it. It is useless to use pastes or rub-on preparations because they only remove hair from the surface of the skin. DeMiracle, the original liquid depilatory, devitalizes hair by attacking it under the skin as well as on the skin.

Imitations of DeMiracle are as worthless as pastes and rub-on preparations because they lack certain ingredients that DeMiracle alone contains which give it the power to rob hair of its vitality. Remember DeMiracle is the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package which entitles you to your money if it fails. Insist on the genuine DeMiracle and you will get the original liquid hair remover. Others are worthless imitations—refuse them.

DeMiracle is sold in $1.00 and $2.00 bottles. If your dealer will not supply you, order direct from us. Th truth about the treatment of superfluous hair mailed in plain sealed envelope on request. DeMiracle Chemical Company, Dept. 2, Park Ave. and 129th St., New York.

She has an inimitable manner of telling a story that holds her listeners' attention to the end.

Mrs. Hyde is a rancher in Imperial Valley, and devoted to California.

Miss Alice Clark, violinist, and Miss Beatrice Grindle, vocal soloist, contributed to a delightful programme.

The first November meeting of the club will be devoted to a study of the Bible, conducted by Miss Wilson.

Glendora Woman's Club.

Mexico was the topic of the day at the Glendora Woman's Club Tuesday, and judging from the numbers of men present as guests of club members it was a suject of general interest.

The Mexican colors, red, white and green, were carried out in the floral decorations, and an interesting collection of rugs, baskets, pottery and other native articles were on exhibition.

B. E. Long, for several years a resident of Vera Cruz, was to have talked on "Mexico and Its Present Condition," but being unexpectedly called away, and unlike most speakers, not willing to disappoint his hearers, he prepared an intensely interesting paper on the subject, which was ably presented by his sister, Miss Evelyn Long.

Mrs. Clements of Hollywood sang a group of songs and Mrs. Rebecca Howe, also a former resident of Mexico, explained the use of the articles on exhibition and told of some of the native customs.

Averill Study Club.

The Averill Study Club devoted its interest to a discussion of pending legislation at its meeting last Tuesday afternoon. Senator Stanley Benedict spoke on the anti-party law, and the programme concluded with a whistling solo by Mrs. E. W. Morton of Dallas, Tex.

Next Tuesday the club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. J. J. Still, No. 1801 Wilton place, when Mrs. A. W. Francisco will speak on her associations with Anna S. Averill, the founder of the club. And Mrs. Valentine Fisher will read "The Lost Word," by Henry Van Dyke.

Women's Press Club.

Mrs. Eva Hamilton Young presided at the meeting of the Women's Press Club Tuesday. Miss Dorothy Willis was responsible for a musical programme which gave much pleasure, Mrs. John Thayer, Mr. Anthony Carlson and Mrs. Guy Bush providing the entertainment. Mrs. Thayer has a sweet soprano voice, which was heard to advantage in "The Leaves and the Wind" of Leoni. Mr. Carlson and Mrs. Thayer also charmed their audience with a couple of duets, in which their voices blended well. Mrs. Bush was the accompanist and Mrs. Fletcher Howard the hostess.

Next Tuesday there will be a dinner at Christopher's at 6:30 o'clock, when Mrs. Alma Lafferty from Colorado will speak as the guest of honor of the club.

Women's Pomona College Club.

Mrs. Llewellyn Bibxy entertained the Pomona College Club Saturday with a story of a transcontinental trip which she recently made. Mrs. Lucy Wolcott had invited the Pomona College women to the Gamut Club. The students of the Wallis Dramatic School contributed to the programme. Little Margaret and Alice Williams gave an amusing sketch and Miss Gladys Smith enhanced the programme with a reading of "The Sign of the Cross."

D. A. R.

Another chapter has been added to the D.A.R., although it is not yet fully organized or christened. It was born at the home of Miss Amelia Butler, No. 635 West Thirty-fifth street, last Saturday, when sixteen ladies mobilized for the new branch.

A meeting is to be called early in November to conclude the organization of the new chapter, and eastern members wishing to be transferred must be first transferred to the national society, from which they can be retransferred to the local chapter. Miss Butler or Mrs. George R. Blose will give any further information.

The Eschscholtzia chapter of the D.A.R. held an antique exhibit last Wednesday, when members contributed their many interesting mementos of other days. Miss Dwight Satterlee was in charge. Mrs. Cedric Johnson was responsible for a musical programme.

On Friday afternoon this chapter also made their presentation of the bronze tablet, marking the military headquarters of Gen. Fremont, to the city, the Loyal Legion attending in a body. The Rev. Baker P. Lee gave the invocation, the regent, Mrs. James Forbes, making the presentation.

The next meeting is scheduled for November 2, when Hector Alliott will discourse upon "The Prehistoric Women of California."

California Congress of Mothers.

The first reciprocity day of the Los Angeles District Californian Congress of Mothers, held in the auditorium of the Santa Monica High School on the 15th inst., was highly successful, more than 150 visitors attending. Reports from all the new federations and addresses by prominent speakers filled an interesting programme.

The school students had done wonders in decorating the building for the occasion and contributed considerably to the proceedings with a delightful programme of music and readings. The domestic science pupils showed their prowess in a tea for the visitors.

Mrs. C. F. Sawyer, chairman of the Education Committee, presided.

The South Side Ebell Club.

The South Side Ebell Club met in the library building at Forty-fifth street and Central avenue Thursday morning. "Difficult Types of Women" was the interesting subject of a talk given by Mrs. Van Order of the Slauson-avenue playground.

All members claiming a birthday in the month of August were made honored guests at the birthday party which followed, duly adorned with a monster cake.

Next Thursday the books and conversation section will hold the floor,

It will be a costume affair, and Mr. Philo Case, the original drummer boy of Shiloh, will be the particular drawing card. The concert will take place in Lomax Hall, Vernon and Central avenues.

Council of Jewish Women.

The Los Angeles section of the Council of Jewish Women held their initial meeting on Thursday in the assembly-room of the Temple B'nai B'rith, Hope and Ninth streets. Mrs. Henry Klein, the president, presided, giving an address of welcome, and California Day was duly celebrated. Dr. S. Hecht gave an instructive biblical lesson, and the meeting concluded with tea and a social hour.

Phi Beta Phi.

The Los Angeles Alumnae Club of Phi Beta Phi will hold its regular meeting next Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Helen Richardson, No. 7263 Sunset boulevard. The occasion will be designated "Reciprocity Day," and Mrs. Wilfred Lewis will act as chairman.

Los Angeles City Teachers' Club.

The Los Angeles City Teachers' Club will hold a session Wednesday, November 10, at the U. S. Grant Hotel, San Diego. J. F. Finley, Commissioner of Education, New York, and O. M. Plummer, director of the Board of Education of North Portland, Or., will be the speakers of the occasion.

Reservations should be made with the club secretary, Miss Doran, by November 4.

Wednesday Morning Club.

Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith was the special scintillating attraction at the Wednesday Morning Club last week when she gave by special request a programme entitled "An Appeal in Three Voices," which included readings in her inimitable style of "The Singing Man" (Peabody,) "Pay Day" (Henderson) and "The Promised Land" (Antin.)

Mrs. Paul Zahn contributed a piano solo and Mrs. H. H. Harrison was luncheon hostess for the day. The Shakespeare section studied "Macbeth" in the morning, led by Mrs. H. E. Brett, and the Dickens section, "Hard Times," led by Mrs. A. S. Houck.

Next Wednesday the luncheon hostess will be Mrs. William Bailey, and the afternoon will be given over to a reception for the new members, which will include a musical programme, for which Mrs. F. E. Davis and Mrs. R. A. Wynne will be responsible.

Sacred concert this afternoon and evening, Broadway Automobile and Flower Show, Boston Store Building.

Logic.

FALLACY OF VOTING BONDS.

Auto Club Riddles Plan of the Board of Supervisors.

Harbor Truck Boulevard is Totally Unnecessary.

Proposal Shown to be a Weak Business Policy.

> Why another harbor truck boulevard at this time? The taxpayers of Los Angeles county are called upon to vote $2,850,000 in bonds when $400,000 of that is to be set aside for another harbor truck boulevard. County Road Commissioner Joyner, who knows, says the present harbor truck boulevard is adequate, and will be for several years to come. The only excuse for including an item of $400,000 for another is to get the people in the vicinity to be traversed to support the whole proposition and not because there is any need for the building of the additional boulevard.

Why the board of directors of the Automobile Club of Southern California is opposed to the $2,850,000 county road bonds to be voted on Tuesday is explained in a set of resolutions signed by President Fred L. Baker and Secretary Standish L. Mitchell, after adoption by the board.

The Auto Club, which is ordinarily foremost in the fight to extend the good-roads system, is opposing the present issue because of the sincere belief that bond-built roads, under the proposed plan, will be more harmful to Los Angeles county than the district-built roads that have been constructed for about one-fourth the cost to the taxpayers.

With the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, the Municipal League and other powerful organizations, the Auto Club has been making a vigorous campaign against the bonds. These organizations, members of which have formed the Bond Opposition Committee, believe that the following resolutions show adequate reasons for defeating the bonds on Tuesday:

Whereas, the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county, by a vote of three to two, have decided to submit to the voters of the county a bond issue of $2,850,000 for the building of roads, and,

Whereas, more than one-half of the funds to be derived from this bond issue are for the building of scenic roads which will serve no commercial purpose, and the construction of which is not advisable in this time of financial stress, particularly in view of the fact that the city of Los Angeles, which will be called upon to pay at least 65 per cent. of all county taxes, is now laboring under more than $40,000,000 of bonded indebtedness, and,

Whereas, many of the other roads proposed under this bond issue are lateral or connecting roads only, and which, while of benefit to the property through which they run, are not of equal benefit to all portions of the county, and should, therefore, be built by district assessment, by which plan the county furnishes road material at approximately 40 per cent. of the total cost, and the district pays the labor, et cetera, costing 60 per cent. of the total, thereby having made it possible for the county during the past three years to build nearly 200 miles of highway at an average cost of $3800 per mile instead of $9500 per mile, as provided by the bond issue, and,

Whereas, it is obviously unfair that those property owners in the county who have paid 60 per cent. of the cost of their roads under the road district improvement plan, in addition to having paid their proportion of the original bond issue through which the trunk line roads of the county were built, should now be called upon to pay for more roads in other portions of the county, which will be built without direct cost to the owners of the property through which the new roads will run, and,

Whereas, the Board of Supervisors, by a vote of three to two, refused to submit the items of the proposed bond issue separately, and on their respective merits, but insisted upon their being voted on as a whole, and,

Whereas, one of the mountain roads to be built by this proposed bond issue has already been provided for under the proposed State bond issue, thereby making the building of this road by the county entirely unnecessary and a useless expenditure of money, and,

Whereas, the proposed Harbor boulevard is entirely unnecessary, owing to the fact that it would be an absolute parallel to an already existing highway that is at present adequately serving the traffic between Los Angeles and the harbor, and,

Whereas, the boards of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the Municipal League of Los Angeles have gone on record as being opposed to the passing of the proposed bond issue for reasons similar to those cited above,

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that it is the consensus of opinion of the board of directors of the Automobile Club of Southern California that the interests of the people of Los Angeles county and the future of the good-roads movement will best be served by defeating this proposed county bond issue, and that the board advocates the continuance of the building of county roads under the road district improvement plan, and

Be it further resolved, that the board of directors of the Automobile Club of Southern California fully appreciates the value of scenic roads to a community, but that they consider that the building of such scenic roads as proposed under the county bond issue, not only because of the great initial cost, but because of the necessarily heavy maintenance expense of such roads, is entirely ill-advised at this time, and that they further do not believe that these proposed scenic roads should be considered until after a thorough survey and careful estimate of their cost has been made, which, in this case, has not been done.

IN THEIR CLUTCHES.

Jailed by First Wife After His Second Deserted Him, Another Woman Draws His Pay.

With one woman collecting his pay, another separated after a second marriage, and the first wife pursuing him for failure to provide for his children, Frank B. Smith, held in the County Jail awaiting the arrival of an officer from Sacramento to take him back there, was in no good mood toward the opposite sex. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bell early yesterday on the warrant issued through the first wife, now living in Sacramento, and divorced from him in 1912. According to the records, Smith remarried recently, but his wife deserted him. Deputy Sheriff Bell alleges he also discovered that a third woman has been going to the factory where Smith worked and collecting the money due him at the end of each week. Smith refused to discuss this phase of the triangular situation.

BOND OPPOSITION INSULTED BY NASTY INNUENDO OF E. T. EARL.

IT IS REGRETTABLE that the present campaign for and against the county highway bonds could not have been brought to a sane and peaceful close without the interjection of personalities. The arguments that have been used by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, the Municipal League, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, the Auto Club of Southern California and other civic organizations, together with the printed arguments in various newspapers, have not contained one syllable reflecting upon the integrity of the proponents of the bonds.

Rather, the bond opposition has conducted a safe-and-sane business discussion, for it is upon the question whether the proposed bond plan or the present district plan of building roads, and not upon the question of road extension itself, that the success or failure of the bonds must depend.

In the Earl papers there is contained a veiled insult by insinuation that the opposition of The Times to the road bonds is based upon selfish motives.

The truth is that one of the principal stockholders in The Times owns six miles of frontage along one of the highways proposed to be built under the bonds, and only those of off-color lineage and sinister motive who arrive at conclusions through base and indecent deductions, rather than by honest and logical methods, would make an attempt to sustain such charges.

The scurrilous insinuation has no part in the discussion of the bond question, as it has no foundation in fact. The author of it knows that and also knows that the opposition of The Times is based solely upon its desire to see the good roads of Los Angeles county extended with economy and prudent expenditure instead of by the reckless and extravagant method under the proposed omnibus bond deal, which will be ruinous in the extreme if carried out.

TODAY'S BEAUTY SUGGESTIONS

Face powder, simply covers up an unattractive complexion and leaves no lasting benefits. Those who have tried a simple spurmax face lotion find it much better, as it removes skin discolorations, such as freckles and tan, and makes the skin smooth, white and velvety. This lotion is made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in one-half pint hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls glycerin. This complexion beautifier does not rub off or show like powder, and gives a more refined appearance. It removes both shininess and sallowness, rapidly giving the skin a permanent healthy, youthful appearance.

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be had at trifling expense by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on a glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.

is your opportunity!!! To own that little farm you have planned so long.
Corona Farms
The first big tract sold out fast. Bungalow homes have been built, orchards set out, hog ranches started, acres planted to milo maize, and fields of melons, vegetables and potatoes harvested and sold and profits made. One well-known lemon grower sold his full-bearing lemon orchard and bought 16½ acres of young trees at Corona Farms because of the superior soil and the remarkable water conditions. Now is the TIME to get in—the water pipes are just being laid to each of the new farms. Now is the TIME TO BUY—rich Placentia sandy loam soil, abundance of cheap water, ONE and A HALF MILES from CITY of 6000 PEOPLE—five acres or more, as low as $275 an acre on eight years' time.
Where else can you buy such suburban farms with these wonderful surroundings and advantages, 75 minutes from Los Angeles?

NEW TERMINALS SOLVE PROBLEM.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BOARD SEES IMPROVEMENT.

Construction of Elevated Line from Pacific Electric Station to San Pedro Street will Relieve Main-street Congestion, Says President and Engineer.

Construction of the elevated terminals at the rear of the Pacific Electric Building and the elevated tracks through to San Pedro street in accordance with the agreement reached between the Public Utilities Board and the Pacific Electric Railway will, in the opinion of President Lane and Engineer Howell of the Utilities Board, bring relief from the congested condition of Main street and go a long way toward solving one of the greatest problems that the city now faces. These plans, which have been under discussion by the Public Utilities Board and the Pacific Electric officials for two days, assumed such shape yesterday that the railway company will be able to place its orders for steel within a few days, with the expectation of delivery within sixty days. Construction work will take a month or six weeks unless unforeseen obstacles arise, and the rerouting of cars will be made as soon as possible.

The detailed plans for terminal changes on the Los Angeles street property included a rearrangement of tracks on the surface of the Los Angeles street property where the Long Beach cars now stop. President Shoup explained that it will need all the finances available now to complete the permanent improvements, and it is likely that, as a compromise, the elevated terminals will be enlarged to five tracks so that practically all of the red cars can be handled without their entering or traversing Main street.

It is understood that the Pacific Electric will utilize the plans prepared by the Public Utilities Board for changes at the old Hill-street station. These plans provide that the railroad shall utilize its property at that point to best advantage so that there shall be less delay and even in the busiest hours of traffic it will not be necessary to line the red cars up in Hill street. These improvements at the Hill-street station will cost approximately $40,000, while the elevated terminals and tracks from the Sixth-street station to San Pedro street will cost about $300,000.

Storm Drain Ordered.

The Council yesterday reconsidered its action in abandoning proceedings for the construction of a storm drain in Los Feliz avenue, to care for the district between Vermont avenue and Nella Vista street and, on motion of Chairman Topham of the Public Works Committee, the City Engineer was instructed to provide for the drain as originally contemplated. These proceedings were abandoned during the absence of Mr. Topham in the East and he explained yesterday that the abandonment was a violation of agreements with property owners who are also affected by the Madison-Virgil storm drain construction.

Messengers are Scarce.

The municipality is suffering from a scarcity of messengers who want jobs at $30 a month, according to a report from the Civil Service Commission, and another examination for the position will be held October 6. This scarcity of boys is holding up the plans for establishing a municipal messenger station at the City Hall, which was authorized by the Council several weeks ago at the suggestion of the Efficiency Commission. Sixteen names have been certified to the City Auditor for the three positions and not one of the sixteen boys on the old civil service list has shown up.

Minor City Affairs.

The Council yesterday adopted a resolution favoring the county road bond issue and recommending its authorization at the election next Tuesday.

Chairman Topham of the Public Works Committee will likely introduce a resolution in the Council Monday supporting the action of the Board of Freeholders in providing in the proposed charter for the creation of special bond districts for local improvements. The Public Works Committee is now considering several costly storm drain projects and, if possible, it will favor some provision whereby a portion of the cost shall be borne by the city at large.

ON STATUTORY CHARGES.

Two arraignments on the same statutory charge were made in the justice court yesterday morning. Walter Wycoff, a young bank clerk, appeared before Justice Palmer on a charge of mistreating May Rothe, a 15-year-old girl, on the last day of December, 1913. His preliminary will come up next Wednesday. On the same day Harry James, who was arraigned before Justice Hinshaw, will be heard. He is charged with mistreating Henrietta Dindore, a 17-year-old girl, September 23.

HE'S BOUND OVER.

Alleging a police "frame-up" against their client, Edward Woodruff, who had been a witness against Patrolman Wilson, recently exonerated of a charge of manslaughter, Attorneys Durham and Morse subpoenaed Dist.-Atty. Woolwine yesterday morning, and he appeared in the justice court for the first time as a witness since having taken his office. He was brought into the case to prove that Woodruff had been such a witness, but his only knowledge of the case was from hearsay and his testimony was stricken out. Woodruff is charged with stealing a span of horses and a wagon. After hearing the preliminary evidence Justice Hinshaw bound him over to the Superior Court under bond of $2000.

SMASH-UP.

"She broke a clock belonging to me, and he broke a looking-glass belonging to her, and then both started 'smashing dishes,'" testified Mrs. Louise Clark, mother of Mrs. Marie A. Racene, in the divorce suit of William L. Racene yesterday. Mrs. Clark said she repeated the words her daughter had told her.

Mr. Racene's suit was based on the alleged fact that the dishes were directed at his head, but there was no corroboration of this charge and the decree was denied.

The court did not see any object in smashing dishes indiscriminately when there was no particular target to throw them at. The Racenes live at Inglewood.

DENIED DECREE, WOMAN SWOONS.

BUT TEARING OFF DRESS NOT SUFFICIENT GROUNDS.

Husband, Whose Counter-suit Loses, Too, Files Action for Damages Against Violinist He Named as Having Enticed His Wife Away, Alleging Mental Pain.

After Judge Wilbur had denied a decree of divorce to Mrs. May B. Stoffel yesterday, her husband, John J. Stoffel, filed a suit against A. W. Albers, a violin instructor, whose name had been coupled with hers in the divorce proceedings, charging him with having enticed his wife from her home at No. 724 Maple avenue April 27 last and detained and harbored her in room 726, Majestic Theater Building. He asks $10,000 damages for the mental suffering he has endured.

Mrs. Stoffel, who succumbed three times Friday during the trial of her suit, collapsed again yesterday when the court denied her matrimonial freedom. The court also denied Mr. Stoffel a decree on his cross-complaint. Judge Wilbur stated that she had not proved her charges of cruelty.

The incident of the dress which Mr. Stoffel is alleged to have torn from his wife was not a nice thing for him to do, the court said, but it was an act committed when both were angry.

"If divorces are to be granted every time married persons become angry, there will be no married couples left," he said.

The court held there was no foundation for the cross-complaint, in which Mr. Stoffel introduces the name of Mr. Albers. This, in his opinion, was the most cruel thing in the case.

The custody of a daughter, 18 months old, was given to Mrs. Stoffel. Mr. Stoffel was ordered to support the child by a monthly payment.

BREAD FIRST

WARNS AGAINST BEER.

If a man's family needs bread he cannot afford to pay 5 cents for a glass of beer. Judge Monroe yesterday put this in a concrete form when he said bread comes ahead of beer. He also advised against permitting anyone buying another a drink when the latter cannot reciprocate. Because Arthur H. Nielson declared he took a glass of beer occasionally, the court admonished him when his wife complained that he was not supporting her and the children. But the decree of divorce asked for by her was denied because it was shown that Mr. Nielson was not able to get work at the time the couple separated. She complained of his drinking.

Mr. Nielson asked if he could see the children at reasonable times.

"You may if you pay your wife half you earn; if you don't pay her you can't visit them," ruled the court.

M'ALEER GAINS HEARING.

Acting Presiding Judge Shenk yesterday granted the application of Thomas McAleer for a writ of mandate directing the County Auditor to pay his salary as Registrar of Voters. The hearing was set for a week from tomorrow before Judge Parker.

The proceedings to oust Mr. McAleer from the office of Registrar of Voters have held up his salary. Attorney W. J. Ford, counsel for Mr. McAleer, stated yesterday that he may file a new answer to the ouster suit. David B. Lyons is contesting Mr. McAleer's right to the office.

WANTS MONEY BACK. Harry S. Van Demark invested in acreage under a contract with the California Home Extension Association, paying $500 for two and one-half acres, which was to be set with 600 eucalyptus trees, and $3300 for sixteen and one-half acres. He became dissatisfied with his purchases, and alleges he wrote the association that he would return the deeds and asked for a refund of the money paid. This offer was refused, he says. Yesterday Mr. Van Demark filed suit against the association and M. V. Hartranft, the latter president, director and a stockholder, asking judgment for $3800.

BURNED TOO MUCH? As an alleged violation of a city ordinance prohibiting the burning of weeds and refuse except between 6 and 9 o'clock in the morning, D. H. Hewitt filed suit against W. H. Workman yesterday, asking $1500 damages for the loss of a fence and ornamental trees as the result of a fire lighted on Mr. Workman's land. Mr. Hewitt owns four acres adjoining South Fresno street. The fire was started at 1:30 p.m., August 23, last, it is asserted, and the flames spread to Mr. Hewitt's property.

"Nearly Married"

FRANCES RING

By Edgar Selwyn, author of New York's reigning success, "Rolling Stones." "Nearly Married" demands a carefully selected company of rapid-fire gloom chasers. Here they are: FRANCES RING and the All-Star Burbank Company. First time at these prices—25c, 50c, 75c; Matinees Today, Tuesday and Saturday, 25c, 50c.

IDA ST. LEON

Playbill.

FARCE DEALS WITH DIVORCE.

Clever Treatment of Theme in "Nearly Married."

"Telephone Tangle" is the Orpheum Topliner.

Young Local Violinist to Play at Pantages.

"Nearly Married," a farce by Edgar Selwyn which made a big hit in New York, with Jane Gray and Bruce MacRae in the leading roles, will be the Burbank offering this week, beginning with today's matinee. Frances Ring and Edmund Lowe will have the leading roles. Ida St. Leon, Grace Travers, Frank Darien, Charlie Buck, James Corrigan, Lillian Elliott and James K. Applebee are all cast in interesting parts.

The plot of the story deals with a woman who wants to divorce her husband and hires a professional corespondent to become "the woman in the case." Many amusing situations arise until the wife finally succumbs to jealousy, ending by stealing her own husband away from the corespondent in a very novel way.

Orpheum.

"A Telephone Tangle," said to portray luminously, but humorously, the troubles from which everyone suffers in connection with the telephone, will headline the new Orpheum bill opening tomorrow. Madge Caldwell will play "central," masticating her professional chewing gum; a bunch of her victims, all said to be excellent comedians, are the poor sufferers who appear in the booths asking for numbers.

Sir W. S. Gilbert's dainty little play, "Sweethearts," is another feature of the bill, in which Erwin and Jane Connolly play the leading roles.

Others on the programme will be Devine and Williams in "The Traveling Salesman and the Female Drummer;" Bessie Browning in imitations, including one of Eva Tanguay; Weber and Elliott in a novelty comedy offering; George Chiyo, the Japanese athlete, and the holdovers, Alice Lyndon Doll and Wilson and Lenore.

Little Theater.

Blanche Hall will be seen at the Little Theater this week, supported by an excellent company in a double bill of one-act plays. One of these is Sudermann's "Margot;" the other, Charles Rann Kennedy's "A Necessary Evil." Both pieces are of the highest type of drama.

Pantages.

Morris Stoloff, a Los Angeles High School boy, said to be quite a wizard on the violin, will headline the new Pantages bill opening tomorrow. Stoloff played for Manager Walker last week, and was immediately engaged for the coming week here, with a tour of the entire Pantages circuit in prospect.

Another headliner is "Little Miss U.S.A.," a musical comedy tabloid with a Japanese setting.

Others will be Lady Betty, a chimpanzee comedienne; Will and Kemp, acrobats; Ober and Dumont, South American dancers; Tom Kennedy and Ethel Burt in story songs, and the "Neal of the Navy" pictures.

Republic.

Because of the great success she is making at the Republic Theater, Sarina de Storey, the Oriental dancer who came direct from the San Francisco exposition, will be held over to become the headliner of the programme which will open tomorrow. She promises an entirely new set of dances, all of which will be her own adaptations.

A contrast to the oriental dances will be those offered by Lester and Dolly, whose travesty on the dance craze, "Tango Troubles," is said to give the clever pair excellent opportunities for nimble stepping and original comedy. Ruth Florence will bring new songs; the Three Clares are declared to have a novel musical number, called "The Dream Doll;" acrobatic stunts are featured by the Baltus Brothers; the Penn City Trio will offer musical novelties and "Salvation Nell" will top the motion picture part of the bill, with Beatriz Michelena in the title role.

Hippodrome.

"The Toymaker," a musical extravaganza, with a cast of twenty persons, forming the Pollard Opera Company, will again headline the Hip bill. The production has a beauty chorus, elaborate scenery and spectacular costumes.

Others on the bill opening tomorrow will be Stansfield, Hall and Lorraine in a farce, "A Quiet Woman;" the Little Caruso with his company of singers in "A Night in Venice;" the Bounding Pattersons in a novelty comedy act; Belding and Snyder, presenting a new song and piano skit, and Owen Wright, in feats of mimicry.

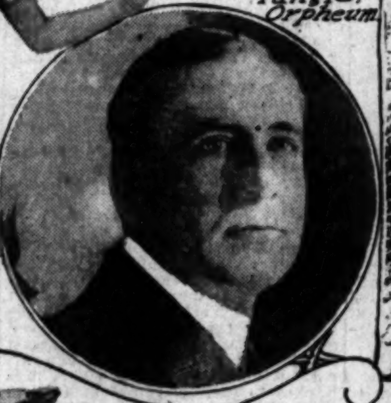
"Mission Play."

During the present season of the "Mission Play" at San Gabriel, which began on January 31, and will close on the evening of December 4—a period of forty-five weeks—it is estimated that 260,000 persons will have seen this great panorama of California's history. These people hailed from every State in the Union and from almost every country in the world.

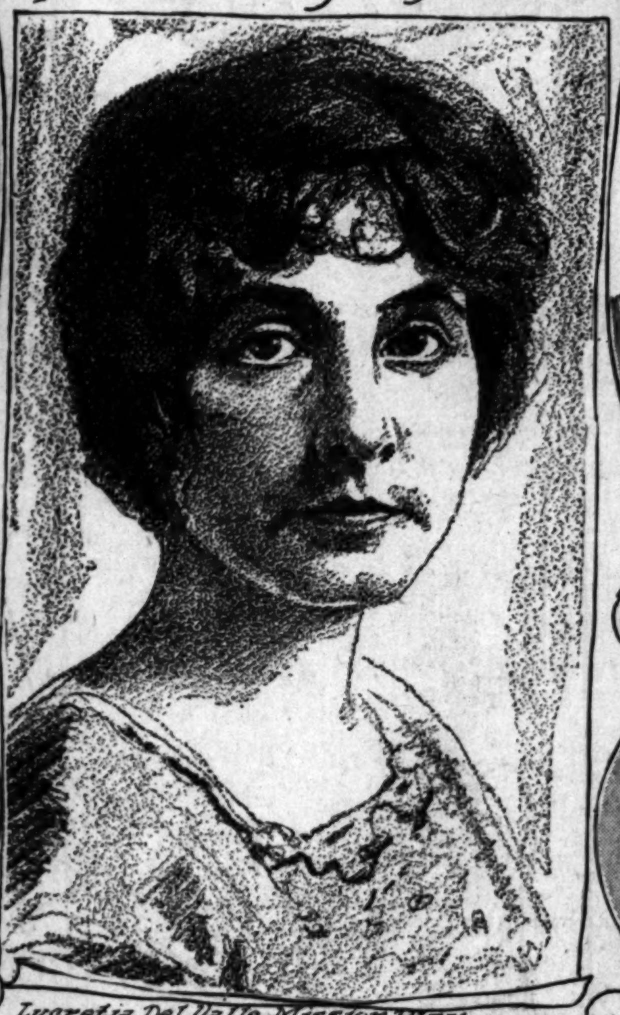
Drama and Vaudeville Sparklers of the Week

Madge Caldwell, "A Telephone Tangle," Orpheum.

Queenie Williams in "The Toy Maker," Hippodrome.



Frank Egan in "The Necessary Evil," Little Theater.



Lucretia Del Valle, Mission Play.

Frances Ring in "Nearly Married," Burbank.

Morris Stoloff, Pantages.

Penn City Trio, Republic.

BRIEUX BROKEN ON THE WHEEL.

The Wheel, in this Instance, is Motion Picture Methods, the Famous French Propaganda-Dramatist's "Damaged Goods" Being the Specific Victim—Critic's Views of Pathoscopic Melange.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

"LOVE'S a gypsy, wild and free." That is it was in Carmen. It is not to be however, at Quinn's Superba this week. In this case love has brooded over the wrongs of society until it has become morbid.

When Brieux wrote "Damaged Goods" he imagined that he had gone the limit. He knew nothing about the possibilities of the American motion picture scenario writer. If Brieux should ever see his play as filmized he would be obliged to go down to his bank and get himself identified every morning for a month. He would not be able to believe his own mirror.

Scenario writers seem to be intoxicated by mechanical effects, and under the influence of this inebriation they are able to perform not only mental acrobatics, but the most astounding cerebral contortions.

When they take up a subtle writer's fine work or a great writer's big story, the first thing they do is to eliminate all the important points and the next thing is to change the purpose. They leave the names and allow the characters to wear the same sized hats and shoes as originally indicated by the author.

Anything written for the purpose of pictures escapes this shock, but heaven help the man who writes something as a novel or a play and has it adapted to photoplay purposes, by somebody else.

One time a poet said something about the saddest of all words being "It might have been." This is a mistake. The saddest are "It never was."

After I had witnessed a trial run of the "Damaged Goods" picture somebody asked what I thought about it, and I said that I greatly admired the manner in which the heroine had contrived to retain her waist line after the experience of maternity.

They say the censors are not going to permit the picture, but I think they will. They mostly always do. Besides, this picture, while vastly unpleasant, is not any worse than thousands of others which have less purpose.

This play is intended to convince the unmarried of their duty to their grandchildren. Some of its statements of supposed fact are probably exaggerations, but the effect is the same. It is even more so. The youthful sinner who looks upon this picture will hesitate.

Now I have always been opposed to any attempt at mixing preaching and art. I never cared about spending $2 in three hours in order to be told that the good die young; I was never willing to devote an entire evening and the price of two dinners for the sake of learning that honesty is the best policy—my idea in going to a theater is not that I may be impressed with the fact that I should never do wrong when anybody is looking at me.

When I desire a sermon, I want to sneak into the back pew of a church where I can put a Canadian dime on the contribution plate and where the pastor never talks for more than fifteen minutes. When I go to a theater, my heart is not crying for moral uplift. I want to see something artistic or humorous, and I don't want it based on denatured physiology. I want it founded on anything abhorrently abnormal. To listen to a three hours' discussion of specific blood poisoning would undoubtedly inspire caution, but I don't go to the theater to be cautious.

Strage to say, my objection to "Damaged Goods" as a play does not hold good in the case of a motion picture.

In the first place, the photoplay house can be converted into a lecture hall with less offense than a theater where the drama is spoken and actual. At the most I only pay a quarter to get in and, if I don't like it, I can escape without having lost much money and the evening will still be young.

Also, children go to motion pictures, because their parents can afford it, and if a child happens to get a little useful information mixed up with his entertainment he will not be permanently injured by the accident.

In this particular instance, I realize that more people should know and think about the dangers of self-contamination, and "seeing is believing."

In the picture they see too much. To show one example after another of rotting flesh is disgusting in the extreme. I am not afraid of the truth, but I close my eyes during this feature of the exhibition. Visualizing an abscess is not my favorite form of entertainment.

All of these local exposures in the picture should be eliminated. The trip to the hospital showing the congenital idiots seemed to be to be another unnecessarily painful excursion. I was willing to admit that such a disease was a misfortune without this Zolaistic realism. It seemed that the scenario writer had said to himself, "Hooray! Here is some mire! Let us get down and grovel!"

Then the introductory thousands of feet showing what a good little boy George DuPont had always been was rather overdone. It reminds one too much of the story which says, "I would have done just what you did—you ——— liar."

It may be true that George never played marbles for keeps and never spent his Sunday-school penny for candy on the way to church, but I can't believe that George was such a blessed young saint as he is pictured. No male man is so unfortunate as to be this good. That may be one reason that so few of us get in such trouble as good little George did later on.

In the second place, George has a perfect genius in this picture for letting other persons manage his affairs. He never, by any chance, exercises any choice or will power of his own.

No wonder George gave up the young seamstress that he truly loved and resigned himself to the bitter destiny of marrying the lovely daughter of the distinguished Senator and of becoming his rich aunt's only heir.

Of course, if you have merely read Brieux and have not seen the picture you know nothing about the seamstress. Neither did Brieux. She was one of the inspirations of the scenario writer. No competent scenario man would do without a poor, but honest seamstress in a romance any more than he would dare to make a picture in which some pretty, but desolate girl does not wander along the seashore under the moon with a baby in her arms, looking for the father so that she can exclaim as she meets her scoundrel whilom lover strolling the beach with the Governor's daughter, "Claude, won't you marry me for our child's sake?"

The unspeakable cruelty of George's grand dame of a mother and his haughty but well meaning aunt in forcing him to accept the hand and fortune of the Senator's daughter, of course, becomes more apparent when you realize that he knew about the seamstress. Funny that Brieux never thought of that.

There were a lot of things Brieux did not think about, but you have to see this picture to know it. Brieux never thought about showing how George took his first step on the downward career of becoming human. The scenario writer did. I can imagine this scenario writer saying to himself, "Now, if my pure young life was about to be overshadowed by the wiles of a designing creature, under what circumstances could I be led astray?" So he imagined a very wicked lady named Mrs. Forsythe (not quite Parisian, this name,) and while her husband was out making her an honest living by getting himself killed in a railroad wreck, she was telephoning George to come to her rooms at midnight to consult her about legal business, George having graduated from "prep" school or something that afternoon.

Poor George goes to the lady's boudoir, gets one whiff of the perfume of her wicked presence, and forgets his mother.

Three months later George goes to a bachelors' dinner given to celebrate his engagement, and those pure young lips learn the fatal kiss of red wine. Ah, cruel, cruel claret!

George gets on a glorious spree, which leads to another party, which starts the trouble.

This wasn't the way it happened when Brieux was writing his own play, but it must be remembered that, in most cases, the motion picture production is business and not sentiment; an industry, not an art. Besides, Brieux himself is a propagandist and not a playwright, and when a propagandist writes a pamphlet on a bad disease and a motion-picture company prepares it for the screen, a good many things may happen, and in this case they did.

When the Senator learns what is the matter with his grandchild and goes to see the doctor in the play, as it is written, he is speedily convinced that poor George was out of luck and that he himself and nearly all other men who escape are simply more fortunate. He is promised the cure of the grandchild in two years, and that of the father also.

In the picture the irate Senator goes gunning for his son-in-law and parades up and down the boy's empty room with a cocked pistol in his hand, looking quite dangerous, until one can console himself with the thought that a fat Senator probably couldn't hit anybody, anyhow.

In the meantime George has written his wife the melancholy note of all true melodrama, wishing that his death could expiate his sin, and then we see him standing in his bathrobe or dressing gown on one of the parapets at Santa Barbara, ready to take the fatal plunge. The plunge itself is not shown in the picture, probably for the reason that Richard Bennett could register gloom better than he could make a high dive.

Really, Mr. Bennett is a superb artist, but while admiring him as an actor, I am compelled to deplore his taste in plays. I must give him credit for a deep sincerity. He realizes that he is making a great sacrifice as an artist, but feels compensated in his belief that he is doing good. I never believe in this sort of thing as belonging to the stage, yet Mr. Bennett reaches an audience in the theater that he never could find in church.

I have heard that he was awakened to the need of an arousing of public conscience on this subject years ago during a talk with a physician, and that when he found Brieux's play he made up his mind to put it on at any cost to his career. He did not have the money to finance it alone, but through the medium of the Medical Record, the American Society for the Promotion of Public Health took the proposition up and paid for thousands of seats during the New York season of the production.

W. G. Clark, who spends half of his time in New York and half in Los Angeles, and who is a man of large business affairs, personally interested the heads of different societies of Columbia University, with the result that 400 tickets which he placed at their disposal were used by students of that institution. He also procured tickets for many young men from Cornell and the College of the City of New York. Other members of the society saw that seats were provided for both boys and girls at the New York High Schools at certain performances, and Mayor Gaynor himself indorsed the play at a time when the censors of New York were trying to suppress it.

When it comes to the censorship of the present picture I think that there should be no talk whatever of its suppression, but that the picture should be deeply pruned. I am sorry that it was not written better, but am glad that it is played so well.

One of the entirely charming features of the film is the work of Mr. Louis Bennison, which would be the case in any production in which this splendid Los Angeles actor appears.

ARTISTS DOING MUCH GOOD WORK

KREISLER RETURNS ON SALE OF PHOTOS LARGE.

Money Goes Direct to Fund for Artists Abroad—Musicians to Aid in Restoring Friendliness After War—Allan Recital and Other Local Events.

A very considerable sum was cleared by Kreisler by the sale of photographs at the time of his concerts recently in this city. Latest figures show the amount to have been some $650, all of which goes directly to the fund to help destitute artists in Vienna.

The largest return came in from the sale of photographs at the matinee concert, and a great deal of money might also have been made at the evening recital, had not the photographs run out before a hundred had been disposed of. But private donations helped to make up for any loss which might have been sustained on this account, as patrons of the concert were advised to purchase the photographs at the Alexandria Hotel.

While here Kreisler received a gift of 200 photographs from the Hemenway company, and 400 reproductions of his photograph in half tones from the Fred Alles Lithographing Company.

Doing Good Work.

Paderewski is another famous musician who is doing great work to aid his fellow artists. He is interested in those who are in Poland, but like Kreisler he desires that the funds be applied to the destitute of all nationalities who happen to be in his own country.

Following the close of the war both these musicians as well as others plan to go into the various countries of Europe and give concerts for the benefit of musicians. It is believed by many that this plan, when carried out, will serve to some extent to quicken the restoration of a spirit of friendliness between the various nations.

Fine Artist.

A number of Angelenos had an opportunity, although not under the most favorable circumstances, to hear a singer of rare artistry last Friday at the Friday Morning Club's monthly musical programme. Hugh Allan, baritone, possessor of a voice of richness and power that shows the finish of fine training was heard.

Despite the fact that he was suffering from a severe cold, Mr. Allan offered a series of highly interesting numbers in a manner which thoroughly charmed his hearers. His Neapolitan songs were particularly fascinating, given in their native dialect. He also sang groups of Russian songs, by Rochmaninoff and English songs, as well as the "Credo" aria from "Othello." In the last named Mr. Allan manifested a very fine degree of dramatic power.

It is unfortunate, at least for music lovers, that he did not give a public concert during his stay here.

Chamber Music.

The Saint-Saens Quintette Club will inaugurate its season with a concert next Friday evening at the Ebell Clubhouse, presenting a very interesting programme. Mrs. Catherine Shank, soprano, will be soloist.

The feature chamber music number will be the Quintette, Opus 7, of Widor, which will close the programme. Three songs by Edwin H. Clark, who plays first violin in the Quintette, will be rendered by Mrs. Shank.

Following is the programme in full:

Trio, (a) Andante, (b) Scherzando, Op. 9.... Rachmaninoff
Aria, Oppilion qui seduit (Portenobe)........Handel
Mrs. Catherine Shank.
Miss Grace Moore, accompanist.
Quartetta, (a) Aria for G string................Bach
(b) Scherzando ....Dvorak
Vocal solo, (a) Dear One, (b) Lullaby, (c) Little Sweetheart and I..............Edwin H. Clark
Mrs. Catherine Shank.
Morris Stoloff, violin obligato.
Quintetta, (a) Allegro, (b) Andante, (c) Molto Vivace, (d) Allegro, Op. 7..................Widor

Beside Edwin H. Clark, the following are the members of the quintette: W. A. Clark, Jr., second violin; Carl Angeloty, viola; Michael G. Elsoff, violincello, and William Strobridge, piano.

Close Symphony Contracts.

Formal contracts between the instrumentalists of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra and the members of the executive board were entered into last week, Dr. Norman Bridge, president of the association, signing for the board. Forty-five contracts have been signed, and men so engaged will participate in all programmes given by the symphony this season, while for the symphony concerts an augmented orchestra with sixty-five to seventy men will play.

Arrangements are now completed for four out-of-town concerts by the orchestra this year, three of them to be given in Pasadena and one in Ontario at the Chaffee Union High School. Many other adjacent cities are making tentative plans for appearances of the Symphony for one or more concerts.

One of the features of the Symphony's work will be the popular concerts, the first of which will be given at Trinity Auditorium December 4. At these concerts Director Tandler has arranged to introduce at least one and possibly two local artists, and he will also give consideration to the notable works of Los Angeles composers which are suitable for production.

For the first concert Mr. Tandler has accepted an overture written by Charles E. Pemberton. Mr. Pemberton has been a member of the Symphony Orchestra for seventeen years and has written this work and dedicated it especially to the Symphony. Soloists for this first concert have not yet been announced.

Sigmund Beel, concert master for the Symphony, whose solo appearance last year was a great artistic success, will play the Symphony Espagnole by Lalo at one of the concerts this year. This brilliant and beautiful violin solo is one found only in the repertoire of the most finished artists.

Lebegott Now Director.

Edoardo Lebegott, formerly conductor of the People's Orchestra and Chorus, has been selected to lead the forces of the Los Angeles Oratorio Society. He made his first appearance at the director's desk last Thursday evening at Choral Hall in the Auditorium Building. The Oratorio Society is made up of former members of the People's Chorus and the festival chorus. The organization is now working on the "Messiah," and will present it about Christmas time. Verdi's "Requiem" will also probably be studied. Frederick Brueschweiler resigned as conductor of the society.

Orpheus Club Season.

Active preparations are now being made by the Orpheus Club, one of the most important men's choral organizations in the city, for its first concert, which will occur November 4 at Trinity Auditorium, under the baton of J. P. Dupuy. Three numbers to be featured will be the contest songs, "The Assyrian Came Down" Cyril Jenkins,) "Drontheim" (Protheroe) and "Hiawatha" (Arthur Foote.)

Distinguished artist.

Florence Hinkle, dramatic soprano of great note, who will be heard as one of the Philharmonic artists this season. She is new to this Coast.

Aside from these three selections all the works presented by the club this year will be new. The first concert of the season will include among its chief numbers "My Friend, Pierrot" (Leoncavallo) and "Swing Along" (Marion Cooke.) Later in the season a curious play upon musical terms in chorus form will be given in "Italian Salad" (Genee.) Another excellent novelty will be "The Builders."

Soloists for the year are announced as follows: Miss Grace James, soprano (first concert;) Jaime Overton, violinist (second concert,) and Will Garroway, pianist (third concert.) Mr. Garroway is also the club's regular accompanist. The second and third concerts will be given respectively March 2 and June 1.

The Orpheus Club carried away the prize at the Eisteddfod contest last summer, and, although there was only one other club competing, this prize would not have been awarded unless the selections of the winning organization were up to a certain standard. The following letter from E. R. Kroeger, chairman of the Committee of Adjudication of the Eisteddfod, was recently received by Mr. Dupuy:

"The work done by your club was the most remarkable done in the entire four days of the Eisteddfod. In fact, I can safely say that in my experience I never heard finer male chorus singing, and I have heard considerable. It is a fact that the first prize would have been awarded to the McNeil Club of Sacramento if the work done by your organization had not been superior."

Trio's Musicale.

The Fuhrer-De Zielinski Trio, with Miss Bessie Fuhrer violinist, Miss Lucy Fuhrer 'cellist and Jaroslav de Zielinski pianist, have issued invitations for a musicale to be given at the studio home of Mr. De Zielinski, No. 1343 South Burlington, next Sunday at 4 p.m. The programme is announced as a "romantic" one, with a group of Fantasiestucke by Schumann for the opening number, a Bach Sonata No. 6, originally written for violin alone, but with an accompaniment arranged by Schumann, to be played by Miss Fuhrer, and a quartette by Rheinberger as the closing number. In the quartette the assistance of Sydney Peck, viola player, is announced. Mr. H. C. Cassidy, tenor, will sing "Murmuring Zephyrs" by Jensen and a serenade by Raff.

Faculty Recital.

The opening faculty concert of the De Chauvenet Conservatory of Music will take place next Saturday afternoon at the conservatory auditorium, No. 845 South Figueroa street. Solos will be rendered by the following members of the faculty: Jean de Chauvenet, piano; Earl B. Valentine, violin; Mrs. De Chauvenet, voice; Miss Gertrude Jones, flute; William H. Taggart, clarinet, and George Isbel, cornet. Some ensemble numbers will be given also. Hugo Steinkorpf, instructor in German, and George Jomier, French, will each give a three-minute talk on the study of languages. The concert is free to the public.

Philharmonic Note.

Attention has been called by L. E. Behymer to the fact that music patrons desiring to arrange for a season ticket to the Philharmonic series may still do so, choosing from the artists scheduled for appearances here during the winter, any six which particularly appeal to them. The artists offered are Maud Powell and Albert Spalding, violinists; Johanna Gadski, Tillie Koenen, Emilio de Gogorza, Frances Alda, Margarete Matzenauer, Ferrari-Fontana and Florence Hinkle, vocalists, and Tina Lerner and Ossip Gabrilowitsch, pianists.

Musical Evening.

Mrs. Jane Catherwood will give her first musical evening of the season next Thursday at the Regent apartments, on the corner of Sixth street and Park View. The programme will be rendered by Dr. Frederick Clark, baritone; Archibald, Sessions, organist; Dr. Alter, violinist, and Robert Alter, violincellist. Mrs. Catherwood is the local representative of the Musical Courier, and her evening musicales have always been interesting social and artistic events.

Conservatory Faculty.

The faculty of the California Conservatory, of which Florencio Constantino, the famous operatic tenor, will be the chief instructor, will be an unusually strong one. This conservatory has just been organized and will be devoted to the teaching of all branches of music. It will occupy quarters in the Little Theater. As his immediated asistant in vocal training Mr. Constantino has Manuel S. de Lara, a teacher formerly with the National Conservatory of Mexico City. Another voice specialist will be Mrs. Gertrude Grosscup-Perkins, formerly of the Conservatory of Chicago. The remaining members of the faculty and the various branches which they teach are as follows: Mme. Ethel Willheim Allen, piano; Miss Esther Gonzales, piano; Theodore Gordohn, violin; Frederick Brueschweiler, organ and composition; Carl Becker, viola and violin; Mac Gates, violin; Ludwig Opid, violoncello; double-bass, J. Musso; flute, Bela Adams; oboe, E. Mancusi; clarinet, Antonio Raimondi; bassoon, Nicola Donatelli; cornet and trumpet, Ernest Williams; W. H. D'Alfonso, French horn; O. Perissi, trombone; William H. Pohle, tympani and xylophone, Max Wesser; harp, Signor Valenza; dancing, Signora Matildita. Other teachers will be added later.

Interpretative Lectures.

A series of interpretative lectures on the various musical works to be presented this year by the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra will be given by Mrs. Ethel Graham Lynde, official lecturer for "Fairyland" last summer. She will be assisted at the piano by Mrs. Gertrude Ross. These interpretative lectures will be given the Tuesday afternoon before each concert at Cumnock Hall.

Joint Song Recital.

A joint song recital will be given by Mrs. Dorothy Thayer, soprano, and Anthony Carlson, basso, November 6, at Ebell Clubhouse. Mrs. Guy Bush will be the accompanist.

Olga Steeb, well-known artist of the piano, has returned to Redlands from a trip to the north. She played with great success at San Jose the 18th inst. She visited with friends in San Francisco.

Bertha Wilbur has returned to this city from a course of summer study under the direction of the famous pianist, Leopold Godowsky.

A high honor has been paid to a former student in the college of music, University of Southern California, according to a letter received recently by Dean W. F. Skeele. Miss Violet Cossock, a Los Angeles girl, and student last year in the university, recently received an opportunity to play the piano in the presence of Signor Busoni, who was then spending a short time in New York. So deeply did the playing of the brilliant young local musician impress the noted pianist that he offered to instruct her in music without charge—an offer which it is needles to say, she accepted with gratitude. Signor Busoni was shortly afterward forced to return to his native country, however, and was unable to keep his promise.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is said to have recently received from his father enough stock to control the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, about $34,000,000. The gift was made soon after the appearance of Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., before the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations at its New York City hearing several months ago. For three days Mr. Rockefeller was under examination, with Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, chairman of the commission, as the inquisitor. The admiration of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., for his son became apparent soon after the close of the industrial hearing, and it was then that the presentation of stock was made, it was declared.

Sir Wilfred Powell, British Consul-General to Pennsylvania, Ohio and Delaware, with headquarters in Philadelphia, who announced his intention to retire in December, will make his home in America for the present at least. "I like America very much," he said, "and expect to tour the country before returning again to England." The reported death of Sir Wilfred's youngest son, Garret H. M. Powell, in the Flanders campaign, is believed to have done much toward his decision to retire. He will go into private life and does not expect to again enter the diplomatic service of his government.

Jose Pardo, who has again assumed the Presidency of Peru, is entering upon his third term, he having been first elected in 1904. His career is most unusual, regarding it from the political standpoint, for his father was a famous statesman, who became President of Peru. The incumbent, during the early years of his life, devoted his attention to the family estates, the principal production of which is sugar cane. The benefits derived by the country during his previous term of office, where the reforms were effected, show that numerous treaties were signed, as well as diplomatic agreements, which paved the way for the amicable solution of the grave frontier disputes with the neighboring republics.

Chandler Anderson of New York, special counselor of the State Department, has retired from the government service and will resume the practice of international law. Mr. Anderson, who was counselor of the department under the Taft administration, was pressed into service when he was in Europe at the outbreak of the war, being assigned as counsel to United States embassies and legations in the war zone. Later he made a special investigation of prison camps, and when he returned to the United States he was requested to aid in clearing up the congestion of work in the State Department.

in California, have seldom been surpassed.

Palace of Pictures.

Owing to the great sensation which has been caused by "The Blindness of Virtue," which, with fascinating Edna Mayo and Bryant Washburn in the leading roles, is being shown at the Palace of Pictures, the management has decided to hold it over for another week, starting tomorrow.

The plot of "The Blindness of Virture" is gripping at all times and the sincere acting of the stars and the supporting cast drives home the lesson so that it cannot be forgotten. It is a powerful plea against allowing false modesty to keep parents from telling their sons and daughters of important sex facts, and graphically shows the sorrow and misery caused by such ignorance.

THE NEW LITERATURE.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

One of the most fascinating little books that has come to my desk of late is a dainty, paper-covered brochure bearing the ambiguous title. "Amendments to Constitution and Referendum Measures, with Arguments Respecting the Same." This arrives with the compliments of the Secretary of State, and it seems to be having the largest circulation of any polite fiction of the year.

I have been so deeply engrossed in this volume that I have missed two or three chances to make choice realty investments. It seems a shame to pass these things up over a little matter of reading, but perhaps it may be all for the best, in view of the fact that I have been wondering where in the dickens I would get the money to pay taxes on what I now have. Some days it looks as if I might have to go to work.

This book I started to tell you about is a marvel of composite authorship. Some of our most imminent statesmen have contributed to its pages. Quite a bunch of the work—the first and second chapters, in fact, are devoted to election etiquette. How to behave while alone in an election booth with a rubber stamp and a horse-blanket ballot, is described at some length. It takes about 25,000 thousand words to tell it—which is more than the late Mr. Roosevelt ever dared to incorporate in any of his felicitous messages to his fellow-Americans. I haven't quite finished all the exciting paragraphs in the book, but I hope to do so before next Tuesday, at which time I will be called upon to exercise the suggestions made. I fancy there are complete directions as to proper dress and demeanor, and whether it is necessary to have a shave and hair cut before going to the polls. When a person has not voted for three or four weeks he gets a bit rusty and hence this volume is very timely.

I had thought of wearing as an election costume a suit of clothes I bought at a fire sale four years ago. The panties have a delicious fringe that sartorial experts declare is quite de rigueur in these days of fur-cuffed shoes. I know they are de rigueur because if I wore them back east I would experience all de rigors of winter in them. Of course, this suit is not wholly new, but it is the last thing out with me, and goes very suitably with an election under our State administration. If I wore only what I have acquired since taking on this raiment I would be pinched for posing as September Morn.

I suppose the book will tell me of the proper behavior before the election officials. On greeting the election judge I may possibly remark: "The last time I was before a judge he gave me twenty days for exceeding the speed limit." He will smile genially at this sally and, the ice being broken, we may then proceed about our business, which ranges from the casting to the counting of the ballots.

One of the things in the book I do not like very well is the suggestion to do away with party names on future ballots. This hits me right where I live. I am what some people call a Prohibition crank. We have preserved a party organization for forty years and to vote a sraight licket at all elections has become a religion with me. The Constitution provides for the free and uninterrupted exercise of our religious opinions and I think this includes the Prohibition party. The fellows who are urging the change explain that we can still have our and all that—but they make it practically impossible to exercise the party party functions. If they admit that we can be a political party and act as a political party and that it is right that we should, why not leave us in the peaceable possession of what we have? If an individual can nominate himself for office on his purely personal initiative surely a party having a thousand or more sponsors should have the same right.

I am told by a high-browed person that in no other State in the Union has such a radical proposition been urged—that, in fact, it is unconstitutional. The State of California has been taking on a reputation for doing freak things and it is hurting a whole lot in the opinion of strangers.' The country is beginning to consider the Californian as a badly-taxed jack-rabbit who kicks up his heels and runs when he hears Johnson roar. Take away my privileges; tax me for bond interest that I cannot pay, but spare me the Prohibition cross on my ballot.

In the book I am telling you about I started to read the chapter on rural credits, but it got so exciting I had to lay the volume down to keep from going mad. So far as I could gather the plot is to nullify the Constitutional provision which forbids the State from extending its credit to any person, party or corporation. The reformers want it fixed so that bonds can be issued which shall be mortgage liens upon the lands of individuals and the State shall guarantee the payment of principal and interest. But this applies only to agricultural lands. Other borrowers will have to continue to hustle for themselves. It sems to me that this is an unconstitutional way of amending the Constitution—but what's the Constitution among vandals?

Of course the book suggests some new plans for taxation. We've got to have that of course. All we need now is a few million dollars to build a few hundred miles of boulevards over some of our choicest mountains.

It begins to look as if I really would have to go to work.

BOYS' VICTORIES.

Through Raising Bumper Crops Boy Farmers Win Transcontinental Journey.

Twenty-eight California boys have won the twenty-eight largest prizes ever offered for victory in a boys' agricultural club crop-growing contest.

This prize is a 9000-mile journey from the Pacific to the Atlantic and back again, conducted by the University of California, for every one of the twenty-eight young champion farmers.

These crop-growing contests, organized by the University of California, have resulted in astounding examples of what the boy farmers can win from the fertile soil of California by using modern methods. They have opened the eyes of the boys' fathers. The neighbors for miles around have marveled at what boys have accomplished as compared with what most members of the farming community have been doing, with the traditional methods. Here are some of the proud achievements of some of these boy farmers:

Xinal Hunt of Arcata, Cal., made a net profit of $104.30 by growing 197½ bushels of potatoes on a third of an acre of land. His crop was nearly five times as heavy as the average California potato crop.

Albert Jackson of Whittier, Los Angeles county, made a net profit of $65.03 on a quarter of an acre of mixed vegetables.

Frank Nissen of Esparto made a net profit of $51 by fattening one pig for market.

Guy Boyce of Auburn made a net profit of $57.31 raising 1000 young peach trees.

Clyde de Vilbiss of Petterson made $10.95 net profit by feeding two pigs so scientifically that they gained 338 pounds in 100 days.

Oscar Dimmick of Lemoore bought four pigs for $36.40 and fed them up until each had made a gain of 201 pounds. Then they were worth $150.

Corlis Wilkinson of Riverside made a net profit of $30 by raising 166 2-3 bushels of potatoes on a half acre.

Morrill Van Slyke of Ripon made a net profit of $22.25 by growing 1035 pounds of popcorn on a half acre.

Herbert Harris of Lompoc made a net profit of $38.81 by growing 1745 pounds of blue-pod beans on a half acre.

Stanley La Sha of El Cajon fed two pigs so successfully that in nine months they made a gain of 359 pounds.

Baker Porter of Delano made $21 net profit by raising 21 4-5 bushels of potatoes on one-eighth of an acre.

H. Charles Elder of Fowler raised 824 pounds of Tepary beans on half an acre, clearing $44.62.

Earle Roberts of Kerman raised 1150 pounds of potatoes on a quarter of an acre of land, making a net profit of $15.45.

Dewey Cameron of Kerman made $10 net profit by raising 1520 pounds of potatoes on a quarter of an acre.

Robert Haughey of Eureka made a net profit of $61.58 by raising 105 bushels of potatoes on a quarter of an acre.

Angelo Semino of Mountain View made a net profit of $36.93 by raising 63 1-3 bushels of potatoes on a quarter of an acre.

George Cooper of Sonoma cleared $9.80 raising 21 2-3 bushels of potatoes on an eighth of an acre.

Albin Anderson of Gonzales raised 415 pounds (dry weight) of pink beans on a quarter of an acre, making a net profit of $21.92.

Ralph Parker of Lodi made a net profit of $30.05 by raising 32.7 bushels of potatoes on an eighth of an acre.

Claiborne White of Stockton made a net profit of $26.13 by raising 59 bushels of potatoes on a quarter of an acre.

Leslie R. Haupt of Bakersfield made a net profit of $19.85 by raising 63.5 bushels of potatoes on a quarter of an acre.

Louis Lanini of Ferndale made a net profit of $9.43 by feeding one pig so that it gained 257 pounds in 135 days.

Ralph Weaver of San Jose made a net profit of $33.21 by raising 63 bushels of potatoes on an eighth of an acre.

John Cantoni of Napa raised 50.4 bushels (shelled) of field corn on one acre, making a net profit of $30.50.

August Teping of St. Helena raised 74 bushels (shelled) of field corn on one acre, making a net profit of $58.90.

Peter de la Cuesta of Rutherford raised 57.3 bushels of field corn on an acre, making a net profit of $66.30.

Shirley Drever of Woodland fed one pig for 180 days so that it gained 253 pounds, making a net profit of $25.

Alton Emery of Salinas raised 470 pounds of beans on a quarter of an acre, making a net profit of $15.31.

Many hundreds of the other members of these boys' clubs made records almost equally good. There were 309 of them in attendance at the annual convention of the boys' agricultural clubs of California, at the University Farm on October 14 and 15—the greatest attendance ever recorded anywhere in America for such a convention of boys' crop-growing contest clubs. Every one of them went home to his own community an enthusiastic missionary of profit, pride and pleasure to be won from growing crops and raising farm animals in the new modern ways which mean cheaper and better food for the world and prosperity and independence for the farmer.

THE MAYFLOWER MYSTERY.

How so Small a Passenger List Could Have Resulted in so Many Colonial Families.

[New York Sun:] Among the most curious problems of multiplication is the innumerable multitude sprung from the loins of the Mayflower. There were but 102 names, if memory serves us honestly, on the passenger list of that Pilgrim ark. A stern and rockbound climate, insufficient food, privations of many kinds, cut down swiftly the first sacred load of founders, but what survived increased incredibly. The historians or poets of weddings habitually tell us that the bride is "descended from an old colonial family that came over in the Mayflower." Frequently the bridegroom is of the same hardy ancient stock; humble folks made illustrious by the illusion of time and the vanity of their prosperous posterity.

Thus a large part of the native population bears in its hand the symbolic Mayflower and gazes in all pride on Plymouth Rock and Puddle Dock; and the Mayflower mystery or miracle is made even more incomprehensive by the inclusion within that vessel of illimitable capacity of the nucleus of the "German element" in this country. For, ever since the beginning of the war the newspapers have been getting, they are still getting and some are still unsophisticated enough to print, letters from persons who assert that they are of "pure American descent" and "Mayflower ancestory" and utter in phrases wherein a revealing bit of German idiom usually occurs their passionate devotion to kultur!

What carpet of magic, what little copper box wherefrom issues a djinn who hits his head against the clouds and darkens earth with his prodigious bulk, is a billionth part as marvelous as the insides of the little Mayflower, which bore to "these shores" the ancestors of most Americans and all "German-Americans?"

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

The Rockefeller Foundation to which Mr. Rockefeller gave $100,000,000, and Mrs. Rockefeller $48,000, has amply justified its creation by its account of expenditures. The total expenditures from May 14, 1913, when its charter was signed, to January 1, 1915, was $2,571,903, of which $1,430,443 was in direct payments, $282,530 an account of appropriations to other agencies, and $858,940 on founder's requisitions—that is, by personal direction of Mr. Rockefeller. The chief items of expenditures were:

Among the founder's requisition gifts have been $527,315 to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, $150,000 to the Brooklyn Y.M.C.A. for land and buildings, $50,000 to the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society and $32,500 to the foreign work of the Y.M.C.A.

Of the disbursements for the International Health Commission, $40,367 was spent in the West Indies, $27,395 in Central America, $43,333 in administrative expenses and $22,141 in Egypt.

The expenditures in the Industrial Relations inquiry are classified as follows: Salaries, $4068; traveling expenses, $455; other expenses, $769.

W. A. Rankin of Onarga, Ill., recently offered a conditional gift of $50,000 for the construction of new buildings and increasing the equipment of the Grand Prairie Seminary. The condition imposed was that $100,000 additional be raised. The Central Illinois conference of the Methodist church, to which denomination the seminary is affiliated, has accepted the gift, and will raise the money required by Mr. Rankin.

The late Mrs. Caroline E. Davis of North Andover, Mass., left specific bequests amounting to $16,600 to eight Episcopal churches and charitable institutions of that religious denomination, and the balance of her large estate was to be divided equally between the Massachusetts General Hospital, the Salem Hospital and two Episcopal charitable institutions.

Capt. Richard A. Stockton, a hero gold medalist of the American Cross of Honor and professor of military science at the Bordentown (N. J.) Military Academy, recently plunged into the surf at Sea Girt and saved the lives of Miss Mae Wells, daughter of Mrs. Phoebe Wells of New York, and Harold J. Peters, a member of Battery A, New Jersey Artillery of East Orange.

Gov. James F. Filder and Adjt.-Gen. Wilbur F. Sadler watched the rescue from the beach. Stockton, who is a captain in the New Jersey National Guard, was walking on the beach attired in a dress uniform when he heard the shouts of Miss Wells and Peters.

One-half of the tracks of the Eastern Railway of France and nearly 300 of its stations lie in devastated territory to the north of the French lines. As a consequence the road is seriously crippled, but it has done its best to provide for those of its employees who can no longer work or who are fighting in the trenches. Every soldier employee receives half-pay; if a soldier employee is married his wife receives the other half. Every employee who has lost his position because of the German occupation receives his regular salary. That is only a single instance of the whole-hearted sacrifices made by the entire French nation in the present war.

War does not make all men bloodthirsty. On the banks of the Yser in Belgium, where there has been such fierce fighting, the ambulance men one day found a young German badly wounded, and in the midst of the bursting shells they stopped to scribble a line describing what they had seen and heard, and pinned it on the blanket that enveloped him.

When he reached the improvised hospital the nurses read the blood-stained sheet of packing paper, and one or two brushed away tears as they did so. It bore these words: "He saved the lives of seven British soldiers." It is good to know that, tenderly cared for by an English doctor, he eventually recovered.

James Whitcomb Riley sent to all the Chicago schools on his recent birthday anniversary the following message: "May you always keep young in spirit and in health. May your lives be as full as mine has been made by the grace of God and the good will of my fellow-men. That, in brief, is the description of the most successful life which can be lived."

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

German scientists have made a fuel with two-thirds the heating value of coal from sudd, the refuse vegetable matter of the River Nile.

Wireless messages have been sent and received at a rate of more than one hundred words a minute by apparatus invented in England.

Woad, the plant from which ancient Britons made a famous blue dye, still is cultivated for that purpose in some parts of England.

Making use of a wireless receiver, apparatus has been invented which records each flash of lightning in a storm with the time that it occurs.

The government of Tasmania is damming a large lake and will construct a hydro-electric plant from which current for light and power will be distributed throughout the state.

Using a chemical process, a Moscow engineer claims to have produced a finer linen yarn than the finest spun, at low cost.

With a thermo-electric battery of his own invention, a scientist of the United States Bureau of Standards has measured the heat from 112 celestial bodies, including 108 stars.

To lessen the smoke and gas in tunnels Swiss railroads are equipping their locomotive stacks with lids to be closed when a tunnel is entered, steam being exhausted beneath the engines.

The department of agriculture recently announced that it had been demonstrated that fiber flax equal to the best European can be successfully grown in the United States.

The use of a new drug discovered two years ago by Prof. Horwitz, of Cornell University, has been attended with such encouraging results in the treatment of so-called incurable cancers at the New York Polyclinic hospital that Dr. W. H. Axford, of that institution, believes it may prove the long-sought cure for cancerous growths.

Now is the time to buy:

That new metal hot water bottle. On these first chilly nights, a trifle of warmth for the feet may secure the night's peaceful slumbers and at the same time prevent an all-winter's cold for the less vigorous members of the family.

Practical Suggestion.

The corn popper is a handy implement for use in toasting marshmallows for the Halloween feast. It may also be used for quickly broiling thin slices of ham or other meat, as well as for toasting bread or wafers, over the gas flame.

Compliments L. A. Advertiser.

Another feather was stuck in the cap of our city when in a recent article in a New York magazine, Bullock's was referred to as one of the four stores in the United States which embody the highest ideal of advertising. The four stores mentioned in the article were, Bullock's in Los Angeles, Altman's in New York, Marshall Field's in Chicago and Wanamaker's. The fact is stated that their advertising presents the soul of the establishments, radiates their personality, creating in the minds of the public an impression of the class of business for which those stores stand, compelling attention, respect, and a favorable idea of the firms conducting the business.

For Wee Footies.

A welcome giftie for the little ones is a pair of those bunny slippers which may easily be made at home. White or gray flannel cut in the shape of a rabbit, the toes gathered to form a "nose," and having ears sewed on each side to give the very real effect of "ears," make slip-on slippers which will be donned without protest on cold mornings and evenings.

Bre'r Rabbit Rings.

One would think it Easter time, the way bunny gifts are hatching, but they are as welcome to the little ones as the gifts which bloom in the spring. The latest is the "Bre'r Rabbit" ring. It is a finger ring of sliver set with the carved figure of a rabbit. Each ring comes fastened to a card, in rabbit shape bearing a greeting. For but a few cents these gifts are available and they will as greatly please the childish taste as though set with diamonds.

Fine Lace for Less.

Dropped to the basement and the prices enmeshed in the fine film of its weave, is the what's-left of a lot of lovely laces. Really when placed on sale at several times the present price we all voted that lace such a bargain that we arose early in the morning to secure our share, and now—but of course there are only a few yards of it.

Festal Bargains.

Of all party gown bargains those offered for less than a quarter in that seven cornered store on Broadway take the lead. Well—no!—I do not mean "two-bits"—absurd! A bigger quarter than that, I mean less than a bigger quarter; but too cheap at that as you'll agree when you examine quality and features.

Don't Do It!

H'm, I believe [illegible] right. Let us hasten to adopt, [illegible] muringly, the latest mode.

That is what the Good [illegible] keeper decided when she heard [illegible] them. THE WEEK.

Parties, Receptions, Dinners, Weddings and the Like.

SOCIETY will center its activities the coming week upon two auspicious affairs—the observance of Halloween and attending the Automobile and Flower Show.

All Hallows, with its accompanying weird, fascinating witches and black cats and jack-o'lanterns and ghosts, is always a time of special merrymaking. The festive time even antedates Christianity. The two chief characteristics of ancient Halloween—the lighting of bonfires and the belief that of all nights in the year this is the one conducive to ghosts and witches wandering abroad—is not lost sight of in these modern days, for there are to be many sheet and pillow-case parties and in nearly every anticipated function one hears of hobgoblins, pumpkin lanterns and other unique modes of illumination which are to find resourceful outlets through ingenious hosts. After all, our earth druids find autumn time most appropriate for such festivities, with our wealth of nuts and apples and winter store of fruits playing an important, effective motif.

To think that in 1915, we, too, are roasting nuts and "apple ducking" as were once the young folk in medieval England!

Milady donned her smartest autumn attire and hied herself to the brilliant opening of the Automobile and Flower Show last night. And, just as she expected, all her friends were noted in the large attendance.

Things promise to be exceedingly gay this week, now that the beautiful flower show, augmented by the newest in motordom, is in full swing. And the innovation of introducing dancing is going to prove an exceptionally popular feature, especially with the inspiring music provided.

Seemingly there were never quite so many-toned chrysanthemums on exhibition in our sunny Southland before. And roses of such beauty that they bring forth exclamations of delight. The Boston Store building was crowded on all three floors last night, and will undoubtedly continue to attract lovers of flowers and automobiles throughout the week. It does not close until the 30th inst. The third floor, in its entirety, is being devoted to the flower show—a veritable riot of color and beauty.

Eclat was lent to the occasion by the fact that three notable society women officiated as judges in the table decoration competition—Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy and Mrs. J. A. A. Van Kaathoven, than whose judgment there could be no better.

Francis-Simpson Marriage.

Society has long been anticipating the approaching marriage of Miss Evelyne Laurette Francis, the beautiful young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Francis of No. 2233 West boulevard, and Donald Stent Simpson, who will exchange their maritial vows at St. Matthias Church on the evening of the 28th inst. at 8 o'clock.

The wedding party is now complete and includes Rex Giffin Hardy for best man, with Messrs. Wheeler Chase, Howard MacOwen, Roger Prior and Temple Ashbrook ushers. Attending the bride will be Mrs. Rex Giffin Hardy, matron of honor; Miss Juanita Hamilton, maid of honor, and Misses Marie Wixson, Irene Wixson and Harriett Russell, bridesmaids, while Margaret Francis and Frances Alexander, the bride-elect's cousins, are to be flower girls.

Following the nuptial service a reception will be held at the Francis home, to be attended by some sixty guests.

Miss Francis has been one of the most popular brides-to-be, and since the announcement of her betrothal has been the recipient of innumerable pretty courtesies, Mrs. Rex Hardy having entertained for her on Friday and Miss Juanita Hamilton of Kingsley drive yesterday. Mrs. Lisle Argo also complimented Miss Francis on Tuesday afternoon, when she entertained Miss Juanita Hamilton, Miss Harriet Russell, Mrs. Rex G. Hardy, Miss Marie Wixson, Miss Irene Wixson, Miss Elizabeth Norfleet, Miss Dorothy Durage, Mrs. Truman Edwards, Miss Katherine Fitch, Miss Marion Fitch, Miss Adelaide Shilling, Miss Elizabeth Merriam of Oakland, Miss Dorthy Hallock, Miss Margaret Bixler, Mrs. Ward Wells Montgomery, Miss Virginia Lovell and Mrs. Warren I. Shilling.

The tea table was done in zinnias, most beautiful at just this season, accentuated by bride's slippers, hearts, lover's knots and favors suggestive of Dan Cupid.

Miss Gillis a Bride.

Many friends were privileged to witness the beautiful marriage service which on Monday night at the hour of 9 united at the hymeneal altar pretty Miss Dorothy Gillis, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Conron Gillis of No. 907 West Twenty-eighth street, and Percy Wallace Rairden, Rev. George Davidson being officiant.

Mrs. Fred McCormick, herself a bride of last December, and sister of Miss Gillis, was matron of honor, wearing pale blue taffeta, as did the bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Palmer. Their flowers were of bridesmaid rosebuds and maidenhair fronds.

The bride was a picture of loveliness in white satin and real lace, made with court train. Her veil of tulle was caught in a piquant Dutch cap and orange blossoms, and her shower was of orchids and bride roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Her brother, Lindsay Gillis, was best man.

A wealth of pink chrysanthemums decked the rooms, with pink roses forming central mounds on the supper tables. Harp, violin and 'cello formed a trio to discourse sweet music.

Mrs. Gillis was resplendent in wistaria satin and velvet.

Fo rthe first part of their honeymoon the happy pair have gone to the hunting lodge of the bride's father in San Diego, which bears the happy tradition that all young couples who dwell beneath this roof will be especially blest—a tradition which has proved itself in numerous cases. They are going to live for a short time at the Grand Canyon, and will later return to the bridegroom's home at Medan, Sumatra. Mr. Rairden's father, Bradstreet Rairden, is Consul-General of the Dutch East Indies at Batavia. Mr. Rairden, Jr., also served as Vice-Consusl for a considerable Consul for a considerable period, is period, is 26 years of age, and is an important representative for a Dutch company for all that territory.

It was one of the prettiest weddings of the season—all sunshine and laughter, and privileged to attend were Gen. M. H. Sherman, Mrs. R. P. Sherman, Mrs. W. T. Gillis, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nash, Arthur H. Fleming, Miss Marjorie Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Edmond, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gorham, Mr. and Mrs C. L. Bundy, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. John Rigdon Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Henry O. Eversole, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hartzell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Keller, Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Lindsey; Dr. and Mrs. P. S. Lindsey, Mr. and Mrs. Claire A. P. Duffie, Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. John Malcolm McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sawtelle, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Hill, H. L. Titus, Miss Jean Titus, Misses Adelaide and Helen Duque, Miss Ruth Grepin, Mrs. Amber H. Stiles, Miss Martha Freeman, Mrs. E. P. Riggle, Melzar Lindsey, Van R. Kelsey, Howard Johnson and Eugene Clark.

Mrs. Grover Hostess.

Resplendent in its autumnal glory was the luncheon given by Mrs. Sidney Lee Grover of No. 628 South Burlington avenue on the afternoon of Friday at the Sierra Madre Club. Guests were seated at seven round tables done in leaf browns and golden yellows, even down to the dainty little nut baskets. The handsome affair was stamped by its perfect appointments. Mrs. George H. MacGinnis, Mrs. William A. Moorehouse, Mrs. Lucius L. Vogel and Mrs. Stanford D. Parker were assisting ladies. Mrs. Grover will give several additions to society's calendar the coming season, this being the initial one of a series following her return from an extended absence from the city. Following the elaborate menu the afternoon was devoted to an inspiring game of auction bridge. Bidden were Mmes. Ernest E. Ford of Alhambra, Edwin MacGinnis of Fullerton, Charles W. Guests motored over, and a pleasing diversion following the luncheon was the following of the trails in the park, and talking of old times. Going were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hammer, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Dick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Toms, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter, Mrs. I. Spencer, Mrs. Nell Cummings, Mrs. Jessie Cairns Shoebottom, Miss Mae Landis, Miss Josephine Shaffer and Messrs. Hundreds of them—In fact you never have seen so many pretty styles at such moderate price, and moderate price never had such a golden meaning —Moderate price means nothing except in relation to the thing offered at moderate price. Instead of being a bargain, a suit with fur trimming that looks shabby after a week's wear might be intolerable at any price. Likewise, a style that would be going in place of coming, and out of the running by next week.

—In this collection moderate price means above all—styles that are the finest in all America, and a quality that is excellent and of the Style Shop standard.

—Note that no comparative prices are quoted—we prefer you to find the goodness yourself.

—There are both plain and fur-trimmed styles in broadcloth, gabardine, velour checks and extra weight serges, which ought to appeal to the woman wanting a medium weight suit. The broadcloths show the most colors—field mouse, blackberry, navy, military blue, golden and seal brown, Russian and bottle green. And there is good choosing in all of the materials.

New Fashions in New, Pretty Velvet Suits—Ready!

—Considering the extra special values offered tomorrow at $25.00, $29.50 and $35.00, the fact that they are scarce and hard to get and that they will be worn up into April, women should be specially interested here tomorrow.

—Brown, navy, green and black at these prices. Other more exquisite styles and colorings up to $85.00.

Another Express Shipment of Street Dresses

—Women this season have asked for novelties in both styles and materials in street dresses. That is why we have bought in smaller quantities and had them come in often.

—These tomorrow are in out-of-the-ordinary silk patterns which have come in spite of importation difficulties, at $23.50, $29.50 and $35.00.

Bad Complexions Are Now Easily Discarded

Every woman has it in her own hands to possess a beautiful and youthful complexion. No matter how soiled, faded or coarse the cuticle, ordinary mercolized wax will actually remove it, and Nature will substitute a skin as soft, clear and lovely as a child's. The acuon of the wax is not drastic, but gentle and agreeable. Minute particles of scarf skin come off day by day, yet no evidence of the treatment is discernible, other than the gradual complexional improvement. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, suffices for most cases. It is put on at bedtime like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. It is a certain method of discarding freckles, liver spots, moth patches, blackheads and pimples.

Wrinkles can be treated with benefit by bathing the face in a lotion prepared by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Instantaneous results are secured.

A surpassing selection of suits at $19.50, $22.50, $25, $29.50, $35, $45, $50 to $100.

Fur Trimmed Suits at $25.00 and $29.50

Yes, indeed, there are other things well worth mentioning and Commenting Upon in these suits—But —the fur trimmings are so Snug, and trig and graceful that it seems needless to mention anything else. Deep bands on skirts, broad collars and wide cuffs on sleeves with here and there a Pert touch of Fur to carry out the effect.

Only through thoughtful buying before the prices soared, were we able to have ready Fur Trimmed Suits, at the above popular prices in beautiful broadcloths and other fabrics.

Dresses---Beautiful Ones at $19.50

Here is One of serge in midnight blue—there one of Silk and Taffeta in plaids—over Yonder a third—(and it is a beauty) in Brown Silk with chic ornamentation. And there are scores of others.

Black Plush Coats $25, $35, $45 and up

"Send more plush coats," we wired our buyer and just last Friday we opened a huge package of them. Long affairs, with deep cuffs and wide bands of handsomely rich Fur.

Out-of-Town Society

Pasadena.

HALLOWEEN, with all her black cats, pumpkins, witches and things, will be the motive for most every function of the week. Indeed, this happy but spooky date will be the signal for society to really start the social ball arolling and great preparations are being made at the Altadena Country Club to make the Halloween dance there next Saturday night the most brilliant function ever given to mark this October anniversary. Many surprises are in store for the guests, and according to present plans the decorations will be elaborate and rich. Halloween night will also mark the first really formal affair of the season at the Hotel Maryland. Here plans are not yet complete, but the big ballroom will be dressed up in an array of pumpkins, black kitties, ghosts and other things as well as hundreds of gorgeous yellow chrysanthemums. Several smart dinner parties are also planned for the evening before the real festivities begin.

Another charming Halloween affair will be the dance to be given by Misses Wilma Sill and Frances Wright in the cabin of Monte Brokaw in the Arroyo Seco, and one of the largest in the canyon. About half a hundred invitations have been issued to members of the younger set.

The most important function last week was the wedding of Miss Naomi Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bradley of Lamanda Park, and Oscar Swanson. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, which was transformed into a lovely wedding bower with an abundance of flowers and greenery. It was a pink and white wedding. Miss Ruth Bradley, who was her sister's only attendant, looked her very best in a lovely pink frock, while little Leona Lindstrom, the flower girl, was also in pink and white. The bride wore a handsome wedding gown of white satin and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. Rev. Mr. Tyrell of the First Christian Church officiated. Guy Faris was best man and Master Rupert Ridgeway was ringbearer.

At a wedding ceremony of simple but charming appointments Miss Edith Crocker and Rev. Charles Duncan, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo, and instructor in a theological school there, were married last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Schell of No. 644 North Marengo avenue. Rev. Albert Hatcher Smith of Hollywood officiated. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Clara E. Crocker of No. 536 North Wilson avenue.

A wedding of importance to a large circle of friends, which has been set for a date during the holidays, will be that of Miss Bessie Loesch, daughter of Mrs. Richard C. Loesch of No. 764 North Chester street, and Gay Nichols Freeman of Washington, D. C. Mr. Freeman, who is a graduate of Brown University and a member of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity, spends his summers on his big Wyoming ranch.

The marriage of Miss Isabel Sturdevant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Sturdevant of North Los Robles avenue, and David Coleman, which will take place Tuesday evening at the First Methodist Church, will not only be one of the most interesting weddings of the autumn, but promises to be one of the most beautiful as well. Since her engagement was announced Miss Sturdevant has been the recipient of numerous courtesies.

Mrs. Newell Matson Hayden of Altadena entertained several afternoons ago with an informal tea of charming appointments as a courtesy to her niece, Miss Zoula Virginia Funchess.

The Misses Harriet and Agnes Block of Peoria, Ill., who are guests of their uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. D. F. Fox, were honorees at a charmingly-appointed Chinese dinner party given by Mrs. E. B. Fuessle of No. 697 Magnolia avenue, who has spent much of her time in China. Chinese decorations were employed and a delightful Chinese guessing contest was another feature of the evening's pleasure.

In the presence of a limited number of close relatives and friends, Miss Florence Goodale and Chester Porter were married several evenings ago at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodale of Altadena. Rev. F. G. H. Stevens of the Lake-avenue Methodist Church officiated. The house was transformed into a summer garden of pink and white cosmos. The bride wore a gown of embroidered voile over white taffeta, and carried a shower bouquet of Cecile Brunner roses.

Tea day at the Altadena Country Club has again resumed its old-time popularity with the members, most of whom have returned to town from summer vacations. The clubrooms and verandas looked quite lively the past week and some very smart parties were entertained. Among the most notable of the hostesses were Mrs. E. D. Neff, Miss Louise Mansar, Miss Barton, Mrs. F. S. Churchill, Mrs. Cattern and Mrs. Virginia Girouard. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Meikle gave a beautifully-appointed dinner party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Goodyear, who are leaving for the East, where they will spend the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Duff and S. B. Ray of the Hotel Maryland also entertained with smart dinner parties at the club.

R. Herbert Deyo, a prominent manufacturer of Binghampton, N. Y., accompanied by Mrs. Deye, Miss Laura Deyo and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Deyo, arrived in Pasadena last week, where they will spend the winter. They are well known in Pasadena social circles. Richard Deyo while visiting here two years ago, met and married Katherine Estes, one of Pasadena's loveliest society girls.

South Pasadena.

THURSDAY evening at 8:30 o'clock Herbert E. Andrews, president of the South Pasadena Chamber of Commerce and one of the most prominent merchants of the city, was united in marriage to Miss Mabel Bishop, daughter of Mrs. A. R. Bishop, at the home of the bride, No. 1320 Fremont avenue. Dr. William Jeffers, pastor of the Methodist Church, performed the ceremony, only near relatives of the contracting parties being present. Miss Marjorie Gillies presided at the piano. Miss Gillies studied music under the tutelage of the bride, who, besides being a musician of exceptional ability, was one of Southern California's most sought-after instructors of the intricacies of piano harmony. The romance of the newly-married couple budded and came to fruition in the shadow of church walls. Their first meeting was in the Methodist Church of this city, where the bride acted as organist and the groom as superintendent of the Sunday-school. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews will make their home at No. 1728 Oxley street after a wedding trip of several weeks' duration.

Miss Elsa Stonehouse, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Stonehouse, No. 626 Milan avenue, gave a luncheon party Saturday at noon to announce her engagement to Mr. Nelson Smith of Los Angeles. Cecile Brunner roses and dainty forget-me-nots, suggestive of the coming event, graced the table. The guests were Miss Clarabel Carpenter, Miss Anita Brown, Miss Willa McKee, Miss Adele Powell, Miss Winifred Vessey, Miss Margaret Clapp, Miss Nell Stonehouse and Mrs. Clanton.

Sunday evening was the occasion of a surprise party honoring the birthday anniversary of Mr. William Blakely of No. 1431 Oak street. Wilkinson of Chelsea, Iowa.

Tuesday evening the Cecilian Club, an organization of musically-inclined young ladies, met at the home of Miss Adele Axtman of No. 1305 Monterey road. The life and works of America's greatest composer, MacDowell, were the subjects of careful study and analysis on the part of the members.

Mrs. Hubert Upjohn of No. 1703 Lyndon street entertained Monday with a dinner in honor of the forty-fifth wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Leach of Pasadena. It was a strictly family affair, those present being Mr. and Mrs. George Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman and son Clarence of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Upjohn and children, Richard and Janet, of this city. The Halloween idea formed the motif of the decorations.

Tuesday evening at a cleverly-planned affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion M. Reeder of No. 1727 Lyndon street, the announcement of the engagement of Miss Faye Thorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thorne of No. 1023 Fremont avenue, and Edwin M. Cooper of No. 1837 Monterey road was made public. Following a pleasant evening of games and amusements the guests were ushered into the dining-room, where refreshments were served. Centering the table was an immense kewpie, from which delicate ribbons were extended to each place. At the end of the ribbons, a red and white heart card bore the names of the engaged couple. Mr. Cooper is a prominent young lawyer of Los Angeles, at present temporarily serving as secretary of the South Pasadena Y.M.C.A. The bride-to-be is a musician of unusual ability. No date has been set for the wedding, but it is expected for the very near future. REJOICING in the perfect fall days that permit the continuance of the many delightful informal al fresco gatherings that have marked the pleasure of many gatherings during the summer months, society is but slowly turning from the pleasures of a late summer to the more formal entertainments of the fall and winter. Many charming affairs are being planned for the rest of the month, and what with the promise of many dances and parties and gay frolics for the near future, November up to the Thanksgiving festivities will be fairly replete with pleasant happenings among the members of the smart set. Mrs. Gertrude Smucker, who is coming from Chicago to spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Van Graham, will be the recipient of much social attention on the part of her host of friends in the Southland, and many are looking eagerly forward to welcoming the gracious matron into the social whirl of the winter. Mrs. Graham is at present in San Francisco and will meet her mother there, and after a visit with Mr. William Graham in Berkeley for several weeks will return for the opening of the fall festivities.

Quite important among the social activities of recent date was the lovely party arranged by Mrs. R. D. Williams of Ramona Park on Monday afternoon, when she entertained complimentary to Mrs. F. M. Manser and Miss Fannie Manser of Covington, Ky. Pink roses and delicately-tinted cosmos embellished the rooms, and in the midst of their dainty coloring about thirty friends assembled to enjoy the pleasures arranged for them and to honor the visitors of the southland who are tarrying for awhile in our midst. Mrs. Manser and her daughter were again the recipients of a charming courtesy on Wednesday, when Mrs. William Campbell entertained for them at her home on South [illegible] street. On this lovely afternoon the decorations were of pink roses, and music and songs were rendered, making the occasion one of most delightful memories. Late in the afternoon as the long rays of the departing sun betokened the close of a radiant day tea was served to the guests, among whom were Mrs. R. D. Williams, Mrs. M. A. Galt, Mrs. J. B. Sexton, Mrs. W. Rodgers, Mrs. A. C. Routh, Mrs. W. Watson, Mrs. John [illegible], Mrs. B. Burgess, Mrs. F. W. Mrs. S. A. Cooper, who has been visiting friends in Long Beach for some time, has returned home and is again domiciled at her home on [illegible] Fourth street.

Mrs. Dwight Warren, formerly the popular and beloved Louise Sexton, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sexton, has recently been the honoree of many pleasant gatherings among the members of the younger social contingency. One of the prettiest of recent affairs was that arranged by Miss Josephine Dunbar and her sisters, given at the home of their parents on South Almansor street. The afternoon was spent informally in the pursuit of artistic needlework, which was followed by a cleverly arranged kitchen shower for the bride. Decorations for the affair were charmingly dainty, quantities of pink Killarney roses and ferns embellishing the rooms. An elaborate luncheon was enjoyed by the guests of the pretty occasion, and tiny Kewpie brides and grooms were the charming favors of the occasion.

Miss Merle Turner, who has recently returned from a delightful visit with friends in Illinois and [illegible], is being gladly welcomed by her host of young friends in the city, and will be a merry participant in the many glad events scheduled for the fall season.

A pleasant party was arranged by Miss Wealtha and Miss Helen [illegible] at the home of their parents on [illegible] Fourth street Thursday evening, when their guests were the members of the G. R. RECIPE to STOP DANDRUFF

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half pint of water add:

Bay Rum	1 oz.
Barbo Compound	a small box.
Glycerine	1-4 oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out and relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

A Woman's Mirror

OWING to happy recovery of health by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thousands of women throughout the world once more enjoy the reflection they see in their mirrors.

Nothing is so pleasing to the eye as a happy, robust, healthy woman, but owing to some curable disorder peculiar to their sex many women suffer week after week and month after month. Without complaining, they do their duty like soldiers until all beauty and freshness of features are gone; premature old age appears and their mirrors tell a sad and disheartening tale. Many women owe their health to

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

An Operation Avoided.

"I suffered from female troubles so badly that I had a great deal of pain, and if I slipped on a stone in walking, or got the least jar, it would hurt me terribly. I continued to get worse until I had spasms, and was advised that I would have to go to the hospital for an operation. I objected to that, and one day a friend called and advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for she said she had the same trouble dreadfully and could get no help until she took it, which cured her. Therefore I began taking it, and after the first bottle I was better, and four bottles have entirely cured me of the trouble."—Mrs. Ella F. Rice, 182 Friendship Street, Providence, R. I.

In a Short Time I Recovered.

"I suffered from female trouble so that the best physicians advised me to go to the hospital for an operation, because they thought there was something growing in my left side which would have to be taken out. I refused and instead sent to the drug store for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it according to directions. In a short time I recovered enough to do my work, and later was able to make the trip to Decatur, Ill. I know the Compound worked a miracle in my case, and I have recommended it to many persons and told them what it has done for me."—Mrs. Laura A. Griswold, 2300 Blk, E. Williams Street, Decatur, Ill.

Makes Change of Life Easier.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a world of good, and I want to recommend it to others who suffer as I did. When I began to take it I was passing through change of life. I was very nervous, could not sleep nights, and had a great deal of pain and soreness. I was advised to have an operation but they did not think I could live through it. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have come out all right. I think every woman in this condition should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at this time of life, as it is such a good remedy."—Mrs. A. Bannigan, 57 Knickerbocker Avenue, Paterson, N. J.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can be proved to have done it, must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equalled by any other medicine for women.

San Gabriel.

VYING with the glory of the early summer, the glad October days have ushered in a round of delightful affairs that presage one of the busiest and merriest winters of recent years. Halloween will prove a season of exceptional delight among the younger social contingent, and many juvenile parties are being planned for the time-honored festival, which will be with us in another week. Quite the most important function of recent date was the barbecue enjoyed by about seventy-five fortunate guests at the home of Mayor and Mrs. Gottfried Daken. The affair was arranged by the committee of the recent Fiesta de la San Gabriel, and the honored guests of the occasion were the Matachinas dancers, whose clever work during the fiesta added greatly to the success of the wonderful entertainment. The young folks were brilliantly garbed in national costume, the music was alluring and excellent, and the day was one of the happiest events of early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wakeman, who with their family have been visiting in San Francisco, where the beauties of the exposition were enjoyed, have returned to their home on Broadway after a sojourn of two weeks in the northern metropolis, where the wonderful display is attracting many of our residents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bean and their daughter, Mary Francis, have returned from San Francisco, where they went some time ago to spend their summer vacation in the environment of the bay resorts and pleasant retreats of the north.

One of the prettiest parties of the month was given by Mrs. Terry Jones on San Gabriel boulevard last Thursday afternoon, when about thirty friends availed themselves of the charming hospitality of the Jones home. The attractive rooms were most charming in their decorations of Cecile Brunner roses and asparagus fern, and the dining-room, where an elaborate course luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock, was redolent with the perfume of quantities of pink carnations, corsage bouquets of the same flower making the places for the guests. Following luncheon a number of musical selections were given and then cards were introduced, the latter pastime proving the diversion of the afternoon. At 5 o'clock tea was served at the card tables, and the day was one of the most delightful in the recent social activities of the city.

Much interest is being manifested in the reception that is being planned to take place in the near future in honor of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Burton, who are soon to make their home in this vicinity, and which is scheduled for the evening of October 28.

Sierra Madre.

IN HONOR of Miss Ellen Boaler, known as the "Chicago booster," and who has been sending forth lauditory accounts of the Southland, an informal card party was given by Miss Edith Blumer Monday evening at her parent's home. Baugh, Mr. and Mrs. James Hawks, the Misses Hawks, Boaler and Vannier and Messrs. Harold Davenes, Kenneth Ham, Fred Vannier, Randolph Wood and Everitt Gardner of Pasadena. Miss Boaler leaves for the north the fore part of the coming month, where she will visit many sections before returning to Chicago, and hopes to publish in the near future her impressions on the life and beauties of this section.

An informal picnic lunch was held by Mrs. C. H. Baker last Saturday on the Baker estate in honor of her visiting friend, Miss Gaylord of Beloit, Kan., the party motoring from the Oak Knoll residence in Pasadena, which has been leased for the winter by the Baker family from Mrs. H. C. French.

Mr. and Mrs. Tasker M. Webster entertained with a Five Hundred party Friday evening, six tables being arranged for the guests.

Mrs. Stanley C. Pasco, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. N. J. Evans of Los Angeles, returned Tuesday after a week's stay.

As hostess of the Modern Priscillas, of which she is a member, Mrs. C. H. Baker entertained twenty-two of its members and several other friends at her Oak Knoll residence on Thursday afternoon, the guests of honor being Miss Grace Gaylord of Beloit, Kan., and Mrs. Baker's mother, Mrs. William C. Ingraham, also of Beloit. Among the other guests were Mmes. R. H. Baker, Roy A. Baker, A. R. Eastman, Charles S. Anderson and S. W. Keiser of Los Angeles, Eugenia Janes-Bacon, J. H. Lockwood, J. A. Glendale.

THE pleasures of the early fall season have been given an added zest by the many affairs that have been interesting the younger social contingent during the past fortnight. Among the most charmingly arranged and most delightful of recent events was the birthday party given by Miss Juanita Emery at the home of her parents on South Kenwood street in celebration of her eighteenth birthday anniversary. The attractive home was beautifully embellished for the occasion with a profusion of dahlias and ferns arranged most effectively about the rooms. The evening, which was enjoyed by a merry crowd of young folk, who congratulated Miss Emery most heartily on the attainment of her majority, was spent in dancing, music and other kindred amusements, which made the glad hours hurry into the small ones of night. At the conclusion of the dancing a delicious cafeteria supper was served, of which the piece de resistance was an exquisitely decorated birthday cake, adorned with candles which burned out amid much merriment and conjecture on the part of the guests. Among the guests of the evening gathering to honor Miss Emery were Miss Evangeline Hunchberger, Miss Margaret Boucher, Miss Katherine Renshaw, Miss Ernestine Lyon, Miss Cecelia Lyon, Miss Dorothy Hunt, Miss Muriel Turner, Miss Helen Svenson, Miss Marjorie Imler, Miss Cathene Phillips, Miss Florence Heacock, Miss Mildred Wright, Miss Jennie Lacey, Miss Lucille West, Miss Janette McClennon and Messrs. William Bode, William Renshaw, Olin Wilson, Robert Cowlin, Howard McGillis, Howard Stickney, Carrol Peet, Victor Harris, Homer Chiceron, Edwin Heacock, James Shea, John Sharp, Mark Francy, Herbert Henning, Ralph Miles and Tom Phillips.

Among the many who have recently availed themselves of the delightful fall days and motored to San Diego where the delights of the exposition and other places of interest adjacent to the beautiful city by the sea were enjoyed, are: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pettit of No. 1457 West Third street and Mr. and Mrs. John Cline of Glendale avenue, who returned the first part of the week, enthusiastically happy over their pleasant motor trip.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Bierbower was the scene of a pleasant gathering of friends on Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Bierbower gave a charmingly arranged luncheon with covers laid for eight, which was followed by a merry afternoon at cards, Five Hundred being the diversion of the occasion. The attractive home was prettily embellished with begonias and ferns, the unusual floral decorations being greatly admired by the fortunate guests. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Bierbower entertained another coterie of friends, and a merry occasion was enjoyed at the home of the popular and hospitable young couple.

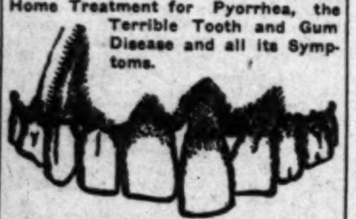
The many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold are extending warmest congratulations over the advent of a little son who has come to gladden their home. The Arnolds are extensively known in Glendale and vicinity and hearty and cordial has been the welcome offered to the little stranger in their home.

Perhaps the most imporant affair of early fall was the dancing party given in the Masonic Temple by the Lomita Club on Thursday night. The hall was artistically decorated in a color scheme of gold and azure, and presented a beautiful appearance. The dancing was enjoyed by a merry membership, the reception committee being composed of the following: Miss Harriet Bayard, Miss Edna Lawson, Miss Viola Yorba, Miss Blanche Woodill, Miss Jean McDonald, Miss Eleanor Pauley, Miss Stella Giese, Miss Isabel Koverman, Miss Winifred Sigile, Miss Ida Kaiser, Miss Gertrude Cogan, Miss Isadora Couts, Miss Gertrude Braun, Miss Agnes Rigali, Miss Josephine Keller and Miss Lillian Nolan. The music, which was exceptional, was furnished by the De Nubila orchestra, and the patronesses of the delightful affair were: Mrs. H. F. Folz, Mrs. Anna Cousins, Mrs. Charles Durkens, Mrs. L. W. Wright, Mrs. H. N. Henry, Mrs. H. S. Duffield, Mrs. P. L. Ferry, Mrs. O. G. Kelley, Mrs. A. R. Townsend and Mrs. O. S. Richardson, while the Floor Committee comprised the following: Messrs. W. B. Kelley, F. J. Fangman, Charles O'Neill, Paul Rigali, Ralph Huesman, John Saich and J. H. Folz. So delightful was the affair that the other promised dances of the club, which is one of the largest and most popular in the vicinity, are awaited with keen anticipation.

A quietly solemnized wedding of more than ordinary interest to many in Glendale and neighboring cities was the nuptial ceremony of Miss Goldie Carter, formerly of this city, who was married on Monday afternoon to Mr. Emerson M. Bickford of Los Angeles. The petite and charming bride was beautifully gowned in white, carrying a shower bouquet of bride roses and maidenhair ferns. She was attended by Miss Nora Smith of Glendale, while the groom was supported by Mr. Lote Carter. Concluding the ceremony, the wedding party was entertained at an elaborately appointed wedding supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Smith. At the conclusion of the supper, amid the congratulations of their many friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bickford left for a honeymoon at the conclu-

Loose Teeth
Sore Gums
(PYORRHEA)

I am a Dentist of 25 years' Experience. I Have Perfected a Most Successful Home Treatment for Pyorrhea, the Terrible Tooth and Gum Disease and all its Symptoms.



I have found a very successful home treatment for that terrible disease called Pyorrhea or Riggs disease of the gums. Most dentists tell their patients there is no cure for it, that their is no cure for loose teeth, bleeding, spongy, shrinking gums and dropping out of teeth; but many who have used my home treatment say there is, AND PROVE IT.

Don't have those teeth pulled. You may save every one of them—make them good, firm, healthy, sound teeth again.

Hundreds of patients say Dr. Willard's home treatment stops the teeth from being loose or wobbly and that it has done so in cases where the patient could almost pull his teeth out with his fingers, where the gums were soft and spongy, bleeding and shrinking away from the teeth. You may make these conditions positively and absolutely disappear and end your Pyorrhea. There is no pain, no fussing, no waste of time.

The letters I will send you from people in all parts of the country will tell you that the torture and expense of dentist's work—all its grinding, whirring, jamming and nerve-touching agony are gone forever. No more plates and bridges. They enjoy good teeth, good chewing and a good stomach once more. If you have any of the symptoms mentioned, then Pyorrhea, sometimes called Riggs disease, is on the way—you are bound to lose your teeth and have to wear those awful false teeth, if you don't find a cure for it now. Simply send your name and address on coupon below and I will tell you all about this dreadful disease and why my simple home treatment may save your teeth, without pain or expense of the dental chair.

SOCIETY.

Tropico.

THE halcyon days of the glorious fall have been striking the last perfect note to society's happiness in the pursuit of many pleasantly formal and informal events of the present, and those planned for the early future, many of them in the name of sweet charity. Of much interest to many at this time is the progress of the plans of the Pythian Sisters for their annual bazaar and dance which will take place in mid-November. The plans for this affair are most elaborate and a gay time is promised to the hosts of interested ones who will dance the evening hours away in the name and for the cause of charity. The event is scheduled for November 17 and will likely take place in the Pythian Temple.

The attractively-arranged birthday party of Master James Richardson, given by his mother in honor of his eleventh birthday on Thursday afternoon, was one of the happiest and prettiest of the juvenile parties of the present month. An exquisite color scheme of pink and white was carried out in all of the appointments, and at 4 o'clock James and twelve of his closest friends were bidden to the dining-room, which had been brilliantly lighted. Resplendent in its decorations of pink and white was the birthday cake, heartily enjoyed by the little folks, who abandoned themselves to the pleasure of the occasion and the bright little programme of toasts and replies that had been prepared. The little honoree of the day was warmly congratulated by his friends and was the recipient of many lovely remembrances. Those enjoying the happy day included Misses Avis Simpson, Virginia Hunchberger, Mildred Sawyer, Elizabeth Mottern and Thomas McClelland, Billy Justema, Howard Windsor and Rollis Elrod.

A pleasantly-arranged luncheon enjoyed by a coterie of close friends was given in honor of Mrs. Ruth Van Court of Paloma avenue recently, while Mrs. Van Court was the guest of friends.

A delightful house party is being enjoyed at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Bahrenberg, beautiful Twin Pines on West Park avenue. Domiciled with them at present are Dr. and Mrs. George Bahrenberg of Bakersfield, who will remain with them for several days, and Dr. and Mrs. Norman Bahrenberg and their daughter, Miss Rhea Bahrenberg of Los Angeles.

A merry party of enthusiastic motorists, who have been enjoying the expositions, and who have returned after their merry outings in the north and the south, are Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chandler, Mrs. E. B. Elias, Mrs. Edward Weston, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Chandler and Mrs. A. L. Chandler.

Another sojourner who has returned after a delightful visit with friends is Mrs. Frank I. Marsh, who is again at home after some days spent with Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Davis of Pasadena.

Corn Limbers! Use "Gets-It" and Smile!

Corns Come Right Off, Clean and Quick! You needn't Limp, or Fuss With Your Corns Any More.

©E. Lawrence & Co.

"These Corns Come Right Off, Clear As a Whistle, by Using "Gets-It""

What's the use of spoiling a good time for yourself by limping around with fierce corns? It's one of the easiest things in the world, now, to get rid of them. "Gets-It" does it the new way. That's why "Gets-It" has become the corn remedy of America, the biggest selling corn remedy in the world, preferred by millions. Do you remember that toe-eating salve you tried, that sticky tape, that toe-bundling bandage, that gouging you've done with knives, razors and scissors? Well, now, forget them all. No more fussing, no more pain. Whenever you use simple, easy "Gets-It" the corn is doomed, sure. So is every callus, wart or bunion. Never cut corns or calluses. It makes them grow that much faster and increases the danger of blood poison. No cutting is necessary by using "Gets-It." Use it tonight and end your corny existence.

"Gets-It" is sold by all druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in Los Angeles and recommended by the Owl Drug Co.

Announcement of the engagement of Mrs. Myrtle Green and E. Brooks Spangler came in a delightful surprise event held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Spangler, parents of the groom-elect at No. 348 Harris avenue. Friends who had rumors of the impending victory of Cupid gathered to confirm the news and the couple admitted the secret and in addition announced that October 30 had been selected as the date for the wedding. Good wishes took the form of gifts of linen, cut glass and household articles. A delightful evening of informal pleasures resulted.

Another delightful social courtesy to Miss Adelaide Hackney of Highland, whose engagement to Frederick Morrison of Byron, O., has been announced, occurred Wednesday at the home of Judge J. W. Curtis on E street, Mrs. Curtis being hostess to a number of the friends of the bride-elect. A delicious luncheon of two courses was served. A shower of gifts for Miss Hackney was one of the pleasures of the afternoon.

The post graduates of the High School were hosts last evening at a splendid dance at the Woman's Club House marking the opening of social festivities among the students of the winter season. Several hundred High School people attended.

Tustin.

TWO QUIET but interesting weddings were solemnized in Tustin during the past week. The first of these was that of Miss Damarris Deardorff of Shermutt Ville and Thomas B. Ogden of Lodi. This took place on Monday evening on the study at the residence of Rev. W. S. McDougal, pastor of the Tustin Presbyterian church. Following the simple but impressive nuptial service the bride and groom, with the few who witnessed the wedding, went to the home of the bride's mother on the great San Joaquin Fruit Company's ranch to make their farewells, later leaving for their honeymoon trip which took them to the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco and other northern points. Mr. and Mrs. Ogden will reside on Mr. Ogden's ranch property at Lodi. The charming bride will be greatly missed in Tustin, where she was a social favorite.

The second wedding took place on Tuesday afternoon, and the principals in the nuptial event were Miss Mina E. Williams, daughter of George Williams, and Fred M. Deardorff. The marriage was of great interest to Tustin society where both bride and groom are well known and highly regarded. Mrs. Ogden, the bride in the first wedding, and Mr. Deardorff, bridegroom in the second, are brother and sister.

One of the most delightful juvenile parties of the season was that given on Tuesday afternoon in Taylors gold room with Master Philip Taylor as the honoree. The tenth birthday of Master Philip was celebrated and a guest for each year of his happy life was invited to aid him celebrate the auspicious occasion. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Taylor, parents of the little honoree, had effectively decorated the beautiful room with autumn leaves. In this pretty setting Mr. and Mrs. Taylor presided over a season of merry games and officiated at a birthday feast where a handsome birthday cake, with its proper quota of candles, was the chief attraction. Never did a group of ten boys enjoy a jollier party.

Santa Ana.

THE members of the First Ebell Travelers Club were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dawes at Spurgeon street on Monday afternoon. A study of Germany occupied the reading hour, at the close of which the husbands of the ladies arrived at the house in automobiles and the entire party was taken to Orange County Park for a delicious picnic supper, at which Mr. and Mrs. Dawes were hosts. The snowy cloth covering the long table under the spreading oaks was adorned with bowls of brown merigolds, and supper was served just as the setting sun cast its shadows over the canyon. Later the lovely October moon transformed the park into a bit of fairyland, and the lake was a sheet of silver shining against the background of dark hills outlined against a clear sky. The travelers and their escorts were reluctant to leave the lovely scene, but after a swift drive to the city a merry evening at the theater compensated them. The guests of the Dawes were Messrs. and Mmes. J. P. Baumgartner, L. J. Carden, C. S. Campbell, Stephen Ross, I. W. Van Cleave, E. B. Smith, Terry Stephenson, George S. Smith, Linn Shaw; Mmes. A. W. Ames, J. W. Bishop, M. F. Heathman, A. J. Visel, W. M. Shart.

A pre-Halloween party with Miss Mamie Tucker as hostess was one of the jolly events of the week. The guests were Mrs. Frank Hammett, Misses Helene McNeill, Mena Miller, Emily Lykke, Grace White, Lucy Stevens, Alice Huntington, Edna Myers, Fern Smith, all members of the Ghatt 'N Seau Club. A merry Halloween supper was the concluding feature of a jolly evening of music, chat and fancy work, and the decorative scheme comprised the usual Halloween emblems. Witches on broomsticks marked places and a huge punch bowl centered the table.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank, Rev. and Mrs. Perry F. Schrock and Miss Ada O'Brien and the guests of honor, Rev. and Mrs. Miller, missionaries from Korea; Mrs. Alice Willard of Galesburg, Ill., and the hostesses, Mrs. Caroline Henry and her daughters, the Misses Berdenia and Bess Henry, at a delightful dinner on Monday evening. Magnificent white and orange chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece of the prettily-appointed table. Miss O'Brien was a former college mate of Miss Willard at Knox College, Ill.

Mrs. William Malone was hostess on Saturday at an informal luncheon at her South Broadway home. Rich huge zinnias and feathery Scotch hether massed in brown baskets decorated both house and table. Mrs. Charles Kelley was the prize winner in the auction games played during the afternoon. Mrs. Malone's guests were Mmes. J. P. Hatzfeld, W. H. Spurgeon, Jr., George S. Briggs, John McFadden, R. E. Whitted, Charles Kelley, F. B. Case.

The ladies of the Alter Society of St. Joseph's Catholic Church were entertained on a recent Thursday by Mrs. Henry Cochems at her Lacy-street home. Fancy work and the making of plans for a bazaar to be held in the near future kept the ladies pleasantly busy. Later a collation of ice cream, cake and coffee was served, scarlet geraniums and greenery being used in the decorative scheme. Special guests of the afternoon were Rev. Father H. Eummelen and his house guest, Rev. Father Abbott of Mt. Angel, Or. Thirty people were entertained by Mrs. Cochems.

A pleasant dancing party in compliment to Miss Leona Doyle of Hollywood, who was the guest at the home of her brother, L. M. Doyle of South Broadway, was given in Taylors' balcony on a recent Tuesday evening, with Ralph Doyle, another brother, as host. Prior to dancing the entire party visited the carnival grounds, dancing later lasting until midnight. A delectable supper was then served, covers being laid for the host, Miss Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Doyle, the Misses Bonnie Scheeber, Ruth Loughbrough, Josephine Cromley, Iva Chrisney, Lucy McKinney of Los Angeles, Miss Bess Snyder of Fullerton; Messrs. Storer, Robert Paine, Jr., R. R. Dickinson, Lester Tubbs, George Riley, J. Hunt.

Orange.

THE most notable society event of the recent week was a triple birthday celebration at the R. L. Precht home on West Palmyra avenue, where Prof. William Batterman, Paul Hedder and John Veeh were the recipients of the honors of the evening. The hours abounded with various jolly games and pastimes varied by beautiful solos sung by Miss Lydia Jorn and several choruses rendered by the Lutheran Church choir. The serving of delicious refreshments and presentation of gifts marked the event. Those present beside the hosts and the honorees were Messrs. and Mmes. Julius Barchard, H. Bandick, August Meyer, John Wagonner, B. F. and E. M. Dierker, A. Dittmer of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Benn of Nebraska, the Misses Caroline and Dora Kogler, Lena and Minnie Grote, Alma Grumm, Lydia Jorn; Messrs. Paul Koegler, F. Mack, Frank Buehler. In a grab-bag contest Miss Lydia Jorn won the ladies' prize and E. M. Dierker the gentleman's reward for activity. The choir of St. John's Church presented Prof. Batterman with a very handsome plush automobile robe as a token of their esteem.

At a charming dinner given for Orange society people by Dr. and Mrs. V. A. Rossiter, former residents of Orange, but now living in Santa Ana, humorous place cards marked places for Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Doormann, Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dierker, Mr. and Mrs. Will O. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Craemer and the hosts. The exquisitely-appointed table was centered with pink and white roses, blooming in a cut glass vase resting on the limpid depths of a mirror plateau. The dinner was served in five courses with interesting chat whiling the hour away, and later the Orange visitors were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Rossiter at the automobile show and the street carnival.

The Embroidery Club of the Evangelical Church was entertained on Thursday afternoon at the hospitable home of Mrs. Emil Miller. Beautiful cut flowers in brown baskets made the living-room attractive, while pink roses and ferns in the dining-room enhanced the pleasure of the dainty collation served after an afternoon of fancy work. Those at the table were Mrs. Joe Witt, Mrs. Will Rohers, Mrs. Arthur Hoefer, Mrs. Emma Roberts, Mrs. Henry Witt, Mrs. John Rohers and Mrs. Henry Rohers. The hostess was assisted in her table duties by Misses Melba Miller and Evaline Rohers.

The Modern Priscillas were guests on Wednesday at the pretty new home of Mrs. J. D. Stennetta. Cactus, dahlias and roses were arranged with consummate taste throughout the rooms. After the initiation of Mrs. Harold Schoopman and a busy afternoon of fancy work a delicious supper was served. Those at the table besides the hostess and Mrs. Schoopman, were Mmes. Louis DeLong, S. O. Field, Carl J. Porter, Walter Adams, Albert Hewes, John Gillogly, J. F. Collier, John Holdrich, J. B. Handy, E. N. Lee, Carl Durnbaugh, the Misses Holditch and Elizabeth Lee.

ONE of the most charming of recent social events was the soiree given by Postmaster and Mrs. Alfred Belieu in honor of their daughter, Miss Addie Belieu's fifteenth birthday anniversary. The floral decorations were noticably pretty and artistic, the color motif of pink and green being used throughout the rooms with a profusion of Cecile Brunners and Cochet roses, crepe paper and ribbon. SOCIETY.

buds, each holding a candle attached to ribbons that extended to twenty-four covers marked by a Cecile Brunner bud. Many delightful games and music occupied the evening, including a characteristic charade, "Ad-die-blew." Mrs. Belieu was assisted by Mrs. C. G. Davidson of Compton and Mrs. E. A. Moore. Bidden were Mrs. A. C. Furlong, Mrs. R. J. Wilkinson, Mrs. C. G. Davidson, Mrs. E. A. Moore, Misses Nora and Lois Cozen, Misses Ruth and Hazel Towne, Miss Portia Ryon, Miss Grace Belieu, Miss Cloy Stout, Miss Carrie Wiemer, Miss Almena Cogan, Miss Hazel Shoemaker, Verne Snodgrass, Teddy Cozens, Roscoe Dale, J. A. Tweedy, Jack McCartney, A. Stevens, L. Gentle and Ira B. Wood.

A color motif of pink and green was particularly well carried out Saturday evening when the joint hostesses, Mrs. S. Charles Smith and Mrs. Henry Bell, delightfully entertained as a pretty compliment to the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Harper, whose return from a week's honeymoon trip to San Francisco to their apparently empty house, was greeted by a host of friends as they switched on the light at the entrance. Crepe paper, ribbon and kewpies, tulle, carnations and smilax were generously and most effectively used about the rooms, where games and music followed swiftly the usual felicitations upon such occasions. Another surprise occurred at the announcement of the game "Follow the Leader," when the hostesses left the house taking their guests to the home of Mrs. Smith, No. 560 Melvin avenue. Here the same artistic decorations were in evidence with the addition of a bountifully spread table where dainty favors and place cards marked covers for the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DuBois, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Braswell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Miller, Mrs. Claud Binkley, Mrs. Ed Cowan, Archibald Cowan, Harold and Albert Sutton.

A merry little kewpie, swinging from the handle of a beautiful white basket trimmed with smilax and filled with Cecile Brunner buds, was reflected from the table mirror Friday evening when Miss Melba Perkins entertained the Bachelor Girls' Club at her home in East Main street. The snowy cloth was carpeted with roses and smilax from the center to each place where gold lettered names of club members adorned the ends of ribbons that extended to the handle of the basket. Favors of crochet baskets and Cecile Brunners marked covers for Miss Glenn Ayers, Miss Florence Madden, Miss Ruth Fay, Miss Marie Tweedy, and the hostess. A feature of the evening was the unexpected arrival of five Bachelor Boys who, with their pink and green paper streamers at once captured the club. Miss Madden was awarded a silver napkin ring and Miss Fay a grinning "Billikin" as first and consolation prizes in a guessing game. Guests present were Howard Stillman, Harold Miner, Eugene Frost, Karl Traughber and Roy Madden.

It was under a floral bower of pink and white blossoms that the beautiful service was read which united in marriage Miss Pearl LaMore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. LaMore of Bisbee, Ariz., and Paul Blythe, book-keeper of Los Nietos Valley Bank of Watts, a recent Saturday evening at the bride's Arizona home in the presence of relatives and friends of the bride. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. F. R. Mandin, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Bisbee. Following congratulations and a wedding dinner the bridal pair left for San Francisco, where a week was spent honeymooning and expositioning. They are now at home at No. 344 Sixth street, Long Beach.

MRS. D. P. M'DONALD, and daughter, Miss Vera of Portland, Or., were the guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bodger, from Saturday till Tuesday of last week.

Mrs. George Schofield, who left some time ago for Albuquerque, N. M., has concluded her visit there, and is now on her way to her mother's in Jacksonville, Ill.

The members of the Philathea class were the guests of Rev. Mr. Traveller on Tuesday evening last. The usual jolly time was enjoyed by all those present.

A farewell banquet was given in honor of Mr. Alfred Cookman, general and Sunday-school teacher of the Methodist Church, by his large class of young boys known as the West Point Club. There were present twenty-two lads last Friday evening and a fine time was enjoyed by all.

The ladies of the P.T.A. held a sewing-bee at the schoolhouse Tuesday afternoon last, cutting and working over garments to be distributed among those who are in need of them here and the remainder sent to the emergency department at Los Angeles. A social time was enjoyed along with the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Raibley have returned to their ranch at Tulare taking the trip by easy stages in their automobile.

Bridgedale.

MRS. CRESSLYN L. TILLEY opened her hospitable doors to the members of the Bridgedale Card Club on Friday evening of last week. The scheme of decorations was interestingly carried out in Halloween motif.

On Friday, October 15, Mr. Ted W. Murray and Miss Amy Carver were united in marriage at 2 o'clock at the First Methodist Church in Los Angeles, by the Rev. Edward Locke.

The marriage of the happy couple was a complete surprise to their many friends, but they in turn were completely taken off their feet when upon their arrival home they found a wedding feast awaiting them and which had been prepared by the only ones in the secret, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Russell. The house was beautifully decorated with bridal-wreath ferns and pink ribbons, interwoven with Cecil Brunner roses, while from the mantel and vases, great clusters of pink tea roses sent out their fragrance. Only the immediate members of both families were present.

Duarte.

WITH the return of autumn the various social activities of the Duarte foothill region are being resumed with animation and good whole-heartedness. Two of the popular organized card clubs met last week under happy circumstances, bringing together congenial groups of friends. The first was the Tuesday gathering at the home of Mrs. Frank Ferguson, when the ladies of the Fortnightly Auction Bridge Club met for a pleasant afternoon, and the following Thursday the ladies and gentlemen of the Five Hundred Club were graciously entertained by Mr. and Mrs. William Baird at their foothill home. A perfusion of lovely flowers from their garden was used to adorn the rooms where the guests assembled for the informal reception which preceded the game of their choice.

One of the pleasant events of the week was the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Elliott Sunday in compliment to some music-loving friends who have recently returned from Austria. The guests of honor were Dr. and Mrs. Cartier, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hurst of Los Angeles, Mrs. Anna Walton Hendry, Miss Anna Hendry, Miss Mary Louise Hendry of Charleston, S. C., and Miss Geraldine Heisley. Dr. Cartier recently returned from an Austrian hospital. About the dinner table many reminiscences of other days were recounted and the after-dinner hours were spent with music and visiting.

One of the social events of the church year is the luncheon given by the local Federation of Women's Societies, and on Tuesday a large number of Duarte women attended the all-day meeting at the Presbyterian Church. A delightful programme followed the luncheon. Twenty-five Duarte ladies enjoyed the mid-day meal together and an atmosphere of geniality and good cheer prevailed.

The young ladies who are organized under the name of the Pleasure Club were most delightfully entertained Saturday evening by Miss Florence Blain and her sisters, the Misses Dora and Retta Blain, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Blain. Mrs. Freeland H. Hunter is the patroness of the club girls and on Saturday evening a jolly time was provided with games, music and supper.

Mrs. C. H. Sarwine and Mrs. L. N. Wheeler, assisted by the young ladies of the Philathea Circle and the Royal Daughters, gave a supper Saturday evening at 5:30 o'clock in the parlors of the Presbyterian Church. The tables were decorated with goldenrod, fall leaves and ferns, and after the tempting viands of the evening repast had been enjoyed a programme was rendered.

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown of Long Beach, who have been the guests of Mrs. Ludie Cross at her ranch home on Buena Vista avenue, have returned to their home. While in Duarte they renewed acquaintance and in various social ways greeted old friends.

Mrs. Mary Hoagland and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine were the guests of Mrs. McClung, national regent of the Cliff-dwellers' Association, at the meeting of the Los Angeles chapter of the order last Saturday.

Messrs. Thomas Glenny and Joseph Fowler returned Saturday from a visit to Tulare.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bihn have gone to Salt Lake City, where they will make their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Scott, who arrived recently from Arizona, will make their home on the Scott ranch.

Anaheim.

THE annual freshman reception of the Anaheim Union High School was given in the High School auditorium Friday evening by the members of the first and second semester sophomores. The large auditorium was converted into a lovely drawing room, flowers and greenery being used profusely to beautify it. Miss Mildred Carter sang a pretty solo, which was enjoyed by those present. Joseph Elliott, president of the sophomore class, welcomed the freshmen, and Ralph Kemp, gave the response. An enjoyable reading was given by Miss Dorothy Hunt, and a short speech by the principal, Dr. E. W. Hauck was much enjoyed. Miss Dorothy Rockwell gave a reading, and Mr. A. H. Witman gave a talk. A "Track Meet" was the source of much amusement to all present. After an evening of fun, delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served cafeteria style. Those helping to make the evening a success were Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Hauck, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Goodale, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Witman, Prof. and Mrs. C. R. Prince, Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Clayes, Prof. and Mrs. C. A. Worsley, and the Misses Liesel Leighton, Kathleen Loly, Lucile Turner, Ottilie Stechert, Ethel Gibbs, Rose Osberg, Veda Walker and Mr. G. W. Henry.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Pomeroy delightfully entertained Friday evening at their bungalow on Placentia avenue. Cut flowers and pepper boughs decorated the living-rooms. Five Hundred afforded entertainment for part of the evening. After several games a delicious three-course luncheon was served. Mrs. H. F. H. Schneider captured first prize for ladies, and H. Schindler first prize for gentlemen; Mrs. F. Harrison and H. F. H. Schneider won second prizes, while Mrs. Leon Porter and Mr. M. Nebelung received third prizes. Those present to enjoy the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nowotny, Mr. and Mrs. F. Tausch, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Duckworth, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Porter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Barmes, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. H. Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. M. Nebelung, Mr. and Mrs. H. Schindler, Mr. and Mrs. F. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pomeroy, and Mrs. Amy Wisser and Mrs. Minnie Kaufman.

Mrs. O. A. Mullinix and Mrs. B. Hartfield were hostesses to the Star Whist Club at the Masonic Temple Friday afternoon. The rooms were beautifully decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. Those winning first and second prizes at whist were Mrs. E. Zitzmann and Mrs. William McCann, the prizes being hand-painted china plate. The consolation, a silver thimble, was awarded to Mrs. W. P. Quarton. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the games.

Miss Alice Hansen entertained a number of friends at dinner Sunday at her home on West Center street. After this, the party motored to Seal Beach, where they enjoyed surf bathing. Those in the party were the Misses Olive and Etta Blatt of Chicago, Miss Helen Johnson of Santa Ana, and the Misses Ruth Altnow and Madeleine Whitaker of Anaheim.

The Anaheim Ladies' Euchre Club was entertained by Mrs. C. F. Grim at her home on East Center street on Thursday afternoon. Twenty ladies enjoyed the afternoon of cards and music with refreshments being served after the games. The prizes were pieces of aluminum ware, first prize being won by Mrs. Adolph Rimpau, second by Mrs. William Falkenstein, and third by Mrs. H. M. Adams.

Compton.

ONE of the prettiest of recent events was the birthday courtesy extended Miss Gertrude Mercer and Mrs. Clarence Dickinson by Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Mercer at their home on East Main street. Tricolored nasturtiums and roses of yellow hue formed a most effective decoration. A social evening with games was concluded by the serving of light refreshments. Bidden were the Misses Agnes, Eva and Olive Lee, Miss Gladys Grout, Miss Annabelle Ennen, Miss Bessie Kelso, Charles Ingles, C. A. Dickison, Reginald and Harold Keen and Herbert Collingridge.

The beautiful suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vetter was the scene of a delightful affair Thursday afternoon, when the Fancy Work Committee of the Pathfinder Club entertained with a shower for the benefit of a bazaar to be held by the club in the near future. Many beautiful and dainty pieces of needlework were given and the afternoon was spent fashioning more of a similar kind. Several varieties of garden flowers were arranged about the rooms, and tea, with its accompanying delicacies, was served at the close of a pleasant social time. With but few exceptions, the full membership of the club was present.

A recent event of importance to the younger contingent was the unusual

THE pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Overbury on East Main street was the scene of a delightful party Wednesday evening, the affair being in honor of four wedding anniversaries, these being those of the host and hostess, who had been married seventeen years; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Edingfield, eighteen years; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dynes, twenty years, and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Nightengale, thirty-four years. The invited guests included about forty intimate friends, and the diversions for the evening proved most enjoyable. The attractive parlors of the Overbury home were artistically decorated with English ivy and red carnations.

After a musical programme each one of the company was given a slip containing a question which was to be answered on another slip. After these were gathered and duly mixed two were appointed to read them, one reading a question and the other an answer, which caused much merriment. Humorous ten-word telegrams, written by each guest, were read aloud by C. C. Overbury and proved very mirth-provoking. After the games each one of the guests of honor narrated some incident of the wedding day, much to the amusement of the company. Light refreshments were served and the company dispersed at midnight wishing those in whose honor the affair was given many more years of wedded bliss.

Inglewood.

A ROMANCE extending over twenty years, culminated Thursday in the wedding of Lyman Upshur Loomis of Philipsburg, Mont., and Mrs. Gertrue Deaton Wilson of No. 605 Commercial street, Inglewood. Twenty years ago the bride was adopted into the Loomis family in the East. The Loomis boy and the girl were playmates, later sweethearts and when Mr. Loomis left the East to make his fortune in the West the couple was betrothed. In the years that passed a trivial lover's quarrel, over the misdirecting of a letter occurred, and the lovers drifted apart. The girl married and moved to California and although she was happy in a way the boy lover of her youth never passed out of her mind completely. Mrs. Loomis became a widow several years ago and quite recently her sweetheart of twenty years ago heard of it. A correspondence was renewed and a few months ago there was another betrothal, ending in the marriage yesterday. Mr. Loomis is a Montana mine owner and prominent in political circles in the State. The bride is a society favorite of Inglewood and a leader in club work. Mr. and Mrs. Loomis left today for an auto tour of California and will spend the winter in New York City.

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

The Ideal.

The one remains, the many change and pass;
Heaven's light forever shines;
earth's shadows fly;
Life, like a dome of many-colored glass,
Stains the white radiance of eternity,
Until death tramples it to fragments
—Die,
If thou wouldst be with that which thou dost seek!
Follow where all is fled!—Rome's
azure sky,
Flowers, ruins, statues, music,
words, are weak
The glory they transfuse with fitting truth to speak.

With the Landscape Painters.

Before we enter the wide vistas opened by the landscape painters in the sixth annual exhibition of the California Art Club, now on view in the gallery at Exposition Park, let us offer a word of praise and thanks to the hanging committee, who have solved a difficult problem with tact and discretion—and indeed given us an answer which approaches very near to the correct one.

After spending a week in the numerous badly hung galleries in the American section at San Francisco's exposition, I find it more than a distinct pleasure to traverse the length and breadth of the single gallery now occupied by the California Art Club. Here is plenty of space for the exhibit of less than a hundred works, which have been arranged as well as may be to avoid a clash of conflicting colors and a war of temperaments. The job of adjusting so many claims was difficult, as I have said, but the results repay every effort put forth.

In consequence, the exhibition looks ample and dignified, quietly inviting to study and enjoyment. Every guest, so to speak, has been given a good niche near a congenial neighbor of kindred language, so there is no wild and shrill confusion of tongues. Moreover, the blatant "exhibition picture" is conspicuous through its absence—thanks to the good sense of the painters themselves.

No one, I dare say, disputes the preeminent position that landscape art holds in Southern California. Nature herself has made the final decision in its favor. This is why I spoke at length, last week, on the work of the figure painters, who are stepping forward with not a little speed to assert powerful counter-claims. Already we are reaching a happy balance in endeavor, for the inevitable "human interest" cannot be ignored for long by the artist, whether he works in paints or clays or words.

In the matter of technical expression and apport our painters of landscape are still ahead of our figure painters, with a few notable exceptions. But this inequality of equipment will not continue for long—in fact, it is even now rapidly disappearing, and I make no doubt that in next year's exhibition of the California Art Club the landscapists will have to labor hard for their laurels. Already the figure painters have sounded a tentative note or two on the trumpet of triumph.

But with William Wendt, Gardner Symons, Guy Rose, Hanson Puthuff, Carl Oscar Borg, Fernand Lungren, Benjamin Brown and Maurice Braun still "in our midst"—and there are others—the figure men will not be permitted to languish for lack of doughty antagonists. And so the merry war will go on! Thus will the standard be raised to the highest of the heights.

Great help in the advancement of artistic ideals will also come from the sculptors, who will increase in numbers. At present they are very few, and these few seem to be all women in the exhibition now under consideration. But the work is of admirable quality, and at least one of the sculptors, Elizabeth Edmond, models with that forcefulness and directness of grasp which we have been in the habit of regarding (no doubt erroneously) as the distinct mark of the male of the species. Witness whereof may be found in the three portrait presentments she exposes in this exhibition. Julia Bracken Wendt is always feminine, which is not the same as saying that she lacks strength. On the contrary, she often displays it to a high degree, but to it she adds a woman's idealism, as in her portrait bust of Charles F. Lummis and in her charming relief portrait, "Eileen." Maud Daggett, too, unites solidity of form with lightness of touch in the small bust of "Marjory Ellen," and the elegance of May Mott-Smith's three portrait medals is that of perfect finish. Nothing could be more delightful than her "Patsey." (You will observe that it is in child portraiture that the women sculptors excel. Is not this fact an evidence of their unalterable femininity ?)

Interesting still-life arrangements are shown by Marie Johnson, who has a "Study of Brass" whose textures are admirable; by Anne M. Bremer, in a magnificent dash of color, a flower piece called "Yellow and Bronze;" by Lawrence M. Murphy, in a fluent "Interior," and by Meta S. Cressey, in a vigorous study of flowers and drapery. I am glad that the California Art Club does not debar such works from its exhibitions, for to the lover of "art for art's sake" these experiments in technique offer great pleasure. Nor must it be forgotten that almost all the great painters have been wonderful interpreters of still-life accessories.

An unusual departure for William Wendt is the big canvas, "The Silent Summer Sea," an expanse of the most beautiful blue imaginable seen from a high, yellow-brown bluff. It is an enthralling picture. More in his customary manner, however (and how quietly and searchingly poetic that is!) is "Under the Trees," sunlight and shadow and a dreaming pool. In "Mountain and Meadow" we are given a color scheme of wine-browns in a technique of quick vigor. The same forceful spontaneity is found in Benjamin Brown's "Sunlight in Matilija Canyon."

Gardner Symons's "Evening Light," a study of the sea from his windows at Arch Beach, is not a large picture, not an exhibition tour de force, but its scheme of gray and gold (sunset on the restless ocean) gives it much satisfying beauty. Moreover, its fine breadth of handling makes appeal to the searcher for technical dexterity. The rock-ribbed foreground is like a glimpse into the tremendous secrets of creation. Another admirable picture of sea and shore is M. Boening Kendall's "The Swirl," vital in color, full of nervous enegry. More tenderly poetic is Frank W. Cuprien's "Serenity," an evening, all gray and gold and brown, on the Laguna shore.

The sky in Fernand Lungren's "Dry Lake, Mojave Desert," one of the most imposing of the exhibition's canvases, is luminously yellow from horizon to zenith, at once alluring and terrifying. From the gray-green sagebrush in the foreground we are led on and on to the lovely pink and lavender of the far-off buttes. The vast solemnity of the desert broods over the picture. Hanson Puthuff is represented by three characteristic landscapes of Southern California, differing in sentiment and color, yet all finely forceful, free and fluent in technical expression. Personally I prefer "Summer's Gold," its tone of amber is so warm and exquisite. But I cannot dispute the taste of him who likes better "Spring Shower" or "The Rock-ribbed Hills," for both are noble transcriptions of California.

The two canvases that Carl Oscar Borg shows are small, but ooth are exceedingly important, for each gives us his last word in feeling and technique. They are poems in paint, tonal, rhythmical. How lovely is the color of "An Egyptian Evening," four figures in silhouette against a sky whose bloom is like that of some rare and perishing blossom. What profundity of religious sentiment pervades "The Flight into Egypt," whose overarching moonlit sky hangs breathless over the Madonna and Joseph toiling like ants over the vast desert.

Guy Rose's "Harmony Valley" is at once topographic and poetic—a combination of merits that spells achievement of a high order, for it means that his sunlit fields of grain and grass, his peak crowned in gray-pink, are true to outward fact and inward vision. One surmises that much the same encomium of praise may be handed to A. B. Titus for his delightful "Summer Clouds, Catskills," whose sweep of hills, low-lying under-floating white pinnacles of cumulus in a light-blue sky show tones of tender green melting into even more tender blue.

But art is decidedly long—especially when one talks about it—and time is even more decidedly fleeting, so I shall be compelled to touch very briefly on the remaining pictures, most of which are not deserving of so short a shrift. There are pleasant, suave greens in "Spring," by Anna A. Hillis; entrancing purple vapors among the trees in Maurice Braun's "Flat Rock Creek;" delicate decorative qualities in Bessie E. Hazen's three water colors; elan, lovely color, the spirit of outdoor joy in Franz Bischoff's "Spring Poem," whose children dance to the pipes of a hidden Pan; genuine understanding of a subtle mood in Xarifa Towner's pastel, "Ere Sunrise;" the successful attainment of light, air and movement in Sydney Dale Shaw's "Breezy Day," a study of the pier at Hermosa Beach.

Sincere and successful renderings of nature's varying aspects are also exposed by William Lees Judson, Cora Cowan, Helen E. Coan, Anne M. Bremer, Julie E. Raymond, J. Duncan Gleason, Ernest Browning Smith, Louis Hovey Sharp, A. E. Kilpatrick, Meta S. Cressey and Kathryn W. Leighton.

Some very good names are missing from the catalogue. Among them are those of Charles Austin, Jack Smith, William Silva and Karl Yens, as well as those of three prize winners of a previous year—Helena Dunlap, Detlef Sammann and Warren E. Rollins. This should not be so.

Although Frank P. Sauerwen has been dead five years, his name and his works are still remembered and still treasured among the art lovers of Los Angeles. Sauerwen had a studio here for a number of years, until, through failing health, he was compelled to move to Taos, N. M., where he remained for a long time, working steadily and conscientiously in spite of his ever-increasing physical weakness. Undoubtedly, if he had been a well man he would have accomplished great things. As it is, he did much that is of lasting worth.

Sauerwen had a talent of a high order, fine, delicate, poetic, with an eager alertness of mind that made him essay to paint everything that came his way. From choice, even more than from necessity, he painted the Indian and his life, the desert and its awesome mysteries. His studies of the Indian and the desert are very numerous, and when he died in Stamford, Ct., five years ago, many of them remained a part of his estate at Taos. That estate is about to receive its final settlement, and with this end in view almost a hundred of his pictures and sketches will be shown for two weeks, beginning tomorrow, in the Kanst gallery.

The exhibition will prove the wide diversity of his talent, for here are studies of the Grand Canyon, of the desert, of the Indian, of California's missions and of the cathedrals of Rome. Moreover, they may rightly be considered the best things he has done, for in the year 1900 he destroyed every canvas and water color in his possession, finding them below his ideal of painting, and began afresh. The pictures to be shown at Kansts are in the two mediums he used with equal facility, that of oil and water color.

In the Magazines.

"Synchronism" is the title of an article by Willard Huntington Wright which appears in the October number of the International Studio. It is written in Mr. Wright's usual forceful and luminous style. A new book by Mr. Wright, "Modern Painters," has just been published by John Lane. It is one of the best things of its kind—if not the best—and will be given further notice in this column very soon.

The same number of the magazine contains Christian Brinton's article on the foreign painting at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, with seven illustrations; "Thought and Thinking in Architecture," by C. Matlack Price; "Three Painters of the New York School" (Robert Henri, George B. Luks and George W. Bellows,) by John Cournos, with ten illustrations; "Impressions of Brittany in War Time," by Francine Almond, with nine sketches in colored chalks by W. Douglas Almond; "Canadian Artists and the War," by H. Mortimer-Lamb, with seven illustrations—and so on.

The leading paper in arts and decorations is "The Boston Group of Painters," by the editor, Guy Pene Du Bois, with illustrations by Edmund C. Tarbell, Joseph De Camp, Philip L. Hale and Frank W. Benson. Sadakichi Hartmann writes of "Our American Museums," bringing us to the Layton gallery in Milwaukee, and showing us reproductions of pictures by Carl Marr, Alma-Tadema, E. Van Marcke and Charles H. Jaques. Childe Hassam is discussed in "Who's Who in Am Art."

NOBODY CAN TELL IF YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Druggist Says When Mixed With Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss. Some druggists make their own, but it isn't nearly so nice as "Wyeth's."

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this tonight and by morning all gray hairs have disappeared; after another application or two it will be restored to its natural color and be even more glossy, soft and luxuriant than ever.

Local druggists say they are selling lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur;" it surely helps folks appear years younger.

ANNA HOWARD SHAW.

THE STORY OF A PIONEER. By Anna Howard Shaw, D.D., M.D. With the Collaboration of Elizabeth Jordan. Harper & Bros., New York.

THE autobiography of Anna Howard Shaw tells of long days of hard work to shape a successful career. She now is, and has been for some time, foremost among the world's suffrage and temperance advocates, president of the Woman's Suffrage Association of America, ordained minister, physician and lecturer.

She traces descent from the Shaws of Rothiemurchus, in Scotland, the ruins of whose castle many still be seen on the island of Lock-an-Eilan, in the northern highlands. Miss Shaw was born in England in 1847 and came with her family to America at the age of 4.

Much is told of the hardships of frontier life in Michigan when Indians were frequent visitors at the cabin and sometimes held all-night orgies. Her father was a man of education, but impractical. "Like most men," she says, "my dear father should never have married. . . . To him an acorn was not an acorn, but a forest of young oaks."

At the age of 15 she became a schoolteacher, earning $2 per week, and the whole of the first term's wages went into a "party dress." Until a few years later, when she took up preaching, the author says she greatly enjoyed dancing and made the most of it. At college she supported herself by lecturing and preaching, and her very first speech was a defense of Xantippe! She wonders if that was significant.

Her parochial experiences on Cape Cod, though undoubtedly serious enough at the time, have furnished her with reminiscences largely amusing. Scandalous prayers were in vogue when she arrived. The worshiper would loudly implore God to have mercy on some neighbor (mentioning the name) who had been guilty of such and such a thing (the thing being expressly and vociferously called to God's attention.) She quickly set about to suppress that manner of communion with the Lord.

Almost a half of the book is devoted to "the great cause" and its work, in which she has had a significant part, and deals with her respect for and association with Susan B. Anthony; of the numerous suffrage defeats and increasing victories; of experiences in foreign countries and of the women's movement there.

In more ways than one, it is "the story of a pioneer;" and no doubt the author was keenly aware of it in selecting the title.

ADVENTURES WITH JOHN MUIR.

ALASKA DAYS WITH JOHN MUIR. By S. Hall Young. Fleming H. Revell, Chicago.

DR. YOUNG has told of his friendship, explorations and adventures with John Muir in Alaska. Without the importance that their intimacy with one of our greatest naturalists gives, the chapters would be truly interesting. But telling, as it does, of John Muir's methods, showing much of the intense character of his investigations, how he scampered up perilous cliffs, into the chasms of glaciers, calling flowers his "little sweethearts," the book has an extraordinary value in the biographical literature on Mr. Muir.

Their friendship began when together they evaded less enthusiastic companions and went mountain scaling to catch a sunset. Dr. Young slipped over the edge of a precipice, both arms dislocated, and lay perilously close to death until Mr. Muir made an incredulous rescue.

Afterward they journeyed into the far north before the Klondike days, located many glaciers, including the monster that now bears Mr. Muir's name. Scientific men have called him the world's greatest authority on glaciers, and his enthusiasm, even love, for them is vividly pictured.

"Man, man," Mr. Muir cried one night after a trip, "you ought to have been with me. You'll never make up what you have lost today. I've been wandering through a thousand rooms of God's crystal temple. I've been a thousand feet down in the crevasses, with matchless domes and sculptured figures and carved ice works all about me. Solomon's marble and ivory palaces were nothing to it. Such purity, such color, such delicate beauty! I was tempted to stay there and feast my soul, and softly freeze, until I would become part of the glacier. What a great death that would be!"

Dr. Young also tells of Stickeen, the dog, afterward immortalized in Mr. Muir's book of that title, and how the wise animal attached itself to the naturalist and became an inseparable companion.

In connection with the explorations, Dr. Young shows something of the manners and customs of the Alaskan Indians; their feasts and fights—the last largely because they had been taught by a white man how to make "hooch" out of molasses.

THE HISTORY OF SHIPS.

SAILING SHIPS AND THEIR STORY. By E. Keble Chatterton. J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia.

MR. CHATTERTON sets forth the fascination of the sea in a glowing paragraph: "It calls some for trade, some for piracy, some for mere adventure. . . . It seduced ships from the safety of snug harbors only to be tossed about by the billows of a trackless expanse. The sea has ever been, ever is, and ever will be, uncertain, fickle, unkind, in spite of the fact that for 8000 years and more shipbuilders, designers, and seamen have by experience and invention sought every possible means to overcome its terrors and to tame its fury."

And it is that invention and experience for the past thousands of years that Mr. Chatterton relates in a scholarly book containing exhaustive inquiries from sources so widely varied as numismatic collections and gossip with old seamen on the waterfront. This history dates from the early Egyptians, and he shows how seafaring conservatism has perpetuated to modern times the semblance of the ancient poop and bow. In the earliest time, even as now, seafaring men credited ships with a personality suitable to a living, intelligent thing.

The sailing craft of all countries and periods is reviewed; tapestry, coins, tombs, old manuscripts and everything that seemed likely to yield a bit of evidence has been searched.

His chapters on the Elizabethan period are especially interesting. He corrects the historically certified report that the Spanish Armada was so much greater than the English fleet, and shows that the former were "very high but very short on keel," looming high out of the water, and consequently unseaworthy, which, Mr. Chatterton says, "has caused the prevailing fallacy to arise that the Armada ships were far larger than ours."

The history is brought down to modern times and yachting and racing are treated at length, as well as the remaining full-riggers that ride the seas. Mr. Chatterton scornfully declines to call the "marine mechanics" of modern steamships "sailors" and regretfully looks back to the glorious period of romance when ships were of wood and men of iron.

Men of power greater than Kings.

Maxim Gorky and Anatole France are distinctively the most prominent in the literary affairs of their respective countries. Gorky has just published through The Century Company an autobiographical book, "My Childhood." John Lane Company has just issued another volume of the admirable edition in which M. France's complete works are being presented in English, "Crainquebille."

BOOKS AS ROOM-MATES.

THE MAKING OF AN AMERICAN'S LIBRARY. By Arthur E. Bostick. Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

ATTIC salt for bookish people is in Mr. Bostwick's "The Making of an American's Library." He writes for book-lovers, not collectors, poseurs, culturettes and the Midas-gifted who order a library as they order a dinner. His essays are scarcely more than confidential chats spoken for those who treat books as room-mates.

"When I see," he says, "on a friend's shelf, nicely-bound 'sets' of Dickens, Thackeray, Scott and George Elliot, I grieve—not so much because I doubt his taste as because he should have so erred in judgment as to think that his proper and commendable love for the immortal works of these authors should necessitate his taking to his bosom also the balderdash and the "pot-boilers," the failures among their writings. It is as if, when you invite a dear friend, you should at the same time ask all the rest of the village."

As the librarian of the St. Louis Public Library it is natural that he should offer some comment on the effect of public libraries, which he calls "literary laboratories." He thinks that public libraries have stimulated, rather than restricted, private book owning—created, as it were, a thirst for books. "And for every man who is thus tempted to steal a book, there must be hundreds who are induced to buy one."

No formula, list or patented advice on what books to collect or how to collect them is offered. He suggests each person follow personal taste, do it honestly, learn the gentle art of browsing and cultivate a speaking acquaintanceship with sturdy masters and worthy unfamed volumes who will speedily develop into friends and become most companionable "room-mates."

SHAKESPEARE AND BACON.

SKEPTICISM is one of the most beneficial of human faults. It may torture men of genius, stone the prophets and even deny God, but it keeps mankind from being even more of a perambulating weathercock. For every truth denied, a thousand impostures are seized by the throat and choked to death in the course of a skeptical scrutiny. And there is too much martyr's blood in the veins of men for geniuses, prophets or God ever to lack valorous champions, though they seem insignificant and appear ridiculous.

Skepticism has bludgeoned no advocates, excepting perhaps those supporting some theocratic creed, so severely as that apparently eccentric and undoubtedly stubborn class of Baconians.

But strange as it may seem to those who have not closely followed the more obscure currents of the movement, the Baconian theory — so often "exploded," "crushed," "laid to rest at last"—is at the present time stronger and more widespread than when the fulminations of Ignatius Donnelly alarmed the Stratfordian worshipers and amused the incredulous bystanders.

James Phinney Baxter, a newcomer into the lists, but armed cap-a-pie by that prodigious research so characteristic of Baconians, without adding any considerable amount of claims or evidence, though he seems to have exhaustively verified every possible witness accepted, has comprehensively summed up the Baconian position in "The Greatest of Literary Problems" (Houghton-Mifflin Company.)

The ordinary person, though likely to be very positive on the question, has absolutely no right to an opinion. Which in no sense means that only those people who do have rights to opinions are Baconians. But the ordinary person knows nothing of the evidence—evidence which cannot be understood at a glance or appreciated at a reading.

There are many, and we among them, who positively care nothing about the controversy beyond its fascinating features as a curiosity. But your real Stratfordian and your loyal Baconian have a jealous regard for the prestige of their patron saints and fight with words as cruel and arguments as intricate, and often more plausible, as lawyers battling to break a will and get more remunerative rewards than to glorify an ancient memory.

The Baconian contentions as summed up by Mr. Baxter, justified and supported with arguments which, because of their scope and ramifications, offer wide fields of investigation to those interested, are staggering to people who have not watched the well-nigh omnivorous claims gradually develop from the comparatively modest assumption that Bacon wrote the plays credited to Shakespeare to the magnificently astounding faith that he also wrote:

The plays of Robert Green.
The plays of George Peele.
The plays of Christopher Marlowe.
The plays of Thomas Kyd.

Collaborated with and was served by Ben Jonson.

All the works of Edmund Spenser, including "The Faerie Queene" and the "Shepherd's Calendar."

Robert Burton's "The Anatomy of Meloncholy."

Probably revised and passed finally upon the King James version of the Bible.

And that most curious and little known allegory, "Argenis."

As well as his own voluminous and acknowledged works on science, philosophy and ethics.

But there is still more to make a holiday for the merry skeptics: It is also claimed that Bacon was the son of the Earl of Leicester and Queen Elizabeth, and thereby a full brother to the puzzling Duke of Essex, who was executed after heading a revolt to compel his royal mother to acknowledge and place him in line of succession to the throne of England.

No, no, that isn't all. There is more merriment for those who want it. The Baconians have found a hidden cipher running through those works mentioned, which purport to reveal a secret history of England of that period and tell with specific detail all those things claimed.

Ridiculous? Perhaps. But fascinating, ye gods, how fascinating!

Nor is it so grossly ridiculous as at first appears. The Baconians get most of their converts through the transformation of skeptics who start studying the question more ably to defend the Stratfordian.

And heaven knows he needs defending. Is there anything, the Baconians ask, on its face more preposterous than to assume that a country yokel came into London, fleeing from a felony charge and, within a year of his arrival, was putting on the boards the choicest dramas in the language? That this same fellow was fluently familiar with the intimacies of a most exclusive and arrogant court, had at his tongue's end the recondite phrases of law, seamanship, philosophy, art, medicine, music and knew more history, ancient and contemporary, than the scholars of his day? That this yokel, inspired by a vague but most comprehensive genius, acquiring so speedily such a profundity of knowledge, showing such a love of learning, praising culture so excellently, yet did not leave an authentic, personal record of himself (except in his will,) which does not establish that he was squabbling at law over a few shillings or buying an interest in a theater, which was not paid for at the time of his death; and in his will, though carefully enumerating the bequest of every article in his possession, he made absolutely no mention of any book, manuscript or object of esthetic appreciation more elevated than his "second best" bed?

The Baconians may be riding a bull to Bedlam, but the Stratfordians certainly swallow some gigantic Jonahs in their determination to keep the faith.

Shakespeare's plays were not collected and published in the form in which we now have them until after his death; and that they were largely revised, filled in, changed and improved, is believed by many people who think Baconians are thievish heretics.

Indeed, indeed, it is a fascinating question and Mr. Baxter has made the most of it. Except for an unnecessary, though commendably brief censure of Horace Howard Furness, who, though a sentimental pundit, did notable work as a Shakespearean scholar, yet, for fear of losing a treasure from his variorum editions, lugged in whole wagonloads of rubbish, Mr. Baxter has observed a tolerance that will strongly recommend his "The Greatest of Literary Problems." It is a masterpiece in the presentation of a wide variety of most amazing evidence. Paradoxically: Some of it is irrefutable, much of it convincing, yet the whole of it baffles belief.

Let the fortunes of the controversy be as they may, let the fight go on and the advocates plead into unprejudiced ears. We who sit in the galleries can, with good grace, cheer every feat, applaud each hit and get great joy out of the spirited, brilliant combat, yet have never a quiver of apprehension; for it matters not to whom the ultimate rewards may go—whether the glory still remains above that simple monument with its cryptic inscription at Stratford-on-Avon or is carried in processional triumph to St. Michael's Church, St. Albans, the treasures of the Elizabethan age are ours and shall be as long as language remains and parchment answers the impress of type or pen.

GOTHAM AND AMERICA'S ART.

The Latest and Best Pictures Exhibited in the New York Galleries by the Modern Artists.

BY KATHERINE T. VON BLON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The galleries on Fifth avenue are beginning to open their stately portals again as the sumptuous winter throng swirls seductively up and down that magnificent thoroughfare.

The evidence in these galleries proclaims that America is soon to have a new art, all her own. At present the disciples of the high priestess, "Originality of Expression," are groping rather vaguely at times, it must be admitted, but nevertheless with a masterful determination toward firmer paths. They are branching out bravely, leaving the more academic of their kind in the shadows. The new fields into which they make their excursions are bright with vivid colors, for they are all futurists to a greater or less extent.

The idea of the new art is that in order to paint one must have something big to express. Then the manner of telling it must be left to he who possesses the idea, and he must not be fettered by old rules or methods, but if he is great enough he will find the proper terms in which to express his thought or emotion. Also all detail is thrown to the winds, and elusive or pregnant feeling but lightly suggested. In fact in all the modern art we find the idea suggested, and nothing more. That is the big thing. All lesser things are swept aside.

TECHNIQUE ABANDONED.

How gladly the many have thrown aside fetters of technique, the mad riot of futurist effusions testify. Not that technique is not necessary for modern art, but that doubtless many of them had none to use. Technique enables one to accomplish with ease that which minus that cultivation is only performed with stress and strain. The few really good things among a host of mediocrities prove that many are striving for art, where perhaps some pursuit requiring less originality, less of the divine fire were more fitting.

In the Montross galleries, where the first showing of the ultra-moderns is exhibited, pale young ladies with green silk hose and attenuated necks gazed soulfully at what at first to me seemed fearful mistakes. Young men with flowing ties and Van Dyke beards discoursed learnedly upon just what an artist meant by a triangle of sapphire blue set in an orange and green background with dashes of yellow and red to relieve the color scheme. I thought the answer must be that the artist who had perpetrated this vagary had suddenly gone insane. Behind me I was relieved to hear some foolish people giggling in a repressed fashion.

THE NEW VISION.

This was all evidently extremely new to them, and they were sort of readjusting their mental vision. One must do a great deal of readjusting, for one learns to look for ideas, whereas one had always sought beauty in art. One must realize that truth is not always beautiful, nor even pleasant to look upon, so the expression in paint of ugly emotions or feelings cannot always bring joy to the human heart. One must enter into these silent places full of self-abnegation, all our sensuous beauty-loving spirit quelled, for one needs be taught perhaps rather to feel with one's emotions the underlying message of the picture than to see only the beauty, an evanescent quality which is soon wafted from our memories. If, however, the artist creates a new emotion, a new trend of thought in his public he may feel his efforts are worth while.

Most of those who essay the new art use what they term "pure color." That is they do not mix their colors. They strive less for fineness and subtleties and more for broad effects, everything being sacrificed to the ruling emotion, passion or thought, governing the picture. Also most of them put the color on flat. That is, they try no illusory effects, preferring to remain within what they consider the limits of their medium.

Fortunately most of the exhibitors in the Montross Gallery have a strong technical foundation, consequently their excursion into this new field is not fraught with uncertainty.

However, there were a few notable exceptions. For instance, after studying Morton L. Schamberg's pastel labeled "Landscape," I failed to find anything that it resembled except a Navajo blanket. I concluded that he must have gone to the Navajo country, and remained on so protracted a visit, that he'd become so thoroughly saturated with these savage artisans' work that he had unconsciously given vent to his pent-up feeling in this weird utterance. It had a gray background with zigzags of red and black and a touch of yellow about it. My imagination must be lacking for I could find nothing in it that would even remotely suggest a landscape. However, it may only represent an emotion or state of feeling produced by a certain landscape.

Eugene E. Speicher, whose portraits heretofore have been distinguished for a certain suavity of treatment, and for remarkable subtlety in their representation of his sitters' physiognomies, has reverted to a rigid severity such as the Paduans practiced in the early seventeenth century. Though he has cast aside his subtleties, he still clings to his splendid draughtsmanship and clever brush work. His portrait of a woman of Italian type, in which he utilized strong blues and reds in daring combination is a vivid picture. The woman's face is one in which strong passions dwelt; intense loves and hates would always be her masters. Altogether a vigorous conception. All his color is very pure; no mixing. It is sometimes a bit heavy, but there is no suggestion of gloom about it. His structure is especially well organized.

SOME INFELICITIES.

Joseph Stella showed some pastels which seemed fearfully crude. The drawing was not bad, but the effect unfinished. Yet he showed a still life water color which was delightful in sunshiny effect and lightness of treatment.

George Bellows, a disciple of the famous Robert Henri, shows two interesting and original paintings. The "Portrait of Anne," a little girl with yellow hair, and blue eyes exactly matching her hair ribbon, is the very embodiment of happy childhood. Every color stands out boldly in this portrait, but it is all bright. Even the shining black of her shoes does not make the sombre note which Speicher unconsciously emphasizes with his queer blues, greens and violets.

DEPICTION OF THE POOR.

Jerome Myers is another artist in whose nature, the new art strikes a responsive chord, yet his drawing is always splendid, and his pictures reflect the life of the common poor of the big city; a phase which he is particularly happy in interpreting. His "Fantasy" presents the little ones of the poor, with their love of bright color (indicated in their gay and flimsy little dresses) dancing joyously in the streets. His coloring is virile and free, though not as pure as some of the others, but very deftly handled.

Thomas H. Benton possesses the modern idea but sacrifices nothing in his technique. His "Figure Organization," a wonderful painting of heroic figures in strife, their shining bodies and tense drawn muscles reflecting strange hues, as if colored lights shone upon them, expressing depth in terms of color, without sacrificing the plastic quality.

Galleries of the future will of necessity be enormous, for the new art requires, as a rule, great distance in order that one may receive the proper impression. For example Allen Tucker's "A Cornfield" is really a delightful pastoral scene reviewed from afar. The shadows of evening are falling, and the trees are purplish against a strong velvet sky. The cornstacks are purple as if from a clouded sun, while the yellow stubble of the field casts a gloss of brightness over the whole. It sounds rather queer, but the effect was one of poignant beauty.

Edwin Adam Kramer achieved an effect similar to a Monet painting. That is the grouping of his slim trees rather reminded one of that great French artist. The sky was brightly blue as seen through a group of gray green trees, slender, and with trunks shimmering in the suggestion of sunlight. The paint was put on quite freely and used in splotchy manner, but with good effect.

AN ULTRA-MODERN.

Frank A. Nankivell, the well-known illustrator, is ultra-modern, yet his drawing is so clever that his ideas are clear and one is stimulated imaginatively immediately. "The Fete," his one contribution, is notable for brilliance of suggestion and color. A Chinese lantern, a man with a queer scarlet costume, and a musical instrument, all in strong pure color, are the salient points.

A water color of Arthur Wesley Dow's, deftly done with a miminum of brush work; a mere wash drawing on gray paper, entitled "A Memory of the Grand Canyon," created a strong impression of the peculiar color effects and great reaches of that nature's wonderland.

A note of humor runs through many of the futurist specimens and also distinguishes the cubist attempts, which is well since if one finds not beauty, one may at least discover fun. Charles H. Walther's "Symphonic Poem in Blue" achieves an original theme. One sees blue and green notes (I mean the notes of a piano score) jumping madly about, and glimpses a piece of a piano, and music book. I am afraid Mr. Walther rather oversteps the bounds of cubism, for he more than suggests; in his work, one can really make out things a bit. This is not truly giving our brains a proper stimulus. Mr. Walther again in "Melody to Grief," has chosen a musical title. Here large cubes and small cubes, draped and undraped cubes, in purples, blues and greens vie with each other in depicting different shades of grief. It almost brought me to tears, trying to extract the real raisin d'etre of this masterpiece.

THE MOST ELEGANT GALLERY.

Passing from the Montross Gallery we made our way to the famous Knoedler Galleries, the most elegant of the Fifth Avenue exhibition places. Through a great marble salon, one comes upon the picture room itself and here are now exhibited one of the most notable collections of pictures ever assembled in this country. They are the works of Alfred Philippe Roll, one of France's most highly revered artists, and who now holds the exalted office of President of the "Societe Nationale de Beaux Arts." These pictures are exhibited in this country under the auspices of no less a personage than President Poincare, and the officials of France, M. Paul Vitry of the Louvre and M. Leonie Benedite of the Luxemburg.

It is mainly through the efforts of M. Paul Vitry of the Louvre that these paintings have been assembled in America. It took considerable tactful maneuvering in order that these precious human documents might be brought to America at this time. Great fear was at first expressed for the safety of these great works, when it was first suggested, that they should be brought. M. Leonie Benedite, who first loaned three pictures to America from the Luxemburg for the exhibition of the Societe Nouvelle, three years ago, brought three important works of M. Roll from the treasures of the Luxemburg, which have been buried since the beginning of the war! These three paintings loaned from the Luxemburg will one day be the property of the Louvre. Everyone of the present collection has been at one time or another hung in the salons. It contains many noteworthy portraits, among others those of three Presidents of France.

FRANCE HONORS US.

America may feel honored and New York in particular for this interest from official France in this American exhibition, for it is the French government and French art which have sent these rarest productions of a man whom at this moment France most highly prizes and honors.

That M. Roll is a great master is very evident and his remarkable versatility is well illustrated in this exhibit.

His art is virile, vivid and full of a luminous light with delicate accents. There is freshness and strength in all his work.

His pictures of his lovely auburn-haired wife are filled with that luminosity so characteristic of him, and the flesh tints are delicate as old ivory, with a tender hint of a warmer color beneath the satiny skin.

"The Lady in White" is perhaps the most striking of these pictures of Mme. Roll. It represents a radiant creature in white painted in the full light against the spring greens of the garden. This picture is one of those loaned by the Luxemburg Gallery. Another portrait of this lady whom he so dearly loved to paint, is with her rosy child in a garden of soft spring light, whose greens shimmer with a silvery sheen, melting with the nebulous gray of her gown. The coloring of her hair, and the tender curves of the young mother's face are beauties which the artist has made us feel.

Another painting which is full of color, put on with heavy, broad stripes, and deft handling of draperies is the "Trojans at Carthage." Two women are seated, one at the piano about to play the score from which the picture takes it title. One is an auburn-haired beauty richly clothed in a satiny yellow creation, whose folds melt into the old ivory tints of her shoulders, and are repeated again in the high lights of her hair. The other, a brunette, with thoughtful, rather poetic expression is prepared to listen. The rich, deep, mahogany velvet of her gown is just the right contrast for the yellow of the other's draperies. The warm lights in the room are beautifully modulated, to bring all the nuances of the picture into being. This also is one of the Luxemburg pictures.

The portrait of Henri Rochefort, the great Frenchman, was one of the most striking of human characterizations. The dark eyes seem alive with fire, and the snowy hair swept back from the broad brow. The mobile face and animated expression with rather ruddy skin are not easily forgotten.

"MATERNITY."

To me one of the most wonderful of all these great paintings is the one entitled "Maternity." It has the soft, dark background of one of the old masters. It pictures a little French peasant mother, with her little white cap and kerchief, standing over her babe, which lies peacefully sleeping in its tiny wooden cradle. It is night and the wee mother has slipped in to gaze upon the rosy face of her most precious little one. She holds her hand in front of the candle to shade the light from baby's eyes, and a soft effulgence is thrown about her. The look of mingled love and tender yearning upon the face of the mother is exquisite to behold. One feels somehow that the little peasant mother is seeing heaven through her baby's eyes, and tip-toes away, fearful lest the spell might break.

"A Summer Day" is more modern in treatment than some of the others. Two women are seated in a field of flowers surrounded by trees. The women are gowned in delicate shades, one in lavender, the other in yellow. A black horse prances playfully through the trees. The coloring is bright and sunshiny.

A little nude figure in a Louis XV panel, loaned by Madame Paquin, is a very spirited bit. The flesh tints are admirable, and the amber hair glows with a shining brilliance.

Mr. Roll is able to paint the most aristocratic and elegant people of his time with a fidelity and understanding that is marvelous. Witness the painting of President Faure, with his little son, or again that magnificent painting, in remembrance of the placing of the first stone of the bridge of Alexander the Third. Here all the pomp of royalty is so faithfully reproduced. Their Majesties the Czar and Czarina of Russia and the President of France are in the foreground and banners wave, pretty young girls in lovely costumes present the guest of honor with flowers. Delicate pearly-blossomed peach trees make a charming background.

Yet again his versatility is evident in the sympathetic handling of the picture of the poor. "A Poor Woman With Her Child" and "Family of Tillers of the Soil" both from Madame Paquin's collection, are masterpieces of feeling. He seems to enter into the hearts of his subjects, for a pathos and tender love is revealed, especially in the last named group, where the mother rests on the ground, holding the tired little one in her arms, while the weary father leans over, gazing with loving eyes upon his treasures.

In his military pictures he depicts with unusual fidelity violent motions and complicated scenes as in "Halt," a picture painted in 1875. The artist was very much influenced by Gericault at this time. Many of his portraits treated with large, flat strokes, suggest Manet. Though a pupil of Gerome and Bounot, Philippe Roll may have had and undoubtedly was influenced by them, but he remains today original and bold in draughtsmanship and brush work, and his work is entirely his own personality revealed.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. William Bishop, 37, of Winsted, Ct., has just given birth to her seventeenth baby. Sixteen of the children, eleven girls and five boys, are living, and every member of the family has brown eyes. Two of the children are married and have three children. The Bishops have been married twenty years. There is one set of twins, William and Wilbur. The latest arrival has been named Walter.

Mrs. Janet MacDonald of Boothbay Harbor, Me., 77 years old, is about to retire wealthy, after twenty years in the business of seal-catching, with three men in her employ. The seals of Maine waters are not valuable for their skins, but are easily tamed and are in demand for public and private collections and aquariums and zoological collections. The catching is done at night, with the aid of nets, and Mrs. MacDonald has caught many personally. Often they follow her about the house several days after capture. The usual price is $25, and her catch has averaged 100 in a season of six weeks in the late spring and summer.

Mrs. Mary Warren holds a unique position with the United States government, that of looking over all the waste baskets of the Treasury Department. She has held this one job for thirty years and carefully examines every bit of waste paper taken from the Treasury office.

Miss Gertrude M. Fischer, 19 years old, of Philadelphia, is declared the is the young woman whose picture has been printed in many newspapers in the United States as the girl whom the Associated Photographers of America found to be the "most beautiful."

Miss Nana Sterling of Houston, Tex., has been adjudged the most perfectly formed American woman. Miss Sterling is 19 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, and weighs 130 pounds. Her bust and hips equally measure 38 inches, her neck 13, and her calf 14 inches. Miss Sterling is as strong as she is symmetrical, being a trained athlete.

PERSONAL—

the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING STREET, by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

MINING—

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS A POUND.

THE FAMOUS GLORY HOLE MINE in Western Arizona, which startled the mining world several years ago with the richest strike ever made in Arizona, producing about forty thousand dollars in less than a week from a twelve foot hole, much of the ore running over a hundred dollars a pound, has been closed down ever since that week on account of internal dissensions and other troubles. Everything has now been settled, title is clear and owners will consider giving interest in property for small amount necessary for development of immense outcrop at extreme end of which the high grade ore was taken out. Surface not even scratched yet and property is practically as undeveloped a prospect as it was the week the fabulous strike was made, but geological conditions, formation, immense size and character of showings indicate existence of one of the biggest bonanzas in Arizona—and only a small amount of money necessary to prove it. Property not for sale but owners will consider organizing company, turning property over to company and taking in responsible people who will underwrite or can finance development. Wildcatters and irresponsible promoters need not waste their time or mine, but the RIGHT KIND OF PEOPLE CAN MAKE THE RIGHT KIND OF A DEAL. The mining world and investing public now waiting expectantly for strike of high grade ore somewhere. If you are a mining man or speculator you know what it will mean to the man who can open up some REAL HIGH GRADE HUNDRED DOLLAR A POUND JEWELRY ORE now. I will gamble with you that I can open up the high grade in the Glory Hole before Christmas, and Christmas isn't very far off—neither is the Glory Hole from Oatman or Los Angeles. If you are in the mining game think this over carefully, then if you mean business and can do business see me. D. W. HALL, 634 Citizens National Bank Bldg.

HOTEL TRADED FOR BIG TRACT.

HALF MILLION INVOLVED IN EXCHANGE DEAL.

Eighth-street Hostelry Transferred, Owner Receiving in Part Payment Thousand-acre Ranch Near San Bernardino—Tract to be Subdivided.

A trade involving property valued at $500,000 is reported by the Ferl Investment Company, which, in conjunction with the Walter H. Fisher Company, handled the transaction.

In the deal the Woodward Hotel on West Eighth street near Hill, valued at around $300,000 and owned by T. M. Walker, was exchanged for the property known as the DeVore ranch at the entrance to the Cajon Pass, ten miles north and west of San Bernardino, owned by T. W. Wadsworth and said to be valued at about $250,000. The difference in value of the two properties was adjusted by mortgage.

H. P. Grabill of the Ferl Investment Company acted as agent for Mr. Walker, Mr. Wadsworth being represented by E. O. Wardell of the Walter H. Fisher Company.

The Woodward Hotel is a seven-story building of fireproof construction. It contains about 130 rooms, with sixty baths.

The DeVore ranch contains over 1000 acres and is situated at DeVore station on the Santa Fe and Salt Lake roads, sixty miles from Los Angeles by auto. It is picturesquely located, being set against wooded hills and overlooking the whole valley around San Bernardino. Over 200 acres are now planted to apples and 300 acres or more are in table grapes, olives and other fruits. The ranch is piped for irrigation, its water supply coming from the near-by mountains.

A portion of the ranch will be sold in small tracts by the new owner, Mr. Grabill acting as agent.

TO LARGER QUARTERS.

Local Pumping and Gas Engine Concerns Secure Joint Lease on East Third-street Premises.

The W. Ross Campbell Company, through Richard C. Willis of its leasing department, has just closed a number of leases, among which are reported the following: For C. C. Chapman to the American Pump Company and the West Coast Gas Engine Company, premises at No. 420 East Third street. The quarters will be used as a sales and exhibition room for mining, pumping and engine equipment. Both concerns are branches of large eastern firms and have been established for some time. Both have outgrown their present locations.

Henry B. Day, who has for the past eight years been engaged in the business of jobbing cotton goods, burlap and auto supplies in this city, has leased through the Campbell company the site at Nos. 1126-1128 South Los Angeles street. The deal calls for the erection of a one-story brick building to be used for both business and warehouse.

A third deal involves the moving from Glendale of the Butts Electric Manufacturing Company into the building at No. 125 East Ninth street. The firm specializes in the manufacture of electric hand drills and certain kinds of mechanics' tools.

Mr. Willis further reports the consummation of a lease for the Schwartz Land, Building and Investment Company on the two storerooms at Nos. 265-267 South Los Angeles street. A. W. Brode, the lessee, has been in the electric supply business in this city for fifteen years.

Beautiful Classic Pile Now Rising in San Fernando Valley.

VALUABLE CROWN CITY RESIDENCE PURCHASED BY WESTERNERS.

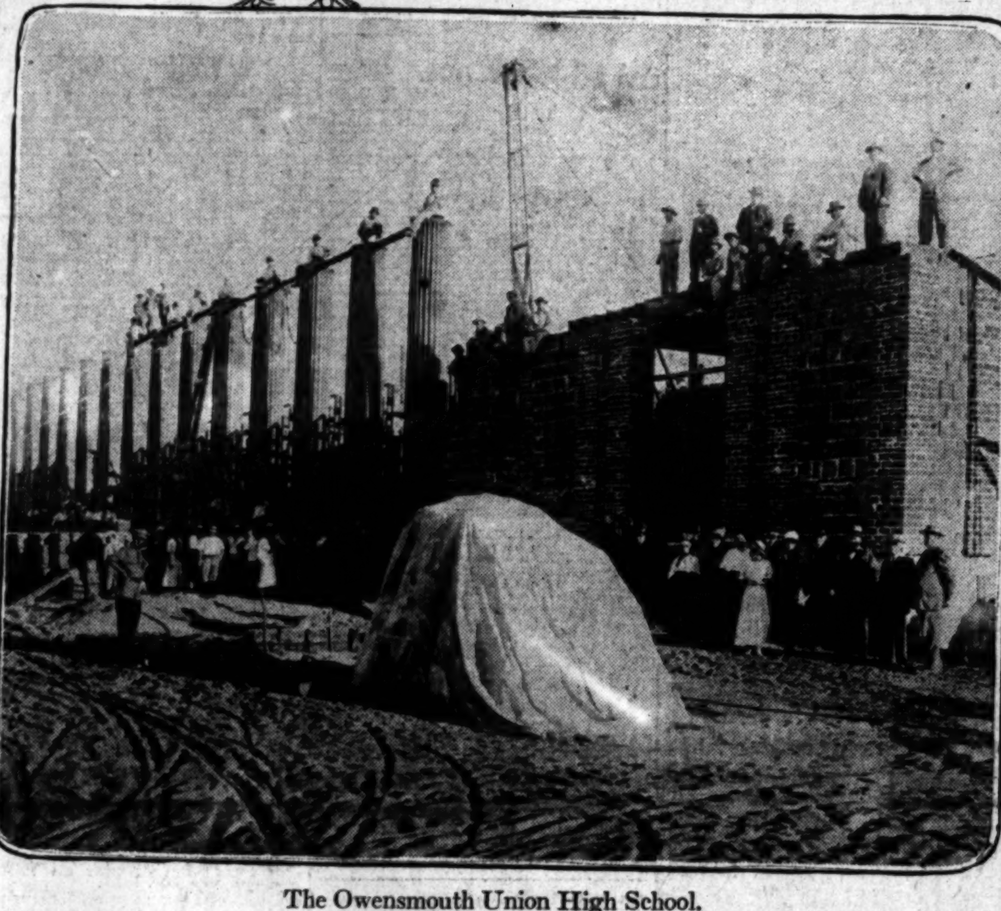
Two prominent residents of the Middle West have just adopted Southern California as their home and have purchased residence properties in Pasadena through the real estate agency of J. W. Wright & Co. of that city. Edward H. Story, president of the Story & Clark Piano Company of Chicago and a prominent banker in his home city of Riverside, Ill., has bought at the corner of Hillhurst and Wentworth avenues in the Oak Knoll district, near the Huntington Hotel, and is having plans drawn for a handsome residence to be built immediately. The corner is one of the finest in that district of palatial homes, and commands a view of the mountains and the San Gabriel Valley.

The transaction is reported to have been for cash.

Mr. and Mrs. Lacy M. Love of St. Louis have purchased, through Wright & Co., a white plaster villa type home at No. 1333 Oakland avenue, built about a year ago and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Earl V. Armstrong. The consideration was approximately $40,000 cash, and included all the furniture, rugs, paintings and other interior belongings. Mr. Armstrong, the seller, is head of the Chandler Automobile Company of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Love are prominent in social and club circles of St. Louis, and Mr. Love has been identified with real estate and financial interests there for many years, being president of the Love Mortgage Investment Company. Mrs. Love was formerly Miss McBride, daughter of the former Pittsburgh oil magnate, William C. McBride.

HOLLYWOOD SALES.

The Ramey Investment Company reports the following recent real estate transfers: Seven-room colonial bungalow, No. 1534 Sierra Bonita avenue, Hollywood, to J. T. Berry, $5850; eight-room, two-story chalet, No. 1535 Sierra Bonita avenue, Hollywood, to W. K. Flora, $7500; six-room bungalow, No. 4527 Cimarron, to B. G. Seielstad, $2800, and eight-room bungalow, No. 147 North Dillon street, to E. T. Sams, $5000. The company is building a seven-room colonial bungalow at No. 1514 Sierra Bonita avenue, for A. G. Myall, a seven-room chalet at No. 1525 Detroit avenue, for Dr. E. R. Andrews, and two six-room bungalows on Arvia street for Mrs. Brusch.



The Owensmouth Union High School.

The drawing shows the new suburban educational institution, which is undoubtedly one of the finest acquisitions made by Los Angeles through its annexation of the valley irrigation district, as it will appear when completed. The photograph was taken a week ago while H. J. Whitley (at right in foreground,) through whose efforts the project in its present form was largely made possible, was showing the unfinished building to a group of visitors in attendance at the opening of the Owensmouth cannery and warehouse. The last of the sixteen stately Corinthian columns which are to form the imposing facade of the structure had just been set in place. Architect Oliver P. Dennis, who is in entire charge of the work, promises to have the splendid scholastic plant under roof within a few weeks.

TRADES INVOLVE BIG VALUATION.

REALTY CONCERN REPORTS EXCHANGES OF COUNTRY AND CITY HOLDINGS.

The Edwards & Wildey Company reports the following exchanges made through its city and country exchange departments during the past two weeks: Byron C. Hanna to James Dick, eleven-acre lemon grove one-half mile from Santa Paula, Ventura county, valued at $8500, Mr. Hanna taking in exchange a lot 50x150 feet in size improved with house on Jefferson street, adjoining corner of Vermont, value, $8000, balance in cash.

For L. Hickson to C. Lacey, fifteen-acre walnut grove on boulevard between Puente and Covina, at valuation of $20,000, Mr. Hickson taking as part payment an eight-room residence on Lake street, near Sixth, at a valuation of $10,000, the balance being adjusted by cash and mortgage. Mr. Lacey contemplates modernizing the improvements now on the property with the view to making a country home of the place.

Frank Young to Fred Jacobs, seven-room bungalow at No. 115 Hobart boulevard, valued at $6500, Mr. Young taking in part payment a lot 50x135 feet in size on Irola, near Ninth, and a lot 45x135 feet in size on South Park, near San Bernardino; the two sites valued at $4500.

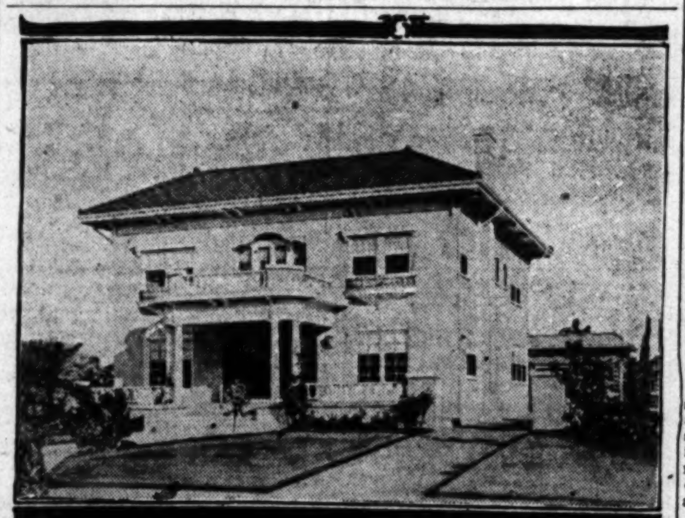
C. E. Mooney to Albert J. Brown, the three-story, forty-eight-room Cambridge apartments on Bonnie Brae street, between Sixth and Orange, at valuation of $40,000, Mr. Mooney taking in party payment a lot on Maple avenue, between Seventh and Eighth, valued at $20,000, and two lots on Pritchard street, valued at $4000, the balance being adjusted by cash. Mr. Brown bought the apartments for an investment, the property now being under lease for a ten-year term.

EAST WHITTIER WAY.

Charles J. Claussen, sales manager for the Leffingwell Heights citrus lands, in East Whittier, reports sales i nthat tract to the following: B. L. Moseley of Santa Ana, six acres, $2950; William Moseley of Tustin, five acres, $2500; W. B. Spencer of Long Beach, seven acres, $3700, and S. G. Hamilton of Fullerton, six acres, $3250. All of these buyers, it is stated, will plant their land to late Valencia oranges and build homes. Mr. Hamilton has let a contract for a $2000 bungalow, which is now under construction.

HOTEL CHANGES HANDS.

H. Jerome Toy & Co. and the J. H. Reid Company report the leasing of the Loma Hotel, No. 1007 South Figueroa street, to Mrs. Hattie Cook of this city. The Loma, of recent construction, is a three-story, white pressed brick building containing fifty rooms. The leasehold covers a term of five years, approximating $20,000. The hotel is hereafter to be known as the New Atlas.



Fine residences sold during past week.

The upper house, at No. 530 South Alexandria avenue, was transferred through the Charles C. and S. J. Chapman Company. Wright & Co. handled the sale of the other place, which is in Oak Knoll.

New Industry.

AFTER FORMER GERMAN TRADE.

Contract Let for Big Potash Plant at Harbor.

Product is Scarce Because of World War.

Enormous Sum to be Invested in Enterprise.

The contract was let during the past week for the construction at San Pedro of a number of factory buildings for the American Trona Corporation, which recently purchased from the Southern Pacific Railway Company some seven acres, near the harbor, as the site for a potash plant. The contract, amounting to about $300,000, was awarded to the F. O. Engstrum Company of this city, and includes also the erection of buildings at Searles Lake, where the corporation has extensive potash deposits.

The Llewellyn Iron Works of this city will supply all steel for the San Pedro buildings, while a San Francisco concern will furnish materials for the Searles Lake structures. The corporation is understood to have purchased especially designed machinery for both plants.

All the buildings to be erected will have steel frames and concrete footings, the sides being of corrugated iron. They will include warehouses, refineries, chemical buildings and various smaller structures.

Representatives of the corporation assert that they have convinced themselves of the entire practicability of their plan. Huge shipments of crude mineral will be sent to San Pedro from Searles Lake deposits and there reduced to potash for commercial purposes. The product is in particular demand at this time on account of the war, which has effectually deprived Germany of what amounted almost to a monoply in the potash industry.

BUILDING OWN PLANT.

Alta Loma Orchardist Starts Modern Citrus Packing House With Capacity of Over a Hundred Cars.

One of the largest and most complete citrus packing plants yet projected by an individual grower in Southern California has just been started by P. A. Demens, a pioneer orchardist of the Uplands district, at Alta Loma. Mr. Demens will pack and ship his own fruit under his own brand and will cease to depend upon the packing-house associations.

The packing house will be of substantial construction and will cover a ground area of 40x173 feet. It will be equipped with the latest appliances and will have a switch from the Pacific Electric Railway line. Its capacity will be 120 cars.

Mr. Demens has at Alta Loma over fifty acres of twenty-five-year-old oranges and twenty acres of twenty-year-old trees, together with ten acres of lemons. His property is known as Hillside Groves.

SALES AND EXCHANGES.

Harry C. Norris and A. G. Westphal report recent sales and exchanges as follows: For the Southern California Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, a corporation, to Samuel B. Trembley, property at Nos. 1537-43 Cambria street, improved with a thirty-three-room flat building, consideration, $24,000, part of the purchase price being represented by a twenty-acre subdivision on Arlington avenue near Moneta, valued at $20,000; for W. B. McPherson to the above mentioned corporation, highly improved twenty-acre ranch in the Walnut Center district, consideration, $20,000, Mr. McPherson represented by the Edwards and Wildey Company, taking as part payment southwest corner of Victor and Bellevue streets, 100x150 feet, improved with five small houses valued at $15,000; for John and Meta Holt to a local investor, 156x302 feet, west Twentieth street, east of Vermont avenue, improved with two houses, cash consideration of $15,000.

Covina Orange Grove Exchanged for New England Business Property—Ocean Park Garage Chances.

The John P. Holland Company last week exchanged a fifteen-acre, full-bearing orange grove at Covina, owned by Mrs. Eunie E. North of Burlington, Vt., for a business block in Brattleboro, Vt., owned by C. F. Rich of Los Angeles. The total valuation of the properties is given by the brokers at $60,000.

The same realty firm reports having sold for George W. Fox to J. M. Dixon a garage property at No. 19 Rose avenue, Ocean Park, Mr. Fox accepting as part payment two lots on Vermont avenue, near Fiftieth street, this city. The deal is declared to have aggregated $22,000.

B. Scott, $4000. The sales were all made for the account of the Western Building and Investment Company. Acting as agent for Robert A. Waugh, the same firm sold during the week a six-room bungalow at No. 1749 West Forty-second street, to Mary A. Stearns.

BUYS YOUNG GROVE.

The Janss Investment Company reports the sale at Corona Farms of sixteen acres of young naval and Valencia oranges to F. C. Meinecke, a Corona orange grower, the consideration being given at $8500. Mr. Meinecke recently sold a thirteen-acre, full-bearing grove to the south of Corona.

FOR SALE—

I am the owner and have open for inspection from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, the most beautiful and costly home in the Wilshire district. This place will be sold $15,000 below its value, or about one-half price.

This place is located on a 75x150 corner lot, on the northwest corner of Third and Mariposa ave.

The house is white cement plaster with mission clay tile roof. There is a large cement porch, 12 feet wide, on two sides of the living-room. The garage corresponds with the house in artistic features, has room for two machines, with two bedrooms and bath on the second floor.

Entering the house through a massive oak door, the living-room, 16x35, runs across the front, with French doors opening on the porch. Back of the living-room is the music-room and dining-room, both large and airy, with lots of sunshine. The library is attractive with its built-in bookcases and desk. A dainty breakfast-room connects with the well-arranged kitchen, living-room, library and breakfast-room, mahogany music-room, and dining-room in quartered oak.

On the second floor are five bedrooms, en suite, and 3 baths, two of the baths being tiled and with vitrolete walls.

Spacious cupboards, closets and storage accommodations in all rooms. The white enameled work is all on white cedar in 8-coat rubbed eggshell finish. The mahogany and oak work are wonderful examples of cabinet work, with piano finish. The oak floors are 7-8 inch thick. All glass is solid French plate.

The wall decorations are all hand work on textiles, the artist being brought out from New York for this work. The house is piped for furnace, vacuum cleaner and hot and cold water. There is a house telephone system to all floors, and garage.

There is a large cement basement with inside and outside entrance.

The lot is high and sightly with many full-grown pepper and eucalyptus trees.

This place is an exceptional home and stands supreme among all the beautiful place in this district.

The house carries $15,000 insurance and the place is worth $32,000. I will sell for $17,500. No trade, but discount for one-half cash.

Take the Western avenue car to Mariposa avenue. By machine via Wilshire blvd. to Mariposa avenue and north to Third street.

Come out today. Place open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

INVANHOE CONSOLIDATED MINES COMPANY.
The new stock of the Tom Reed-Gold Road Mining district, Oatman Arizona, just listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, is to be traded in for the first time, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the initial price is to be 17½c per share.

The property is one of the best and most favorably known in the district. The equipment is complete for the development, includes shafts, houses, hoist, engines, air compressor, drills, tools, and in fact, everything for the modern development of the property.

The main working shaft has been sunk to a depth of 225 feet, from which 300 feet of crosscut has been run, and at this depth a strong vein of good ore has been opened up.

The management of this company is in the hands of the same parties who so successfully handled the Big Jim Gold Mining property. This stock was first listed at 10 cents and advanced on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange to 44 cents, and is now in good demand around 36 and 37 cents. We do not hesitate to recommend the purchase of the Ivanhoe stock and feel sure that large profits will be made in the stock.

Orders must be in the hands of brokers before 12 o'clock Monday, October 25, 1915, as only a limited amount of stock is to be offered for sale.

GOLD RANGE MINING COMPANY STOCK—
Listed on the
LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.
Located in the famous Tom Reed Gold Roads district, between the Ivanhoe and United Western properties. Two shifts working on the property. Company well managed and amply financed.

I advise the purchase at market prices and feel sure of a substantial rise in prices in the near future, in fact the present price should treble when United Western makes their strike, which I expect at any time.

The big boom will be on this fall, get in at bottom prices now.

COMMERCIAL.

Business in the local produce market has increased appreciably in volume during the week just passed. The arrival of the new crops of nuts and dried fruits is given as the reason for the heavier trading. The leading wholesale houses have been exceedingly busy in filling orders and contracting for future deliveries.

Some curiosity has been shown lately as to just how large the orange and lemon crop will be this year. From all accounts the lemon and Valencia orange crops will total as large this season as in 1914, but the navel yield is expected to be somewhat lighter. Of course these are but estimates and nothing definite can be stated until the complete reports are in. Valencias are selling at the present time at $4.50 and $5 a box, while packed lemons are bringing $2.25 a box. There is only one grade of grapefruit on the market and the same is selling to the trade at $5 a box. Limes complete the citrus quotations at $1 a basket.

There were practically no changes in the fresh fruit and vegetable lists. Bartlett pears are very scarce and are bringing the advanced prices of $2.25 a box and $1.75 a lug. Persimmons are in fair demand at 8 and 9 cents a pound with little call for pomegranates. Okra is up at 6 and 7 cents a pound and tomatoes are very firm at 60 cents a lug.

The Los Angeles potato market is somewhat unsettled. Until the last few days there had been more or less of a glut of cheap northern stock on hand and dealers had to incorporate several severe price cuts before the market assumed anything like a normal aspect. However, the market is in fairly good control now and wholesalers are able to command a reasonable price for their best grades. Sweet spuds are firm and an even stronger market is predicted for the near future.

An inactive and short session of the Produce Exchange was held yesterday with no price changes recorded. Eggs were off half a cent in San Francisco with butter and cheese unaltered. Receipts were 107 cases of eggs, 43,900 pounds of butter, 10,600 pounds of cheese, 1110 sacks of potatoes, 1 sack of beans, 356 sacks of onions, 71 sacks of sweet potatoes and 3352 boxes of apples.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Dullness Prevails on Local Board. Heavy Selling in Producers' Transportation—Investment Off.

Sales were few and far between on the exchange Saturday morning. Outside of the transfer of 100 shares of Los Angeles Investment at 42½ activity was confined to the oil issues. Eighty-five shares of Producers' Transportation brought 70.00 a share and a large amount of National Pacific changed hands at 1⅝. There was little call for mining stocks although no weakness was noticed in the list. No interest was manifested in bank stocks and bonds were inactive on a stronger market.

Fact and Comment.

would be the slightest opposition from anyone to the county's thus using a part of its regular highway funds.

The Mint-canyon route thus improved would fill the bill so far as the valley and its real needs are concerned. The State Highway Commissioners have discussed the possibility of making such a route a part of the system contemplated under the proposed new State highway bond issue. For the county to complete the Mint-canyon road improvements and turn the link over to the commissioners would be to so facilitate the larger plan as to make its eventual consummation all the more certain.

Thus would the Antelope Valley be acquiring, without a county bond issue, a paved boulevard extending from end to end of its limits and opening the whole of the Owens River country and, in fact, all of the east-central part of California to travel that would have to pass through its boundaries. There is real danger that in the event of the passage of the proposed county bond issue, the success of the State highway bond issue would be endangered in this part of California, effectually killing the Southland's chance to get its share of the good roads provided at the general expense of the State. The people of Los Angeles county, which in voting power rules Southern California, would hardly consent to two road bond issues one right after the other.

The Arguments.

The argument that the construction of two extra routes through the mountains north of Pasadena to the Antelope Valley would give Los Angeles county that many new scenic drives may be dismissed with the comment that scenic drives of themselves are just now to be considered as luxuries and not necessities. A new scenic drive through the mountains is hardly calculated to add to the happiness of the small property owner who does not happen to possess an automobile, and is really of no direct economic advantage to him. Los Angeles county has hundreds of miles of scenic highways and the charms of these have not as yet been exhausted. In other and brisker times, when jobs are more plentiful and everyone is feeling a bit flusher, the voters will not hesitate to authorize such expenditures as those for highways to unfold new beauties in Southern California's mountains.

That brings up the question of finding work for the unemployed, one of the arguments dwelled upon most heavily by the proponents of the bond plan. If we must launch and carry out public improvements in order to provide work for the unemployed (and the idea is not without its merits,) let us at least do the things that are necessary.

The city of Los Angeles, which, incidentally, would be called upon to pay about three-quarters of the cost of the proposed new roads, needs a new City Hall much more than it needs three new roads to the Antelope Valley, and that City Hall has been waiting for over a decade. By carrying out a civic center project at this time Los Angeles could be getting something it needed and could at the same time be giving employment to hundreds.

This is mentioned only by way of emphasizing the weakness of the argument that the county bonds should be carried in order that work might be found for the unemployed. If that is the theory for public improvements, let us get our heads together and start the most important and most needed enterprises first. On the basis of necessity it would readily be found that the projects contemplated in the coming bond election would be far down in the list of improvements that might be suggested.

NINE HUNDRED AND FIFTY PEOPLE AN HOUR JAM THEIR WAY INTO THE WONDERFUL BROADWAY AUTOMOBILE AND FLOWER SHOW ON THE OCCASION OF ITS BIG OPENING.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA'S greatest automobile show opened yesterday. Until midnight next Saturday night the four-story building on Broadway formerly occupied by the Boston store will be the automobile headquarters of the great Southwest.

Nothing to compare with it has ever been seen in the West. Even the great motor-car display at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is outdone. The motor-car exhibits at the San Diego exposition fail to equal a small section of the great Broadway Automobile and Flower Show.

In a few days the vacant building across from the City Hall was transformed from a bare-walled unrented store, with floors covered with dust, into a dazzling fairyland with automobiles, beautiful flowers and beautiful women most prominently present.

ALL THE WAY.

From Broadway clear through to Hill street the great show extends. Even the store windows on Broadway and Hill street offer attractive exhibits and from the entrances to the accessory displays on the fourth floor the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show is a scene of life.

Promptly at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the doors of the great building were swung open. Twenty minutes later there were 1000 visitors in the building. At 6 o'clock, just four hours after the opening, there were more than 3000 paid admissions to the show.

There were almost 2000 dealers, salesmen, members of their families and special guests admitted during the first four hours and it is estimated that before the show closed last night, more than 10,000 persons had viewed the automobile and flower show from the Auto Club of Southern California exhibit, near the entrance, to the great accessory display on the fourth floor.

The Broadway Automobile and Flower Show is the first real automobile show ever staged in Los Angeles. In the past the shows have appealed only to the prospective buyer. The great Broadway show is a show for the dealer, the distributor, the automobile owner and the prospective owner.

The importance of the great Los Angeles show has spread to the East. Factory heads, officials high in the service of the largest makers and dealers from all sections of the country will be present to grace the Broadway show. The president of the Chandler Motor Car Company is to be a show visitor today.

President Firestone of the great Firestone Tire and Rubber Company will be a show visitor during the week. Henry Ford and Thomas Edison, who are to be in Los Angeles Wednesday, are to attend the great show on that day.

BIG GUNS.

District Manager Kipe of the Chandler Motor Car Company is coming south from Seattle to witness the show. T. J. Toner, zone manager, and William J. Le Lasse, district manager of the Maxwell Motor Company of Detroit, are to arrive on Tuesday from Seattle to attend the show.

While the automobiles, from the Pierce Arrow, Locomobile, Packard and other luxurious machines down to the light cars in the low-priced field, are the main attraction, there are other features which appeal to the average motorist visiting the great Broadway Show. There is the greatest floral exhibit ever gathered together.

Even the floral displays at the Panama-Pacific Exposition are eclipsed and no State or county fair ever offered so much floral loveliness. There are wonderful roses, flowers of indescribable hues and fragrance and beautiful plants, separating the accessories from the autos on the second floor.

TAKES TIME.

A show visitor may spend hours on either floor and to see the show right one should go prepared to spend an evening or an afternoon. There is a cafe in operation and to break in upon the regularity of the motor features and things mechanical, there is a large dance floor at the disposal of the visitors.

There is an orchestra and a musical organization composed of colored harmonizers who have that brand of harmony which gives real variety. While the orchestra plays the "Barcarole" the colored boys are tuning up their pipes for "Dixie" or "Everybody Rag With Me." It gives variety and the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show has all the variety in the world.

The management announced last night that the show would be open from 10 o'clock this morning until 10:30 tonight. There will be a sacred concert this afternoon and evening. Throughout the week the show will be open from 10 a.m. until 10:30 in the evening.

ALMA WHITAKER REVELS IN DELIGHTS OF BROADWAY AUTOMOBILE AND FLOWER SHOW.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

THE Automobile and Flower Show opened with eclat at the old Boston store yesterday afternoon, and it was no end of fun, although, of course, they had to be properly exhibited and there were a few little muddles.

There was a real heartbreak over the three charming society dames who had so amiably agreed to judge those lovely table decorations, because everyone did want to do them honor as befitted their graciousness. The intentions in that direction were quite regal, a reception committee, bouquets and all that sort of thing, you know, but somehow the committee got flustered and the bouquets arrived late, and some stupid elevator rules were not waived at the diplomatic moment, and altogether the occasion lacked that social grace which was designed but failed to materialize. However, they were such dears, I am sure they understood.

REVERSE ENGLISH.

You see the motor cars represented masculinity and the flowers femininity, but one observed that paterfamilias showed a marked inclination to escort madame to see the flowers, while materfamilias had a pronounced yearning toward motor cars, and an insatiable curiosity on the question of prices. Oh, my dear, one can get the most wonderful looking cars to seat five persons for as low as $795; no wonder there were hasty whispers about the simplicity of putting a thousand-dollar mortgage on the house, which would cover the cost of the new garage as well.

We purchased at least a dozen cars in our stroll round the second floor, it seemed so absurd not to own one when the courteous gentlemen in charge explained how cheaply they could be run. And how they would adore teaching us to run it. Many a bank account must have trembled in the balance. But I am sure any self-respecting bank account would approve of being put to so worthy a use.

FELT WISE.

They showed us every little teeny weeny item about the construction of a motor car, and we felt so wise and lordly as we tried to listen to the explanations with that intelligent gleam in our limpid eyes—not for the world would we have confessed that we did not understand the first thing about batteries and carburetors, and gear and speed controls. We came upon Katherine Martin and her lovely mamma up to their furs in details of an electric—we can see her driving one out to the country club with nonchalent unconcern at no distant date. Mr. and Mrs. Avery McCarthy, Capt. and Mrs. Miner, Mrs. Kaathoven and any number of smart people looked in before racing off to the Midwick for the polo, and lots of dinner parties strolled up during the evening.

One had to tear oneself away from the flowers for the autos, and back again to the flowers. One big store has a fascinating display of auto accoutrements with the prettiest maiden in charge. She wore a perfectly stunning auto coat and cosy blue hat with a velvet band studded with jewels under her chin to keep it in place. Of course, she was pretty, but that hat would have made a beauty out of any of us.

And, oh, the ducky auto baskets, equipped with every last detail for a luncheon de luxe. They just fascinated us. We felt that if we couldn't have an auto, at least we must have an auto luncheon basket, if only to adorn a hired machine.

As for auto rugs, my dear, they are lovely enough to wear. One would not in the least mind being cast on a desert island with nothing but an auto rug to deck our beauty, provided someone else was cast up to admire our dishabille. We did not have to try to look intelligent when we pictured our slim knees covered with those silken folds.

In the course of our wanderings we came upon a stern-looking desk with a very superior individual behind it. It did not look exactly like an exhibit and yet . . . .

But see how thorough that exhibition is! It turned out to be an automobile insurance company ready to insure the car one has just bought. Wasn't that nice?

Cadillac Cut-open Chassis an Education.

New Roadster to be Shown for First Time.

Factory Sends Lecturer to Local Exhibit.

In the very center of the first floor is Don Lee's exhibit of Cadillac cars. This was one of the feature exhibits of the show and was thronged throughout the evening by crowds anxious to see the new eight.

The cut-open chassis is one of the most complete ever shown in the West. It was presided over by E. Phil Merrill of the Cadillac Motor Car Company, who was rushed West for the local show. He talked entertainingly on the chassis and held the interest of as many people as could crowd around the chassis from the time the doors opened until the close.

In the exhibit was shown the seven-passenger touring car and the limousine. A Victoria, the latest Cadillac type of inclosed car, is displayed in the window. This was presided over by an attractive miss who showed cards telling of the feats of the Cadillac eight.

In this window there was also a display of cups to be awarded the winners in the flower competition and many beautiful blooms.

The new Cadillac eight roadster, the first to arrive in Los Angeles, gets in this morning and will be rushed to the show immediately. This car will not even be seen on the showroom floor. The show will really see its initial appearance in California.

CHASSIS PLAYS HIDE AND SEEK.

MAXWELL FEATURE EXHIBIT IS FOUND AT ALMOST THE LAST MINUTE.

One of the biggest educational features of the big Broadway Automobile and Flower Show—the Maxwell cut-out chassis—almost failed to be among those present when the official time for having all exhibits in place Friday night was announced.

The chassis was especially imported by the Lord Motor Car Company for the great local event. For weeks it has done duty at the San Francisco exposition. There it formed one of the most instructive features of the motor car and machinery displays.

San Francisco wanted the chassis up to the last minute possible, so it was not forwarded to the Lord company until Thursday morning. The boat on which it was consigned was due at Los Angeles Harbor Friday at 3 o'clock, and it was expected that plenty of time would be had to install the mechanical marvel in the old Robinson building before the doors were closed to exhibitors.

But when the Lord employees went after the chassis it could not be found. Hasty telephonic communication with headquarters in this city caused a wild flurry of wires to San Francisco.

But he report from the north was that the chassis had been shipped on schedule. It was either in port or had been cast overboard between piers.

But the report from the north was Finally, it was located—right here in Los Angeles. A zealous steamship employe, knowing how anxiously the Lord company awaited the prize, had rushed it by special motor truck to the city.

It took almost fifteen minutes to load the precious exhibit on another truck and install it in the Maxwell section at the big show, and just a few short minutes later came the official announcement that time allotted to having exhibits placed had expired.

MOTOR DOINGS IN OIL FIELDS.

M'KITTRICK, Oct. 15.—The Bakersfield-McKittrick public highway across the McKittrick foothills to the corporate limits of the latter city, on the northern border, representing a distance of approximately two and one-half miles, is being materially improved, much to the gratification of autoists and others having occasion to use this well-known thoroughfare.

The work is under the supervision of Castro & Blaisdell, contractors, who have a large force of men and teams and are making excellent progress in the undertaking, despite unfavorable climatic conditions, the excessive heat prevailing at intervals within the past two or three weeks having delayed operations to a considerable extent. With the mercury registering at times from 110 to 112 deg., the teams were unable to complete their customary tasks, while the dust arising from the road was so thick that the laborers were frequently compelled to desist from the performance of their duties.

Notwithstanding these adverse conditions the results have been very satisfactory. Curves in the highway have been straightened, numerous fills made, and summits cut down, at some points to the extent of fifteen feet. Sharp curves and steep grades being eliminated, the route throughout the foothills, when completed, will be decidedly better than since the highway was first laid out. With the completion of this work that of improving the road from the southern limits of McKittrick to Taft and Maricopa is to be commenced, present plans favoring the end of the task at the earliest day possible.

After the fall rains come and the earth becomes packed, comparatively little time will have elapsed before the oiling of the highway will be inaugurated. Next will be the finishing touches on what promises to be one of the best sections of the route connecting the oil fields with the county seat of Kern county and the other portions of the State.

Using a six-ton Packard truck Lierly & Son, contractors, with headquarters at Taft, are filling a contract for the transfer of machinery and other material from Taft to section 1, two and one-half miles north of that city, for the Midway Gasoline Company, which is to erect a four-unit plant, with a capacity of 4000 gallons per day. This is the second plant of the company, the other being of two units, with a production of 2000 gallons every twenty-four hours. The gasoline is shipped by rail to Los Angeles.

CHANGE IN CAST.

In view of the large volume of business resulting from the introduction of the Pathfinder twelve, the Pathfinder company has enlarged its present organization to an extent which assures efficiency in every department. Two new names were added to the directors, W. E. Stalnaker and George H. Mosher. The board of directors, as it now stands under the expansive plan, are: President, W. C. Teasdale, Jr.; vice-president, W. E. Stalnaker; secretary and treasurer, W. K. Bromley; directors, Crawford Fairbanks, C. J. Root, George H. Mosher and Karl Felicke.

The management of the entire business will be in the hands of an executive committee composed of C. J. Root, Crawford Fairbanks, W. K. Bromley, W. E. Stalnaker and W. C. Teasdale, Jr. W. E. Stalnaker remains as general sales manager. The appointment of Homer McKee as advertising counsel has been confirmed under the new arrangement.

GREAT FISHING IN THE FEATHER.

Some of the finest trout fishing in the world has been found in the Feather River Canyon this summer, according to A. G. Sharkey, head of the Chandler service department, who has just returned from a tour which took him into the Feather River country and as far north as Lassen Peak.

Trout weighing two and a half pounds or more were common catches in the canyon this summer, and the fly fishermen were very successful. Flies were used by most of the San Francisco and Los Angeles fishermen who visited the streams, but the natives were fond of the grasshopper for bait, having the most success with this type. In the lakes and little streams the fish rose readily to the large white tree grub. These are highly prized for bait by the anglers of this country, as in the Lake Tahoe region.

Over 7000 automobiles have been registered in Manitoba this year, according to returns at the Parliament Buildings. This represents a considerable increase over the number registered during the same period last year.

LOS ANGELES CAR ATTRACTS CROWDS.

COMPLETE BEARDSLEY LINE A FEATURE OF THE BIG AUTO SHOW.

One of the interesting exhibits at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show is that of the California-built Beardsley electric line of cars, which consists of the following 1916 models:

The new Beardsley electric town car that created such a sensation at the recent automobile show, this being the lowest priced electric on the market, selling at $1185. The car is finished in Brewster green, with cream color wheels, and trimmed in light Bedford cord. It is a closed coupe seating two people comfortably, with disappearing emergency front seats for two extra passengers. This car promises to be a very popular selling car for 1916.

A Beardsley four-passenger coupe, which is also a new model, that will sell at $2250. This car is finished in royal blue, with cadet blue trimmings and robin's egg blue wheels.

A Beardsley three-passenger roadster, which has been a much admired electric owing to its racy appearance, as well as speed and mileage capacity. This car is finished in battleship gray, with ivory color wheels. This car carries one extra wheel and tire on the rear, and sells complete at $2500.

A Beardsley Victoria, made in duplex drive, seating five passengers. This is a typical California model, finished in dark green throughout. This car sells at $2500.

The most luxurious car in the exhibit is the Beardsley five-passenger brougham, which is the car that the manufacturers take great pride in showing. This is in a duplex drive, painted Brewster green, and luxuriously upholstered in an imported Bedford cord material. This car sells at $3000.

Another Beardsley electric brougham will be found in the exhibit of the Auto Sheet Metal Works, this car being loaned for the purpose of showing the fenders and painting of this exhibitor.

The Beardsley Electric Company have made excellent progress in the manufacture of these cars, and a crowd of admirers will always be found around the Beardsley exhibit.

ADVISES CARE OF AUTO TIRE.

How many users ever reverse the direction of rotation of their tires, asks A. T. Smith, branch manager for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company. "I'll make a guess that thousands of motorists who have been trying to figure out some way to get greater mileage never thought of that, yet it works, just the same, whether they be Firestone or any other kind of tires that are in use," he said.

Or, if for any reason there is objection to reversing the rotation of the tires, one way to greater mileage is to change the front wheels which lean outwards at the top so that both edges of the casing do an equal amount of work. With many of the simple bolt type of detachable wheels one can remove the wheel and refit it with the original outer side next to the car, Smith says. This reverses the stress on the casing and lengthens the life of the cover.

PRIVATE AUTOS FOR THE SERVICE.

GEN. WOOD FAVORS MOTORS FOR WARFARE WITH THE OWNERS AT WHEEL.

Gen. Leonard Wood, U.S.A., in an interview for publication in Motor Age of Chicago, expounded a plan for the organization of motor vehicle owners for military defense. The plan of the commander-in-chief of the United States Army, based on long experience with older forms of transportation and in the various experiments which the government has made with motor equipment, contemplates the organization of military instruction camps in all parts of the country, to which the millions of motorists would go with their vehicles and receive instruction from regular army officers. Gen. Wood advocated that the different motorists be grouped according to make of car, rather than geographically, as uniformity of mechanical details is of great importance in the strenuous service of the battlefield.

EXPRESSIONS BY MEN YOU KNOW REGARDING THE EIGHT CYLINDER CADILLAC

HARRY KELLAR
World Famous Magician

I think the Cadillac Eight is the finest car ever turned out by anyone. I have driven my car eight thousand miles over all sorts of grades and rough roads and never experienced the least trouble. The car rides easy and can be handled by a child. I would not trade it for any high priced car on the market with $1000 bonus. It runs smoother and better today than when I bought it, and if I couldn't buy another I should not care to sell it at any price. The Cadillac is all O. K. and I have had more genuine pleasure out of it than out of any other car I have ever had, and I know if I start for any place with it I am sure to get there.

P. F. WOOD
Real Estate, 606 Haas Building

I have driven my car about ten thousand miles, over some of the roughest roads in California, and am pleased to state to you that I have not had occasion to even have your expert mechanics touch it. The car, to me, is a perfect success; I want no better machine. I do not know that I could say more were I to write a dozen pages. The only trouble I have is keeping the people out of the car after once having ridden in it—they all want to ride in the eight-cylinder Cadillac.

L. E. SHEPHERD
Southwest Land Company

It may be of interest to you or some of the prospective purchasers of an automobile to know that in March I purchased a 1915 eight-cylinder Cadillac against the advice of an intimate friend who was engaged in the automobile business.

It affords me pleasure to inform you that the Cadillac Eight has, in the 5200 miles I have operated it, proved itself even better than I had anticipated. Its starting is so gentle and the transmission of power to the drive shaft is so continuous and smooth that the wear upon the tires is hardly noticeable, as evidenced by the fact that I have driven this car 5200 miles without the removal of a single tire.

Incidentally, I might add that my wife takes great pleasure in driving the car and finds it remarkably easy of operation.

I wish also to add a word of praise in favor of your service department. The courtesy and care exercised in the interest of your patrons should be sufficient to bring you many new customers.

HOBART BOSWORTH
Motion Picture Producer

My Cadillac '15 has gone over eleven thousand miles since its delivery in March, over all kinds of roads. Cars in my work of making motion pictures get hard usage. My machine has developed no structural weakness, has had only one or two minor repairs, and on the nine thousandth mile had an examination which proved it as perfect in all respects as the day it was bought, and without a trace of carbon in the cylinders. To me, the Cadillac "8" is the last word in auto perfection.

CLARENCE DROWN
Manager Orpheum Theater

It would be hard for me to express the complete satisfaction I find in the new eight-cylinder Cadillac. I drove the 1913 Cadillac for two years and was so thoroughly pleased with it that I bought the new eight-cylinder when they first arrived, feeling that if I could get as good service out of it as I did out of the old 1913 I would be well repaid for the investment, but this new eight-cylinder so far surpasses tthe old four-cylinder car in every way that there is absolutely no comparison. In every particular it has given entire satisfaction.

I should also like to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the attention and service I have received from your agency since I have been the owner of a Cadillac car.

J. HUBER
Rivers Bros. Company

I have driven my 8-cylinder Cadillac on all kinds of roads and on a good many different grades and have given it some very severe tests. Have just recently driven through to San Francisco and return and I want to say in all candor that I think it is the most wonderful piece of machinery on the road. For flexibility and for smoothness of motor it can not be surpassed.

The car is also a wonderful hill climber and I have never had to use its full power on any grade that I have driven over.

I am therefore very highly pleased with the services of my car and if I bought a car tomorrow it would be the 8-cylinder Cadillac.

M. A. NEWMARK
Wholesale Grocer

We have used your 8-cylinder Cadillac car almost every day since we had it, and it is giving perfect satisfaction, and no repairs whatever have been necessary.

There are over five hundred owners of eight-cylinder Cadillac cars in Southern California. We will gladly refer any prospective buyers to any or all of our owners, with the perfect confidence that they will all express the sentiments contained in the above. We will furnish names and addresses of any number of owners at any time.

COMMERCE COMMISSIONER SEES VAST IMPROVEMENTS AT TERMINAL.

The wonders of Los Angeles Harbor and its facilities for handling the commerce of the Southwest were shown C. C. Clements of the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday by a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce and representatives of the Harbor Commission. The party went by automobile, and after inspecting the harbor facilities they were entertained at luncheon at the Virginia by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Commissioner Clements told members of the party that his trip is simply a vacation and all business is left at Washington, so he refrains from discussing the affairs of the commission in general and the claims of Los Angeles for terminal rates in particular. The trip as arranged by the Chamber of Commerce afficials, was laid out to make a silent argument in favor of placing the city on a coast terminal rate basis.

The party accompanying Commissioner Clements included Robert N. Bulla, president of the Chamber of Commerce; F. P. Gregson, traffic manager of the Associated Jobbers; Oscar C. Mueller, J. B. Some Summer Mileage.

DRIVES MACHINE GREAT DISTANCE; NO TROUBLE.

Six thousand miles by motor car over the roughest roads of the country as well as some of the best, without a sign of mechanical trouble, is a remarkable record, even for the modern motor car, but it is what W. A. Shaw of Maora, Ill., did this summer in his Cadillac eight. Leaving Illinois early in the summer, he has been en tour practically ever since, and in that time has covered 5874 miles in his Cadillac, visiting every point of interest in the Northwest before coming to California.

Mr. Shaw arrived in Los Angeles last week. With him were his son and two daughters. When he drove into the Don Lee service station to have the car washed and polished he told T. J. Beaudet of the remarkable trip, adding that the only trouble had been a puncture or two.

Leaving his Illinois home in his Cadillac eight which had already been run a considerable distance, he drove via the Yellowstone National Park Highway to the Pacific Northwest, stopping at the Yellowstone Park on his way to the Coast.

After a week in Washington and a visit to the Rainier National Park, he toured south via Portland, Medford, and Grant's Pass. The Pacific Highway was followed to San Francisco, and there Mr. Shaw and his party stopped for two weeks, visiting the exposition and other points of interest.

PORTO RICO OUR GOOD ROADS RIVAL.

Few California motorists are aware that the nearest approach to California's boulevard system in American territory is found, not in one of the rich eastern States, but in one of the smaller islands over which Uncle Sam holds domain. Porto Rico, with its acres of rich tobacco plantations, boasts a highway system, which, while not extensive, is second to none in quality.

OWEN WITH SAXON.

One of the latest additions to the executive staff of the Saxon Motor Company is that of Percy Owen, who fills the position of vice-president and will be in charge of the sales organization. Mr. Owen resigned his position as general sales manager of the Chalmers Motor Company to act in a similar capacity for the Saxon Motor Company. In a letter to F. E. Wright, manager of the local Saxon agency, he states that production is increasing rapidly and all sales records have been broken every month.

A.B.C. FOR ARIZONA.

The distribution of A.B.C. oil will soon be extended down through Arizona. There have been so many inquiries and demands for this oil from there that Austin, Bryant & Carter, refining agents for A.B.C., have decided to establish agencies there, or at least arrange for some sort of distribution.

That passenger cars are on the increase in Maryland is shown by figures just compiled under the direction of the Motor Vehicle Commissioner of that State. During the first seven months of 1915 licenses were granted for more cars than the entire registration of 1914, or 22,505, as compared with 18,269 for last year.

Transcontinental.

TOURING ENDS LATE IN FALL.

Many Eastern Parties Cross Country Later.

Highway Traffic Increased Through Summer.

Rains in Middle West Fail to Halt Autos.

Transcontinental touring, which has been steadily increasing since the eastern roads opened in the spring, will not reach its height until late in the fall, in the opinion of Mercer tourists who arrived in Los Angeles last week. One of the Mercers, which reported to the Bentel & Mackey quarters, was a raceabout from Bridgeport, Ct., while a Mercer touring car came through from Chicago.

The raceabout, which was driven by Albert C. Dow and James L. Connor, left Bridgeport July 3, and arrived in Los Angeles August 28. The route followed was Buffalo to Chicago, Davenport, Omaha, Lincoln, Denver, Santa Fe, Needles and San Bernardino. It was on the Lincoln highway in Nebraska that the tourists found their worst roads.

"Iowa was nearly as bad," said Dow. "We found small streams swollen by rains to raging torrents. Some of the sections which had not been flooded for forty years were under water. Our Mercer often was hubdeep in mud and water mile after mile, but throughout the entire trip we did not get stalled once.

"In one place in Nebraska where the bridges had been washed out we were towed across the flood on an improvised raft with a motor boat as the 'tug.'

"There was not a car which passed us en route, but we counted 134 autos that we went by. The only stops we made at garages were for gasoline and oil."

MODERN MACHINES ECONOMIC FACTOR.

SCIENTIFIC MANAGEMENT DOES MUCH FOR THE AUTO INDUSTRY TODAY.

Modern machine equipment plus scientific management are working wonderful economies in the automobile factories of today, according to an interesting article by F. F. Beall, vice-president of manufacturing of the Packard Motor Car Company, in the current number of the Packard magazine.

The increased production of Packard pleasure cars this year, has, according to the Packard official, permitted the entire readjustment of the Packard scheme of production and has justified the expenditure of money in specialized mechanical equipment that is said to be the most complete ever applied to the manufacture of high-grade cars.

Under the old methods of small production, certain machines would be used for a portion of the day on one sort of work and then the "set-up" would be changed to permit the performing of work on another part. Perhaps two hours per day would be cut from the actual production time of the machine by the necessity of changing over from one job to another. Under the new scheme with the enlarged production, there is specialized machinery for every part of the production process and the output is such that these are operated continuously.

RENT TIRES.

The scarcity of gasoline and tires is greatly curtailing the use of automobiles in the Scandinavian Peninsula, states Steward McDonald, vice-president of the Moon Motor Car Company. Owners are endeavoring to find a substitute fuel, but are having difficulty in securing a suitable one. The situation is becoming worse daily, because of the inability to get tires, as well. One of the largest rubber companies in Stockholm are renting tires by the day to automobile owners.

BALLY TWELVE SHOWS CLASS.

THE verdict of European engineers on America's first real departure in motor-car construction, the twelve-cylinder car, has been eagerly awaited in engineering circles in this country. How such a revolutionary departure in pleasure-car motors would be regarded by the conservative foreign engineers was a matter of some debate, which was settled by the appearance in the September number of the Automobile Engineer of London, one of England's foremost automobile technical journals, of an article commenting in detail on the new Packard "Twin-Six." Coming as they do, from an absolutely unbiased viewpoint, the conclusions of the English engineer are particularly interesting to American motorists. Following is a reproduction of a portion of the article:

"To British engineers the idea of manufacturing a twelve-cylinder chassis seems somewhat of an absurdity, a policy that can have no reason behind it beyond a possible 'novelty' value. If, however, it be realized that in America there is a real demand for cars of very large size and corresponding horse power, it is possible to make so good a case against a six-cylinder engine of large dimensions that the choice must rest between eight or twelve. In America there is a market for some 10,000 cars annually with seating for seven people and large luggage room, and which, so loaded, can traverse trackless deserts and climb high mountain passes. It is a condition that no European maker can possibly understand except as abnormal, and yet throughout Northern America it is the usual state of affairs.

"The best of our 'sixes' is too small to have the necessary power at low speed, and low-speed power is the most important thing in a rough country; it is safe to say that the most successful makers of six-cylinder cars in Europe would find it a hard matter to produce an engine with the same smoothness, and proportionate power, while of nearly double the dimensions. We know quite well, though perhaps we do not yet realize it, that there is a limit of cylinder size beyond which it does not pay to go, all things considered, and if great power is needed it is better to multiply cylinders than to increase their individual dimensions."

It was with somewhat this idea that the engineers of the Packard company embarked upon the design of a twelve-cylinder car, but the result was considerably in excess of their expectations. The writer is not given to great enthusiasm over the running of a new car. Long association with the trade in England and studied critical attitude regarding all cars, however good, has made him extremely susceptible to small faults which might often be passed over had not the habit of anticipating them become ingrained. It is, therefore, with some hesitation that he ventures the opinion that the twelve-cylinder Packard is the most remarkable car that it has yet been his pleasure to handle. From 100 up to 3500 revolutions the engine is absolutely imperceptible, save for the carbureter hiss and a faint continuous "rustle" from the valves, mixed with the slight hum of the brushes on the commutator of the dynamo. Yet the acceleration is terrific; there is no other word for it.

Running on the direct gear of a trifle over four to one at five miles per hour, it is possible by merely depressing the throttle pedal to accelerate to thirty miles per hour in twelve seconds. This is the mean time of a series of tests made by the writer on a smooth level road. On second speed the acceleration can be imagined better than described. The same car, with complete equipment, and very heavy equipment, too, has covered seventy miles in an hour on the Indianapolis track, and it will run without the least sense of effort at three miles per hour on top. This is a plain and considered statement of the car's performance. On the same day that the tests mentioned above were made the writer also drove a well-known and well-made eight-cylinder, changing over from one car to the other. Both cars were of about the same age in mileage, and both had been looked after equally well. From ten to thirty miles per hour there was little or nothing to choose between the vehicles, except for the superior acceleration of the larger car; below ten miles per hour the better torque of the twelve-cylinder was very noticeable, and above thirty miles the transverse vibration of the eight-cylinder began to be perceptible. At fifty-five miles per hour this became very bad, indeed, and seemed to increase rapidly from fifty upwards. It should be added that the proportion of cylinder volume to weight of car was slightly in favor of the twelve, but that the gearing of the eight was a little lower—just about enough lower to make up for the smaller displacement proportion. Yet apart from its twelve cylinders there is a great deal of mechanical detail in this new Packard engine of an extremely high order and corresponding interest, for price has had not the smallest consideration. The designers have aimed to make the best engine their experience permitted, and they have not hsitated to use expensive construction in order to insure the satisfactory performance of the car.

WITH THE WINNERS.

The aftermath of a big race like the Astor Cup, on the Sheepshead Bay Speedway, bring sharply to mind, what the accessory markers have produced for track and road use. Of more than passing interest is the statement that all the winning cars, the eight that finished "in the money" were fitted, both front and rear, with Hartford shock absorbers, and, therefore, there were no broken springs or frames among the list of casualties, even among those who "also ran."

The correct list of winners, who all used Hartford shock absorbers, are Gil Anderson, Stutz; Tom Rooney, Stutz; Ed O'Donnell, Deusenberg; Tom Alley and P. Henderson. The only change in this list of winners as first announced, is giving Alley fourth place and Henderson, fifth. In transferring the score from the tally sheet to the score sheet, a slip of a lap was made, which gave Henderson the fourth money, when Alley should have had the place. This was found out when the final checking up was made. Limberg, DeLage, was placed six. Ora Haibe, Seibring, was seventh. Vail in the Mulford Special, was last, these being the only cars running when the race was called off.

MORE MONEY.

Popularity increased the demand. Demand increased production. Increased production lowered the cost. The lowered cost reduced the selling price. The reduced selling price increased popularity, demand and production. The result: One thousand employees of F. B. Stearns Company, Cleveland, O., makers of Stearns-Knight cars will receive a comparative increase in salary for a shorter hour schedule.

AUTO OWNERS' "LIFE-SAVE

The Other Name of W. J. Burt Motor Car Company's Parts F

Auto parts and repairs are useless if you cannot get them when you need them.

Last week a gentleman broke the crankshaft of his automobile, a foreign-made car. After wiring to all parts of the United States in a fruitless search for a new shaft, the owner called on the W. J. BURT MOTOR CAR COMPANY, which proved a true and effective help in time of need.

The broken crankshaft was electrically welded in the Burt repair department, the bearings were turned in perfect tune, and the car was sent back in first-class condition, running as accurately as when new.

Such occurrences as this are happening nearly every day at the parts factory of the W. J. Burt Motor Car Company, and it is not strange that it has become known far and wide as "The Auto Owners' Life-saver."

Each and every one of the scores of thousands of automobile owners in California and Arizona should know that they can have their parts made in Los Angeles, and that it is NOT necessary to experience the delay incurred in sending East or being dependent upon an eastern factory for prompt attention and efficient service.

The W. J. Burt Motor Car Company (which, by the way, is located at the southwest corner of Pico and Hope streets, Los Angeles,) in addition to carrying a $25,000 stock of standard parts for the different makes of motor cars, has installed the latest improved, up-to-minute machinery for the MANUFACTURE of auto parts.

Transcontinental.

RMY OFFICER STRONG FOR DISTANCE TOURS.

"CROSSING the continent in a motor car is the greatest outing in the world for anyone," was the statement made by Gen. C. A. Mosher, who has just [illegible] a transcontinental trip in [illegible] Six. He has not only driven [illegible], but intends returning [illegible] although he realizes that traveling may be somewhat difficult.

[illegible] from Kalamazoo they followed the Lincoln Highway to Omaha [illegible] there to Denver went over [illegible]-Lincoln-Denver road to [illegible] many mudholes on the Lincoln Highway west of Omaha.

[illegible] Denver they followed the Mid[illegible] and while the road was not [illegible] traveling as the Lincoln the beauty of the scenery more than made up for the extra difficulties of travel.

While traveling in Utah Gen. Mafit overtook the Harry Thaw party. Thaw had been driving at a forty-mile clip and slid off the crown of the road. The strip of mud alongside the road mired the car and wrecked a front wheel. Thaw took a hand at the rescue himself and wielded a shovel in digging a ditch to drain the water from around the car.

The general has lots of enthusiasm for the fine boulevards of Southern California after traveling so many miles of roads that were merely trails. He praises his Saxon Six highly. It never failed him on the hills and would not overheat. The return was begun on the original tires, although they had gone over 6000 miles before reaching Los Angeles.

The Big Jubilee.

LES RECORDS WRECKED DURING DEMONSTRATION.

[illegible] in the annals of the motor car industry is the Paige Jubilee, which is being celebrated in all parts of the United States. The tangible results of the [illegible] have been sales records never [illegible], and the first week has [illegible] successful in the history of the organization, according to word [illegible].

The first week at the local agency was a remarkable one, sales being far ahead of any period since the Paige line was taken over. Deliveries have been rapid, a carload a day coming from the factory, but these have been none too many to supply the demand for cars, and only a small cut was made into the big pile of back orders which had collected at the factory.

The Paige jubilee is being held in honor of the completion of the great factory which brings the production up to 150 cars a day, making it one of the largest motor car building firms in the country. The change of policy of the Paige factory from the four to the six-cylinder model, which was inaugurated with the launching of the Paige Fairfield seven-passenger six, followed by the Paige Hollywood five-passenger six, brought greater prosperity and prestige to the factory than ever before.

The growing demand for cars would have been impossible to meet had not plans been laid for a larger factory. Now with the increased facilities for manufacturing cars, the Paige factory is able for the first time to supply cars as rapidly as dealers demand them, and the congested conditions which have prevailed in the sales department will soon be overcome.

The jubilee will continue at the Southern California agency for the rest of the month. Subagencies throughout the territory are clamoring for cars, but have been unable to get as many as they wanted, and they will absorb a large percentage of the November shipments.

EDISON WANTS MILITARY ROADS.

Thomas A. Edison has come out strongly for improved roads and bridges as a means of insuring quick movements of troops in case of war, even at Federal expense. Mr. Edison is quoted as follows:

"I should go beyond the mere providing of men and munitions, and I would have the government revamp the country on a strategic basis; for instance the government ought to build a system of military roads along the seaboard and take charge of all roads which have a strategic value, put them and keep them in splendid condition, reduce the grades, widen them where necessary and strengthen the bridgs for the passage of the artillery and heavy trucks.

Going and Coming.

MILITARY RIFLE MACHINE GUNS.

THE OLD ARM DESTINED FOR THE SCRAP HEAP.

The Present War has Demonstrated the Superior Value of the Rapid-firer, Which is as Easily Made as a Rifle and Takes up Little More Room.

[Washington Star:] The machine gun is playing such an important part in the war that military prophets are saying that before long, perhaps in the closing stages of the present war, and certainly in the next great war, all infantry will be armed with the machine gun, and that the present magazine rifle will be looked on something in the light of a flint-lock or match-lock musket. Infantry in the present war is being armed with machine guns as fast as those weapons can be produced, and the limit of their use is determined only by the capacity of machine-gun makers to produce them.

When the prospect seemed to be that the muzzle-loader would be supplanted by a new fangled gun that could be loaded at the breech, certain military men of the so-called conservative class opposed the innovation on various grounds. One was that a man could load, fire, reload and fire again so fast that he would not take deliberate aim. There would be an end to "fire discipline" and a vast waste of ammunition. When the prospect was that the single-shot, breech-loading rifile would be displaced by the magazine repeater, the same arguments were set forth by the same type of conservative military men, and they also urged that the magazine rifle was too complicated to stand up under the rough usage of campaigns. For a number of years there has been a good deal of talk about the introduction of an automatic rapid-fire rifle to supplant the ordinary bolt and clip magazine gun, but the usual arguments were made against it.

The value of the machine gun was partially recognized in the United States Army, and a machine-gun company organized for each infantry regiment. The German military establishment gripped the machine-gun idea and began the war with perhaps twice as many of these weapons as existed in all the other countries combined. Hinting at this, an English military writer has said:

"In this war of surprises, nothing is certain except the uncertainty of all things offensive and defensive. Military science develops so rapidly in modern warfare that nothing is so unstable as fixed ideas and nothing so unreliable as tradition. So far the Germans have been our masters in the art of making today the weapons of tomorrow. Instead of seeking to adapt new circumstances to old theories they change their theories to meet the circumstances, and that is one of the chief reasons they are able to put up such a stubborn fight against a world in arms."

It has been estimated, but at best it is only an estimate, that at the outbreak of the war there were 50,000 machine guns in the German armies. It is a good guess that the number has been greatly increased during the war, because the machine gun is one of the weapons which has proved its effectiveness in battle. German military experts say that machine guns are cheap, that the parts are easily duplicated, that they take up little more room than a rifle, and they claim that it is just as easy to make a serviceable machine gun as it is to make a good rifle.

The best soldiers in the German army are placed in charge of machine guns, but the German shows none of the sentimental devotion for his fast-shooting gun that the British soldier has acquired. For a British battalion to lose a machine gun is a grave calamity and lives will be sacrificed to regain it. A German soldier looks upon a machine gun as a personal weapon, its loss is a personal one and no more affects the honor of his battalion than does the loss of a rifle.

It is from the German military authorities that one hears most of the talk that the magazine rifle is doomed to the scrap heap. They are saying that just as the muzzle-loading gun was replaced by the breechloader, so will the magazine rifle be replaced by the machine gun, and what the professors have foreseen military tactics have confirmed. It is indicated in the news from Europe that the Germans no longer pay much attention to the cult of the rifle. The Germans are working night and day to turn out a machine gun no heavier than the old "Brown Bess" and more deadly than the concentrated fire of an entire company. The machine gun "found" itself at Neuve Chapelle, at LA Bassee and at the sector of Ypres. A machine gun is only an automatic rifle with a water jacket on it to keep down the heating of the barrel under rapid firing, and it is claimed that the soldiers who won and lost Waterloo carried a weapon heavier and more clumsy than the latest machine gun. A man who could fire a kicking gun of a century ago could fire and carry a machine gun with less effort than he could fire and carry the old smooth-bore musket.

So many traditions hang around the rifle that soldiers are as loath to give it up as military archers were to part with their bows and arrows after the introduction of gunpowder in war, and, as a matter of fact, long after guns were introduced into military service certain troops continued to fight with cross-bows and arrows and there was much debate as to whether the musket or the bow was the better weapon.

A German military critic of distinction has been quoted by an English war correspondent as saying: "The present war will see the end of many things, as it has seen the birth of many things, and although the rifle may not disappear before peace is signed, its doom as the principal arm of infantry is sounded. You may smile—that is one of the faults of you English. You invariably see an absurdity in a novelty until the novelty has become an institution. You will go on improving the magazine rifle when it ought to be scrapped."

Only Similar in Sound.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] "Young man," said the irate old gentleman at the lunch counter to the hard-looking youth who was inhaling his soup with a gurgling sound and splashing it about the while, "what are you, a Colorado geyser?"

"Naw," responded the soup guzzler, "I'm a New Haven guy, sir!"

1916 COLE 8

The Standardized Car

It Performs—and Satisfies

A year of proven dependability—power to withstand the pressure of continuous touring under all conditions—has demonstrated the mettle of the 1916 Cole Eight.

It is the car that set the gasoline economy record in the multiple-cylinder field by averaging 20 miles to the gallon of gas.

It has an established speed range of from two to more than sixty miles an hour in high.

It makes from four hundred to five hundred miles on a gallon of oil. Its perfect balance causes it to grip the road at all speeds.

Its lightness (weighing only 3500 pounds road-ready) makes it easy on tires.

For hill-climbing it is unparalleled.

Though it develops 70 horse power, it is responsive to the slightest touch.

And from the point of accessibility, refinement and up-to-dateness in its construction and design, the 1916 Cole Eight recognizes no peer.

You owe yourself the opportunity to be thoroughly informed on this car.

An engineer from the Northway motor factory will lecture on the construction of the Cole Eight-Cylinder Motor at the Broadway Auto Show, every evening this week. Don't miss it.

GROCERS FAVOR THE MOTOR TRUCK.

The big wholesale and retail grocers of Los Angeles or any other large city find the transportation and delivery problem one of the most important they are called upon to solve. The horse delivery is out of the question in the large city. The big stores could not begin to serve their customers with this sort of delivery. It has become not a question of "motor truck or horse?" but of "which motor truck?"

Experiences of the big operators of the city, according to Elmer H. Ralphs of the Ralphs Grocery Company, have been that the medium-weight delivery truck is the best adapted to this sort of service. The delivery department of the Ralphs store have tried out unsuccessfully the cheaper light delivery truck, and Mr. Ralphs has come to the conclusion that the high-grade, medium weight truck is the best adapted to his work.

Not a Chance.

SPEEDOMETERS MUST BE ACCURATE, SAYS JUDGE.

THE active crusade of the police department and the county motorcycle officials against speeders has resulted in a tremendous increase in business for the speedometer distributors in Los Angeles. The California Sales Company, agents for Stewart-Warner products, and the largest speedometer depot west of the Mississippi, report that they have sold more speedometers in the last three weeks than in any similar period in the history of the organization.

The speed officers have orders to hold motorists to the letter of the law and arrest all violators. This means that anyone driving faster than twenty miles an hour in city or thirty miles an hour in the country is liable to arrest. Of the more than 500 arrests in the last three weeks, about half have attributed their misfortune to poor speedometers. This, however, has availed them nothing, for the judge has handed them their little fine and a bit of advice to have the speedometer tested and corrected or to purchase a new speed indicator. Evidently many have taken his advice.

The old speedometers often are incorrect, but the motorcycle officers have had to contend with so many doctored speedometers that such an excuse is regarded as laughable.

In the Service.

TRUCK SCORES ON STAGE LINE RUN ACROSS SAND.

THE Los Angeles-Lancaster automobile stage line is using a General Motors truck in the passenger-carrying service between this city and the desert town. Floyd B. Lewis, who operates the service, recently purchased one of the model "fifteens" from the motor-truck department of Don Lee's Los Angeles branch.

Mr. Lewis has operated the stage line for some time and has conducted a series of tests to determine what the cost of operation should be. These observations extended over a period of several months.

He presented a set of figures to the head of the truck department of the Don Lee company and requested an estimate on the type of car which would beat them. Mr. Jaques, who has charge of this part of the Don Lee selling organization, at once recommended a model "15" G.M.C. truck, saying it would do the work much cheaper than Mr. Lewis's estimate.

It was finally agreed that the G.M.C. should make two demonstration trips with capacity loads, and if the truck would do what was claimed for it a sale would result. At the end of the first trip the car had shown such remarkable pulling power and such a low cost of operation that Mr. Lewis at once wrote out a check for the price of the car and installed it in the stage service immediately.

The route of the stage is over the paved boulevard to Saugus, thence by the Mint Canyon road to Palmdale and from Palmdale to Lancaster. The stage runs day in and day out, wet weather or sunshine, and will be called upon to meet all sorts of road conditions. So far it has shown a much better record than any other car in the service, and Mr. Lewis is confident it will continue to do so throughout the winter.

HIGHWAY WORK IS COMPLETED.

M'KITTRICK, Oct. 22.—Contractors Castro and Blaisdell have completed the work of grading the Bakersfield-McKittrick highway from a point beginning at the eastern termination of the McKittrick foothills and ending at the western, where the road connects with the corporate limits of this city. The fulfillment of this contract required several months of labor. The highway between the localities indicated is to remain in its present condition until rendered susceptible of further improvement after the first rains of the fall season have prepared the ground for the final work.

While the improvement of the road between Bakersfield, Rosedale, Rio Bravo, Buttonwillow, Lokern and McKittrick has been progressing, auto travel between the county seat and McKittrick was interfered with to such an extent that it became necessary to divert it via Taft, travelers entering Bakersfield from the south. When the highway has been placed under contract and completed from the southern limits of McKittrick to Maricopa, thus affording a through route all the way, this highway will be one of the finest within the borders of Kern county. Several months will have elapsed, however, before the notable addition to the good roads system of this section will be made.

Clark's Place Kick is Only Score of the Game.

Neighbors Tries to Win with His Toe.

Ball Refuses to go Between Bars for Him.

BY JAMES DE CAMP.

The Sherman Indian is today standing atop the highest mountain in his hunting ground and waving aloft the scalp of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. His battle cry is "3 to 0."

HERO CLARK.

With only two minutes of the game left Clark, of the braves, walked up to the L.A.A.C. 25-yard line and carefully manufactured a little pile of dirt. Then followed a string of signals and a solid plunk. The ball sailed between the uprights. The [illegible] faces of the Indians relaxed for the first time during the gruelling game.

Quarterback Clark was easily the Sherman star. He plunged and dodged, bucked and tore around the ends as if imbued with the spirit of his warring ancestors. Attache, at end, also gave the Clubmen a lively time whenever he carried the ball and never went down until there were a [illegible] husky huskies wrapped 'round him.

NEIGHBORS' ATTEMPTS.

Neighbors, captain of the local team, proved quite ambitious. His [illegible] was toward attempted field goals and he had the audacity to try from the 51-yard line. He missed [illegible], but his long passes often gained much ground. It might be estimated that about every third play of the game was a forward pass, about [illegible] of them succeeding.

With the sounding of the whistle the Sherman rooters rushed on the field and led by their band, conducted a jolly serpentine. Even the football heroes themselves joined in the [illegible] march, several with their pretty Indian sweethearts in tow.

A MASSACRE.

The curtain-raising game between Santa Ana and Poly High resulted in a [illegible] massacre for the Santa Ana team. For very few minutes was the ball out of Poly territory until the [illegible] braced temporarily in the [illegible] quarter and Haney put a drop over the visitors' goal. Trago was Santa Ana's whole show, putting two drop kicks and making a touchdown. [illegible] and Browne also went over, [illegible] kicking goal on one of these, but failing on the others. TELEPHONES FOR SALON PATRONS.

Private telephones leading [illegible] to the sections of the various dealers kept a horde of installation experts busy at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show on opening afternoon.

The innovation was started by the Lord Motor Car Company to keep in touch with the Maxwell sales developed during the [illegible] of the salon. Other dealers were quick to realize the advantage of communication with the regular outside business world, and the telephone companies were kept on the rush to supply the demand for instruments.

Maxwell
The "Wonder Car"

Demountable Rims

The 1916 Maxwell is equipped with demountable rims, and has the same size tire on all four wheels. Two vitally important features.

To replace a tire on the road it is only necessary to loosen five bolts; slip off the flat tire; slip on spare rim and tire; tighten three bolts, and proceed.

We are waiting to take you for a test ride in the car that has broken all low "First-Cost" records, and is breaking all low "After-Cost" records.

CHANDLER SIX With Removable Winter Top $1495

NOW you can obtain the Chandler touring car with all the protection and comfort of a Sedan at but little more than the regular touring car price.

This handsome removable top, made especially for the new big seven-passenger Chandler body, gives you two cars in one. Its design conforms perfectly to the lines of the touring body; it fits firmly; and it lends to your car essentially the appearance of a costly closed car.

The added price is so moderate, too, as to suggest the immediate purchase of your Chandler. There's no reason now for "waiting till spring," and a distinctly good reason for not doing so.

Pierce-Arrow

The question of price has never been permitted to enter into the design or manufacture of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car. Perhaps this is the reason that price is usually the least consideration with the Purchaser of a Pierce-Arrow.

The Perfection of Service

Your daily plans, of an inconceivable complexity, are built up around dependable service in a motor car.

These plans would be thrown into confusion if your motor car missed at any point.

When dependence is placed on a Pierce-Arrow the plans are carried out to a perfection of nicety every day—not once on some glorious, fortunate, red letter day, not on alternate Wednesdays and odd Fridays—but every day in every year.

The Pierce-Arrow Car becomes a necessity by its very subordination. It has no disposition to be studied or humored. The Pierce-Arrow is a perfectly trained servant, effacing itself while rendering the service required.

The opening of the social season demands the closed car. You undoubtedly have decided preference as to color and upholstery. If you are contemplating a Pierce-Arrow Car for winter it is well to make a selection early, so the car will be ready at the time that closed cars are necessary or desirable.

Popular Sport.

Motoring in the high Sierra country is all the fashion this summer among Los Angeles motorists. Dr. H. W. Hagan in his Hudson six has just left for Yosemite, Tioga Pass and across the Sierras to Mono Lake. From that point he will travel north to Lake Tahoe and will again drive his Hudson across the Sierras over the Emigrant Gap route to Sacramento. From Sacramento he will go to San Francisco, stay a week at the exposition and come back to Los Angeles via the Coast route. On this trip Dr. Hagan will drive his Hudson car to nearly 10,000 feet elevation on the Tioga Pass and again to 8000 feet elevation, crossing the Emigrant Gap summit. He takes this trip with the greatest of confidence because he has already had a world of experience driving the same Hudson car to many of the mountains in California. In fact, he had driven his car over 16,000 miles before leaving Los Angeles and has given it all sorts of tests in the Southern California mountains as well as those in the north.

On Vacation.

N. B. Roper, a mechanical engineer from Peru, with his wife and Miss Carrie Hervey, passed through Los Angeles last week in a Hudson "6-40" of the latest type. They came from San Diego and are en route to San Francisco via the Coast road. They took delivery of their car at San Diego about two months ago and had already driven it 2500 miles before leaving that city for San Francisco. After a visit at the exposition they will drive up the north shore road and cross the Coast Range at Grant's Pass, visiting Crater Lake and returning to this State by way of the Shasta Route to Sacramento Valley, then over the Sierras to Lake Tahoe and down on the east slope of the Sierras to Bridgeport and Mono Lake. From that point they will again cross the Sierras over the Tioga Pass and visit Yosemite Valley, then back to Los Angeles and San Diego. Mr. Roper has a year's leave of absence from his work in Peru and is enjoying his stay in the United States.

From Shreveport.

R. L. Stringfellow of Shreveport, La., passed through Los Angeles last week on his way to the north. He has a Hudson "6-40" and after spending a week at the exposition will drive across the Sierras, using the Midland trail and Lincoln highway as far as Denver. From that point he will take the Colorado and Gulf highway back to Shreveport, La. All told, he will drive his Hudson car approximately 6000 miles on this last trip.

Iowa Tourer.

John H. Hutchinson of Ottumwa, Iowa, wholesale dealer in tobaccos, passed through Los Angeles last week in his Hudson 1914 "6-54." They came by the all-southern route and visited San Diego on their way. They are now going up the Coast road to San Francisco and after a week at the exposition they will drive to the Yosemite, then to lake Tahoe and return by the Midland trail to Denver, from there taking the Lincoln highway to their home in Ottumwa. When they passed through Los Angeles Mr. Hutchinson had already driven his Hudson car over 8000 miles. While in this city they stopped at the [illegible] er apartments on West Ninth street. Coming west they drove their Hudson to the top of Pike's Peak and they were only one of about six Hudson parties who had made that trip this year. In fact, the Hudsons have quite a reputation in Colorado for their ability to climb the high mountain country of that region. Hudson cars are more frequently seen on the Pike's Peak trip than any other car because of the aeroplane feature of the Hudson carburetor which permits them to be driven to any elevation up to 15,000 feet without an adjustment.

Texas Party.

Mrs. H. R. Dupree and son [illegible] drove their Hudson six through Los Angeles last week en route to San Francisco, after coming from Houston, Tex. They came by the southern route and stopped a week at San Diego to visit the exposition there. From San Francisco they will drive over the Sierra Nevadas to Lake Tahoe, then east over the Midland trail to Denver and will return south over the Colorado and Gulf highway to their home at Houston.

SAFETY STUFF FOR ATHLETES.

For the past four years the athletic fans of Southern California have been reading of the exploits of Bob Weaver and Owen Bird in connection with the field of sports. Now these young men have decided to branch out into the field of commercial activity and have affiliated themselves with John R. Klawans and Jerry Croft in putting the Stulken Safety Signal on the automobile accessory market.

At the present time Weaver is president of the local branch of the A. A. U., president of the [illegible] League, secretary of the Athletic Committee of the Los Angeles Athletic Club and manager of the L.A.A.C. football team and also the vice-president and general manager of the California Soap Company.

Klawans comes from Chicago, where he coached the national basket ball champions from the Illinois Athletic Club and now is coaching the L.A.A.C. basket squad.

Bird is now trainer and physical director for the L.A.A.C. football squad and manager and coach of the L.A.A.C. baseball team, which was recently organized by him. In the past he has been prominent in athletics from a newspaper standpoint and during his college days was considered a good track man.

Croft is now the manager of the L.A.A.C. Soccer football team and prior to that was president of the Ranger Association for two years.

The Stulken Safety Signal, is a brand new idea in the way of mechanical thought and was worked out after three years of hard labor on the part of George Stulken.

He has centralized the control which will be from the steering wheel in such a manner that the driver need not take his hands away from the wheel while rounding a turn or coming to a sudden stop. The device itself is arranged for the fender and is eleven inches [illegible] being round in shape. Inside the cylinder is a revolving sign [illegible] which shows four signs, in white letters on a black field, which is lighted at night.

There is a bell attachment so arranged that it sounds a warning at all signs, but that of safety [illegible] first signal on the device. [illegible] driver cannot leave his [illegible] either left, right or stop [illegible] has met the traffic phase. [illegible] are easily seen at a distance of [illegible] feet and at an even greater distance when lighted at night.

The Stulken Safety Signal is being exhibited at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show, where the quartette of athletic celebrities may be found at any time demonstrating the wonders of this new feature for traffic problems.

The motto of "Be sure you're right, then go ahead" has been adopted by the firm. Weaver's greatest talking point is that the signal will do everything but think and he says that autoists will have to do that.

During the auto show, the signal will be demonstrated under all conditions that are always arising in the congested districts of the city while its efficiency will also be shown for road work under conditions of fast driving and sudden stops.

FINE FISHING.

The finest trout fishing in the United States is to be had in Lakes George, Mary, Convict, [illegible] and the tributary creeks in California. This declaration was made by [illegible] Hamlin, Southern California distributor of Franklin and Scripps-Booth cars, upon his return from a motor vacation tour a few days ago.

Mr. Hamlin, who was accompanied by his family, drove the old Franklin racer. Thomas [illegible] and family in a series 8, the new Franklin, and A. J. Bayer and family made the tour with the Hamlins.

The coast road between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, Mr. Hamlin stated, was in perfect condition.

From San Francisco the tourists went to Stockton and Sacramento, and by the Auburn road to Truckee and Tahoe. Fishing at Tahoe was without results, and the party remained to participate in [illegible] only a few days. Resuming the journey around the southern shore of the lake, the Franklins were [illegible] the mountains and to Minden. Fairly good roads marked this part of the trip.

Leaving Minden, the next stop [illegible] Bridgeport in Ono county. After trying their luck in Mono Lake, they proceeded to Mammoth, where an elevation of 8500 feet was reached. Here they remained a week, as fishing was good. Daily trips were made to Lakes George and Mary, with occasional visits to Convict Lake. In the [illegible] streams and creeks, however, the best fishing was found.

The journey home was made through the Owens Valley [illegible] wherever prospects seemed [illegible]

MAKING SURE.

The delay in the arrival of the twelve-cylinder Enger car is explained by James L. Irving, of the Irving Motor Car Company, to the fact the manufacturers are determined to be absolutely certain the car is perfect in all details before shipment [illegible]

"A factory cannot afford to take chances, as some of them have learned by expereince," Mr. Irving said. "The Enger company told me, when I visited the factory a few weeks ago, that it would have a car ready to ship within ten days, and although the delay is an inconvenience, I would rather wait a while longer than have there be any possibility for [illegible]

ALL PERSONS PLEASE TAKE NOTICE!

I am organizing a company to manufacture automobiles.

The car we will manufacture is described and pictured in the right-hand lower corner of this ad.

It is a good—a very good—car.

The other picture is of myself—I. N. White.

Perhaps you know me—or of me. For some years I have been in Detroit, where I organized, managed and brought to a successful condition one of the well-known Detroit automobile companies; I am at present one of its heavy stockholders and a director.

The purpose of this notice is to apprise the people of the Pacific Coast that an automobile company is being organized in their midst—a company which will cater FIRST to the Pacific Coast and next to the East and the Middle West—NOT first to the East and the Middle West and NEXT to the Pacific Coast, as has been the practice of other automobile companies. This Coast, in proportion to population, uses more automobiles than any other part of the world—over 157,000 in California alone. It is the only part of the United States where such good roads abound and where the climate, the whole year round, makes motoring a delight.

My purpose, further, is to suggest to YOU, who now read, the attractiveness of the stock of this company as an investment.

Dividends in any other lines of manufacturing rarely EVEN APPROACH those paid by well-conducted companies turning out worth-the-money automobiles. One company recently paid a dividend of TEN MILLION DOLLARS IN CASH. The original investment in this company was less than $30,000. Can you grasp this? Numerous other automobile companies have nearly equalled this record.

THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY IS PRACTICALLY THE ONLY INDUSTRY IN THE UNITED STATES WHICH HAS BEEN POSITIVELY UNAFFECTED BY THE DISORDER AND TURMOIL CAUSED BY THE EUROPEAN WAR.

It is a fact that NEVER has the supply of automobiles measured nearly up to the demand. For some years after the close of the war, America will be called upon to replace from her factories the thousands of automobiles which are being destroyed and worn out over in Europe. One of the most prominent and best-versed men in the industry has recently predicted that, aside from this foreign trade, this country will absorb 1,000,000 new cars annually for the next three years.

The company's capital will be $100,000, all of it common stock and non-assessable; 100,000 shares, par value $1 each, and every share issued will be subject to the approval of your State Corporation Commissioner.

You can buy as few as ten shares—or as many as a thousand; there is, however, an important reason, and a vital one, for our wanting a large number of the smaller stockholders. This stock has positively never been offered to "big capital."

Write me.

I have a lot to tell you—about the car—about the company—why we want small stockholders—why a Pacific Coast company—the reason for the huge profits now being made by automobile manufacturers—the particulars of the Name Contest mentioned here—and many, many other things you should know.

It would be unwise for you to invest money in something you knew nothing about.

It would be UNFAIR to yourself, however, for you to neglect to find out all about this real live proposition, with its bright prospects of paying you very large returns on your investment.

Please write me.

I. N. White

Suite 1017 Hewes Bldg., Sixth and Market,
San Francisco.

Read My Announcement

STUDY THE CAR AND ITS DETAILS THEN READ THIS!

I have stated that the supply of automobiles has never measured nearly up to the demand. I want to emphasize that! The Saturday Evening Post, in an editorial dated October 9th, states "that with twenty million families and only two million automobiles, we have got our national job one-tenth done." It is also brought out that of these two million automobiles only about one-quarter are late models; so that besides plugging away at the other nine-tenths of our gigantic "national job" we must be continually replacing the out-of-date, worn-out cars with new ones.

Regarding the stability of the automobile industry, the president of the second largest automobile company in the world says (San Francisco "Examiner," October 10th:) "Any suggestion that the growth of the automobile business is only temporary is not taken seriously by sane-thinking people who have watched its growth and development during the last fifteen years. Twice during that time it has passed through national panics without even faltering and is perhaps the only big industry that has never received a serious setback. The demand for cars is greater today than ever before in the history of the business. . . . Instead of a luxury indulged in by people of wealth the automobile has developed into a practical necessity.'"

Maybe you are wondering how it is possible for a company with only $100,000.00 capital to launch seriously into the business of manufacturing automobiles. When you have written me I will go over this thoroughly with you; for the present let me give you one or two points which will help solve this mystery for you.

In the earliest days of the industry each automobile manufacturer was forced to build every item which he used on his car—even to the tires. In most cases, nowadays, each part of the automobile is manufactured (according to the designs of the automobile company) by a "parts maker" who specializes on that one part.

It is plain that a factory which specializes in the manufacture of motors, for instance, and which has invested in it perhaps $500,000 for the latest and most efficient machinery for motor manufacturing, can turn out motors not only better, but lower priced (even including their profit,) than could be produced in the little motor department of an automobile company whose output would not warrant an investment in that department of more than perhaps $50,000. What is true of motors is true of every other part which makes up an automobile. This is an age of specialization, as you know.

Every important mechanical part of this car has already been designed and thoroughly tested by experts. We will order parts, to be taken as needed to supply demand, and will assemble the cars in our own factory. As parts are ordered only in sufficient quantities to make cars which have already been contracted for, we take no risk through overstocking; we have a very small machinery investment on which to charge depreciation, and NO "junk pile" to feed constantly with machinery, tools and dies, which become obsolete with every change in style or design.

All cars are sold to dealers for cash! As soon as cars are made and shipped we receive payment for them—and in this way are enabled to immediately use our original capital again, with a percentage of the profits to increase production as demand will warrant.

Before returning to the Pacific Coast I made an extended tour through the United States from coast to coast with the purpose of sizing up the DEMAND—talking with dealers to find out what kind of a car they believed would sell best—investigating the likes and dislikes of the people.

This tour confirmed me in my decision that what the public really wants is a six-cylinder car at a moderate price but one which is made of good materials, efficient, comfortable to ride in and operate, and good to look at.

Have you never wondered why low-priced cars LOOK cheap? Undoubtedly it does cost a bit more to use good upholstery and a high-grade finish. But since the appearance is the first thing about any car which attracts the eye of the prospective purchaser, don't you agree with me that this "bit more" is really worth while? Our car will be unique in its price class as having a finish and a beauty at present found only in cars of much higher cost—and that, mind you, without detracting at all from its mechanical excellence.

Perhaps you have also wondered whether it would not be possible to build a light, low-priced automobile with the same body lines as those of the large, expensive makes, by simply reducing them to light car proportions, retaining all of their symmetry, gracefulness and beauty. It IS possible, as you will find when you see the body we will use on our car.

Finally, in regard to the car—we are not aiming at excessive speed; what we want, and what we will attain, is economy, ease of operation, smoothness, hill-climbing ability, riding comfort and attractiveness.

I have so many other things to tell you and to explain to you that you really must write me for more details. I will be glad to answer all your questions, too.

Large Garage.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 15.—The Casa Loma Garage, the oldest and largest garage in the city, is expecting some of the latest models of the Overland, which has been one of the best selling cars in the city during the past year. The sales force of the garage will concentrate on the Overland, the Oldsmobile and the Chalmers this year and the latest models of all the cars will soon be on exhibition here. The garage now has the building next to the garage building for the automobile supply business of the company. All manner of supplies are kept there, including the Klaxon, Goodrich and Michelin tires, and several kinds of oils and greases. The garage uses one of the largest buildings in the city for the machine and electrical departments.

BUSINESS BRANCHES.

The distribution of A.B.C. oil will soon be extended down through Arizona, as there have been so many inquiries and demands for this oil from there that Austin, Bryant & Carter, refining agents for A.B.C., have decided to establish agencies there, or at least arrange for some sort of a distribution. Mr. Carter, manager of the company, says that the policy or manner of this distribution has not been fully decided upon, whether they will establish a branch office at some central station or whether it will all be done through agencies. At the present time these orders are being filled direct from this office, but the A.B.C. growth in that section has been so rapid that these other steps must be taken.

Citizens of Fort Scott, Kan., have organized a movement to establish a rock highway across Kansas. According to present plans, the road will extend to the Missouri State line adjoining Bourbon county, to the Colorado line at Coolidge, passing through Yates Center, Eureka, El Dorado and Wichita. Convict labor may be employed to construct the road.

GOODYEAR WINDOW DISPLAY IS REVELATION TO LAYMAN THIS SEASON.

An elaborate and interesting window display of a rubber manufacturing company is to be seen now at the branch of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company throughout the country.

To the layman there has always been mystery and somewhat of romance about the great rubber industry. It is more or less vaguely known that rubber in its crude form is something that comes from a tree in far-off tropical countries. There the general knowledge ends. The Goodyear window display, installed Thursday, to continue for one week, makes many things clear.

The window itself is a reproduction of a jungle scene in Brazil, where the fine-grade crude rubber known as Para comes from. Brazil, as a matter of fact, had a monopoly of this up to the time that seeds of Brazilian trees were obtained by "strategy" and taken to other tropical parts of the globe, such as Ceylon, Malay Peninsula, etc., where in the past few years plantations for the production of "tame" rubber have grown so mightily as to overshadow the original South American source of supply.

There are many grades of crude rubber. Samples of all of them that are generally used are in the Goodyear display. All are originally taken, in liquid form, from rubber trees. The liquid is the "blood" known as late, that flows from incisions made in the bark by the tappers. The display even includes a fac-simile rubber tree showing how the incisions are made and how the latex is collected by the natives, who coagulate it by smoking it over the flame of a palm fire, before it can be handled for shipment.

The Brazilian crude-rubber samples—the "crepes"—from the plantations of the Far East and the other samples are all labeled plainly; the jungle scenery includes trees, landolphia vines—butterflies and parrots—and the whole ensemble is used as a setting for a display of the famous No-Rim-Cut tires, in the making of which the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company has come to operate the largest tire factory in the world. There are photographs, too, showing operations in the big factory, and occupying a prominent place is a picture of the late Charles Goodyear, who made rubber useful in its thousands of present commercial ways by discovering a method of vulcanizing it, to make it tough and durable, and thus useful, as a finished product.

The whole idea is worked out in a way that gives the public an unusually intimate touch with the lesser-known side of one of the greatest industries of modern times. The window has already been viewed by thousands.

TRUCK ARRIVALS.

The latest improved models of the General Motors Company trucks, equipped with the new worm-drive rear axles, have arrived in Los Angeles. The cars include the two-ton, one-and-a-half ton and one-and-a-quarter-ton models.

Many new names have been added to the list of owners of G.M.C. trucks since Don Lee took over the agency for California. His salesmen have found ready market for the product, for the General Motors Company makes trucks in every size from the half-ton to the six-ton, in either gasoline or electric models.

Greatly Reduces Prices Doubled Output for 1916

Last year the Detroit Electric led any enclosed car—either gasoline or electric—in volume of sales. Clearly it won this preference among motor car buyers solely because of its value—for many enclosed cars ranked lower in price.

This year we reduce the price $600 to $725 per car

Remember—these are the same cars plus a score or more of 1916 refinements. This price reduction is possible only because of doubled output. Twice as many buyers who bought Detroit Electrics last year must be supplied this season.

You get these savings

The doubled production leads to many economies in all overhead expenses, in purchasing, in advertising, in sales cost, in engineering. Great savings in production costs are effected through the use of the most advanced machinery, such as great automatic, multiple spindle screw machines and turret lathes; gang drills; and monster presses for forming aluminum body panels. All the savings effected by the larger operations are handed on to you.

REDLANDS AUTO OWNERS ACTIVE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Gore of West Cypress avenue have returned to Redlands with their four children from a three months' automobile trip through the East. They went from Redlands to Tennessee, where Mr. Gore is the owner of a large cotton plantation and where they spent most of the summer. Punctures and blowouts were the only trouble they encountered on the long trip. They followed the National Old Trails route and visited at St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago and Denver. The speedometer shows that they traveled over 6000 miles on the trip. It took them twenty-six days to go and twenty-three days to come back. "Which shows we were anxious to be back in California again," said Mr. Gore. "We made the trip in our Cadillac and found the roads to be in good shape most of the way, the rains doing some damage to the roads in the East."

J. J. Suess, the big merchant of this city, his wife, his son Donald and daughter Dorothy have left for San Francisco, where they will spend several weeks. They will motor north over the coast route and return by the valley route. They expect to make a trip through Yosemite Park.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ford of this city and son, Ernest Ford, of Los Angeles, have returned from an automobile trip to San Francisco. "The roads are in good shape, even though it is necessary to make detours in places where the fine State highways are being built," said Mr. Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Miller, and daughter, Miss Grace, and son Robert, made a trip over California in their automobile. They visited the exposition, Yosemite and then spent several weeks at Los Angeles and the beaches.

HAWAII PROVING GOOD MARKET.

PREMIER MAN REPORTS MANY SALES IN PACIFIC ISLANDS FOR AMERICAN CARS.

Frank E. Smith, in a recent letter to Clarence Smith of Smith Bros., Southern California distributors for Premier motor cars, tells of the great demand for high-class American-built cars in the Hawaiian Islands. Mr. Smith, who is the head of the Premier organization, says there is an overwhelming demand for the best makes, and he has already undertaken an active campaign to more firmly establish the Premier in the Hawaiian market.

"There was a time when natives of the islands were content with poorly-equipped, low-priced automobiles," said Mr. Smith the other day. "But the trend of time has changed the automobile situation. The native motorists now realize that something better in construction and appearance is in store for them. Like Americans, they desire to be up to date and more fashionable. The automobile has come to be a more important means of transportation and luxury."

During the week the local factory shipped one of the latest types of Premier cars to Honolulu, where it will be placed on display. The car is a clover-leaf three-passenger, consisting of a "six-50" Hershell-Spellman motor and the most modern equipment of the twentieth century. With its modern, racy appearance, the car has been pronounced one of the best-looking in the American auto market and is expected to prove immensely popular with the island motor enthusiasts.

NOT ENOUGH ROOM.

Larger Quarters Not Large Enough for Growing Concern of This City. Using Every Foot of Space.

Since taking over the agency for the Vesta line of goods, Alle S. Hamilton of the Los Angeles Ignition Works has disposed of shipment after shipment of these Vesta batteries and generators and now has on the way one of the largest orders ever placed for this kind of goods.

"We thought," says Mr. Hamilton, "that when we got over into our new building we would have all the room we wanted and some to spare, but already we are using every foot of space and now wonder how we ever got along in our old location."

BUSINESS GROWS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TAFT, Oct. 15.—The largest auto specialty shop on the west side, and, in fact, in Kern county, has just been opened in Taft. For several months Norris & Co. occupied a small place in East Center street, where their business grew to such proportions that it became necessary that much larger quarters be secured. They succeeded in obtaining the entire Plaugher livery stable, occupying a floor space of 75x125, and at once prepared one-half of it for their immediate needs by placing a concrete floor and adding much to their machinery, all of the latest designs for the use of their business. In a short time the firm is to prepare the other half of the large building for the reception of the largest stock of supplies that was ever carried by a specialty shop in the valley. A complete garage outfit, including electric lathes, drill presses, oxygen carbon burning outfit, rectifiers, a portable crane and other modern conveniences make this specialty shop one much sought by automobile owners who get hung up while on the west side. The proprietors obtained their knowledge of repair work in the largest shops at Los Angeles and know what to do to a car when it limps into their place of business.

EXPANDING.

TAFT, Oct. 22.—The Auto Specialty Company has recently added many special features to its equipment for the speedy repairing of crippled machines. Manager Schmidt of the Ford Agency has not received an invoice of cars for three months and does not know when the manufacturer will ship any. He has orders for thirty-five cars to be delivered as soon as they arrive, the date of which is very uncertain.

AL G. FAULKNER URGES FACTORY TO HURRY SHIPMENTS.

Demand for Cars will Result in Trainload Being Sent to the Southern California Agency—New Six Attracts Much Attention on the Road.

"More cars!" is the cry which is sent every day from the Carlton Faulkner-Bowles Company to the Jeffery factory at Kenosha. Despite the fact that three carloads of the new Jeffery models were received last week, Manager Faulkner is experiencing difficulty in keeping a demonstrator on the floor. The cars were absorbed by the long waiting list without making much impression on it and Manager Faulkner has decided to make a hurried trip to the factory to see if he cannot remedy conditions.

According to word from San Francisco, they too are having trouble getting enough cars to fill orders, and the same condition prevails throughout the country. The new Jeffery light four has been one of the most popular cars ever brought out by an American factory and the Jeffery Chesterfield six is not far behind.

Specifications have been sent to the factory for sufficient cars to make a trainload of Jefferies and Faulkner will probably be followed West by an entire trainload of these new models.

The first of the new Chesterfield sixes have arrived and have attracted much favorable comment. They make a beautiful demonstration and have been kept busy showing their

The new Jeffery four roadster is another of the new arrivals. It is a stylish car with the highest grade finish throughout.

The motor of the roadster is of the high-speed, high-efficiency type and is rated as forty horsepower although it develops much more. The two-unit, six-volt system of starting and lighting is used and the high-tension magneto for the ignition.

The car is unusually easy riding, having semi-elliptic springs in front measuring 36 2-8x2 and three-quarter elliptic in the rear. These are inches.

The Jeffery was the first car in America to be marketed with the high-speed motor and since then the majority of the high-grade makers have followed the Jeffery lead.

LONG JOURNEY.

REDLANDS, Oct. 15.—After a mile transcontinental trip in their Ford from Redlands to Springfield, Ill., and back, Mr. and Mrs. Largg and three daughters, Gertrude and Eva, are home again. He says that almost every day they East. On the return trip the Missouri River so high were held up for several days.

Within the next two years approximately 1200 miles of brick now under construction in Florida will have been completed. twenty counties in Florida have banded themselves together and will expend from $10,000,000 to for good roads. This will give tourists the advantage of trips in the winter.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 15.—Announcement has just been made that the agency for the Oakland has been given to the Park Garage, also the agents for the Chandler automobile and several makes of tires. The garage intends to push the sale of the Oakland, which has been a popular car here, and announces that there will be fifty-two hours of garage work given free each year to the owners of the Oakland automobiles. The demonstrator is expected to be here in a few days. C. H. Clem, the owner of the Cadillac garage, has taken the agency for the Chevrolet car and is making a big success, having sold several of the cars. He has on display all of the models of the classy car, the touring car, the Monroe type and several others. SANTA ANA HAS SUCCESSFUL SHOW.

With twenty-one 1916 model cars on display, and plenty of activity among the dealers of the Orange county seat, Santa Ana's second annual automobile show came to an end last night.

The large crowds looked for failed to develop, as there were several counter-attractions which hurt the attendance. In spite of this the show resulted in several sales, one dealer disposing of three cars during the week.

One of the big features of the exhibit was the convertible type Maxwell "25," loaned by the Lord Motor Car Company to the Maxwell dealer at Santa Ana. This car, the only one of its kind on the Coast, was shipped here especially for exhibition at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show. It will be returned to Los Angeles today, and made ready for the big event which will start next Saturday night.

Could the Indian of the days of '49 who watched the caravans of prairie schooners wend their way over the Mojave Desert bearing settlers into the promised land of Southern California be transported back to earth tomorrow he would view one of the strangest vehicles which has ever attempted the sandy wastes and cactus-studded plains. Bigger than three or four of the old schooners, capable of carrying as much as a whole train of them, it will move over the roads of Bouquet Canyon and across the Antelope Valley and the Mojave without the aid of horses or oxen.

This modern vehicle of transportation is headed by a gasoline tractor and is capable of carrying a load of ten tons, which is more than ten of the old-time prairie schooners could transport. During the journey from Los Angeles to Darwin, the Knox tractor and its big will maintain a speed of twelve miles an hour.

H. D. Hadenfeldt, Pacific Coast factory representative for the tractor people, for which ley has recently taken the agency, will accompany the tractor on its trek across the to the mountains of where it is to be put to work Darwin Development Company will be the longest cross-country ever attempted by a motor.

The huge tractor, which has a capacity of eight and three yards of material, and which ten tons, is of the Woods type, with a hydraulic hoist. count of the great weight of the which it carries, the tractor's are eighteen inches across.

OHIO
THE ENVIED ELECTRIC

The Policies and Principles Which Dominate the Ohio Electric

The craftsman who has a pride in his work keeps ever in mind the ideals of serviceability and satisfaction in his product.

The builders of OHIO ELECTRICS carry these ideals much further. For our aim has always been to create a car which would not alone be up to the highest existing standards, but which would set new standards of its own.

The constantly growing appreciation of the most discriminating buyers of electric cars is the best evidence of our success.

Most of the things which the buyer of an electric today demands as a matter of course originated with the OHIO ELECTRIC. And the present models maintain our settled policy of being a season ahead.

Master craftsmen in their fields govern every step in OHIO ELECTRIC construction. Men who are artists as truly as though they worked with brush and palette supervise every detail of design, upholstery and finish. Highly trained mechanical experts inspect and thoroughly test every car for roadability.

The wide, deep, softly upholstered seats in the OHIO ELECTRIC provide greater physical comfort than your favorite chair at home.

The doors are especially wide and high, affording easy entrance and exit without the slightest danger of injury to hats or gowns.

The simple operation of the OHIO ELECTRIC contributes as much to the driver's comfort as the luxurious seats. The exclusive OHIO magnetic control—unequalled in simplicity, sureness and safety—is handled by the most nervous persons with perfect confidence.

The simplicity of control, and the positive brakes with automatic power cutoff, have established for the OHIO ELECTRIC the enviable reputation of being the easiest and safest car in the world of drive.

We have a demonstrator at your service and will appreciate the opportunity of showing you the very latest in electric car construction.

[illegible]MINUM ALLOY MAKES GOOD.

[illegible] Motor Block Test Proves Efficiency of Light Metal Piston [illegible], Manufactured by Local Metallurgist—New Design Carburetor Stands Gaff on Hydraulic Brake Run.

BY GEORGE HILL.

[illegible] the present time when so [illegible] interest centers about the [illegible] alloy piston, I do not [illegible] will be amiss to bring up for [illegible] a matter which so far has [illegible] considered in connection with [illegible] of a light metal in motor con[illegible] refer to the aluminum [illegible] ring.

[illegible] be admitted, at least by [illegible] favor the light metal piston, [illegible] alloy of the same nature [illegible] possessed of the right quali[illegible] ideal for use as a ring stock. [illegible] only a question as to [illegible] not an alloy can be found [illegible] meet all the requirements [illegible] way come up to the [illegible] of cast iron as a material [illegible]

[illegible] going any further, then, let [illegible] the results of a recent test [illegible] the Harry A. Miller Manu[illegible] Company of Los Angeles, [illegible] aluminum alloy rings were [illegible] pistons of the same composi[illegible] alloy which this company has [illegible] after a year and a half of [illegible] and from which pistons [illegible] made for the retail trade, [illegible] the racing fraternity, [illegible] past year with universal [illegible]

[illegible]CTION OF THE RING.

[illegible] ring used in the test was to a [illegible] of new design which [illegible] found very efficient and [illegible] have previously been manu[illegible] of a vanadium iron stock. It is double concentric, of [illegible] tension, with its two mem[illegible] inside the other having a [illegible] surface-to-surface contact all [illegible] around. A square joint in [illegible] ring constitutes the lock [illegible] pins are used or found at all [illegible] to keep the two members in [illegible] relative positions. [illegible] the most interesting fea[illegible] an oil groove equal to one-[illegible] width of the ring which is [illegible] the copier of the outside [illegible] to a point one-eighth of an [illegible] side of the lock joint. This [illegible] as an oil retainer or wipe [illegible] the lubricant and holds [illegible] form of a constant film or [illegible] between the ring surface and [illegible] wall. In actual prac[illegible] especially for high speed [illegible] have found that the impor[illegible] of the oil groove cannot be [illegible]; it is really a necessary [illegible] at the same time does not [illegible] the ring to any appreciable [illegible]

THE TEST.

[illegible] motor on which the test was [illegible] 1-4 Wisconsin. The [illegible] alloy pistons, which were [illegible] lightest possible design, [illegible] only one pound and eight [illegible]. For clearance they were al[illegible] thousandths on the top [illegible] the center and six at the [illegible] and were relieved on the sides [illegible] bosses in which the wrist [illegible] bearing. Two of the alum[illegible] rings, 5-16 of an inch wide, were fitted to each piston with a little more than the ordinary allowance for expansion between the ends but with normal side play in the groove, a fitting which we based principally on our general knowledge of the alloy.

The testing plant consists of a standard hydraulic water brake and the volume of water for cooling was carefully regulated to the amount that we have used for all general test work, while lubricating oil was of the regular quality; the main idea being to impose exactly the same conditions on the light metal ring that the cast-iron ring has been obliged to meet in former trials.

The run was to be for twelve hours, and a carburetor of new design was installed to receive its final test at the same time. The motor was started and for six hours ran with a three-quarter throttle carrying a load which held its speed down to 1500 revolutions a minute. Once every half-hour the throttle was fully opened for the space of one minute, at which time a reading of maximum horse power was taken. At the end of six hours the maximum power, which had remained practically constant after a slight fluctuation in the first hour, showed at a point that indicated full efficiency. The motor was then stopped for five minutes and a 1¾ carburetor was put on in place of the 1½-inch instrument. For the remaining six hours the same tactics were carried out as before, with a noticeable increase of power at the maximum readings, traceable to the larger carburetor, with variations from the sixth to the twelfth hour so small as to be practically negligible. At the finish of the run a comparison of the maximum readings showed a constant sustained power which, under the same conditions with the same motor, we have never quite equaled before.

The cylinders were then taken off and each ring carefully examined for signs of surface wear and tested for elasticity and tension. All were exactly the same in appearance, showing a slightly glossed surface which was surprisingly uniform all the way around, sure proof of a good bearing on the cylinder walls, while the quality and elasticity and tension were not impaired to even the slightest degree.

CONCLUSIONS.

The test, while not exceedingly severe, was nevertheless sufficient to give us an idea as to what we may expect of our aluminum alloy under more exacting conditions. I said in the beginning that if we could duplicate all the good qualities of cast iron as a ring stock—a thing that we have really accomplished—we would have in our aluminum alloy something considerably better on account of the added advantages which it possesses. First and foremost, it cannot cut or score the cylinder under any conditions, and being a softer metal will not wear down the cylinder walls as cast iron does.

NATIONAL "12" IS SUBMARINE.

TEST OF NEW CARS PROVES IT ABLE TO COPE AGAINST WET WEATHER.

In a test of the new twelve-cylinder National car at Indianapolis recently it was subjected to the task of fording the White River at Broad Ripple Park. This was done to detrmine the essentials of the location of the carburetor and magneto in a position so high that the car would become recognized as adapted for touring purposes, as there would be least danger from unfavorable weather conditions.

The results showed, according to Reeve Gartzmann of Hawley, King & Co., Southern California National distributors, that the Highway twelve may well be termed the submarine of motordam. The test showed the car can ford streams of much greater depth than those of the four or six-cylinder type and pull out of the sand and mud with absolute certainty.

The twelve was driven into the river and proceeded on its way across, although the water was five inches deep in the tonneau. The motor continued to operate smoothly and with even pull, because the carburetor and magneto are located immediately under the hood high and dry and far above the water.

The cylinders of the National twelve, which is among the attractions at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show, are made in two blocks of six each and placed at an angle or V shape. In the middle of this V, right up close to the hood, are located the carburetor and magneto, inaccessible to the elements of the weather.

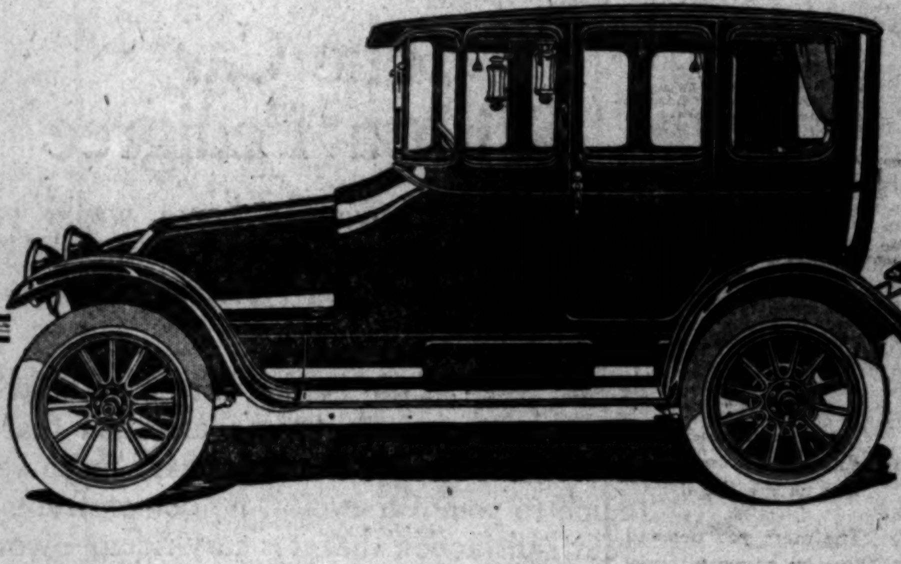
BLYTHE (Cal.) Oct. 22.—The Blythe garage was sold last week by Walsh & Bennett to R. E. Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins is the local agent for Ford cars. He says he will make the Blythe garage one of the best on the desert between Phoenix and San Bernardino. He expects to conduct an auto stage line between Blythe and Santa Maria, the present terminal of the new railroad that is being built into Palo Verde Valley.



The Franklin Sedan

It is generally supposed that enclosed cars are heavy, difficult to handle and expensive to run, yet Franklin cars of this type weigh little more than open models, are equally safe and simple to control, and cost very little more to run.

The Franklin Sedan not only gives the maximum of comfort on cold nights and rainy days, but it is actually cooler in summer than a Touring car. It can be ventilated so as to afford a continuous free circulation of fresh air, while protecting the occupants from the sun and the dust.

TIGERS TAKE FREAK GAME.

Time for Mourning has at Last Arrived.

Sack Cloth Comes Cheaper than Fine Linen.

Vernon Players Have Only Three Assists.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

The Coast League season yesterday continued the painful process of petering out, and has fully made up its mind to expire within the next twelve hours. The race of 1915 is now a mere dying ember, and sometime this afternoon will flicker and fade away.

VERY REASONABLE.

However, as we stand with bared heads in the presence of our deceased pennant hopes, we are not alone in our sorrow. Many a strong and robust city is wearing sack cloth and ashes the same as we are. This is not a bad idea, at that, sack cloth, while a trifle rough when worn next to the skin, costs less than an all-wool garment.

Those who cut out the purple and fine linen and muslin, and watch for special sales in sack cloth are sure to save several cents on the dollar. This should interest those who happen to have a dollar. A lot of the old-timers used to wear nothing but a sack with holes cut in it for the arms. In those days it was known as a toga, which is Greek for gunny sack.

VERY ROTTEN.

We pause in our sorrow to remark that the game was pretty rotten. The Tigers won, 10 to 1, and in that way almost shut out the enemy. Our men were hit hungry, and tore fifteen bingles from the pitching of Stanley Covaleskie. Covaleskie can now go back to his deep-sea mining, his labors for the year being over. It is now known what ailed the Tigers all year.

They have simply been starving to death for base hits and didn't know it until yesterday. When they found out, you ought to have seen them go after that ball. While they were slamming the pill fifteen ways from the home plate, the Beavers were compiling seven errors. The ten tallies scored were the finished product of these hits and errors.

CACK IS MEAN.

Despite the fact that vacation days are at hand, with Thanksgiving and Christmas in the offing, and the open season for taxpaying almost here, Cack Henley was in a surly mood and allowed the visitors only five hits. This was pretty tough on them, for a lot of athletes always figure on doctoring up their batting averages after the pennant has been decided. But Cack refused to cheer up at the prospect of Thanksgiving and Christmas and taxes, and twirled the pill with unceasing venom.

McCredie tried out a young, limber guy at second base by the name of French. First name, politics and religion unknown. Despite the fact that he fozzled one difficult chance, his general movements were those of a ball player.

WHAT, AGAIN?

Attorney Rush Meadows was in right field again. We have been referring to him as a busher, but take it all back since learning that he is a lawyer, duly qualified to take money from the public. Mr. Meadows is not a ball player. He is merely a professional man out enjoying the air in right field and expanding his cramped and froggy lungs.

A peculiar feature of the combat was that the Vernon players had only three assists. Cack had his balloon ball working, and about all his victims could do was to pop it into the air. The Tigers did not have an assist in the first seven innings. In the last two rounds Rader had a couple and Purtell one. This is not a record, Cincinnati having gone through an entire game in 1906 without a assist. However, nothing that Cincinnati does in baseball seems to count. This idea of having only three assists in one game in a good one, and it is strange that the players didn't think about it before this. By cutting out the throwing, the arm is relieved of a lot of wear and tear and will last much longer. The Tigers will now be able to turn up next spring with their throwing arms refreshed and vigorous because of yesterday's rest.

RAH FOR WALT.

Walter Doane made the first hit of the day after Rader had walked, and the boys kept right on punching the pill henceforth and forevermore. It has been stated that Doane will winter in the East. This is only partly true. Not all of him will winter there, he planning to leave his tonsils here until next spring. Tomorrow, Walter will engage in that popular indoor sport known as having the tonsils removed. His tonsils are not in the best condition, and he does not believe it best to take them east with him, preferring to leave them in the milder climate of the Coast. The remainder of him will depart before the end of the week.

Every guy on the Vernon club got one or more hits, in proof of which the box score is introduced into evidence, and marked as exhibit Y. Exhibit Z will be introduced tomorrow.

SEALS WIN THE SEALS' DAY GAME.

WOLVERTON PLAYS LONG ENOUGH TO SCORE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—San Francisco celebrated Seals' Day by defeating Oakland 11 to 4, in a game featured by the fact that neither side used a regular pitcher and the postions of most of the other players were shifted several times during the game. Bodie and Schaller were the Seal slabsters and Middleton and Gardner hurled for Oakland.

Manage Harry Wolverton of the pennant winners, played third base long enough to drive out a clean single, steal thrid base and score. He fielded his position without an error.

It is itself very wear-resisting and if our experience with it as a piston metal is any criterion, we can say without reserve that once a glazed surface is obtained, it will show greater wearing qualities than even the best grades of cast iron. As far as brittleness and resultant breakage are concerned, all previous tests with the alloy show that heat does not make it brittle, or in any way change its properties of elasticity and tensile strength, which is only natural considering the fact that it radiates heat three times more rapidly than iron or steel. Its flexibility can be better understood, perhaps, when I say that a piston ring can be instantly bent and made perfectly straight without breaking or even cracking it.

From the point of view of dollars and cents, its superiority over cast iron is plainly apparent, for although the material is at the present time rather expensive, the amount used is very small, and the waste in manufacturing almost nothing.

Furthermore, from the cost standpoint it has another big advantage, and that rests in the ease and rapidity with which it can be machined.

All things considered, then, let me sum up by saying that, prejudiced or not, the reader must admit that the test is worthy of consideration and that the right aluminum alloy is bound to be a big factor in future motor development.

Last of all in final consideration of this article, please do not overlook that one word in the preceding sentence—I said "the 'right' aluminum alloy."

POPULAR MODEL.

The latest product of the Marmon factory, the Marmon club roadster, has proven immensely popular in Southern California, as is evidenced by the many sales of this type of car by the Carlton-Faulkner-Bowles Company since they took over the agency. The latest purchaser of a club model is L. C. Brand, and the car will be delivered to him at once. The special club roadster, which was purchased by W. H. Holliday, will be exhibited at the Broadway Auto Show.

SLOW STUFF.

Driving seven miles on high gear while another passenger led a cow behind the car is the record achievement of W. L. Killy of Omaha, in a test of the flexibility of a Saxon "Six" touring car. Anyone who has ever been out on the open highway in a motor car and who has caught up with a cow knows how slow an automobile must travel until said cow takes a notion to get off of the road.

If you were in the market for an automobile would the manufacturer's assertion that it is a "good car" or the "best car" mean very much to you? Or even if he demonstrates to your satisfaction that it is easy-riding—would you accept this as absolute proof of correct construction? MONSTER MACHINE CROSS MOUNTAINS AT INYO.

Total Weight of Thirteen Tons Travels North to Owens Lake Lone Pine, Keeler and the Lucky Jim Mine—Long Trip is Made in Five Days.

Shades of the past! What a sig it would have been for an old fort niner to have beheld in the distanc far over the desert, the immense Kno tractor and dump trailer which w driven from Los Angeles to the Luck Jim mine, on the east slope of th Sierra Mountains in Inyo county.

R. D. Hadenfeldt, Knox factor representative on the Coast, took th machine over the mountains and des ert, and M. S. Bulkley, the local agent announced yesterday that the trip ha been made without the least trouble The trip was made by way of Owen Lake and Lone Pine. The tota weight was thirteen tons.

The delivery of the car to its own er was made without difficulty. From Los Angeles the party went by way of Saugus over the rough Bouquet Canyon road and through the sand of the desert to Mojave, ninety-eight miles from Los Angeles. The second day's journey was through the land of the horned toad and rattlesnake on the road to Freeman, where water sells at $1.00 a gallon and gasoline at 50 cents a gallon. Before reaching Freeman a mountain of sand was encountered, at nightfall, and the party camped in the trailer until morning.

Hadenfeldt was advised to hire a span mules to help negotiate the tractor and trailer over the next ten miles of road, which was exceedingly sandy and steep, but the going was found comparatively easy. From Freeman he was forced to travel ten miles on the intermediate gear. This was accomplished without overheating, and Little Lake was reached the third night. The fifty miles to Lone Pine was made the next day in six hours, where the population of 200 welcomed the tractor and commented on its unusual trip. The fourth night was passed near Owens Lake.

Two quarts of water were added to the supply in the radiator the following morning, and the tractor set off for Keeler, twenty-four miles. The road was exceedingly heavy, but the only difficulty encountered was with narrow road cuts in the hills, where it would have been impossible for any tractor other than one of standard tread to pass. It was necessary to pick away several inches of either bank to allow the truck to pass. The road from Keeler to the Lucky Jim mine is in fair condition, though with one grade of 16 per cent.

The performance of the tractor and trailer, which was loaded with supplies for the mine, gasoline and oil, delighted the mine owners, and it will be put to work immediately, hauling the ore trains out of the mountains. The outfit en route attracted a large crowd wherever it stopped, but the party pushed on as rapidly as possible, as the owners were anxious to start working. In unloading the tractor and trailer from the freight car in which it arrived from the East, the Bulkley representatives found that an accident had broken the side of the box car and smashed the boards over the body of the tractor, but its unusual strength had sufficed to hold the whole outfit fast and intact, and it was unloaded, filled with gasoline and oil, and started on its 300-mile jaunt into the desert mountains.

MAIER WILL USE MILLER'S LATEST.

FIRST NEW TYPE CARBURETOR FROM LOCAL FACTORY ON OLD RACER.

For several months past the Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company has been busy getting the factory in shape to turn out the Miller carburetor, the latest creation of Harry A. Miller. Yesterday the first one was installed on the "Prince Henry Benz," owned by Ed Maier.

Mr. Miller had promised Ed Heath, superintendent of transportation for the Maier Brewing Company, that he should have carburetor No. 1, and yesterday when he drove the car into the Miller factory the promise was fulfilled. To commemorate the occasion, a photograph was taken, and half an hour later the car left with the new instrument in place. The Benz, formerly the property of Barney Oldfield, which is practically the only one of its model in the country today, was brought to the Coast after a season of campaigning on the mile tracks of the East and Middle West.

Ed Maier took a great fancy to the car, persuading Oldfield to part with it, and ever since that time has been using it as a runabout, a part for which the ex-racer has shown itself to be admirably adapted.

REAL TRIP.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Oct. 22.—In a new Ford, purchased for the trip, George Bartlett, Harry Wolf, and C. A. Soper left this week for a hunting and fishing trip that will take them as far as Klamath and Crater Lake National Park, Oregon. They expect to be gone one or two months, and will stop wherever fishing and hunting are most attractive. Their choice of a car was made in order to have one for which supplies and repairs could be easily obtained anywhere.

The Amazing thing about the New Grant Six isn't the price—it's the quality

Of course, being dealers, you are prepared to discount our statements regarding the cars we sell.

But, honestly, the new Grant is simply a wonder.

It has six-inch longer wheel base and that permits a bigger, roomier body.

The Grant Company took advantage of the situation and got the largest and handsomest body ever put on a car priced below a thousand.

This body has nifty lines—it is what the trade call modified boat-line type—not extreme, but quiet, dignified and modest looking, with real style.

The cushions are deeper and softer—and the side lines are high so that knees don't peep out over the edge.

And Grant Six has many bigger cars beaten in the ample legroom it gives both front and rear. Even a six-footer couldn't complain of being cramped in a Grant Six.

But it's the motor that gives you the real thrill.

Press your foot on the accelerator and she moves off so swiftly that you realize you've touched something extremely sensitive. 50 miles in a few blocks is nothing for Grant Six.

Then when you throttle down to 1½ miles an hour—and all the pull there—no gasping and choking and dying—but real pull—you realize that you have been driving a wonder motor.

And when you know Grant Six owners rarely get less than 20 miles—often as high as 28 miles out out of a gallon of gasoline—you will gain some conception of the mechanical excellence embodied in this remarkable SIX.

Don't forget we are talking about a SIX—a car that gives you the best of the SIX virtues plus amazing economy—both in first cost and cost of operating.

Will you let Grant Six go through the paces for you?

Better phone us for a demonstration now—while we can still name delivery dates.

MRS. OLDFIELD FIRST TO BUY.

Purchases New Maxwell at Show Opening.

Master Driver's Check Goes for Convertible.

Delivery will be Made at End of Exhibit.

Mrs. Barney Oldfield is awarded the honor of being the first purchaser of a motor car at the big Broadway Automobile and Flower Show.

Less than ten minutes after the doors of the great exhibit had swung open to admit the public yesterday, the wife of the world's master driver had given Harry A. Lord a check for $1035, receiving in exchange an order for a Maxwell "25" convertible car, the latest offering of the Detroit factory.

Mrs. Oldfield went to the show all prepared to purchase the Maxwell convertible. The check, a gift from the famous Barney, was made out before she left home, and she did not hesitate once between the Broadway entrance and the Lord Motor Car Company's section on the second floor.

"I knew what I wanted, for I saw the car in the East just two weeks ago," explained Mrs. Oldfield. "There wasn't any need to demonstrate to me the practical features embodied in the convertible idea, for I knew them as well as the salesmen. I shouldn't have waited until the show started, though, for Mr. Lord says he cannot deliver the car until the exhibit is over, and that will be a whole week."

Because of the rule which prohibits the removal of an exhibit until the show terminates, Mrs. Oldfield's convertible Maxwell will continue as the feature of the Lord Motor Car Company's section. The car was one of the most admired by the opening-night throng, and bids fair to be a favorite with feminine motoring devotees.

PERFECT MIXER A LOCAL FIND.

ENSIGN CARBURETOR ANSWERS LONG-FELT WANT OF MODERN MOTOR.

Ever since the automobile has come into general use carburetion has been one element which has never been standardized. The best evidence of this is the constant changing of models year by year to meet new conditions and to correct old faults. One of the causes for this is the fact that carburetion is probably one of the most difficult operations ever required of any automatic apparatus, namely, the weighing out of one cubic inch of gasoline to about 10,000 cubic inches of air and, to get the best results, this must not vary more than about 5 per cent. either way from the exactly correct proportion at any given speed or power demanded of the motor at sea level, while at higher altitudes the carburetor must take into account that the air weighs less and must take up the correspondingly less weight of fuel.

There have been thousands of devices invented and developed to accomplish this purpose, nearly all of which have contained mechanically interconnected or physically co-ordinated elements, all the elements supposed to work together in harmony to create new automatic or mechanical adjustments at all speeds or different throttle openings at any speed. It is readily seen that this is dependent on the most highly developed skill or human ingenuity both in design and adjustment, and such devices must have constant re-adjustment performed by highly skilled operators or experts to obtain an approximation of the desired results.

There have, however, been some carburetors developed in which there are no moving parts and no re-adjustments expected. These have been very difficult to adjust to fit the motor and provided no satisfactory means of taking care of the gradual wear of the motor parts that effect the mixture and were not proof against temperature or altitude changes. It seems strange with so many clever minds devoted to the development of this particular apparatus that for so long a time the fact was overlooked that provided all conditions imposed by physical law were understood and acknowledged as applied to carburetor design that from thoroughly well known demonstrated phenomena in connection with the flow of air or liquids, carburetors could be designed that would give absolutely perfect operating results under all conditions of weather and altitude and these results predicted and realized to the utmost degree of refinement upon being constructed from drawings made in accordance with the above principles.

It remained for a Los Angeles hydro-electric engineer to recognize this fact and such a carburetor has been developed and manufactured for two and a half years in Los Angeles by the Ensign Carburetor Company.

The Ensign carburetor is built on the idea of the centrifugal pump and is really a centrifugal pump with an air impeller pumping gasoline or other liquid fuel. Around the fact that the drop of pressure in the center of a whirling mass of air is the correct method of creating a mixture, has the Ensign carburetor been designed, and it happens that this whirlpool in which a body of air rotates at full power at about 12,000 revolutions per minute, was the best means of mixing the liquid fuel with every atom of air passing to the motor. However long the Ensign carburetor may be used it will never be possible to change the element creating the mixture either to fit any motor or to improve condition. This is because the mixture is created solely by the shape of this element and not from the operation of any moving parts.

LOCAL "MIXER" TAKES IN EAST.

Bringing news of considerable activity at the many automobile factories which he visited, W. L. Conzleman of the Ensign Carburetor Company this week returned from a rather extended trip throughout the East and Middle West, where he went in the interests of the local made carburetor.

Practically every factory Mr. Conzleman visited was working at full capacity and in some instances on double shifts in order to keep up with the orders. According to Mr. Conzleman, not only were the automobile factories busy, but there seemed to be a good tone to business in general. One big factor has been the large war orders which so many different concerns have received and which has kept them busy.

Much of Mr. Conzleman's time was spent visiting the eastern representatives of the carburetor. With the excellent results which are being gained back there by the users of the Ensign he looks for a big increase in business from that territory for his company.

The return trip just at this time was made in order to prepare for the exhibit at the Broadway Auto and Flower Show, where the Ensign will be displayed.

TREND OF AUTOMOBILE DESIGN.

By F. E. Moskovics, Member Society of Automobile Enginners, Commercial Manager Nordyke & Marmon Company.

Note: This is the fourth of a series of semi-technical articles written for The Times by Mr. Moskovics. The fifth will appear at an early date.—Ed.

TO THE keenly observant have been given unusual opportunities to watch carefully the mechanical thought of the technical end of the automobile industry. The various sections of the Society of Automobile Engineers have held important meetings and various editorials in the technical papers are pointing rather strongly to the direction the engineer's mind is going.

On September 24 the Indiana section of the Society of Automobile Engineers at their first fall meeting were entertained by a paper presented by Mr. J. G. Vincent, vice-president of engineering of the Packard Motor Car Company, entitled "Modern Tendencies of Motor Design." As might be expected, the paper treated largely on the mathematics of the twelve-cylinder motor. The gist of Mr. Vincent's paper was that for a given weight and size of car, a certain power was necessary, and to carry this weight with smoothness, a twelve-cylinder motor was essential. About the only real point of difference was what was the size of motors where twelve cylinders would be beneficial? There was a considerable divergence of opinion on this point, and only time will prove the correctness of either theory.

THE TWIN SIX.

Mr. Vincent strongly brought out the point that the twelve-cylinder, or, as he called it, the twin six, and the six-cylinder, which he called a single six, was superior to the eight, or twin four, in balance and smoothness; that they were both perfectly balanced types, but of course he claimed that the lighter impulses of the twelve made it a better operating job.

The paper presented by Mr. J. E. Diamond of the Aluminum Castings Company, on aluminum pistons, also brought out considerable discussion about the use of aluminum both for pistons and other parts. In the various trade papers during the past three weeks there appeared many articles by prominent writers, such as Mr. Ludlow Clayden and Mr. Diamond on the extensive use of aluminum in parts other than reciprocating parts—in other words, cylinders, etc. It must not be supposed that the idea was to use aluminum cylinders against aluminum pistons, but the use of aluminum cylinders with cast iron liner, and either cast iron heads or valve seats, so that the frictional parts remain the same as formerly, but the weight of water jackets, etc., was enormously reduced. The importance of this can be seen at a glance. If we take several hundred pounds off the front wheels of a motor car, axles, springs, etc., could be made lighter and every ounce of weight that could be taken off these parts, or unsprung weight, as it is termed, would add enormously to the ease of handling and riding of the car. Prominent engineers entered into this discussion in the columns of the various technical journals, and it was brought out that many prominent concerns are working on just this type of construction.

ALUMINUM SCARCE.

One of the deterring features, however, in these experiments, is the enormously increased cost of aluminum. In the past few months aluminum has advanced from a raw material cost of 20 cents a pound to a present cost of 55 cents a pound, and without any positive assurances of delivery at even that price. Part of this is due to the fact that the aluminum has entered largely into the construction of the percussion caps and time fuses of shrapnel and other high explosive shells. By eliminating the matter of first cost, it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that a considerable reduction of weight can be effected by the use of aluminum and various aluminum alloys without any detrimental effect on the strength of the car, but as a matter of fact, it would add greatly to the inherent strength of the structure as a whole. It is to be expected that great progress will be made in the next few months along these lines. Showing the importance of weight as a factor a number of experiments were made with various cars on acceleration about on the lines the writer outlined in his last article in The Times. These experiments were conducted at the Indianapolis Speedway on various cars, and it was found that the influence of weight on acceleration is tremendous.

While speaking of these experiments, it might be well to point out the influence of the Indianapolis motor speedway on the general design of motor cars. In the last issue of Automobile, an editorial was published, entitled "Speedways and Engineering." I am going to quote it in its entirety.

SPEEDWAY TESTING.

"Probably the Indianapolis speedway has this year been the scene of more testing work than ever in its history, excepting tests made solely for racing purposes, as visitors from Detroit have made great use of it in addition to the permanent usage of the Indianapolis manufacturers. Not only this, but the Chicago track has also been employed for tests that are demonstrations, or demonstrations that are tests. All this activity on the speedways is serving to again demonstrate their immense value to automobile engineers as testing grounds.

"A really good track in Detroit, owned by the manufacturers of Detroit and intended for testing rather than for racing, would improve the average Detroit product at least 20 per cent. within a year or two. It would be worth the while of every manufacturer to put down a good sum and contribute an annual income for the building and upkeep of such a track, and it is remarkable that a scheme along this line has not yet developed. But there is another side to the speedway, as well as testing and racing, and this is their value for demonstration performances such as the recent speed tests of Packard and Cadillac cars at Chicago. There is hardly a member of the industry who does not agree that cars will be sold more and more on performance and less and less on specification, so the value to a manufacturer of officially-observed tests is immense, from the publicity viewpoint.

ASSISTING MANUFACTURER.

"With the speedways thus tending to assist the manufacturer by helping him to improve his cars by private tests and to demonstrate the result by public test, the owners of the tracks have a right to ask the automobile manufacturers to be a little more generous. There are two ways of enabling the speedway corporations to make a reasonable trading profit, one being a wider use for testing and a slightly higher rate of pay for demonstration runs, the other to build more racing cars and help to make American cars that will beat and replace the foreign vehicles. The public will flock to see racing just so long as that racing is good racing, and it cannot be good without the annual production of good speed cars, for the old ones cannot be used again and again."

This will quickly show the advantage of having a speedway at one's door. The Indianapolis manufacturers have taken advantage of the Indianapolis speedway in the development of their cars—this in conjunction with the Society of Automobile Engineers affects directly the owner and user in the most vulnerable spot in which he can be affected, that is, his purse. As indicative of the effect of the Society of Automobile Engineers on the price of motor cars, we quote from an article by Mr. A. Ludlow Clayden, one of the foremost authorities in the world, at present technical editor of Automobile, entitled "Why the 1916 Cars are Cheaper:"

"The materials used in an automobile of 1916 cost less than before on the average, despite the fact that nearly all materials are more expensive. This apparently contradictory condition of affairs has been brought about by various causes, the main things being that materials are better chosen and better proportioned. Taking the case of steel, the price of common qualities from which the better qualities are made fluctuates all the time, and whether it is up or down just now depends upon how far back one goes for the comparison. Steel is cheaper for many automobile parts because of the work of the Society of Automobile Engineers, and because of advances in design.

FORMER MYSTERY.

"Not so long ago the steel used for automobile parts was largely a mystery; it was sold under fancy names like soaps or patent medicines. Each maker cried his special brand, and a tremendous jargon of largely meaningless words was built up, shrouding the alloy steel business with a cloak of mystery. The Society of Automobile Engineers' steel standardization has made free to all the world the knowledge that steels made to definite formulae have certain properties and that there is no mystery about it. The Society of Automobile Engineers' specifications enable a manufacturer to get competitive quotations for the same steel from all sorts of courses. He no longer has to worry with the names of fancy brands."

To those engineers who have had an opportunity of working in conjunction with the various sections of the Society of Automobile Engineers as well as the parent body and in addition the advantage of a speedway to check up their work there is a decided advantage which will directly affect their designs and eventually prices. As these affect the eventual design and I think there is no factor having a stronger influence on the future motor car than the work done by the Society in clearly bringing out the desirable elements in motor car design from the user's standpoint.

IMPORTANT FACTOR.

The element of balance which has been harped on so often that it almost becomes tiresome becomes an important factor in high-speed operation on either the road or the speedway. This is best illustrated by the fact that recently one of the most prominent manufacturers in America, who conducted some experiments in Indianapolis, had to strongly fortify his cars with shock absorbers before he could even drive the car around the speedway at the maximum speed of which it was capable. If he could not take the gradually embanked turns of the speedway at high speed without the use of shock absorbers it can be easily seen what chance his car would have in the hands of a novice on the road at high speed. Yet this car is generally known as a well balanced car, but I really believe that the engineer designing this car will materially change his designs in the future, either using shock absorbers as standard equipment or in some other way balancing his car so that he will not have to use them as an auxiliary when he desires to make high speed movements.

FOR THE ROAD.

All engineers are paying greater attention to road handling and steering. Again balance is important and is one of the things the writer consistently has believed offers great opportunity for ingenuity and the fact that no two cars handle alike is the best illustration that it is a point engineers differ on greatly.

In closing, it appears to the writer that the observations of the last few weeks point out that the engineers are beginning to realize more and more the terrific importance of balance and light weight. These two things will go hand in hand. Every pound of weight taken from a motor car is nearly as important as increasing the flexibility of the motor, and when these two things are combined, then a really great car will evolve.

FLYING SPARKS OF MOTORDOM.

The Iowa Retail Auto Dealers' Association has protested against the practice of announcing 1916 models so early in 1915. The contention is that this action on the part of manufacturers handicaps the sale of previous models.

Motor car dealers of Binghamton, N. Y., have decided to hold a show during the late fall or early winter. Members of the Binghamton Automobile Dealers' Association and of the Binghamton Automobile Club will co-operate.

The Toledo Automobile Club, Toledo, O., will fight court cases in which it deems its members have been imposed upon. It is said that county constables have been arresting Toledo motorists when no law violation occurred.

Since the law permitting the transfer of number plates from one car to another by the payment of $1 became effective Aug. [illegible] Ohio motor registration department has received more than [illegible] applications. This indicates the purchase of a large number of new cars on the part of former owners.

The Boston Automobile Dealers' Association has approved plans made by the managers of the two big fairs in New England, the Brockton fair in October and the Rockingham fair the latter part of September, to hold open-air motor shows.

Investigations of motor car accidents in one of the largest cities during the last three months disclose that many fatalities are due to lamps that are not kept properly adjusted and also to signals that are not in proper state of repair. In nearly every fatal accident in which a pedestrian was struck by the front of a car, the accident happened at dusk or after dark, and a critical examination of the cars brought out the undisputed fact that steering, lamps and signals were all in need of attention.

One of the most novel and complete road-posting campaigns ever carried out by a motor association in New England has just been completed by the Automobile Club of New Haven, Ct., the pioneer motoring club of Connecticut and the largest club in New England. It is a "follow-the-red-arrow" system, and made the more novel by the fact that the city officials, upon learning what a desirable system it was, approved and erected all of the signs under the direct supervision of the City [illegible]

Ohio is the leading State in macadam mileage, having [illegible] more than the second [illegible] Illinois. The respective mileages of macadam roads in these two States are 7000 and 10,000. Kentucky has [illegible] Massachusetts, with its fine highway system, has 3783; New York has [illegible] Wisconsin has 2000, New Jersey [illegible] and North Carolina [illegible] States, such as Louisiana, have no macadam roads at all.

Newark, N. J., is to have a show some time in February, shortly following the New York show. It will be staged under auspices of the New Jersey Automobile [illegible] Association in connection with the Municipal Committees arranging for the [illegible] festivities planned for the [illegible] anniversary of the city.

Because of the extraordinary growth of the automobile business in California and other States along the Pacific Coast the large oil companies are paying particular attention to the development of this field, and nowhere is the competition between the leading concerns so keen as in the Pacific Coast section.

Citizens of Ft. Scott, Kan., have organized a movement to build a rock highway across Kansas. According to present plans the road will extend to the Missouri State line adjoining Bourbon county, to the Colorado line at Coolidge, passing through Yates Center, Eureka, El Dorado and Wichita. Convict labor may be employed to construct the road.

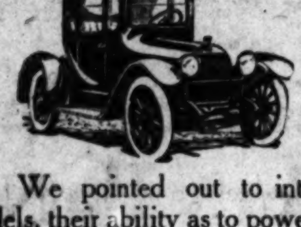
KisselKar at the Auto Show

Prominently Located at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show, Boston Store Building, October 23 to 30, With a Complete Line of New Models



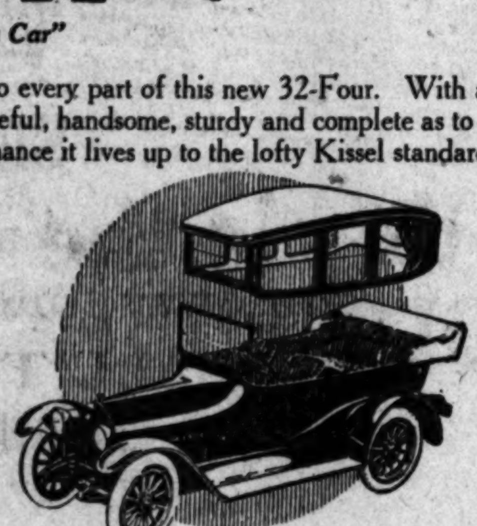
Here's a KisselKar that created a lot of interest among visitors yesterday; the 32-Four Roadster Coupe, the latest development of the famous ALL-YEAR Car, listed at $1450. A practical car "from stem to stern," from top to tire.

Space 26, Second Floor, was a busy spot at the Big Show yesterday. We pointed out to interested visitors the downright economy and utility of the various KisselKar models, their ability as to power, their capability as to performance, their all-round goodness and worth. But we didn't have to do much talking; the cars speak for themselves.

KISSELKAR

"Every Inch a Car"

We especially emphasize the fact that quality is built into every part of this new 32-Four. With a 115-inch wheel base and well-proportioned, it's roomy, graceful, handsome, sturdy and complete as to equipment; in fine, in every detail of construction and performance it lives up to the lofty Kissel standard.



This 42-Six, 5 Passenger Touring Car model is listed at $1485, and has attracted wonderful attention. You will note that this model in the two and three door type is especially built to receive the Detachable Sedan Top. Together they constitute the ALL-YEAR Car, the notable Kissel invention of last season.

ROUGH ROAD PROVES BARRIER TO GAME PARADISE.

Maxwell Pilots Forced to Travel Thirty-five Miles on Low Gear in Reaching Big Edison Company Construction Camp Near Kernville.

The best game protector in the West —a region where quail are as thick as sparrows in London — has been found.

It is a road where the dust is so deep and the chuck holes so numerous for a thirty-five-mile stretch that even the most enthusiastic hunter will hardly care to tackle it.

The discovery was made by Lieut. Clark of the Motor Reserve, who has just returned from a trip to the mountains with J. J. McDonald and H. E. Adams, fellow-employees of the Lord Motor Car Company. The road in question leads to camp No. 3 of the Edison company, located fifteen miles above Kernville. Clark and his mates did not do the Christopher Columbus act on purpose. They were bound for the mountain camp to show Dr. Charles E. Mordoff, chief surgeon at the Edison Hospital, one of the 1916 Maxwell "25" touring cars. Since it was vacation time, business and pleasure were mingled, and a twin to the machine meant for the surgeon was employed to carry a camping outfit.

The bad road was struck near Caliente. For thirty-five miles its tortuous way was followed by the local experts. In some places the dust was so deep that it covered the axles of the little car. Adams and Clark, better than McDonald, often "jumped" and pushed the first Maxwell through dust patches where the chuck holes were so bad that only the motor power could be applied. Once over a bad spot the trio went back where the second car had stuck and repeated the performance. For thirty-five miles the low gear was continuously employed, and the cars nearly strangled to death in the dust.

The party returned home via Mojave, preferring a much longer route to the tortures of the other road. Dr. Mordoff refused to let the car of his choice leave camp No. 3, and the local motorists were forced to use one Maxwell on the return trip. This, together with another of the "25" models, was shipped to the camp immediately on arriving home to fill orders from S. Mordoff.

In the immediate vicinity of the Edison Hospital, which is the center of the big construction field, good country roads have been built, and the fleet of Maxwells will be used to facilitate the work now going on. Dr. Mordoff's car has been equipped with a collapsible stretcher and will serve as an ambulance in cases of need.

VALLEY ROAD IS BEST TO NORTH.

LOCAL MOTORIST FINDS ROUGH TRAVELING BECAUSE OF COAST DETOURS.

Motorists going north these days are advised to take the valley route in preference to the coast road. Highway construction in the Salinas Valley causes plenty of grief for those who are forced to take to the detours, as the roads are heavy and rutty. This condition will prevail until the first rain.

Charles Negley of Pasadena, who has just finished a 3700-mile tour of the State in his Maxwell "25," reports that the Gaviota Pass road is also in poor shape. For almost a day the local motorist was forced to use his low and second gears exclusively.

Beyond Salinas Valley the road is good, as was attested by Negley's run from San Juan to San Francisco in a little more than three hours. The best evidence of the difference between the coast and valley roads was shown by Negley's gasoline record. Going to San Francisco his average consumption was a gallon for each eighteen miles; on the return trip the Maxwell, with its 2100-pound load of passengers and camping outfit, averaged twenty-five miles to the gallon.

NEW DEPARTMENT IS NECESSARY.

The heavy increase in business of the pleasure-car and commercial-car departments of the Pierce Arrow Motor Car Company of Buffalo has necessitated the creation of a new department, according to word received from the factory by W. E. Bush, Southern California distributor for the Pierce Arrow products. The department is known as the commercial department, and W. J. Foss, for ten years a distributor of Pierce Arrow cars, has been named as commercial manager for the company.

The new department is created to relieve Col. Charles Clinton, treasurer of the firm, of the duties of the sales department.

Mr. Foss has been distributing Pierce Arrow cars for ten years and is one of the best-known members of the Pierce selling organization. His promotion to a position of such responsibility with the conservative Pierce Arrow firm is a high tribute to his salesmanship.

Mr. Foss's duties will include the direction of saids of pleasure cars and trucks, and of the advertising, publicity and service departments. Col. Clinton will give his entire attention to his duties as treasurer and chairman of the Executive Committee.

SOME RECORD.

A new shipping record was established by the Willys-Overland Company on September 29 when 627 cars left the factory. Never before in the history of the big Toledo concern has it been able to reach this high-water mark in daily production. During the past four months the production of the Overland factory has grown tremendously. In June the shipments averaged 300 cars a day. Before the end of August this was increased to 500 a day.

TAFT, Oct. 15.—B. F. Crisman, who owns the Midway garage in South Taft, has purchased the Bewley garage in Center street, North Taft, and is making many improvements, such as a concrete floor, excavations in which to work under cars, and other things so essential to a modern garage. His machinery equipment has been added to very much, he having devoted a week at Los Angeles making the necessary selections for installation. It is as well equipped as any garage in Kern county.

There has not been a shipment of Ford cars received in Taft for two months, owing to the inability of the company to make the delivery. Agent Schmidt has orders booked for two carloads and they are expected to arrive about October 1. No fewer than thirty owners of old cars have disposed of theirs at a nominal figure and placed orders for the new designs.

So great has become the demand for truck work in hauling oil well supplies from here to the fields that several big machines have of late been added to the equipment of many of the big oil companies. With the increasing demand for such work J. P. Plaugher, a contract freighter has added a three-ton machine to his equipment and his string of trucks is kept busy.

Hopkins & Anderson, who recently secured the agency for the Chevrolet, have sold six five-passenger cars to people on the West Side. They have three orders waiting for delivery.

SAN DIEGO AGENT TRIES NEW BOOSTING SCHEME.

Reds and Yellows Mingle on Saxon Six Touring State and Stimulating Interest in Southern Fair—Costumes of Women Passengers in Harmony with Machine.

One might mistake the official Saxon Six of the San Diego Exposition for a fire department rig, so striking are the red and yellow exposition colors used in painting it. H. B. Smith, Saxon agent for San Diego, is an enthusiastic booster for all that pertains to San Diego, and it was his idea to decorate the car with the colors of the fair and make a tour of the State boosting the exposition.

The first trip was to Imperial Valley. The party was made up of the Mayor of San Diego and exposition officials. All of the principal towns of the valley were visited, with a trip across the line to Mexicali.

The Mexican contingent was immediately attracted by the blazing reds and yellows of the machine and Smith could have parted company then and there with his car had be cared to sell.

The Saxon is now on its way to San Francisco. Smith is carrying as passengers and boosters, his wife, Mrs. Theo. Hall of San Diego, and his mother, Mrs. F. H. Smith of Portland.

The women have added to the attractiveness of the car by following the red and yellow scheme with red hats and yellow sweaters

Gay pennants are strung fore and aft, one of which reads "See San Diego, Sun City Special Saxon Six." The frequent repetition of the letter S sounds like a stream of soda water or the start of a sky rocket.

Stops will be made in most of the towns en route, both going up the Coast and returning by way of the San Joaquin Valley, so that the party can do a little boosting at each place for the southern exposition.

They describe the beauties of the fair in colors as glowing as the ones used on the Saxon Six and it is a certainty they will leave a vivid impression of the car and the exposition behind them.

WANT TO TRADE HORSES FOR MOTOR.

Sales Manager Robert Stanton of the tractor department of the Union Tool Company, has been offered enough horses as part payment on Ideal farm tractors to start a young horse market. During the last two weeks, he could have had at least twenty horses which had previously been used in pulling farm instruments, had he been willing to accept them as part payment on the tractor. Hardly a day passes that some such offer is not received.

All of which tends to show how the horse is being replaced on orchard and ranch by motor power. The tractor is good for such a variety of uses. It will not only plow the ground, but after the crop is there the same tractor will pull the harvester. There is an attachment which will operate any belt-driven instrument or machine about the farm that can be driven by gasoline motor.

During the next two months Ideal Tractors will be sent to every section of California and Arizona where a tractor could be used and actual demonstrations will be made. The ranchers will be invited to see the tractor perform its wonders.

TRUCKING NUTS.

Motor trucks in use by the walnut growers are of great value in moving their crops. J. B. Reyonlds, who is engaged in the transportation business, has rented the services of his truck to a grower near Whittier, and says he is making greater returns as the result than he ever did.

Reynolds has a three-ton Mack truck, and hauls the walnuts from the groves to the drying sheds, and warehouses. It is necessary for his truck to go in under the trees, where the ground is soft. On two different occasions the wheels have sunk to the hubs, but the power always has been sufficient to pull out without the use of planks or anything else.

"BEAUTY"

That's the word they all use when they see these new model Chevrolets—whether standing on the show floor—whether out on the boulevards or whether covering mountainous or desert roads at break-neck speed—the comment is always the same—

"She sure is a beauty!"

The car is not alone built to look nice, but quality is built into every part of it so that it will stand up and go when most cars would give way and fail under the strain. Durant's pet hobby, the quiet valve-in-the-head motor furnishes tremendous power with economy. See this car at the show—ride in it—drive it and you'll realize why 3000 have been sold here in so short a time.

Seven Passenger Forty Horse Power FOUR $885

What's the DIFFERENCE?
Many a man who wanted to buy a car has said that to himself as he looked over the 1916 market. What IS the difference? Why does this car cost more than that? What extra POWER or quality or comforts do you get? You must have wondered it yourself, and—

-this is the Studebaker DIFFERENCE in QUALITY

It is the ONLY car ever offered in America or Europe that has decreased its price and at the same time so GREATLY INCREASED its quality.

You know how prices have been reduced in many cases. In this Forty Horse Power Studebaker FOUR, nothing has been reduced but the price. That has been decreased from $985 to $885.

But it has been INCREASED in wheelbase from 108 to 112 inches. It has been INCREASED in capacity from Five to SEVEN passengers. It has been INCREASED in motor from 3¼ x 5 to 3⅞-inch bore x 5 inch stroke. It has been INCREASED in tires from 33 x 4 to 34 x 4 Goodrich.

The upholstery is the finest grade of genuine, hand-buffed, straight-grain, semi-glazed leather on the market. The body-finishing operations have been INCREASED from 20 to 25 in number. The steering-knuckle is forged of chrome-vanadium steel, and high-grade alloy steels have been lavishly used throughout the car. The motor bearings have been made oversize. The radiator, gas passages, propeller shaft, rear axle housing have been increased in size.

Wherever a change in materials was made BETTER materials were used.

And for performance, for long-time service, for economy of operation and for durability with a high re-sale value, this Forty Horse Power Studebaker stands alone in a class of its own. See the car today—judge its DIFFERENCE in quality for yourself.

Hupmobile high tide

—answering in every detail the exacting demands of the modern discriminating motor owner—the 1916 car is reaching the high tide of Hupmobile achievements.

—here in our territory—Southern California and Arizona—as throughout the entire country, Hupmobile converts have actually tripled.

—since June 1, 1915, the factory books have carried never less than 2000 orders at one time—distributors from coast to coast have made personal missions to Hupmobile headquarters—and despite their bags of gold they have had to wait for cars.

—many manufacturers have been delayed, it is true—as has the Hupmobile—but over and above all other reasons—the rising wave of Hupmobile popularity everywhere would have thrown the sales force into a deluge.

—such a repetition year after year is no mere "big year"—the history of the Hupmobile from the first little "20" has been that of the 1916 car.

—the Hupmobile has never aimed to produce the most cars in the world—but the best.

—it has never aimed to compete in price with so-called cheap cars—but rather offered quality in abundance with fair and corresponding economy.

—the motor in the latest model, with all the versatility and responsiveness of its predecessors, shows 20 per cent more power—and yet this bigger, finer Hupmobile—without a bit of added weight—is as economical as its earlier models.

—and so we could enumerate the comfort — speed — finish — room and a dozen other answers for Hupmobile consistency—but none would give us more pleasure—and you more lasting and ultimate proof than a leisurely spin in this elegant machine.

BIG PLANT TO HANDLE COAST.

CHEVROLET PLANS OUTPUT OF OAKLAND BRANCH FOR LOCAL FIELD.

Of importance to the automobile industry of this city is the announcement of the organization of the Chevrolet Motor Company of Delaware, which includes in its plans a proposed factory on the Coast and an assembling plant which will mean a big advantage in the distribution of the car in this field.

According to advices recently received by R. C. Durant, local manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company and son of W. C. Durant, the builder of the car, the recent re-organization of the Chevrolet Motor Company, when the capital stock of of this company was increased from $2,000,000 to $20,000,000, has for its purpose the manufacture and world-wide distribution of the Chevrolet cars, with plants at Flint, Mich.; at New York City, at Tarrytown, N. Y., Toronto, Can.; St. Louis, Mo., and at Oakland, Cal., and at other distributing points which will without doubt include one in the local field.

According to Durant, it has been decided that the main manufacturing plants, which will supply the several assembling plants the more important items, such as motors, axles, and other parts, will be located at Flint. The Canadian plant is already in operation and work on the Oakland plant will be started immediately.

At St. Louis a contract has been closed with the Banner Buggy Company for the organization of the Chevrolet Motor Company of St. Louis. This company, controlled by the Delaware corporation, the parent company, both as to production and sales, will assemble all cars needed for that territory. The local assembling plant at Oakland will for the present be the distributing point for the western trade and the Philippine Islands.

A complete exhibit of all of the Chevrolet models is on display at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show, where there is also to be seen a polished chassis and a sectional motor which attracted a great deal of attention when shown in the East.

If the tourist is headed west, after visiting Glacier National Park, he may take the road through Bonner's Ferry and Sandpoint into Spokane. This is a fair road, as a whole. There are numerous side trips all along the trail, especially after reaching the mountain regions.

Springfield, Mo., has passed an ordinance providing a fine of from $1 to $100, or jail sentence from five to sixty days, or both, for using glaring headlights.

UPHOLSTERY HAS UNDERGONE CHANGE

It is interesting to note the change in the style of upholstery of motor cars which has been made during the last year. Formerly all uphostering was tufted in squares or diamonds and it was believed by this method only could the padding and springs be securely held.

The old style of upholstery has given way to a great extent to what is known as the "straight pipe" type by which the leather is sewed up and down at regular intervals but not across. One of the leading high priced makes to adopt this style was the Marmon which has been using it on all cars turned out for several months. The advantage of this type of uphostering is that it provides a neater finish, softer upholstering and more secure binding of the hair.

Tense Feeling.

FRENCH BOYCOTT GERMAN GOODS.

WILL HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH TEUTON PRODUCTS.

Intense Loyalty has been Developed by the War for Home-made Goods or Those from Neutral Countries, and Tradesmen Won't Sell German Goods in Stock.

[Paris Correspondence of St. Louis Globe Democrat:] There is a war going on throughout the length and breadth of France just as seriously conducted as that in the trenches and which, if carried to a successful issue, will be of hardly less importance upon the country's future—and that is the commercial war against German products with which up to the present France, like every other country, our own included, has been flooded. For they were omnipresent, these products before the war, extending over every branch of trade, with the one supreme merit that they were the cheapest on the market. At the druggist's, at the grocer's, at the hardware shops, in the large department stores—everywhere we bought German goods without, in most cases, being aware of their origin than was Mr. Joerdain of the "Burgeois Gentil Homme," conscious that he spoke prose in the ordinary events of life.

Had one a headache—what better than asperin to relieve it? Did we want a hair tonic, Hahn's was the best. Did we want soup without the bother of making it, what more satisfactory for the housekeeper than the bouillon "Kub"? Was it a question of embroidering baby's frocks, it was always with D. M. C. it was done. Even the lily of the valley sold in Paris the 1st of May, that eminently picturesque French custom, came from plants grown near Hamburg, while French pupils marked their lessons and prepared their tasks with pencils of German origin. Worst of all, "Little Jesus"—the French "Santa Claus"—when he came down the chimney each year on Christmas Eve to fill the little children's shoes, was invariably loaded with toys bearing somewhere in their mechanism the tell-tale mark, "Made in Germany," and I, myself, have never handled a toy in France which did not owe its origin to the country beyond the Rhine. I could go on indefinitely and include in my enumeration almost every branch of industry, fashions excepted, and the results would be the same. German products were always the favorite, because they were, at one and the same time, practical and cheap. As someone truthfully said at the beginning of the war, Germany was conquering France commercially and would have won hands down when the war arrived.

Since the beginning of hostilities, however, the face of things has changed and the French nation, so confiding in time of peace, has become suspicious of every article proposed for its acceptance. First in favor are home products—next those of the allies, above all anything of English make—and finally those of neutral States, including our own country—when ours are not too dear—everything German has been banished, both by consent of tradesmen and of customers, and I know of one instance in which a druggist when asked for a certain article replied that he had it in stock, but that sooner that sell it he would throw it out of the window. I myself, attempting to sharpen a pair of scissors, bought in St. Louis, but bearing the mark, "made in Germany," was informed that I would have to take them elsewhere, as nothing coming directly or indirectly from the enemy's country would be repaired in that shop.

It would be lacking in frankness to state that the situation under the present circumstances is agreeable to the shoppers. It is far from that—for everything which is lacking, is laid on the shoulders of [illegible] "Such and such an article [illegible] told came from Germany [illegible] we haven't it in stock—and [illegible] the general mobilization [illegible] France, will be unable to [illegible] until after the war, and this [illegible] still when you enter a shop [illegible] certain article you [illegible] double in price. For a [illegible] this may be sufficient, but [illegible] tral it is rather vexing. SECOND HALF.

The Huns came back for the second half determined to take the game out of the fire, but wildcats were equal to the emergency. Pomona resorted to long end runs, only to have these broken up for losses. When they found out they could not gain by straight football, the Huns tried the forward pass, but only succeeded in making three gains by this method. Four of these forward passes were intercepted by Arizona men and each time Porter kicked out of danger.

TRICKS FAIL.

The last quarter was slowed up by frequent calls for time out. Neither team could stand the gruelling pace. And after each play, someone would be left stretched out on the ground. Coach Stanton ordered his quarterback to hold back nothing and resort to any play to win the game, but it was no use.

Each time the Huns tried a trick play, some opponent would leap through the line to break it up or would leap into the air to smear any attempt at a forward pass. Neither team could gain ground, and the referee's whistle finally blew with the Huns still struggling vainly to change defeat into victory.

MANUAL AND LONG BEACH PLAY TO SCORELESS TIE.

DESPITE the vain pleadings and rooting of a crowd of 5000 enthusiastic rooters, Manual Arts and Long Beach played a fast, peppy game of football yesterday afternoon on the Manual field to a 0-to-0 score. The curtain-raiser to the real game, a fight between the Manual and Long Beach second squads, also resulted in a 0-to-0 tie.

Long Beach sprang a big surprise when they held the Manual huskies to a tie, and, furthermore, they gave the throng of Manual supporters the scare of their lives when they barely missed putting over a drop kick.

One of the big features of the game was the open and clean playing put up by both teams. Neither team had a man injured so that he had to be removed throughout the contest.

During the first half of the game Manual tried end run after end run, only to meet with a stone-wall opposition. Long Beach's halves and ends tackled well throughout the game, thus holding down the yardage of Manual's fast halves.

How evenly the two teams were matched was shown by the fact that neither team made first down during the first half of the game.

Anderson, captain of the Long Beach squad, played a fast and brainy game at left half for the beach squad. He was responsible for a good mapority of the end runs and also put over three successful forward passes out of seven tries for a total gain of over forty yards. Anderson also tried two drop kicks, one from the 20-yard line, which dropped off to the side, and the last, which was kicked from the 40-yard line in the middle of the field. The last kick went as true as an arrow, but dropped hardly over a foot short of the crossbar.

For Manual Arts Capt. Ramey at right half and the Lamport boys were the stars. In the second half Ramey showed that he was some little player by his line bucking. It was Ramey's playing that gave Manual first down twice at the start of the second half, and the first two of the game at that.

KIDS MAY LEARN TO BE UMPIRES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CINCINNATI (O.) Oct. 23.—The recommendation of Supt. Condon of the public schools of this city that a school for baseball umpires be established in the Second Industrial School, one class for beginners and the other for advanced pupils, to be in charge of William Hart and William Carpenter, former National League umpires, was approved today by the Board of Education.

Six votes were cast for it, and one against it. The negative vote was that of Member Fisk, who took the ground that the subject was foreign to education.

BUILDING ADDITIONS.

The Aston Motor Car Company, distributors for Pullman motor cars, are in receipt of word from the Pullman Motor Car Company, York, Pa., that extensive additions are being made at the factory to meet the fast-growing demand for Pullman cars. When the Pullman company added to their line the lighter model, it increased their business so rapidly that new and more facilities were necessary. Both this country and the expert demand was greatly increased and shipments are going out to many foreign countries.

The Quality Light Car

There is no change in the running of your Oldsmobile going up the steepest grades. Gasoline is supplied to the carburetor unfailingly at all times.

The Stewart Vacuum gasoline system in Oldsmobile 43 insures even running under all conditions. It draws gasoline from the rear tank to a small tank under the hood, where the gasoline falls in an even, positive flow to the carburetor. No gasoline is forced wastefully through the carburetor to cause an over-rich mixture, sluggishness and carbonization.

TIGERS SWAMP THE BAPTISTS.

WITHOUT LENZ, SHIPKE OR PIPAL THEY WIN.

Too Much Class in the Line, Both on Defense and Offense, Tells the Tale—Holmes and Brandstetner are Heroes—Shorty Smith Scores Touchdown from the Kickoff.

What Occidental did to the University of Redlands yesterday was something terrible. The final score was 64 to 0, and it would have been about 100 points more if Occidental had been onside at least part of the time.

RAH FOR HIM.

Stars were so numerous in the Oxy line-up that it is hard to pick them. There were a few, though, who stood above the others. Holmes, the Oxy tackle, was a constellation or two all by himself. This young man followed the ball like he was stuck to it; his interference was wonderful; his off-tackle runs were always successful, and his tackling was beyond description.

Brandstetner was better than usual, which is going some. He ran with the ball a great deal and seldom failed to gain. His tackling and interference were entirely up to his high standard.

Shorty Smith played a speedy game and certainly gave a first-class account of himself. Batz came through with a terrific burst of speed and played the game of his life. His open field running was good, that's all. Sam McClung only played part of the game but he was better than ever during that part. Wieman, Deems and Wells were there all the time and gained considerable glory.

Betts, the second tring quarter, was one of the surprises of the day. This gent burst into full bloom yesterday and proved absolutely that he was O. K., and then some.

The game by quarters; first quarter:

Redlands kicked off and the ball was run bavk twenty yards by Sam McClung.. Batz was tackled ten yards behind the line. Sam failed to gain. Oxy was forced to kick and Redlands returned the punt. Again the Baptists held and received the pill on a kick. Their ends were getting in and busting up the Oxy plays and their men were running good i-n terference. For the first five minutes of play, Redlands played Occidental off its feet.

Then the Tiger backs began to gain. Batz, Brandstetner, Holmes and McClung rushed through the line for from five to ten yards. A march was started down the field and McClung bucked over the line and kicked goal. The score was 7 to 0.

Redlands kicked off to Deems, who rushed in twenty yards; Batz, ten yards; Brandy, seven yards; Deems, fifteen yards; Brandy, seven yards and Sam McClung, twenty-five yards to touchdown. McClung also kicked goal. Score, 14 to 0.

Batz received the next kick. Oxy lost ten yards on a penalty. A couple of unsuccessful passes were tried and Oxy booted. Holmes broke through the line and nailed a man for a ten-yard loss.

SECOND QUARTER.

Redlands completed a ten-yard pass, but was soon forced to kick. Oxy began another march down the field; Holmes, fifteen; Brandy, ten; Batz, four; Deems, six; McClung to Brandstetner, ten yards. Then there was an exchange of punts and the progress was continued. Smith went in for McClung. Deems, ten; Holmes, five; Smith, five; Brandy, five, Smith over for touchdown. Wieman kicked goal. Score, 21 to 0.

Occidental kicked off and Redlands attempted a forward pass. Betts intercepted this and ran fifty yards for a touchdown. Deems made the score possible by spilling the last man fifteen yards from the line. Wieman kicked goal. Score, 28 to 0.

Redlands kicked off and there was an exchange of kicks. The last Redlands punt was blocked and Deems fell on the ball. It was carried to the 1-yard line and the half was called.

SECOND HALF.

Shorty Smith received the kick and ran eighty yards through the whole Redlands team for a score. No kick was allowed because the ball was thrown out. Occidental, 34; Redlands, 0.

Warren went in at center, and Wieman was shifted to the back field. Brandy, Smith and Batz propelled the pill down the field, and Smith went over for the score. Wieman kicked goal. 41 to 0.

The Baptists' line held and Oxy was forced to punt. The university was unable, however, to gain an inch and returned the favor. Batz, Brandy and Holmes did the necessary work, and Wieman kicked goal. 48 to 0.

FOURTH QUARTER.

McClung re-entered the game. The ball went to Redlands and they were forced to kick. Oxy got the ball on its own 20-yard line. Batz went over. No goal; 54 to 0.

Redlands kicked to Batz, who ran eighty yards for a touchdown. The ball was called back, however, on account of holding in the line. But Brandy soon grabbed the ball and ran fifty yards with successful results; 61 to 0.

At this point in the proceedings Thomas and Sage were sent into the melee. Shorty Wells took left end. The ball rambled down the lot and Sam booted a nifty drop kick which was valued at three points. Score, 64 to 0.

This ended the scoring. A few incomplete passes were pulled off and McClung missed a drop kick. This ended the game.

The line-up follows:

Gillette	L.E.	Daniels, Wells
Rentschke	L.T.	Deems

SYRACUSE WINS FROM BROWN.

CHICAGO FIGHTS HARD GAME WITH PURDUE'S TOUGH DEFENSE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. — Perdue's great defense centered about Capt. Blöcker, nearly upset traditions today, but Capt. Russell's fifty-yard run on the kick off in the third period turned the scale and Chicago won 7o to 0, after a bitter battle. If the Perdue's defense was a marvel, its attack, however, was slow and except for Pult's outpunting Russell by many yards, the Maroons showed much the better offensive.

RUSSELL SCORES FROM KICK-OFF.

WILKINSON INTERCEPTS PASS AND PUTS BALL NEAR GOAL POSTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PROVIDENCE (R.I.) Oct. 23.—University of Syracuse scored a 6 to 0 victory over Brown today. The only score of the game resulted from Wilkinson's stop of a Brown forward pass in the second period. The Syracuse halfback caught the ball on his own 40-yard line and ran to Brown's 22-yard line before he was downed. After his teammates had made seven charges into the Brown line, he carried the ball over for a touchdown.

SAN DIEGO BEATS HUN FRESHMEN.

TEAMWORK WINS GAME FOR SOUTHERN TEAM; "SPUD" MORRISON SHINES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 23.—The San Diego High School team beat the Pomona College freshmen today on the gridiron at the Stadium by a score of 14 to 0. Although the Pomona team was heavier than the local team, the splendid San Diego teamwork won the game. "Spud" Morrison, quarterback for Pomona, formerly of Santa Ana, played a splendid game and several times kept the San Diego boys from making a touchdown by his tackling. Mueller, Howard, Thorpe, Shaw, Frick and Salyers of the San Diego team did excellent work.

The local team scored seven in the second quarter and again seven in the third quarter of the game.

POMONA PLAYERS WIN FIRST GAME.

BAKER, A NEGRO, PROVES TO BE A WONDERFUL BACK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 23.—Pomona High School, which looks good for the football championship of the Citrus Belt League, opened the regular game here today, defeating the San Bernardino High School by a score of 37 to O. Baker, the phenomenal colored half-back of the Pomona team, scored most of the touchdowns for his team and was given good support during the inception of most of his runs, the line opening up holes in the San Bernardino defense for Baker to plunge through.

Notwithstanding the score the game was hard fought and gave the fans some good football, the teams being evenly matched barring Baker.

AGGIES OUTPLAY THE WOLVERINES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Oct. 23.—The Michigan Agricultural College by outplaying the University of Michigan defeated the Woolverines 2 4to 0 today. The poor physical condition of the Michigan players was shown in the large number of men injured.

MINNESOTA SCORES MUCH ON IOWA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 23.—Presenting a brilliant attack the University of Minnesota football eleven defeated the University of Iowa team here today, 51 to 13. The Iowans' points came in the second half, the second touchdown being scored after a number of second string men had entered the Minnesota line-up.

A SINGLE POINT BRINGS VICTORY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Oct. 23.—Nebraska triumphed over Notre Dame today by a score of 20 to 19 and the narrow margin of a single point, according to critics who saw the game, represents the superiority of the winning team.

FULL STOCKS of

Firestone

Non-Skid and Smooth Tread TIRES

at All Distributing Depots

Firestone Tire users created an over demand. For months the Firestone factory, largest exclusive tire plant in the world, has been way behind on orders.

We work a double shift of specialists, but we will not hurry the work. As much as we dislike to disappoint you on deliveries, it was out of the question to build more than we have built—and build them up to the Firestone standard.

We could have slighted workmanship but would not. We could have relaxed our inspection but would not. We could have shortened the period of aging and turned out "green tires" but would not.

And that policy is the very reason why we were oversold for so long in spite of our tremendous output. It is the very reason why thousands of motorists have waited weeks for Firestones, risking trouble with old tires and tubes rather than equip beyond imperative need with any other kind.

To these good loyal friends—to all who have been patient with us—we express our sincere thanks and deep appreciation. And to this thanks we add this promise—a full stock of Firestone Tires and Tubes in all sizes and styles—will be found at all our distributing points now.

We have never stopped adding to our enormous plant. The large wings, adding acres of floor space, that were constructed last year are now swelling our output with their efficient productiveness. This has enabled us to catch up to demand. And as "most miles per dollar" wins more and more converts to the host of Firestone users there will be more factory additions in readiness to answer the demand.

Never before has the car owning public been so positive and so unanimous in its verdict. Never before has the tire industry been made to feel so keenly the intelligent discrimination car owners have gained in tire selection. Firestone quality is irresistible.

Call on your dealer. He now has the Firestones you want, or can get them without delay.

RAIN IN KANSAS IS NOT PICNIC.

Touring through Kansas in the rainy season is no joke, declares President W. E. Burke of the Master Carburetor Company, who arrived in Los Angeles last week from Detroit after a trip of 3433 miles in his Chandler light six. Mr. Burke, who plans to make his headquarters on the Pacific Coast, left the factory of the Master in Detroit at the same time Secretary Ransford of the company started for Los Angeles by train.

The Chandler in which the trip was made had previously been driven over 10,000 miles. It is Master equipped, and has performed some startling economy "stunts," but the cross-country trip was one of the best of these, for the car averaged more than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline.

GASIFIED RAH RAHS IN LIMELIGHT AT OXY.

THE OCCIDENTAL COLLEGE AUTOMOBILE CLUB, the first organization of its kind on the Pacific Coast, was organized yesterday.

W. W. Fowler was elected president, Carl Brandstetner, vice-president, Garald Hills, secretary, and P. Kirkpatrick, treasurer. The officers, together with Messrs. Hibbard and MacIntosh and Prof. Chandler, compose the board of directors.

The object of the Oxy gasoline fraternity is to boost good roads in the vicinity of the college and on the college campus, to regulate traffic on the campus, promote tours and runs among members, transport to and from college and entertain all distinguished visitors, promote and manage all college parades, transport the varsity teams to and from all games played in Southern California, encourage the study of motor-car operation and have general supervision over all college activities in which the automobile plays a part.

After the traffic rules of the campus have been drafted and adopted, the board of directors will appoint a speed cop from among the corps of motorcyclists at the college and this campus speed cop will have authority to make arrests for violations of the traffic laws of the club any place on the campus.

LONG TOUR IS TEST FOR CARS.

FIRST PAIGE "6-36" DRIVEN TO COAST OVER ROUGH, MUDDY ROUTE.

Thirty-eight hundred miles over the worst roads in the Southwest was the record of the first Paige "6-36" to be delivered in Fairmont, Minn. Charles Watts, who accepted delivery on the first of these popular cars to be brought to the Minnesota town, accompanied by his wife and son, left immediately for the Pacific Coast by way of Des Moines, Kansas City, and through Oklahoma and Texas to El Paso, thence to Albuquerque, Phoenix, Yuma and San Diego to Los Angeles.

Poor roads were encountered almost from the start. In Oklahoma and Northern Texas continual rains hampered the progress of the Paige tourists. For four days they drove in rain, with the mud up to the hubs.

Announcing the Arrival OF THE NEW
JACKSON
Four and Eight
Cylinder Models

These new Jacksons are the best Jacksons ever built. We say this, fully aware that some of our loyal customers who have driven Jackson cars for years may differ with us. But we know that not one iota of quality or strength has been sacrificed. And yet the new 1916 Jacksons have remarkable power, extreme flexibility and a beauty of line and finish all their own.

The Eight Only one word expresses what we think of this new eight—it's a dream. Ideal for the man who wants a light car, but at the same time wants an eight. It has the long stroke, high-duty motor which develops tremendous power. A large, roomy, five-passenger body with style, finish and luxury. And the price is moderate.

The Four When you have ridden behind this four-cylinder motor you will realize the marvelous development that has been made in the four-cylinder motor. Here is a four that will run fifty-five miles an hour without vibration. It has the same wonderful riding qualities that have made Jacksons famous. There is no better four made than this Jackson.

The Hit of the Automobile Show

If you didn't see the Beardsley Electric exhibit at the Auto Show last night you will certainly want to make it a point to do so.

Here is a home product built right here in Los Angeles with Los Angeles capital, by Los Angeles men—a home product that last night opened the eyes of thousands of admirers and that has been widely commented on as "The Hit of the Show."

The real sensation is the clever new Town car at $1185. This is the first practical electric vehicle to be manufactured in this country to sell at so low a price. It is entirely new and original in design, very beautifully upholstered and trimmed and has a battery capacity of 75 miles per charge.

Another new model is a handsome roomy coupe at $2250—a car that possesses all the luxurious elegance and refinement of the higher priced cars and the same marvelous degree of efficiency, which has established such a conspicuous reputation for the Beardsley Electric.

You will particularly want to see the new Beardsley brougham at $3000, a masterpiece in electric vehicle construction—the highest type of electric vehicle produced anywhere regardless of price.

JUMP FEET FIRST ON BAN.

Federal Head Makes Verbal Attack on Johnson.

Remark Relative to Ward's Death Cause.

Gilmore to Strike Back in the Future.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A problem that American League owners must solve is the way Ban Johnson, president of the American League, was referred to today in a statement issued by James Gilmore, president of the Federal organization. The attack on Johnson is the outcome of a statement credited to him, in which he blamed the Federal League for the untimely death of Robert B. Ward, millionaire baker and president of the Brooklyn club at the time of his death.

The statement said to have been made by Johnson was contained in a Chicago dispatch and is considered by Gilmore an insult to the Ward family, and the climax of a series of slurs and insults to the Federal League. The part of the Johnson statement which aroused the ire of "Fighting Jim" was as follows:

THE STATEMENT.

"I think it was the Federal League that put him under the sod, as he could not stand the strain of worries and losses."

In his reply to Johnson, the Federal League executive divulges the fact that Johnson has at various times made an effort to patch up the existing differences between the organized ball forces and the Federal League. Gilmore cites two specific instances when Johnson was unable to appear after he had called the two factions together. One of these meetings was supposed to have taken place at Philadelphia during the recent world series. The statement by the Federal League chief is, in part, as follows:

AH!

"I want Johnson to say if he made the remark when he was in the same condition he was in on April 22, 1915, after I had at the request of his own emissary, Judge Williams of St. Louis, called Messrs. Ward and Robertson from the East to Chicago, a distance of over 1000 miles, to meet Johnson with me and discuss ways and means of adjusting our difference, but he could not appear.

"I also want to ask if at the time he delivered this insult he was in the same condition he was in on October 9, 1915, at Philadelphia, when he attempted to talk to certain Federal League owners. If he was, I can easily understand the remark.

"Whether he was or not, I have this to say: Ban Johnson is a problem the American League owners have to solve. What he says or thinks about baseball does not interest me. He has been thinking and talking in his own peculiar way for two years, and I have been silent because business men pay no attention to remarks of other men unless they are in full possession of all their faculties, but he cannot now nor in the future direct such remarks at men connected with the Federal League without hearing from us."

Gilmore's statement was read to Johnson tonight, but the American League executive said that he would not make any reply. It is very probable, however, that the incident will widen the breach between organized ball and the Federal League and wipe out whatever chance there may have been for an amicable adjustment of the baseball war.

SIERRA MADRE AFTER TROPHY.

BILLIARDISTS CHALLENGE THE L.A.A.C. HOLDERS OF CUP.

Representing the board of control handling the inter-club billiard trophy contest, Mr. F. R. Seltshams, president of the Los Angeles Desk Company, announces that the Sierra Madre Club has challenged the Los Angeles Athletic Club, the present holder of the trophy. The silver cup to be contended for is one of the finest ever designed for the purpose. The contest is to be staged the nights of November 15 and 16, at the clubrooms of the contending teams. All members of the clubs interested may secure cards for attendance contests. The winner of the will be challenged by the Club.

Unquestionably the thing be admired about many of the offerings is that while introducing entirely new features of design marketed at lower prices than predecessors. This is true of eights and twelves.

MONROVIA HAS TOO MANY GUNS.

COVINA HIGH BEATEN BY THE GOOD INTERFERENCE OF WINNERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Oct. 23.—In a scrappy, snappy game on Monrovia field this morning the Monrovia High huskies trimmed Covina High to the tune of 28 to 7. Covina scored at the beginning of the fourth 15-minute quarter on straight-line bucks, being unable to make sufficient ground by her forward passes, though the plays, with one or two exceptions were well handled.

The failures proved costly, however, as in one case where "Mert" Monroe, the Monrovia fullback intercepted a Covina pass and ran through their team for a touchdown. Three other touchdowns were made by line bucks and well-protected end runs, the Monrovia interference being the big feature of the team's work.

The game, being the first exhibition of American football since the adoption of rugby through the South several years ago, drew a record crowd.

Monrovia plays Citrus Union next Tuesday.

Motorized Romance.

BUILDS BUSINESS WITH TRUCK AND LITTLE AID

THE story of the business development of Amos R. Brooks appears as a modern romance in which the motor truck's advantageous adaptation was the means to success.

Some men have discovered mineral wealth and others have been inventors, but Brooks, according to J. A. Stoner, manager of the Mack Motor Truck Company, is of the type who have not been originators, but through keen insight into the possibilities of the future have carved their niche nevertheless.

A little more than one year ago Brooks owned a single one-ton Mack truck. He was engaged in the local transfer business. He was in debt, and, for the time being, did not know but what he would have to dispose of his truck—his means of livelihood—in order to pay his bills. Then it was he conceived an idea, and, after a conference with Mr. Stoner, obtained the backing of the dealer, who made it possible for him to acquire two more Mack trucks instead of parting with the one he owned.

THE BIG IDEA.

Brooks's plan was hauling milk from the ranchers' houses to the distributors. He consulted with distributors and received no encouragement, but determined to investigate for himself. He drove his truck through the milk-producing districts for a week making inquiries. At Norwalk, he learned there would be enough milk to haul to keep his truck busy, but was told that others had tried it and failed.

Strenuous solicitation obtained orders to haul twenty-eight

GAME APIECE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

TEAM FROM CLEVELAND GETS SECOND CONTEST OF THE SERIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—Eight runs on eight hits in the seventh inning off two pitchers won the second game of the world's amateur baseball series today for the White Autos of Cleveland from the South Tacoma (Wash.) Tigers. The score was 8-0.

Only one hit sullied the record of Pitcher Davis of Tacoma and no scores until the fatal seventh, when he was forced from the box with seven more hits and five runs to his discredit. Dahl took his place, but failed to stem the fury of the Cleveland batters, who scored three more runs before the inning was over.

Cole, left field for Cleveland, ended the rally in the seventh with a three-bagger off Dahl which emptied the full bases.

Tacoma's seven errors were made at inopportune times.

The series of three games is even up with the final game to be played at Oakland tomorrow.

FORWARD PASS HUMBLES YALE.

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON AGAIN WINNERS.

Complete Twenty-two Out of Twenty-four Passes in Game Against Old Eli—Old-time Football Unable to Penetrate Line. Bulldogs Show Only in Flashes.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Oct. 23.—Washington and Jefferson's splendid eleven used the forward pass with uncanny precision today and humbled Yale 16 to 7 in a spectacular contest. It was the second successive year that the team from the little Pennsylvania college registered a defeat over the Blue.

When the visitors used old-fashioned line plays they found the Yale line a stonewall; but when they elected the aerial attack the Blue defense crumbled. The assault was so varied that Yale was completely bewildered. The pass was always thrown in a machine-like manner; there was nothing haphazard about the play. This is strongly shown in the analysis of the game, the victors completing twenty-two out of twenty-four attempted passes.

Yale made its touchdowns in the last few minutes of play, when Scovil recovered a fumbled ball on the visitors' end line and raced over the line.

COLORADO COLLEGE BEATS UNIVERSITY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOULDER (Colo.) Oct. 23.—Colorado College defeated the University of Colorado football eleven here this afternoon, 44 to 0. Two fumbles early in the first perid by Evans were responsible for the first scores by the College. The University presented a better front in the second half and held the college to ten points.

That is becoming the habit of an increasing number of business men who realize that horse-haulage represents a loss of efficiency, a constriction of business and an absolute waste of money.

Our advice is impartial—we have too much at stake to sell you a truck unless you can use it profitably. And for the same reason we are deeply interested in seeing that you use it properly, so as to get the most out of it.

GILL ONE PIECE PISTON RINGS

No smoking
No loss of compression
No leakage or pumping of oil
No excessive carbon
No gasoline waste

GUARANTEED COMPRESSION TIGHT

The one piece, concentric, sturdy Gill piston ring is the absolute solution of the piston ring problem. Two tightly fitting joints so shaped as to fit above, below and both sides of joint of the ring, machined to microscopical accuracy, make the Gill ring absolutely proof against loss of compression and the other common troubles given above.

The concentric construction of the Gill ring gives it absolutely uniform pressure on the cylinder walls at all points, because the double joints eliminate all possibility of unequal radial pressure.

Gill rings are made from special gray iron and can never lose their flexibility. They will give greater satisfaction than any other piston ring made. Easier to carry in stock and easier to install than multiple piece rings.

REO 1500 POUND TRUCK

$1200 Here

WOULD YOU BUY A TOURING CAR COSTING OVER $500 THAT WAS NOT EQUIPPED WITH AN ELECTRIC STARTER?

Of course not.

Then, if you are interested in trucks, remember that a light delivery truck needs a starter ten times as much as a touring car, because it must make ten times as many stops in a day's work.

Consider that the starter saves oil and gas and wear and tear on the motor on every stop, and adds ten to twenty deliveries to a day's work.

An electric starting system is part of the standard equipment of the Reo 1500 pound truck.

MOTOR MAGNETS ARE EXPLAINED.

"Few people realize the importance of having the magnets on a magneto up to their full strength—in fact, the layman knows nothing at all about permanent magnets," said Ray Thomas, president of the Electric Equipment Company.

Permanent magnets are made of a special steel that, when tempered, is very hard and brittle. After the magnets are hardened they are energized, or, in other words, magnetized.

Magnets, like any other commercial article, are made of different grades of steel; some magnets, being of better quality than others, will retain the magnetism longer than others, and magnets that do not hold the magnetism well have to be re-energized more frequently than those of the better quality that do hold the magnetism.

The ordinary magneto has either two, four or six magnets and the magnets must be removed from the body of the magneto in order to remagnetize them.

The magneto in the Ford car is of entirely different construction, being composed of sixteen magnets and sixteen small coils, and can be remagnetized without removing from the car, due to the fact that the Ford engineers realized that the magnets would need remagnetizing occasionally and designed the magneto accordingly.

It is the nature of all permanent magnets to gradually become weaker, and in consequence the spark that ignites the gasoline becomes weaker and the power lessens. One of the best evidences of weak magnets is the fact that the engine will not start readily on the magneto and that the engine does not develop as much power as it should. The charge of gas must be properly ignited if it is to create its full power.

NATIONAL PARK CHAIN ON TOUR.

MONTANA MOTORIST TAKES IN PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS ON TRIP TO PACIFIC.

Motorists who have made complete tours of the National Parks of Wyoming, Montana, Washington, Oregon and California are few and far between. One of the first parties to take this long jaunt to the Rockies, Cascades and Sierras, arrived in Los Angeles last week when H. D. Frazen, with his wife and two sons, drove up to the J. W. Leavitt agency in his 1916 Overland, and told Manager Starr of the long jaunt. Mr. Frazen makes his home in Bozeman, Mont., but declares that after this long trip, he is thinking of changing it to "Overland, en tour."

Mr. Frazen was a member of the first party to enter the Yellowstone, and brings word that Montana and Wyoming motorists hail the opening of this great park as one of the finest achievements of the northern automobile clubs.

From the Yellowstone he drove through the Rockies by way of Butte and Missoula to the Glacier National Park, where a week's camping was enjoyed. From there the trail led across Idaho and Washington to Seattle and up the slopes of Mt. Ranier into the Ranier National Park. Only two days were spent in exploring this beautiful country.

The drive from Ranier to Crater Lake led through Portland and Medford. The Pacific Highway was followed south to Sacramento and San Francisco, and here a stay of a week was made for the exposition. The Overland's radiator then was pointed again toward the mountains. Yosemite being reached via Stockton and the Big Oak Flat road.

NATIONAL REP NATIONAL CAR.

Miss Marie Doro has joined the list of actors and actresses who have become possessors of National cars during this season. Miss Doro is now appearing at a Broadway theater in "The White Pearl," a picture which her admirers declare is a clever example of her ability before the camera. In her spare moments or going back and forth between her home and the studio, she rides in a dark-red six-cylinder National roadster.

It may seem strange, but nevertheless is a fact, that motion-picture folks are clannish about the kind of cars they buy. Let a well-established line get in popular favor and a demand immediately is created for them. The National was chosen early in the year and, according to Manager Reeve Gartzmann of Hawley, King & Co., the distributors, there are now approximately a dozen cars of this make in the hands of the film favorites who are engaged in Los Angeles.

The same condition exists in the East, according to Willard Mack, who has a large National touring car. He told Mr. Gartzmann the National is the most popular car among the theatrical people of New York City. Mr. Mack bought a National several weeks ago as a surprise gift to his accomplished wife, Miss Marjorie Rambeau, the local stage favorite.

FIRESTONE PAYS VISIT TO STATE.

IN LOS ANGELES DURING THE BROADWAY AUTO AND FLOWER SHOW.

President H. S. Firestone of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company was a prominent figure at the Panama-Pacific Exposition during the past week and this week will be in Los Angeles. Mr. Firestone came to the exposition upon the invitation of its officials to participate in the celebration of Edison Day, last Thursday. The third member of the party was President Henry T. Ford, the automobile manufacturer.

According to A. T. Smith, local branch manager for the Firestone company, President Firestone had contemplated a visit to San Francisco and Los Angeles for several months. The press of business at the factory in connection with the completion of the additions and the annual sales conference, which was attended by more than 500 representatives of the company from all parts of the country, he could not get away any sooner.

HELPS GAS MAKE GREATER POWER.

With the recent advance in the price of gasoline the appearance of "Gomor" on the Los Angeles market is timely. Gomor is a high-class lubricant for gas engines. It is poured into gasoline and introduced therewith, through the carburetor, to the vital parts of the motor that are otherwise imperfectly lubricated. It lives through the heat of the explosion, and is sprayed on and maintains a thin film of oil on the cylinder walls, pistons, valves, etc.

Gomor eliminates carbon formation, lessens friction, makes gasoline vaporize quicker, and motor run cooler and perfectly on a comparatively lean mixture. While it is guaranteed to increase mileage, many motorists in the East use it, not so much for the saving on the fuel bill as because of the increase of power and greater flexibility it gives to the motor.

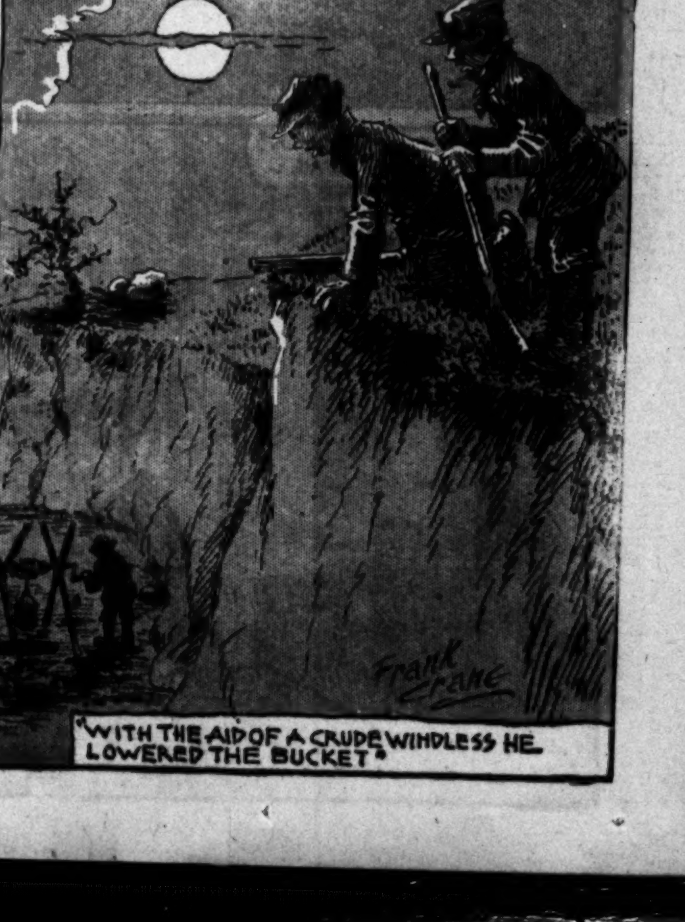
UNCLE DICK'S CONTRAPTIONS FOR BOYS

Most everybody has some sort of a "sign" that is dependable. Some men can foretell a spell of weather by a gouty toe starting to cut up. Another man will get a tip on the same storm by an entirely different process. So it was with Uncle Dick. As he walked toward the woodshed on Friday afternoon his left ear set up a persistent itching, which was a sure indication that somebody was talking about him. As he opened the woodshed door his predictions were verified; the sign had again won out. "We were just talking about you," began Tommy. "We're trying to make another movie. We made one of Squire Blossom running after his hat on a circle two feet across. Now we want Rip chasing a rabbit. If you'll make a small drawing we'll enlarge it by scale the way you showed us last week." "Well, you certainly made a good job of the Squire," said Uncle Dick, as he looked through the slots into the bit of looking glass tacked conveniently on the window frame. "You see it much plainer on the large scale. By the way, Rip chasing a rabbit reminds me of a rabbit hunt that turned out to be very profitable for your father, Uncle Bob, the Wilkins boys and myself. We used to go gunning for rabbits nearly every Saturday during the open season. I'll tell you about our big hunt while I'm making the drawing of Rip. We started off that Saturday morning at daybreak for a hike to Hurley's Mountain. Although it had been a bad season for rabbits, we bagged twenty-two by midafternoon and were thinking of starting for home when each of the dogs started a rabbit. Ted Wilkins and I backed up one of the hounds while the other three boys followed the other. As the rabbits ran in opposite directions, the party was immediately separated. Ted and I stationed ourselves in a couple of runways and waited for Tink, the hound, to bring the game around to us. It must have been a foxy old cottontail, for, instead of running in a circle, he made straight into the woods. Of course, Ted and I followed the dog by keeping within hearing distance of his baying, which sounded at intervals through the woods. I forget whether it was Ted or I that first noticed the fast approaching sunset. We had kept within hailing distance during the long chase and I suppose we both noticed the failing light about the same time. Sunset and darkness come pretty close together in mid-November, and the first thing we knew we were in the middle of a deep woods about fifteen miles from home, with darkness closing in on us. Of course, we weren't brought up in the woods to be scared by an owl. At the same time it wasn't a very nice situation to be placed in. In the enthusiasm of the chase we had wiggled through the under brush, skirted swamps and waded through bogs without noticing where the pursuit was taking us. The setting sun gave us one point of the compass and we quickly figured out our return direction before the light failed. Ted, being two years my senior, now took command of the expedition and we started on our weary hike homeward. We got out of the woods at last and came to a road we recognized. As commander of the party Ted Wilkins now made a decision that took the gloom out of the misadventure. We came to a place where we could gain about four miles by leaving the road and going cross lots. The rising moon decided Ted, so we took the short cut, although we had to skirt along the deserted copper mine. You will remember it as the place to which I tracked the horse thieves. The mine was generally shunned after nightfall, but we had no fear of it. Ted's father had bought the property and we both had explored every foot of it. As we got near the big pit, however, we sort of felt like whistling to keep our courage up. While we were joking about horse thieves and hobgoblins we arrived at the edge of the excavation and looked down. Then we got frightened in earnest! Partly by the light of the full moon and partly by the light of a lantern we saw a man pulling a bucket out of what looked like a well. With the aid of a crude windlass he lowered the bucket and again brought it up filled with earth, which was deposited on a pile in front of the shaft. In an effort to get a better look at the operation I got too near the edge and lost my footing. It was about forty feet to the bottom, the sides being pretty steep, but sandy, so I was more frightened than hurt when I brought up at the bottom, right alongside the man with the bucket. 'What are you prying around here for, you little spy?" he yelled. 'Hey, Joe, come up quick!' The last exclamation he shouted down the well. But I didn't see Joe. I ran up the zigzag path that led to the road. Ted skirted the edge of the pit and met me as I gained the level ground. I guess we made record time for the rest of the distance home. We found the folks were all worked up when we arrived, about two in the morning. The other boys didn't quit looking for us until late and father and Mr. Wilkins were just organizing a searching party, thinking one of us must have been accidentally injured with a gun.

"When we told about my falling down the pit in the copper mine and the men we saw working there, Mr. Wilkins got quite excited and he and father decided to drive over after breakfast and investigate the mystery. But the mystery solved itself the following morning. Two well dressed men called on Mr. Wilkins before the family were through breakfast and pretended they were looking for farm land, and made him an offer for the old mine property. Under ordinary circumstances Mr. Wilkins would have jumped at the price they were willing to pay, but, with our adventure in mind, he wanted time to consider the offer. While they were talking Ted limped into the dining room. "Why, that's the man we saw in the mine last night!" he shouted, as he caught sight of the stranger. Then the story came out, as the men saw there was no use evading the issue. They were mining engineers and had been testing the abandoned workings. They found it would pay to work the mine by a new separating process and wanted to get possession of the property. The upshot of it was they formed a company, with Mr. Wilkins at the head, and he paid us $500 commission for our night's work. Ted and I divided the money with the other boys, so we each got a hundred dollars for the day's hunt." Finishing the drawing along with the story, Uncle Dick turned the sketch over to Tommy. The enlarging process, while easy to understand, requires considerable patience, but the boys voted it worth while when they started Rip on his endless chase after the little cottontail.



"WITH THE AID OF A CRUDE WINDLESS HE LOWERED THE BUCKET."

COMMON SENSE in the HOME

EDITED by MARION HARLAND

CATSUPS AND RELISHES.

PERHAPS there was a time when man's—and woman's—appetite was in its innocency, so to speak, and no relish was needed to give a savor to food. If ever that state of affairs prevailed it has long passed and now the catsup or chili sauce or chutney is an essential article on the well appointed table.

Of course such articles can be bought. Many of them are put up by excellent houses and their purity and merit are guaranteed by the names of the makers. They are not cheap, however, and the cheap varieties do not always carry an assurance of integrity.

Taking this into account, it is beyond dispute that the housekeeper who has a garden at her command or the opportunity for purchasing the kindly fruits of the earth at a reasonable price will do well if she puts up for herself the catsups for her family. She need not undertake all the task at once, but can make a batch at a time and by degrees accumulate a supply that will tide her over the winter. Such relishes are valuable not only as providing a zest for meats, hot or cold, but also as adjuncts in the way of seasoning which will help to convert an insipid stew into a savory ragout with no effort beyond the intelligent addition of such a quantity of the sauce as the taste demands.

The following recipes do not exhaust the entire range of relishes, but serve as representatives of a large and honorable class. I have no doubt that among my constituency there are many who could add to the list, and I shall be happy to receive their contributions and improvements and to make a place for them in our Corner.

TOMATO CATSUP.

Wash and slice a peck of tomatoes, without peeling them; peel and slice five white onions and put them with the tomatoes over the fire in a preserving kettle. Bring to a boil slowly and simmer until the vegetables are so soft they can be rubbed through a colander or put through a vegetable press. When this has been done return the product to the kettle with the seasoning. This consists of a tablespoon each of salt, sugar, ground cloves, mace, black pepper, whole celery seed, the last tied up in a bit of gauze or cheesecloth, and half a teaspoon of paprika.

Let the catsup and the seasoning boil together steadily for six hours, stirring up frequently from the bottom of the kettle and taking pains that the contents do not scorch. As advised before when directions for preserving and pickling were given, it is well to invert a thick china plate in the bottom of the kettle. At the end of the six hours take out the bag of celery seed, turn a pint of vinegar into the catsup and bring again to a boil. Set aside until cold; put into bottles, close with new, firm corks, and seal.

TOMATO PASTE.

Tomato paste is a valuable aid to the housekeeper in preparing tomato sauce during the winter and may be made when tomatoes are plentiful and cheap. The same ingredients are used as in the preceding recipe, with the exception of the vinegar and the addition of two good sized carrots. These are peeled and sliced and put over the fire with the other vegetables. After these have been boiled put through the press, and returned to the fire with the seasoning, they are cooked again until a little of the mixture will be jelly when turned into a saucer. This stage will not be reached until after some hours of cookery. When it is attained the pulp is spread on shallow plates and set in the sun to dry or in an open oven. When it is firm it should be packed in boxes or jars, with waxed paper between the layers.

A small piece will suffice to season soups or stews; a couple of inches melted and added to a butter sauce made by cooking together a tablespoon each of butter and flour until they bubble, stirring into them a cup of boiling hot water until the sauce is smooth and thick, makes an excellent tomato sauce, and this can be used with meats, macaroni, or other vegetables.

CHILI SAUCE—I.

This also has a tomato foundation, but differs in several respects from tomato catsup.

Peel a dozen large, ripe tomatoes and four good sized white onions, seed two green peppers or one red pepper; chop all the vegetables fine. Put with them one quart of vinegar, four tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of salt, one teaspoon of ground ginger, and two teaspoons each of ground cloves, allspice, and cinnamon. Set over the fire in a preserving kettle and cook steadily for two hours after the boil is reached. Let it cool before putting it into bottles; then cork and seal as directed for tomato catsup.

CHILI SAUCE II.

For this two dozen ripe tomatoes, eight onions, and four green peppers are required. Peel the tomatoes and onions, seed the peppers, and chop all together. Set them to one side while you mix three-quarters of a cup of brown sugar, four tablespoons of salt, four teaspoons each of ground cloves, cinnamon, and allspice, one teaspoon of ground ginger, and a saltspoon of paprika. These must be added to two quarts of vinegar, the vegetables put in, all brought to a boil, and then cooked steadily for two hours and a half. It is cooled, bottled, and sealed as usual.

CUCUMBER CATSUP.

Large cucumbers are required for this. They must be peeled, seeded, grated, and measured, and to each quart of the pulp thus prepared are allowed one peeled and grated onion, two green peppers seeded and chopped, half a cup of grated horseradish, two teaspoons of salt, and a scant saltspoon of cayenne. All are mixed well together, a pint of vinegar added to them, and the product bottled and sealed.

MUSHROOM CATSUP.

The mushrooms must be picked over carefully to make sure that there are no worms or insects in them. Break each large mushroom into quarters. Arrange them in layers in a large crock, sprinkling each layer with salt. Cover the crock, stand it in the cellar or other cool place, and leave it there for three days. Stir the contents up from the bottom three or four times a day. When the three days are up put the mushrooms into a preserving kettle, set them over a low fire or a small flame, and let them heat slowly. When cooking with gas it is well to stand the kettle on an asbestos mat over the flame. Simmer until the juice flows freely, strain off through a colander, pressing the mushrooms to extract all the liquor from them. Return the liquor to the fire, bring it to the boil, cook fifteen minutes, take it off again, and measure. Allow to each quart of the liquid a bay leaf two blades of mace, a minute piece of garlic, a piece of the same size of green ginger root, a tablespoon each of whole black peppers and allspice, and a half saltspoon of cayenne. Once more set the liquor over the fire, this time with the spices and other seasoning, and cook slowly down to half the quantity first put on. When cool it is to be strained, bottled, and sealed.

The dwellers in the country often have quantities of delicious mushrooms at their command at this season, and if good judges of the edible varieties may easily make sufficient well flavored mushroom catsup to serve as a valuable condiment for the rest of the year. Even in the cities mushrooms can frequently be purchased for a small sum.

GRAPE CATSUP.

Wash tart grapes and remove them from the stem. Put them in the kettle over the fire with an inverted plate in the bottom of the pot and just enough water to save the fruit from scorch. Stir them often with a wooden spoon and cook slowly until the grapes are tender and broken. Take from the fire and put through a colander or a press, a small quantity at a time. Only the pulp should go through, leaving skins and seeds behind. Measure this pulp and to three pints of this allow a cup of good vinegar, a pound of white sugar, two full teaspoons each of salt, white pepper, ground mace, cinnamon and allspice, and a half teaspoon of ground cloves. Put pulp and other ingredients on the stove together and cook long and slowly. The quantity should be reduced about one-half before it is skimmed, taken from the fire, and set aside to cool. Bottle and seal when cold.

CHUTNEY.

Take the outer leaves from a white cabbage, chop it fine with eight [illegible] onions and pack these in a crock with alternate layers of salt. Let it stand for twenty-four hours. Measure a pint of vinegar and add to it half a pound of brown sugar and a heaping teaspoon each of celery seed, turmeric, ground cinnamon, allspice, mace, mustard, and [illegible] pepper. Heat to boiling, pour over the salted celery and onions and leave for another twenty-four hours. Drain off the liquid, bring it again to the boil, pour it back on the pickle, and repeat the process for three days. After the last day put the contents of the jar together in a kettle and boil [illegible] minutes. Let the chutney become [illegible] before packing into jars and [illegible]

APPLE CHUTNEY.

Mix with six large apples, which have been peeled, cored, and chopped, a [illegible] spoon of ground ginger, two [illegible] of brown sugar, a pinch of [illegible] small onion, a clove of garlic, [illegible] half a pint of vinegar. Boil [illegible] cool and bottle or put in jars.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

Lonely and Sick.

“A NUMBER of years ago I wrote to the Corner and received sweet letters of cheer and made many friends who have kept up the sweet white winged messages which have meant so much to my shut-in life of pain. Today the impulse seized me to write again, for my heart is sad and I am the same tortured, suffering girl. It is twenty-one years now since I became an invalid and I am especially depressed at this time because there has been a hope held out to me in an operation, for which I have not the necessary funds. I have already been operated upon three times, and no benefit has been derived. What I come to you today for is letters to cheer my poor aching heart and help me to forget, if possible, my life of pain. My mail is all I have to look forward to with any pleasure, so I hope a good result will crown my efforts today. My hands are shaky and my body racked with pain while I try to write this. I am lonely, for out of ten children just I myself am left alone on the little farm with my aged and feeble parents. I am 38 years old and have been an invalid since I was 15. I am sending this with a hope and prayer in my heart that I may get a beam of sunshine from my friends. A. P.”

I do not know my Cornerites if I am mistaken in thinking that this letter will call forth a flood of requests for the writer's name and address. I recall the letters I had from her years ago. When one thinks of the blighted life of a girl who from 15 to 38 is a suffering invalid, with no apparent hope of cure, it seems little enough for those of us who are well and strong to do our part in bringing cheer to the shut-in and crushed life. I hardly dare hope that financial aid which would make possible the operation to which she refers may be procured for her, but I do not question that her days will be brightened by friendly messages and that there will be a response which will make the mail time—the only thing she has to look forward to—a landmark of hope and pleasure in her lonely life. I shall have great happiness in supplying her address to those who wish to get into communication with her for any purpose of help or comfort.

Little Girl Wants Skates.

“Will you please send me the address of Maisie, who wishes castor oil beans? I have some to give away. The Corner is of so much good to me that I don't know how I could get along without it. Do you think you could ask for a pair of ball bearing roller skates for my little girl? She is 13 years old and, as all the girls around here have such skates, she keeps asking me to get her a pair, something, I am sorry to say, I cannot afford to do.

“MRS. C. E. D.”

Maisie has already been supplied with the castor oil beans, but perhaps some one else may wish to avail herself of this offer. I hope there may be somewhere a pair of ball bearing skates of which the owner has wearied which can be sent to the little girl. When all the other girls have them it is a hard thing for the one who is without them. I will send the address on application.

Making Cheese from Buttermilk.

“Please advise B. C. B. in making cottage cheese from buttermilk or sour milk always to use fresh sour milk—that is, do not allow the milk to become old and sour. Put the milk in a crock or other vessel, set this in warm water, or, if you use a stove or range, put it on the back of the stove. Keep it warm long enough to separate the milk and water, but do not allow it to become too hot or it will produce a hard curd when permitted to scald. The curd should be soft. Allow the milk to cool and strain it through a cloth or a flour sack. When cold mix well and season with salt and pepper. You can add cream also. This cheese is healthful and appetizing and sells well in the cities. I would suggest to B. C. B. to try selling buttermilk for 5 cents a quart measure. Many people like it to drink and it is nice to use in mixing pancakes and brown bread. L. M. D.”

This recipe is worth having and I print it here for the sake of those who may not have seen the earlier directions for making cheese from buttermilk or loppered milk.

Anxious to Finish Musical Studies.

“Is there some music lover with sufficient benevolence and means possibly to become interested in a 16 year old girl who is anxious to finish her musical education? She is ready for college in both literature and music, having graduated in June from high school. She aspires to be a music teacher and is giving lessons to three beginners. She is eager to enter some college and specialize in music, but there is no possible opportunity to do so, as the price for tuition is not available. Even after school begins she cannot keep her little pupils, for it is too far for the children to go to school from lessons. If she could only go to college until Christmas I believe she would be benefited and the experience would also be a recommendation for her.

“MRS. E. C. C.”

It is the mother of the girl who writes this letter and I might hesitate to print so important a request were it not that I recall the many examples of generosity in the gift of musical instruction which have taken place through the Corner. Such wonderful happenings have occurred through our constituency that I print the plea on the chance that a way may be opened to give the teaching longed for. I will give the name of the applicant to any one who desires to offer help.

Calls It a Perfect Salad.

“In the Corner I see a request for ‘perfect salad’ and I send one which I have taken from a little book and changed and improved for my own use. It is pretty and I usually serve it when I have lobster or crab in the chafing dish: Soak an envelop of gelatin in half a cup of cold water for five minutes; add half a cup of mild vinegar, half a teaspoon of pure fruit acid dissolved in two cups of boiling water, half a cup of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, and half a saltspoon of red pepper. Strain and set it aside until it begins to harden a little. Wet a mold in cold water, put in a little of the jelly; on this arrange two cups of celery cut into small pieces; quarter of a can of sweet red peppers, also shredded, and one cucumber, cut up fine. Add jelly between the layers of the vegetables, make the jelly the last layer. Put on the ice until cold and hard, serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing. E. H. R.”

Thank you very much. I have taken the liberty of adapting the printed recipe to your directions and additions and I trust it may prove as satisfactory thus changed as you have found it.

Dyeing China Berries.

“‘A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind.’ I also from time to time have been afflicted with ants over pantry and kitchen. For some time I put groceries in cans and dusted insect powder around them. It worked all right, but looked so unclean. We finally traced the pests to their dens and poured crude carbolic acid in and around them. Presto! No more ants! We also sprinkled it about the fowl houses to keep them hygienic. It is the best thing I know of for mites—in fact, nothing could be much better. Put half or two-thirds of a teacup in a gallon sprinkling pot and pour boiling water on it. While hot, sprinkle the house, roosts, and nest boxes. Care should be taken not to get any of it on the clothing, as it leaves a bad stain, almost indelible. I have been watching the corner for instructions for dyeing china berries black, but if it has been given I have not seen it, and I would like it. MRS. H. E. K.”

Can some one supply the instructions for dyeing the china berries? We are glad of this further remedy for the ant pests.

Useful Hints in Cooking.

“In your answer to L. L.'s queries about canning you say to tighten the jars when they are perfectly cold. To me that means you are only breaking the seal. When I commenced housekeeping thirty years ago I tightened my jars as much as I could and the next morning I had my husband give them another turn. The result was the contents all spoiled. It was explained to me that I should fill my jars to overflowing with the boiling fruit, tighten the tops, and in five minutes, while the fruit is still hot, tighten again. The heat, with the rubber, caused a perfect seal. I do not mean to contradict you, with your knowledge, but I am afraid the directions would prove disastrous to many young housekeepers. If Mrs. E. R. S. will write to me I will send her some of my ant exterminator. As you say, the housekeepers must see that there are no crumbs left around the food. I have often thought of the young housekeeper who had so much trouble with a piece of boiling meat, having a lot of soup and a tasteless piece of meat. I like short ribs of beef and I cook them like this: Cover them with boiling water; add salt and pepper, put in more water as it boils away, and if soup is wanted take a cup or so of stock from it, leaving the fat with the meat after the beef has cooked slowly for two hours. Let your meat simmer down, brown it if you like, and cook potatoes with it. The two cups of stock will be plenty of foundation for soup for a small family by adding water, a few soup vegetables, etc., to be cooked separately from the meat. We like macaroni or spaghetti cooked in the following way: Boil macaroni until tender in salted water with a slice or two of onion. In a separate dish cover one pound of [illegible] meat and one minced onion with [illegible] water, salt, and pepper. In about [illegible] minutes, when done, add grated [illegible] two tablespoons of olive oil, and [illegible] powder, and pour over the boiled macaroni. I [illegible] lighted that after her years of [illegible] the Corner she has finally written [illegible] and I hope this may be only the [illegible] many letters. What do the other housekeepers think of her experience [illegible] tightening the tops of the jars [illegible] are cool? The seasoning [illegible] meat and of the stock in which [illegible] boiled is also most important, [illegible] one can hope for savory [illegible] simply by putting the meat, [illegible] and pepper together and cooking [illegible] length of time. DOILIES TO COMPLETE LUNCHEON SET

GNED BY E.J. BUCKMAN

NO DOUBT many of you are busily engaged working on the centerpiece which was given as the beginning of a luncheon set. As soon as you are through embroidering you will want to work on the doilies which I am giving you today.

The same kind of material that you used for the centerpiece should, of course, be used for the doilies. Pin bear out the Japanese idea design in two shades of luncheon set embroidered in would look doubly attractive an array of blue-and-white

You will notice that I have had parts of the design marked 1 and 2. These figures will guide you in the placing of the threads. The places marked 1 call for light thread, while those marked 2 call for a darker shade of blue. The parts that are unnumbered, such as the leaves and stems, are to be embroidered in the dark shade.

As mentioned before, the scalloped edges of the doilies are to be padded. Strands of darning cotton can be used for the purpose. These can be run through the material in long stitches, or they can be held between the lines with the left hand while you buttonhole over them with the right. Use the lighter shade of blue for this portion of the doilies.

The sprays scattered around the wreath in the center of the doilies can be omitted if any one thinks there is too much work to be done on the pieces as the designs now stand. Of course, if the sprays are omitted on the doilies, they should not appear on the centerpiece either.

Should one desire to increase the size of the larger doilies, the work can be done without much difficulty. The floral effect can remain as it is; the circle alone is all that need be enlarged. After determining what the radius of the large circle will be, get a piece of twine the same length, possibly a trifle longer, to allow for tying one end of it around the groove in a pencil and for tacking the other end to the center of the circle. By swinging the twine around, a circle can easily be drawn with the pencil. This being done, the next step is to insert your scallops. In the larger circle they will have to be placed further apart.

Although I have suggested that the design be embroidered in blue, there is no reason why another color scheme cannot be worked out. For instance, the black-and-white combination would be most effective. There are two ways of using this. One way is to outline the whole thing in black. Another method is to embroider the design in solid white and outline only a few circles, petals, etc., in black.

With these suggestions before you, you should be able to start to work on the doilies at an early date. Good luck to you!

Pincushion Varieties

THERE is a charm about pincushions that fascinates every woman who makes gifts for her friends. In turn, each friend is sure to receive one of these pin receptacles and, therefore, to avoid duplicates the willing maker of gifts is ever ready for suggestions.

Of course, every woman realizes the beauty of buttonholed scallops. There is nothing so pretty as a pincushion made with its scalloped top overlapping a scalloped bottom, the two pieces being joined by means of ribbon laced through eyelets. However, it takes time and patience to embroider a great number of scallops and eyelets, so it is safe to wager that the gift maker will welcome an idea which does away with these.

A very attractive pincushion is covered with only one layer of embroidered linen. This is thrown over the top of the cushion and is wide and long enough to cover the foundation thoroughly. The cover is held in place by half-inch wide ribbon, which is run through embroidered slots, two at each end of the cover, and passed beneath the cushion. The ribbon is tied in a pert bow at each end of the cushion. The edge of the scallop is finished with fine valenciennes lace edging. Embroidered scallops can be substituted if one has the time to elaborate the gift with them.

Traveling pincushions are very handy affairs. One of these can be made to measure no more than four inches square. This is a convenient size, for the cushion can be tucked away in the suitcase or trunk without taking up much room. A very cunning cushion can be made of two pieces of material of different colors. For instance, white scrim can be used for the top, while blue linen can be used to fashion the bottom. Turn a hem in the two sections and catch it with featherstitching, using blue thread on the white material and white on the blue. Embroider the top in blue.

Tiny squares of filet lace or one large square of it can be used effectively to form a pincushion. In this case, a colored lining is necessary to reveal the pattern of the lace.

If You Can Crochet

IF YOU can crochet you are a very lucky person just at present, for there are any number of possibilities in the gift line which it is not too soon to make into realities for the fast approaching gift season. There is some crocheted article for every member of the family which quick fingers can make from silk or wool.

The loveliest scarfs of bright wools will delight the schoolgirl's heart. They are made of very soft fine wools, rather loosely crocheted, and finished with fringe quite often. Sometimes a band of white angora wool is inserted across the ends to add variety and to suggest white fur.

For baby there are many lovely crocheted novelties. An afghan, cap and sack to match of pink and white wool crochet has cross-stitched wool garlands on the broad white stripes. Bootees with cross-stitched toes may be added, if an elaborate set is desired. A blue-and-white crocheted harness with sure enough tingling bells attached will delight any 2-year-old boy. Use heavier wools for this harness to insure a comparative amount of durability. A knock-about hat for the slightly older boy can be crocheted from a heavy dark blue wool and silk. A strand each of the silk and wool is worked up together and the whole makes a tightly woven cap that it soft, warm and durable for the most harsh treatment.

An afghan for an invalid or an old lady is made of several shades of gray wool. It is bound with a gray satin ribbon and shows the added novelty of cross-stitched bluebirds flying across its closely knitted border. The birds are cross-stitched in blue wools.

Crocheted flowers and ornaments for hats will be welcomed as gifts this year. When bright silks and wools are combined with beads the resulting ornament not only carries out a pretty fad, but makes a bit of workmanship worth keeping for future use.

The newest centerpieces and scarfs show much applied crochet work in the shape of flowers and baskets. Silks of varied tones are used for this work, and the result is, to say the least, effective. Sometimes crocheted medallions are inserted where one would usually inset lace, net or use punched work. The medallion is crocheted, sewn on the material, the linen then cut away and the raw edges rolled neatly.

A gift for the engaged girl which she will cherish to her heart's content is a set of filet medallions into which have been woven her initial or initials. A set of six large ones and six smaller ones which she can use to insert in her own towels and bed linen will be most practical, and while something of a task for the indifferent crocheter will not cost much in reckoning the gift pennies.

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

HALF-HOUR GIFTS

isn't a woman living who experienced that empty feeling when she wakes up that a gift is due or expected she has neither time to make elaborate or go searching the shops for something different. One woman solves this problem by keeping on hand several pretty may be used as gifts in a But how is one to have something on hand for an unexpected or forgotten kitchen shower or a baby that arrived? A quicker way yet of making this bag is to sew up the sides of the towel and run the ribbon or cord through the hems. Or the bag may be made with the snap-fastened flap at the bottom through which the soiled clothes may be dropped.

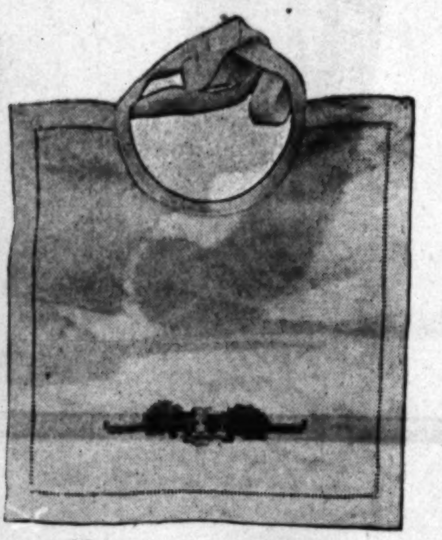
The little round embroidered object is an ironholder, if you please! Just what many housekeepers would do with an embroidered ironholder is a question, but it makes a really delightful gift for the kitchen shower and is a matter of but a few minutes in the making. It can be made of a bit of heavy crash linen, or scrim, and the embroidery is but a few lazy-daisy stitches and French knots. It is edged with tape, machine stitched around and laced together with narrower tape or heavy cotton thread. The padding is an already-made iron holder or it can be made from thicknesses of flannel or old stockings.



A Bib from a Doily

For the new baby around the corner whose mother you do not know quite well enough to present with a silver spoon or anything so valuable, the dear little bib is just the thing. It is made from one of your hemstitched linen tea napkins. Just cut a chunk out of one side large enough to fit the chubby little neck and bind it with a bit of white tape. The cross-stitching is a matter of choice, but you surely cannot resist the two-colored cats which pattern or any book of cross-stitch patterns will yield you. The bib may be turned around and the corner rounded off for the neck, if variety is desired.

Don't despair when the unexpected invitation or announcement comes along—remember there is always a half-hour gift that can be made in a hurry.

Party Bags

OH, THE loveliest, daintiest party bags have come to town just in time for the dance season! They are of taffeta and velvet mostly, and so roomy and capacious that one could carry several pairs of slippers in one bag. Some are fur-trimmed and all are outrageous in price, unless, of course, one makes them at home, which makes it another story. Dull Antoinette-blue taffeta is most often lined with pink for contrast, and vice versa. Gold lace is used plenteously for trimming, and also ribbon flowers. It might be a good plan to save a large piece of the new taffeta party frock just especially for a big puffed bag to carry with it. One quaint little black velvet bag, smaller than most, is lined with changeable blue and gold taffeta, and opens just enough at the top to show a wreath of tiniest ribbon roses and foliage. Some draw up with ribbons, while others are shirred on rods or hoops, and some do not draw up at all, merely being hung on the owner's arm by ribbons attached at each end.

SOME TIMELY TIPS

HAVE you seen the guestroom powder-puff bags of tinted chiffons, with the individual bits of cotton for puffs? Of course you have, but did it ever strike you to make one of these bags of gold-mesh net and lace to hang at the side of a Marie Antoinette dressing table?

A hot-water bottle that any little child will hug with delight is covered with a crocheted wool bag in the shape of a dress. A doll's head is attached to the bottom, and when the bag is inverted it forms a nice warm doll baby to take to bed on a cold night.

A new sort of needlework shows an applique of bits of colored broadcloth on dull-colored rep. The pieces are outlined with gilt and silver and metallic braids, and form designs suitable for living room or library purposes.

For the dressing table there is a new pincushion covered with a courtesying bisque lady. Her petticoats of ruffled val lace hide the white satin cushion, while rose-colored ribbons, spread out over the lace, simulate her looped-up gown of rose brocade.

An interesting point about the newest centerpieces is that the designs are very often repeated but three times. The three-sided centerpiece is rather a relief from the symmetrical four-sided design.

Cretonne, heavy and thickly covered with a dark floral design, has been selected for a schoolbag which shows a curious handle arrangement. Slots or large eyelets, two up each side of the flat square bag, both front and back, allow a bound piece of the cretonne to be slipped through and to make two handles which distribute the weight of the books very successfully.

For an "all-girl" luncheon favor there are possibilities in the small round chamois. Edge it with lace beading and run a colored ribbon through. It can be drawn up into a small pouched vanity bag into which a bit of powder can be sifted when needed.

One mother evolved from a yard of rubber rather wide and two yards of ribbon slightly wider a charming device to keep baby's carriage cover of pique or silk from blowing up and letting in the breezes to the little feet. She makes an elastic strap of the rubber covered with the ribbon, which she slips over the gocart foot, catching the cover fast at the same time.

SHE DANCES IN NEGLIGEE!

"The Idea!" exclaims the Ingenue.

"Land sakes!" grasps Grandmother.

"Hully gee!" shouts Some One in short trousers—and

"Good night!" softly comments a larger edition of Some One—and all because a pretty girl dances in pretty draperies that are quite as modest (and perhaps more so) as the average evening frock, but happen to be labeled "negligee" because of a generosity of line. Now, if it were a tight skirt, the kind that was worn a season or so ago, which needed the assistance of a shoe horn to don, and was constantly ripping the necessary slash at the side, back or front several inches more than even its daring dressmaker intended—well, perhaps there would be cause for comment; but when it comes to a full-as-full-can-be skirt and a gracefully loose bodice that effectually conceals the natural figure line, why the gossip, hey? But there, you never can tell about women or fashions—it's the pot calling the kettle black half a dozen times a day—bless 'em!

True, there is a most alluring glimpse of arms and neck through the angel sleeves, despite the fact that an undersleeve of chiffon baffles half an eye, and Madame Grundy and Grandmother shake their heads at each other and can't decide which to sanction, the frank unveiling of the modern evening dress (Grandmother, and Mrs. Grundy too, forgets the drop shoulder of 1860) or the equally unholy allure of veiled beauty.

But sanctioned or not, the new negligee dance frock is a thing of grace and beauty. The model shown is of white satin, chiffon and silver. The gown has a foundation skirt of the material, not more than two yards wide, and edged with silver-ball fringe. The skirt of the negligee is short, circular, irregular as to edge, and very wide. Heavier satin is used for the skirt proper than for the inset piece which continues into the bodice territory and ends in a necktie bow at the end of the not very low V neck. A foundation bodice is made of white satin matching in weight the satin used in the accordion-pleated inset. Over this foundation is placed silver-embroidered chiffon. This latter connects with the sleeves. The angel sleeves are made of the chiffon, the selvage edge being placed at the bottom of the sleeve with no effort at concealment. Widely scattered roses of silver are embroidered upon the sleeves. The slippers are worn over white silk stockings.

Of course, there are negligees and negligees—and if this timid, demure little one ventures from the boudoir sanctum, why all the exclamations?
